BENNY CARTER (The AMAZING MAN OF MUSIC) and his ORCHESTRA have been tabbed for a feature stint in 20th Century-Fox's "NIGHT WITHOUT SLEEP," with CARTER himself playing a supporting role in the GARY MERRILL-LINDA DARNELL-HILDEGARDE NEFF starrer. Also appearing in the flicker as a NIGHT CLUB SINGER WITH CARTER'S BAND is lovely songstress MAURI LYNN, who won local fame chirping via the JOE ADAMS TEE-VEE SHOW.

LET'S GIVE CREDIT where credit is due and doff the ol' hat to BILL SAMPSON, the Angel City's most popular sepia platter-spinner! SAMPSON, who spins the platters nitely (except Sunday) from DUMAS' DRIVE-IN RESTAURANT (plug!) doesn't sound stiff and formal as so many of them do, but chats in a down-to-earth manner and spins some of the prettiest PLATTERS in Platterdom! The guy rates all the breaks currently coming his way. AND HE'S WEARING his success like a KING! Hats off to Mrs. Sampson's little boy BILL!

SUGAR RAY ROBINSON (don't tell anyone you don't know who he is, or you'll be listed as a natural boob!) sat in with the Lionel Hampton band last week. HE'S A FIRST-RATE DRUMMER, and will take a "gig" in a minnit!!!

PEARL BAILEY, following her local Ciro's stint, is doing a $ucce$$ful week at the Apollo Theater, N.Y.

THE WIFE of a top bandsman keeps his books, also his MALE VOCALIST!

ETHEL WATERS winds up her final performance as BERNICE in "MEMBER OF THE WEDDING" on May 12. Premiere of the play was Jan. 15, 1950—and it has been going strong with 15 months on Broadway and a cross-country tour of 31 cities!

Katherine Hepburn is a LOUIS ARMSTRONG fan. But then, who isn't?

ROUN' THE TOWN

MILDRED McDAVID, a lovely bundle of charm, IS ONE OF THE NICEST persons in this (or any other!) town! She has a pleasing disposition and friendly smile.

TAB SMITH (his record, "BECAUSE OF YOU" passed the 100-thousand in sales) moves into SAN DIEGO'S Creole Palace Club for a limited engagement . . . FOLLOWING a "PEOPLE 'N' PLACES" column recommendation; plus the fact he can WRITE! the job of PRESS AGENT for singer BILLIE HOLIDAY WENT TO J. T. GIPSON! "THE GIP," as he is affectionately known in the profesh', named HIS OWN SALARY!! His p.a. work starts upon the famed singer's return to the CITY EARLY NEXT MONTH!

JOE HARRIS, known journalistically as "SMOKE RINGS," will start drawing "royalties" on his swelligent book, released in the EASTERN CITIES months ago. . . . That being that, PERIOD.

those expensive furnishings that she was forced to slap liens against a few of the homes to get her loot. Cadillacs, diamonds, mink coats, swimming pools and Dobermans are all facing the hock-shop.

WHITE FLAME

That ebony blond-haired chick is certainly having her fling in the ofay circles. She sent her first husband back a disillusioned ofay. Now she's hooked a Wilshire District Realtor. Instead of taking up one of the beautiful apartments out Wilshire way, she settled for a room in her mother's home. Mother became so uneasy about ofays running in and out of the house she asked daughter to move. Mother is wheeling in a little snow also. The county social workers in West Adams district are kicking the topic around like a football and a few are flashing green eyes in the blonde's direction.

LES FEMMES ELEGANTS

Well-poised Clara Yeager is one reason why you should drop in on her club's Sunday afternoon affair starting at six, 458 E. 42nd place, and you will discover nineteen other good reasons.

GROOVY TUNES

Cute, chesty Dorothy Martin, platter pusher at Dolphin's of Hollywood says the week's jump tune is HOP, SKIP and JUMP on the Aladdin label. Well known ROY L. LOGGINS JR. dropped by to introduce W. L. Brice, a lad ducking something from Cleveland. Couldn't be numbers because he's much too young. At any rate he plans to give Loggins Sr. some serious competition in the catering business. Loggins tells that his club, the TWEEDSMEN, are planning a way-out affair slated for the CALIFORNIA COUNTY CLUB come June. It is a shame and something should be done about that HUNTER HANCOCK music he terms finest in the world. It couldn't rate last in the slop-bucket varieties.

SOUR NOTES

The Illustrious William Gower, ruler of the Shriners, stopped the show at the group's Florentine Gardens benefit show. Gower's wife during the show had visited the ladies' rest room and absent-mindedly left her pocketbook behind. Fortunately Libby Clark, newspaper woman, followed in shortly after she left, picked up the pocketbook and returned it to Rocky Washington who in turn gave it to Mrs. Gower. There is a big difference in the word "took" and the word "lost." Miss Clark did not know the purse contained $200, nor was she interested. However, Libby didn't get a thank you for her effort.

LOVER KILLS RIVAL; TAKES HIS OWN LIFE

Communist Betrayal of Negroes Told

— May Day —

IT'S SPRING FOR SURE—Seen in the traditional Maypole dance are girls at Central Playground, 1327 E. 22nd street. This year's May Day celebration there will start at 4:30 p.m. on Wednesday, May 7.

Rosser, Branton In Clash

Amid a tumult of shouting between government witness Louis Rosser and Defense Attorney Leo Branton while Judge William C. Mathes fought hard to restrain tempers and keep decorum in the court, the story of the Communist betrayal of Negroes for political ends, and the slow disillusionment of Los Angeles' top Negro Communist was brought out this week in the trial of 15 persons charged with violating the Smith Act.

Rosser charged that the Communists only pretended to help Negroes, and were bent on using them as pawns in their bid for power. He testified that Communist interest in housing, jobs, discrimination and segregation was only a means to reach Negroes so as to indoctrinate them with their own program.

Specific Example

He gave as a specific example the time he went to San Francisco to get help for 50 Negro sailors imprisoned as a result of the Port Chicago explosion.

"I went to the leadership in San Francisco and said, 'Why

Howard Didn't Violate Laws, Court Decides

H. A. Howard, ousted founder of the Broadway Federal Savings and Loan Association, last Thursday scored a major triumph in his long-drawn-out fight with the Association when the United States Circuit Court of Appeals reversed his conviction on two counts of violation of federal criminal statutes. He was indicted on 24 counts by a federal grand jury in 1950 but the jury found him not guilty on 22 of the accusations.

Howard at once hailed the reversals as vindication of his conduct as president of the organization while Dr. H. Claude Hudson, his successor, said he had no comment to make.

Even while the court was reversing the criminal conviction, the Broadway fired another gun in the controversy by filing a suit asking the state courts to define the rights of the parties in reference to Howard's asserted default on payments on his palatial home at 3328 Country Club drive. The Association claims he has not met payments while Howard insists that he has proffered all payments as they became due and that he has turned over securities to cover all indebtedness.

The Circuit Court's decision was based on insufficiency of the evidence and Attorney Bernard Jefferson, one of the attorneys representing Howard, said that the government "may appeal to the Supreme Court or seek a rehearing." The counts on which

Sue Jones Victim In Odd Holdup

Pretty, popular Sue Jones, 982½ E. Vernon avenue, widow of the late well-known Jack R. Jones, was the victim of a presumed "spite robbery" Tuesday night by two unidentified thugs who called her by name during the holdup.

Stocking Masks

Silk—or nylon—stockings covered the faces of the bandits who stole up to Mrs. Jones' Cadillac when she, her daughter, Lynn; her brother, Guy Whittaker; and her friend, Mamie Sweeney and Barrington Tate left the Jones home by the rear door to enter the car parked in a driveway carport.

One robber crept up to the driver's side of the car and the other approached the right front seat where Mrs. Jones was sitting.

This one asked, "Are you Sue Jones?"

"No," she wisely replied.

"Oh, yes you are, you———."

Much profanity from the assailants followed. Mrs. Jones' escort, understandably resentful of the verbal abuse, tried to get out of the car. At this point one of the bandits whacked the driver over the head with a gun which accidentally discharged.

Upshot of it all was that the man ended with a gun-cut face; Sue Jones spent a sleepless night of speculation as to the "who

Rivalry Ends in Tragedy

By Eddie Lee King

Richard Earl Martin, 32, 1940 East Central avenue, Duarte, returning home at about 1:30 a.m. Saturday, drove his 1941 Buick sedan into the driveway of his sister's house.

Jack Davis, 1725 Santa Domingo, Duarte, hiding in the yard with a double-barreled shotgun, killed Martin by firing through the left front window of the victim's car.

Davis walked away, leaving

Sister Finds Body

Saturday, Mrs. Wilma Castle, Martin's sister, of 1940 E. Central avenue, puzzled at seeing her brother's car parked at the rear of the house at 5:30 a.m., went out to investigate. Finding Martin dead in his car, she screamed. Her husband, Elijah John Castle, came out. He called the sheriff, who immediately sent men.

Lt. Floyd W. Rosenberg of headquarters detective bureau, was assigned to check the report. The California Eagle was informed.

Lt. Rosenberg, who made a thorough investigation, was told that Jack Davis had been warned by Josephine Nelson, a roomer at the Central avenue address, to stay away several months ago at about the time that the slain man moved into the Castle residence.

Davis and Mrs. Nelson allegedly were living together. When the rift between them came, Davis moved in with his sister, Carrie Bailey, on Santa Domingo in Duarte.

Castle, Martin's brother-in-law, stated that Davis had stopped Martin on one occasion and accused him of interfering in his love life and that before the tragic morning Davis was seen numerous times in the vicinity of the home.

Lost Youth—Lost Life

Meanwhile, Mrs. Bailey saw her brother, Davis, sitting in a small shack back of her house and asked him why was he there. "I'm drunk," he replied. "When you get old and the women don't want you any more,

Claims Police Abuse; Demands $1,250,000

In a $1,250,000 claim filed against the city this week, 55-year-old James Crawford of 728 Towne avenue claims that his eyesight is permanently damaged by the severe beating he suffered at the hands of Policeman Clyde D. Stewart and George C. Carr, vice squadders.

The suit also specifies injuries to head, limbs and body.

A jury in the municipal court of Judge Byron Walters acquitted Crawford of charges brought by the officers who claimed that the man was profane, knocked Stewart's badge out of his hand and swung at him.

The police report on the arrest said that the vice squadders intercepted Crawford and a companion for questioning in front of 1162 E. Santa Barbara because they were investigating a report that there was gambling in the rear house.

They contended that Watson was hit when he attacked Stewart and Carr came to his partner's assistance.

Crawford's version of the fracas is that he was brutally beaten and arrested "without probable cause" while on a business call to the above address.

With or without cause, hospital records show that Crawford was "restrained" to the extent of 28 days in the prison ward with a cut eyeball and the other injuries listed above. His broken eyeglasses form part of the evidence to be presented in his suit.

Attorney Nat Wilk, who successfully defended Crawford against those charges, prepared the claim for $1,000,000 for personal injuries and $250,000 for false arrest, imprisonment and malicious prosecution.

Mary Bethune Talk Cancelled; Branded 'Red'

ENGLEWOOD, N. J.—Dr. Mary McLeod Bethune, one of the best known and most widely honored Negro women in the United States, was banned from speaking at a school here last Thursday on the grounds that she is a "red."

Official basis for refusal to let her speak was the allegation that Dr. Bethune is or has been a member of organizations listed by the Attorney General as subversive.

The charges were made by the Englewood Anti-Communist League.

The stately, white-haired woman, president emeritus of Bethune-Cookman College, Daytona Beach, Fla., former president of the National Council of Negro Women, director of the Negro division of the National Advisory committee of the National Youth

Molester Of Child Convicted

"I just can't believe a word this defendant has told me."

This was the statement made by Superior Judge Philip H. Richards of Department 41, Thursday, in finding Willie L. Hanible, 42, 886 East 55th street, father of five children and grandfather of four, guilty of child molesting.

According to the testimonies of Officer C. W. Jackson, Newton Street police station; Elizabeth Yvonne Payton, 12, and her father, Rev. Charles Maurice Pay-

City Must Go Ahead With Slum Housing

Shouting defiance at the California Supreme Court for its ruling that the city must go ahead with its contract for the construction of 10,000 low-rent housing units, anti-housing city councilmen served notice Tuesday that they have not given up the battle to scuttle the program.

About 2300 of the units will be located in Watts, and another 200 at 55th street and Long Beach boulevard. Under City Housing Authority policies, Negroes are eligible to occupy units anywhere without segregation or discrimination.

The council's attitude indicated that the proposition to cancel the low-rent program will appear on the June 3 ballot although the vote will not have any legal effect. By an 8-to-7 vote the council voted to appeal the California decision to the United States Supreme Court.

Vitriolic attacks on the California Supreme Court grew out of its decision handed down on Monday declaring that the eight members of the City Council had no power to rescind or annul their contract with the Housing Authority of the City. The suit had been filed by the Housing Authority and joined in by the seven city councilmen who voted against cancelling the contract and voiding the 10,000-unit slum clearance, low-rent public housing program.

The city attorney in an opinion dated Sept. 20, 1951—which he later reversed—had warned that the city had no legal right to cancel a contract which had been in existence for over two years. Mayor Fletcher Bowron, himself a former Superior Court judge, assured the council on several occasions that they had

One More Week —No Results

One more week has gone by and it is now 47 days since William Bailey's home on Dunsmuir avenue was bombed.

Nobody has been arrested.

In the meanwhile, other Negroes have received threatening letters. Nobody has been apprehended in these cases, either.

The police department record is still perfect — in reverse.

The record shows that nobody has ever been arrested in Los Angeles in the more than 20 instances in which Negroes have been threatened, their homes damaged or bombed.

What about this, Chief Parker?

NAACP Area Meeting Slated For Saturday

SAN BERNARDINO — More than a hundred delegates from 20 branches of the NAACP are expected to attend the Southern California Area conference of the Association here May 2-4, John Dial, president, said this week. The conference will devote its attention to problems of housing, civil rights and organizational functions.

Loren Miller, local attorney, publisher of the California Eagle and member of the national legal staff of the NAACP, and Floyd Covington, FHA employe, will discuss what to do when minority groups move into new neighborhoods, and federal housing aid available to minority groups and public housing.

Franklin Williams, regional director of NAACP, Lester Bailey, field secretary, Rev. L. B. Moss, president of the Riverside branch and Rev. Wm. Burnett Jr., vice president of SCAC, will point up techniques in organizing campaigns and how to get full community support.

'We'll Get You... It May Take a Month' Says Second Threat

Starve them out, frighten them out or bomb them out—this is the policy of the race-baiters who this week continued their intimidation of a Venice Negro and the white family with whom he lives.

A threatening letter—"It may take a month, maybe a year, but we'll get you"—was received by Charles Gould, 3942 Tivoli avenue, Venice.

"I am warning you, Mr. Gould, if you don't do as I say, Mrs. Gould will suffer."

Loses Jobs

The hand-written letter, signed "C.C" and postmarked Venice, was a follow-up of an anonymous warning received by Mrs. Gould early in April.

Nathaniel Reed, whose presence in the Gould home is the cause of the persecution, has meanwhile lost half a dozen or more maintenance accounts he has been servicing for several years.

One store owner, in cancelling the contract, reportedly told him that a prominent man in Santa Monica advised him he better get rid of Reed. Others merely said that Reed's work was no longer satisfactory, though there had never been any previous

Nurses Give Up Pay Hike Plea

City nurses this week decided to drop their fight for a pay increase aside from the over-all 11 per cent hike proposed for all municipal employes.

Reason for the surrender, according to a spokesman, was the reluctance of the nurses to delay the granting of pay raises to all other city workers.

— Jobs for a Day —

Armed Bandits Get $170 From Filling Station

Two armed bandits robbed two oil station attendants at 11221 South Alameda Blvd. early Monday, escaping with $170 from the cash register.

Victims of the holdup pair, John Lee Carpenter, 46, of 11224 South Alameda St., and Carl W. Jensen, 52, of 1526 East 92nd St., told Sheriff's Deputies the holdupmen drove up and asked for gasoline.

When Jensen approached the car, they drew pistols and ordered him to open the cash register.

One of the bandits leveled his gun at Carpenter while his confederate rifled the cash drawer.

Ross Snyder May Festival

Ross Snyder Playground, 1501 East 41st street, will present "A May Day Revel on Nottingham Green," Friday, May 2nd, at 5:00 p.m. The program this year is very beautiful and is said to be the largest May Day Festival ever presented by Ross Snyder, filled with pagentry and dance.

The cast includes Vera Lyons, May Queen; Timothy Brown, crown bearer; Patricia Redd, Burgermeister; Leonia and Barbara Brown, Trumpeteers; and Bessie Lyons, Heralder. The total participation this year will be 105 boys and girls from 2 to 14 years of age. The public is invited to attend.

First Scene: Nottingham Green

The scene opens with merchants fixing stalls, vendors selling various wares, strolling around the grounds, and haymakers, sheperds and milkmaids pass to and fro going to their tasks. Maid Vera, enters and is crowned the Queen of May. There is much rejoicing as the milkmaids perform a Country Dance. A balancing contest and villagers in "Wave of Nurney" follows.

Second Scene: Sherwood Forest

The second scene opens with Robin Hood and his many men displaying their skill as tumblers. They are interrupted by a band of wandering Gypsies who add gaiety and color to the scene.

TALENT GALORE—Several of the scintillating stars who donated their talents to the entertainment of Festival of Stars guests Sunday, April 20 were, l. to r., The Lewitsky Trio, Rosa Glenn and the Nicholas brothers. Les Thompson's band provided music throughout the evening. The Interracial Choir sang.

don't we go and fight to get these guys out of jail?' And they told me: 'What is more important, loading ships for the Soviet Union or fighting for these men?' Now, up to then everything I had heard 'Negro rights, Negro rights; but these things began to open my eyes that it was not so much Negro rights but it was the question of the ultimate aim of the party.'"

When asked if he helped use Negroes in the way the Communist Party used Negroes, Rosser stated that he had because he wanted to build the revolution. When asked when he changed his mind about the revolution, Rosser told Branton: "I changed my mind when I saw it was such a conspiracy and that there was just as much prejudice in the Communist Party as anywhere else you find, and that Negroes were being used as a scrapegoat. There were all kinds of leaders and white Communists in the country who did not like Negroes."

Hollywood Playboys

He stated that he got in trouble with Communist leadership because he objected to white fellows from Hollywood coming down on Central avenue playing around with Negro chorus girls under the guise of recruiting them into the party.

He also cited the time when he was refused service in a malt shop on Broadway near Vernon in the company of the top leadership of the Communist Party, and when he raised the question of legal action, they told him that the Party didn't have time to waste filing civil rights suits.

In a heated exchange between Rosser and Attorney Branton, Rosser accused the lawyer of calling Rev. Clayton Russell trying to make a deal with him as hearsay in reference to the trial. The witness and Branton, the only Negro attorney in the trial, virtually leaped at each other's throats, in a quick succession of charges and countercharges, while Judge Mathes strove for order.

Continuing his story of his disillusionment and defection from the Communist Party, Rosser outlined the many switches and changes in the party line from the fight for civil liberties in the early '30s, the "Yanks-are-not-coming" attitude during the Hitler-Stalin pact, the switch when Russia was attacked, and the switch back again when Hitler's armies were defeated and Browder was kicked out. "I was sick and tired of changing the line and all of this and I just quit."

Heated Exchange

At one point during a heated exchange between Rosser and Attorney Branton, the judge ordered Branton to sit down. Branton promptly moved for a mistrial and declined to continue cross-examining Rosser, contending that his right of cross-examination was being unduly restricted. After a short recess, Branton agreed to continue questioning the witness.

Rosser stated that when he quit the Communist Party in 1944, he was subjected to a smear campaign that caused him to lose two jobs before he was hired by Rev. Russell. He testified that derogatory letters were sent out on him to all Communist members and pressure was exerted on Rev. Russell by prominent citizens in the community to fire him from the job.

After Rosser finished telling his story of Communist duplicity, and his awakening and final disillusionment, Paul Estrada, 24-year-old Negro Milwaukee policeman, who joined the Communist Party as an undercover man in 1947, took the stand behind Rosser to continue the exposure of the Communist Party's attitude toward Negroes.

OUTSTANDING—Sergeant First Class Roosevelt Smith, 19-year-old Korean veteran from Los Angeles, was honored today as outstanding platoon sergeant of the week at Fort Ord.

Police Bullets End Life for Father of Four

Another man was slain by Los Angeles police early Saturday morning. He had robbed a cafe of forty cents.

He was the father of a five-year-old girl and three boys, ages one, four and six.

Police reported that the man, Oscar Delaney, 32, 452 E. 41st street, ignored their calls to give himself up and lunged at one of them with an 18-inch butcher knife.

Officer Leland Holton fired three shots, one hit Delaney in the forehead, another in the right arm and the third in the back of his left leg. He died instantly.

A home-made amplifier foiled Delaney in his attempted 2:30 a.m. robbery of The Shack Cafe, 4109 W. Pico boulevard. The proprietors, Margaret L. and Elmer Gibson, who were in their home at the rear of the restaurant, heard noises in the cafe through the intercommunication device.

They immediately summoned police. Holton and Officer Alvin Vincent, who were only a block away, answered the call.

Vincent stationed himself at the front of the cafe, Holton in the rear.

"He's still in there," Mrs. Gibson called out to them, whereupon the policemen yelled for the suspect to come out with his hands up.

Instead, Delaney slipped through a window and into an adjacent hedge. The officers started to stalk him.

Suddenly with the butcher knife he had picked up inside the cafe, Delaney allegedly made for Holton with the cry, "Get out of the way or I'll cut you." Holton said he told the man to stop, then started shooting because Delaney kept coming.

Missing from the cafe was an estimated 40c that Delaney had gotten by jimmying open the juke box.

Jim-Crow Stamps U. S. Europe Army

NEW YORK — Despite official reports emanating from the Pentagon, on-the-spot observers indicate that integration of Negro and white troops in Europe is not the "order of the day." On the contrary, segregation of Negro troops stationed in Europe is Army policy.

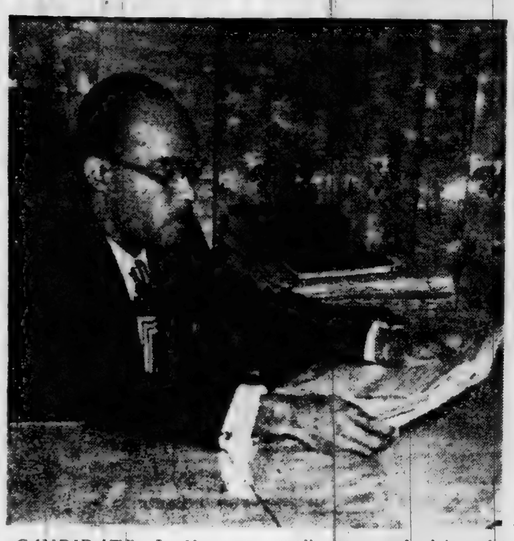
Although official orders to end segregation were issued to the Army, Navy and Air Force more than two years ago following the adoption of the recommendations made by the President's Committee on Equality of Treatment and Opportunity in the Armed Services, Army orders still require that a specific number of all-Negro units be established in Europe. This does not apply to the Navy, Air Force and Women's Army Corps where integration has proceeded rapidly.

A partial explanation of why the Army is lagging behind can be traced to an announcement of EUCOM policy made in March, 1951, which specifically provides for segregation: "If individual Negro officers or enlisted personnel possess primary qualifications which cannot be utilized in Negro units because the individuals are excess to the needs of such units, or because there are no Negro units in the command employing personnel who have such primary qualifications, it is the policy of this command to assign these individuals to units which can most effectively utilize their qualifications regardless of race or color." In effect, this policy establishes the principle that Negroes should be assigned to all-Negro units except in those cases where it is impractical to do so.

As one observer pointed out, "The treatment of the Negro soldiers by the American Army is one of the weakest links in America's effort to build a defense against Russia."

'Miss Bronze L.A.' Contest Ends May 9

The deadline draws near for the selection of "Miss Bronze L. A." May 9 at the Zenda Ballroom. The event is expected to be one of the most spectacular beauty contests ever held in Los Angeles.



Ray Hart, president of North American Airlines, has announced that the winner will be flown round-trip to San Francisco with all expenses paid in complete luxury on the company's big new Skymaster.

In addition, the winner will be outfitted with a complete wardrobe of Nadine originals, a luggage set from the Watkins Hotel, and many other valuable gifts.

To complete the list of prizes, Colorfornia Magazine will do a complete feature on the contest with the winner on the cover.

The Omegas are so intent on finding the right girl that they are giving away the largest and the most prizes ever given in a Negro beauty contest. All participants will receive prizes.

Tickets may be purchased from any of the girls or their sponsors. A huge display picture of many of the girls in the contest is being featured at Jack Bloom's store at Jefferson and Western.

Court Reverses Howard Decision

Howard was found not guilty by the jury charged that he had embezzled funds during his term in office. Fines of $2500 each were levied on Howard on the two counts on which he was convicted.

Howard has been embroiled in almost constant litigation with the Broadway ever since he was forced out of office in 1949 and he has emerged victor in most of the legal encounters. Now pending before the District Court of Appeals is a case in which Judge J. F. Moroney held that 1950 elections to the Board were invalid.

Howard founded the Broadway and enlisted the support of a large number of leading citizens in a dazzling financial campaign that catapulted the organization into the leadership among savings and loan associations. Difficulties developed over his lending policies and he was deserted by many supporters when the government charged him with criminal activities. His attempt to establish a national bank failed and he also lost control of the Watts Savings and Loan Association during the long-drawn-out fight.

A neighbor, Gould reported, shouted at him from his car a few nights ago: "Anyone who has a Negro living in his house should be bombed." The neighbor, according to Gould, hails from Tennessee.

Police have been giving the family 24-hour protection, but recently advised Gould that this round - the - clock surveillance would be withdrawn in the near future.

Gould, who has three children aged 6, 5 and one year, told the Eagle that he sees no reason why he should move out of the home he bought last August, nor does he see any reason why he should ask Reed, who has been his friend for five or six years, to move. They are determined to stand up for their rights.

What The Reds Want

Louis Rosser's testimony in the Smith Act trials last week to the effect that the Communist Party has no interest in Negroes or in their problems except to the degree that it can use them to pull its own chestnuts out of the fire deserves serious consideration.

Mr. Rosser, by his own testimony, was a member of that party for a dozen years. He was not a paid informer panted in the organization by the FBI. He was not on the payroll of either the FBI or any other anti-Communist group during his membership. He was high in its councils. He knew those who guided the party's destinies. He had an opportunity to know what went on behind the scenes.

What Mr. Rosser testified to has been told before and has been carefully documented by competent and impartial observers. The best expose is contained in a book written by Wilson Rector. Mr. Rector wasn't hampered by rules of cross-examination nor hemmed in by procedure. His conclusions parallel Mr. Rosser's.

His book shows conclusively that the Communist position on matters of interest to Negroes was altered every time such alteration suited the interests of the Russian foreign office. The party doesn't even have a consistent position on civil rights. The Reds shouted to high heaven against discrimination before Hitler invaded Russia and then after he had done so they sent out orders to soft pedal all agitation. They even abandoned their party structure in the South!

They did those things because they wanted "unity" in the fight against Hitler. They didn't give a hang what happened to Negroes. Their sole interest lay in getting supplies to Russian armies and opening a second front in Europe. They were out to save Russia—at the expense of Negroes.

For the moment the interests of the Communists lie in hampering this country in its attempt to build a democratic bulwark against the Soviet Union. And now the Reds are preening themselves and strutting around as champions of Negro rights again. They are all-out to picture every act of violence against a Negro as "genocide" — that because they want to weaken the American position in the United Nations.

No Red newspaper or front organization can speak these days without beating its breast and setting up a clamor against racial prejudice. But let the Russian political line change and the Reds will change their tune. They will abandon their position on Negro rights as completely and as quickly as they did during World War II.

All of this isn't to say that Negroes aren't victims of racial prejudice, that they aren't discriminated against and that these wrongs don't need righting.

What we are saying is that no trust or dependence can be put in the Reds. Their position is dictated by political expediency, an expediency that is designed to serve and does serve the best interests of the Russians and to hell with anything else.

Hucksters Of Prejudice

Lakewood Village had a field day in the daily newspapers last week. It has grown from a beet patch to a city of about 85,000 in four years, and those who should know predict that it will have a population of 125,000 within the next two years.

Lakewood, we read in the papers, is a tribute to private enterprise and proof we don't need public housing to solve our housing problem.

What the newspapers didn't say about Lakewood Village is that it is also a monument to prejudice and intolerance and that the attitude of the builders who are responsible for it is one of the reasons why Negroes, and members of other minority groups, must support public housing.

Every single inch of Lakewood Village is covered by race restrictive covenants—agreements barring use and occupancy of land within its confines by "non-Caucasians." Those restrictions were imposed by builders and contractors and financial institutions who planned and built and financed Lakewood Village. It is a lily-white city—by deliberate choice.

What is true of Lakewood Village is true of every large housing development in this city built by private capital, with the exception of a few projects built at the edge of existing Negro communities.

Public housing developments follow a directly opposite policy: every public housing development in this county is open to all American citizens on the basis of need and eligibility and without reference to race.

Under the circumstances, Negroes can't very well turn their backs on public housing and trust their fate to the tender mercies of the hucksters of prejudice who plan and develop and finance private housing.

We're in complete agreement with Lester B. Granger's observation of a few weeks ago that Negroes can't hope to find a complete solution for their housing problems in public housing. Ours is a private enterprise system in which our wants must be met by private capital. But if private enterprise is looking for a way to drive Negroes into the arms of what its spokesmen assure us is "creeping socialism" of public housing it couldn't do better than to pursue the course it has pursued at Lakewood.

Better Late Than Never

The indictment of eight police officers last week for violation of the rights of citizens is an action that should have been taken a long time ago in reference to other equally flagrant instances of police lawlessness. That such action wasn't taken can be traced to the facts that the Christmas Day beatings were on a wholesale scale and that in all too many instances other complaints of other citizens were overlooked because the daily newspapers weren't interested. The complainants were Negroes.

District Attorney Roll did have the courage to prosecute a deputy sheriff who had beaten Negro prisoners and tortured them with fire extinguishers. But the city wasn't interested and a soft-headed and soft-hearted jury acquitted him. Worse than that, an incompetent and faithless civil service commission ordered him restored to duty even before he went on trial.

Here is another instance in which lawlessness has been overlooked or condoned because those who were offended against were Negroes and in which encouragement was thus offered to others who were prone to take the law into their own hands. Had law enforcement officials acted vigorously when the rights of Negroes were affected, other citizens might have been spared the cruelties heaped on them.

The indictments are added proof, too, that the disciplinary machinery of the police department needs a thorough overhauling. The department makes much of the fact that it spent a great deal of time and effort in investigating the Christmas Day outrages but it doesn't complete its story by pointing out that it had taken absolutely no action against policemen involved until the grand jury returned the indictments. Frankly, we doubt that it would ever have done anything except for the indictments.

We need a far greater degree of vigilance on the part of law enforcement officials and far better disciplinary procedure in the police department if the rights of the citizens are to be adequately safeguarded against the small, but dangerous, minority of policemen who flout the laws they are sworn to uphold.

Roy Wilkins'

The Watch Tower

During recent weeks we have had a country-wide hullaballo with newspapers, business men, industrialists, financiers, and certain politicians screaming about socialism and dictatorship. It all started a long time ago during the present Administration, but it was brought to a wild crescendo by President Truman's seizure of the steel industry.

Big Steel, naturally, is fighting, tooth and toenail, fairly and unfairly. It is in the courts with its battery of upper bracket lawyers whose fees run into six figures. Not only is it fighting in the courts, but it is using propoganda of every kind, and its friends in the Congress are leading the political offensive.

Certain commentators in the daily papers and magazines are yelling that Truman's action was unconstitutional.

Certain Congressmen have introduced a resolution to impeach the President.

Congress indicated its attitude by voting (as a gesture on a pending bill) to prohibit any funds being used by the government to run the steel mills.

The convention of daily newspaper editors asked a loaded question in a press conference with the President and got an answer which upset the newspaper owners. The editors tabled a resolution to censure the President for his answer, saying with common sense, that they might not have understood him correctly. But the convention of newspaper publishers tossed away caution and voted censure of the President, dictatorship, socialism, communism, etc. They profess to see freedom being taken away from the American people. They see the country going to the dogs.

All this cannot help but bring a grim smile to the faces of thoughtful Negro Americans. The government takes over the steel mills in a time of great emergency and Big Business and all its henchmen scream bloody murder. They call on the Constitution of the United States. "We wuz robbed," they wail.

Big Business does not let out a peep when the constitutional rights of Negroes are taken away. The daily newspaper publishers association does not pass any resolution when a Harry T. Moore is bombed to death. Nobody yells at that time about the Constitution of the United States being violated.

Down in Alabama during this voote registration time thousands of Negroes are being robbed of their right to the ballot by trick questions and slick operations on the part of registrars. No screams are heard from Big Business that the ideals of the country are being violated.

Negroes are in the courts in South Carolina, Virginia, Delaware, and Kansas challenging the segregated school system which is cheating their children out of the equality which the Constitution says they shall have. But the big newspapers of the country are not indignant. They are not crusading on our side. Instead, they are saying to us to go slow. They are admitting that there is inequality, but they say we ought to continue waiting until they get around to granting equality. They don't think the nation is endangered by this robbery of us by the white, prejudiced majority; they think we are 'not reasonable" in demanding our constitutional rights.

Now the shoe is on the other foot. The newspaper editors had hysterics not because the President seized the press and radio, but because he hinted that under certain circumstances such might be done. We have been robbed of our rights for generations and we are supposed to be patient. Just the hint that they might be curtailed sends them raving. The same goes for Steel.

I can't get too excited about the hysteria of those who yell about constitutional rights when something hits their profits, but remain silent when something hits the very lives of Negro Americans day after day. If the American way of life and the Constitution are to have any meaning at all, every American must enjoy their blessings. When Big Business includes me in its Americanism I will weep with it over its misfortune which then wil be mine, also. The Congressman who wants to impeach the President on account of Big Steel won't get any votes from me until he also votes for a civil rights program including a fair employment practices law with teeth.

Incidentally, it is now four months since Mr. and Mrs. Harry T. Moore were murdered by a bomb in Florida and not one suspect has been arrested, or even questioned.

Lester B. Granger's

Battle Axe & Bread

Such is the half-informed, careless reaction of a large part of the Negro public to the utterances of candidates for the presidency, that Senator Kefauver may receive some approving comments for a speech he made last week in Florida on the subject of fair employment. If the Tennessee senator isn't taken over the coals by the Negro press, he can congratulate himself on having gotten away with murder, for that's exactly what he will have done.

Mr. Kefauver made a tour of cities in Florida's citrus belt and included in his talks mention of a possible "strong civil rights plank" in the Democratic platform. He declared that he was "against intolerance and bigotry"; that he was "in favor of fair employment practices for all of the people, regardless of race, creed or color."

No Coercion?

Then the Senator went on to say that "fair employment practices at this time can best be promoted through a program of education and persuasion rather than one of coercion and jail sentences. However . . . If the party at its national convention should adopt a platform recommending compulsory fair employment legislation, then I will feel morally bound to stand by that platform and I don't see how I could be expected to do anything else."

Some of my well-meaning but slow-thinking friends have already nodded their heads approvingly and stated that the Kefauver statement was "bravely outspoken." They were mildly shocked when I exploded over their obstuseness. What's brave or outspoken about that statement? He's again "intolerance and bigotry," so what? So is practically every chap who makes a speech on the subject, unless he's not running for office or is appealing for Klan votes.

Bigotry is like sin; everybody's against it in public.

And Senator Kefauver is for a program of "persuasion and education" at this time. So is Senator Robert A. Taft, and nobody is giving the latter any kudos for courage and outspokeness on the race question. Mr. Kefauver does not believe that this is "the time" for stronger action. The last refuge of every opponent to racial progress is the statement that "the time is not ripe," which is another way of saying, "Let's call the whole thing off."

Impudence

But the height of Kefauver impudence was found in his statement about promoting fair employment through "education and persuasion" instead of "coercion and jail sentences." This is an intolerable exhibition of either ignorance or dishonesty. There is not a word in the bill for a federal FEPC, nor in any state bill, that refers to jail sentences for violators; if Senator Kefauver does not know this, he is inexcusably ignorant; if he does know it and has deliberately distorted the facts, by inference at least, he is appallingly dishonest.

And it should be noted that the Senator has not even declared himself in favor of legislation based upon "Education and persuasion" in addressing his Florida audiences.

He is for a "program," which may be legislation and may be a series of honeyed words on a Monday morning radio broadcast —which is the closest thing to nothing on the subject that can be conceived. And as for his acceptance of a strong civil rights plank in the Democratic platform, in the improbable event that he should receive the nomination, why, bless his heart, of course he would accept it. He would accept any kind of plank if he could just get his hot little hands on that nomination.

Mighty Pleasant

Mr. Kefauver is undoubtedly a mighty pleasant sort of a person; he is probably several steps higher in his social concepts than 29 out of 30 of his Southern Democrat colleagues in Congress. But let's keep him in proper focus and remember that his speeches are written for him by public relations experts; that every word is carefully weighed and cleverly used. Let's be at least as careful, even if we can't be as clever, in studying his speeches. That way, we can recognise double talk for what it is.

'While the Trail Cools'

ON THE BOOK SHELF

Stalin's Slave Camps, by Charles A. Orr, published by the International Confederation of Free Trade Unions, 100 pp; 75 cents. Copies are obtainable from ICFTU, 20 West 40th Street, New York 18, N.Y.

This booklet, citing official laws, facts and figures, is no doubt the most devastating accusation against Communist slavery ever assembled. Unlike the heart-rending accounts, written by escaped slaves, the author of this booklet lets the Soviet laws speak for themselves. He maintains a lively, readable style while marshalling an overwhelming mass of evdience concerning Stalin's brutal slavery—first for the Soviet Union itself and then for the satellites.

According to Soviet law, completely innocent people may be condemned to slavery for no crime at all, as well as for all sorts of petty crimes. For example, if someone in the Soviet armed forces flees abroad, the members of his family may be sentenced to slave labor for 10 years if they knew about his flight and for five years even if they did not know a thing about it.

The citations from the Soviet law prove that there is not even a pretense of giving prisoners a fair trial—no courts, no trial, no defense: they are sentenced secretly by an administrative body far away in Moscow.

The regulations in the "Corrective Labor Codex" leave no doubt that the prisons are real slave camps. The official regulations provide that common criminals shall act as camp guards, that these criminals are armed and ordered to shoot prisoners who flee, that the slaves live in prison-like conditions with no family life, and that obedience is enforced through starvation. The watch dogs are officially to be fed more than the prisoners.

There are hundred of slave camps and sometimes over a hundred thousand slaves in one camp area. This booklet presents a map showing the location of the slave camps in the Soviet Union. No one knows exactly how many slaves are being worked by Stalin, but the estimate is around 10 or 12 millions today.

The author believes that two causes lie behind this new slavery, one political and one economic. Stalin maintains slave camps for the same reason as Hitler and other dictators—so that the people shall fear the of deportation learns to be submissive and obedient. The other reason is to try to wring a profit out of the sweat and blood of the slaves.

This study emphasizes the struggle of the free trade union movement against slavery and oppression in all its forms. It recounts the efforts of the American labor movement and the International Confederation of Free Trade Unions to get a thorough, authoritative investigation of slavery—an investigation which is now being undertaken by the United Nations and the International Labor Organization.

Deaderick F. Jenkins, publisher and author, has written his second book "LETTERS TO MY SON," which gives his opinion on a variety of subjects facing America today, emphasizing in particular the current bombings and police brutality.

His second book follows the first, IT WAS NOT MY WORLD. This book was widely acclaimed and tht second is gaining favorable reviews.

Jenkins, who lives here at 1464 South Central Avenue, is the independent publisher of his own books.

Rev. George Garner Established As Chicago's 'Singing Pastor'

Chicago's Olivet Baptist church was filled to capacity on Sunday morning, members and friends arriving late for the morning worship service found standing room at a premium.

The Reverend Dr. George Robert Garner III, now a Los Angeles resident "Olivet's Singing Son," internationally famous tenor and protege of the late Mrs. Timothy B. Blackstone was the minister of the morning.

The choristers sang the offertory anthem based on the Negro Spiritual, "I've Been Buked and I've Been Scorned," arranged by Prof. James Allyn Mundy.

The hour for meditation followed. The Rev. Dr. Garner came quietly on the rostrum and took the seat of honor reserved for him. At the conclusion came the congregation hymn. The Rev. Simms presented Rev. Garner.

Before his sermon, Dr. Garner paid a glowing tribute to Olivet's pastor Dr. J. H. Jackson, vice president of the National Baptist Convention, Inc. The theme "The Night of Prayer," taken from St. Luke's Gospel, sixth chapter, verse thirteen was "When It Was Day He Chose Twelve."

Ten persons united with the church at the invitation extended by Olivet's singing minister.

Methodist Bishops Urge Dropping Racial Barriers

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal.—The bishops of The Methodist Church called for a move toward integration in the quadrennial episcopal message read by Bishop Paul B. Kern, of Nashville, the first evening of the General Conference meeting in Civic Auditorium here for two weeks.

The episcopal address to Methodists is what the President's message is to Congress, and sets forth the opinions and declarations of the bishops to the denomination.

The two hour and forty-five minute message devoted 20 minutes to the question of "The Negro in the Methodist Church in the United States." After citing the progress of the Negro since emancipation, and the remarkable strides in educational, cultural, and economic development in the last fifty years, Bishop Kern said:

"The epic story of this phenomenal progress has taken place in spite of social barriers, widespread segregation, and terrific handicaps. We are happy to observe that these obstacles are lessening in every area of American life. To discriminate against a person solely upon basis of his race is both unfair and unchristian. Every child of God is entitled to that place in society which he has won by his industry, his integrity, and his character. To deny him that position of honor because of the accident of his birth is neither honest nor good religion."

(This statement brought forth the first round of applause in the message, which had become an hour long at this point. Thunderous aplause followed the next sentence):

"Any race that can produce a Marian Anderson in art, a Ralph Bunche in diplomacy, a George Washington Carver in science, a Jackie Robinson in sport, and a Mary Bethune in education, may well be proud of its racial achievements and dignity. . . .

Among the 720 delegates at the quadrennial session of the Methodist General Conference meeting in Civic Auditorium here are 52 Negroes, 50 from the United States, and two from Liberia, Africa. Delegates are equally divided among ministers and laymen.

Dr. Glover Runs for Editor at Conference

By Benjamin Ingram

The 34th quadrennial session of the General Conference of the African Methodist Episcopal Church will convene in Chicago May 7 to 21. The Coliseum, 15th street and S. Wabash avenue, will house the sessions. Seating capacity of the Coliseum is 15,000.

The Western Christian Recorder is one of the official organs of the A.M.E. Church. Every four years there is talk of retrenchment. There are a few that would discontinue the Western Christian Recorder. This paper must not be discontinued, but published. The growth and development of the West demands that this paper carry forth the purpose of the founding fathers.

The church is moving westward. California and the West offers most in living and opportunity to any people desirous of better things. We have found a man to edit the Recorder. Dr. Jessie L. Glover, Western churchman and scholar, is our choice for the editorship of the Western Christian Recorder.

Dr. Glover will edit this paper, increase its circulation, and establish a book depository in the West.

Dr. Glover is known throughout African Methodism as a pulpiteer and orator, an authority on church law and history.

We go forward determined to elect Dr. Jessie L. Glover to the editorship of the Western Christian Recorder.

Noted Methodist Prelate To Be at Hamilton Sunday

Sunday, May 4, will bring to the pulpit of Hamilton Methodist Church, 18th and Naomi streets, one of Methodism's most distinguished ministers, the Rev. Dr. Robert Moten Williams, the pastor of Ashbury Methodist church, Washington, D. C.

Dr. Robert Williams has been the pastor of this great church that dates its history back to 1814, for the past 21 ytars. He is recognized as a builder, a great force in the social service field, an organizer and a religious leader.

Under his leadership the church built a community house to meet the pressing needs of his area in education and recreation.

Dr. Williams is responsible for the organizing of the Ashbury Federal Credit Union, believed to be the only one of its kind in any church in Washington.

Among his organizational promotions was the founding of the Wesley Foundation at Howard University, the first to be instituted on a Negro campus. Under his leadership, the first junior church in Washington was set up. Through his pleasant aggressiveness, Constitution Hall for the first time was granted to a Negro group for its use in the nation's capital. The Washington Annual Conference met there Sunday, May 21, 1950.

Dr. Williams has been a member of the Columbia University World Study Tours for a number of years and is a recognized authority in the field of study of the Displaced Person's Camps in Germany and Austria.

GEORGE RAMSEY

CALIENTE IN OLD MEXICO: It was little apprentice jockey Rogelio Trejos that stole the show on last Sunday's program. When he scored with four winners and just missed the fifth when Fleet Flame, favorite in the last race, refused to extend himself in the mile and a quarter journey. He was taken up on the back stretch, came to the outside but couldn't make up lost ground and finished fourth. Riskolator, the eight year old son of Isolator. Risky Raid started twelve times at the border course and not finished in the money came to life and scored a handy victory. Riskolater ran in the Kentucky Derby and finished eleventh. That was in 1947—the race was won by Jet Pilot.

His other mild claim to turf fame is that he once beat the famed Armed Mon Songe, the stretch running son of the Mongol. Elegant Miss. Was slow to settle into stride, closed strongly after being sent to outside on far turn and wore down the leaders in the last seventy yards to win by two lengths, paying as third choice $9.20.

It was a bad day for the form players, only four choices were able to reach the charmed circle out of twelve race program. The daily-double combination of Co-Express winner of the fourth race and Rosalinda victor of the fifth paid $309.80. Holders of the winning tickets on Riskolater and Brockers sign who finished in that order of the Quniela received $81.40. This Sunday managing director Walter C. Marty has arranged another fine card of 12 races.

LEADS JEFF QUALIFIERS—LaVerne Smith of Jefferson, barely missed setting a new Southern League high jump record when he barely missed 6 ft., 5¾ in. on his first try. He cleared 6 ft., 3½ in. to lead 30 Democrats who qualified for the finals Friday. Other top marks were made by James Carey who threw the iron ball 54 ft. for the best throw of his career, and O. H. Rhodes, who cleared 12 ft., 6 in. without taking off his sweat shirt. The mighty Democrats are looking forward to annexing the triple crown of prep trackdom—again, the Southern League, All-City and State meet championships.

KAPPAS UPSET ALPHAS FOR TROPHY PLAYOFF WITH UNBEATEN OMEGAS

The high-flying Omegas kept their tournament record unsullied Saturday night in the interfraternity series at Loyola High School gym, when they toyed with a fighting but badly outclassed Sigma team, defeating them 64 to 52.

The traditional thriller between the Alphas and Kappas in the second game of the evening was just that. In a spine-tingling first half that saw the lead change hands a dozen times and by not more than three points, both teams put on a stirring demonstration of fight, determination, and spirit, that made up for the lack of team execution, and kept the crowd on its feet throughout the first half. At halftime, the Alphas held a one-point lead.

The third quarter was just as ding-dong as the first two, but in the fourth quarter the Alphas popped corks all over the place, looking very much like Stanford against Illinois in the Rose Bowl. The Kappas built up a steady lead and were hitting the basket from all over the court when the gun mercifully ended the carnage. Final score was 62 to 47.

The win pulled the Kappas into a tie for second place with the Alphas, and the spectators left crying for a play-off between the two popular teams.

Center John 'Barber, keystone in the Alpha attack, while playing a flawless floor game, couldn't hit the basket with a bull fiddle, as he missed chance after chance. Same was true for the entire Alpha team on foul shots.

Highlight of the spectator activities was a burial of the Kappas by the Alphas just before the game. A red casket with a fan impersonating the Kappas was led around the gymnasium with pallbearers and a mourning procession composed of almost the entire Alpha rooting section.

Services were held in front of the Alpha section and the good old Kappa spirit was relegated to third place. While the frock-coated preacher, resplendent in top hat, cravet and spads, slightly worn, committed the Kappa spirit to oblivion, the body in the casket kept sitting up and had to be slapped back down by the Alpha faithful. This was indicative of the future as the Kappas refused to roll over and play dead, and the Alphas forgot to keep slapping him down.

Basketball Scores

Omegas 41, Sigmas 24, halftime score. Final score: Omegas 64, Sigmas 52.

Kappas 29, Alphas 30, halftime score. Final score: Kappas 62, Alphas 47.

High-point men—Powell (12), Tucker (10), Robinson (10), for the Omegas. Pounds (24) for the Sigmas. Nicholas (17) for the Kappas, and Hugo Hill (16) for the Alphas.

By some peculiar ruling of the interfraternity council, the Kappas by their win over the Alphas, although tied in the over-all games standing, won the right to meet the Omegas in the play-off for the perpetual trophy.

The trophy is now in the Kappas' possession, and Coach Lowell Stewart swears that when the smoke clears away Saturday night, it will still be theirs. The front-running Omegas swear the opposite.

Peculiar things have happened in the series, and Saturday's battle might be no exception.

The Alphas meet the improved Sigmas in the opening game.

Interfraternity Basketball Standings

	Won	Lost	Points	Opponents' Points
OMEGAS	6	0	413	293
KAPPAS	3	3	299	319
ALPHAS	3	3	335	305
SIGMAS	6	0	261	371

Ben Bowie Post Sponsors Junior Baseball Team

The Ben Bowie post of the American Legion announced this week that they are entering a team in the American Legion Junior Baseball league. A crack team from Craver Junior high school will represent the post in the league that has produced so many outstanding baseball stars.

Bennie Ayers, manager of the team said that the team has uniforms, but they need funds for baseball caps, stockings, bats and balls. Interested persons can contact him at Legion Post 5115 S. Central avenue or at his home, 2311 6th avenue.

The team, coached by Alexander Evans will use South Park as their home grounds.

We would like to take issue with the major leagues and minor leagues who have conspired to put Liberty's Game of the Day out of business. It seems to this Corner that a very selfish and short-sighted attitude has been adopted by the owners, leaving old Joe Fan up the usual creek without a paddle.

The minors squawked to high heaven that such broadcasts were infringements upon their sacred rights, and the majority of the big league teams went along with them. Only the Chicago White Sox, the New York Giants, and Cincinnati would permit their home games broadcast. This is quite a restriction when you consider that the teams are on the road half the time, and the number of night games they play.

Frankly, we think the broadcasts stimulated interest in baseball. Every barber shop, pool hall, shine parlor, restaurant, and places where people can listen to the radio during the day, listened to Game of the Day. You can't get that kind of listening audience without stimulating interest.

The Pacific Coast League has been designated one notch above the minors and one notch below the majors. If that is true, then it is not broadcasting that keeps the customer away.

Ross Snyder Playground, under the guidance of Bill Lacefield, has an ambitious program outlined, to bring the benefits of the recreation center to a larger group of citizens in the community. This Saturday they are staging a track meet in conjunction with Boys' Week. It is a novice meet for boys who are not competing in the schools. Boys between 11 and 18 years may compete. The program will include the usual events and starts at 10 a.m. sharp.

If you really want to get a kick, come on out and watch the midgets in competition. They are just as proud of a 9-foot broad jump or a 3-foot high jump as any Olympic champion can be.

Speaking of the midgets, we were wondering the other day what became of the track meets the grammar schools used to hold. Nevin, Hooper, Vernon, 28th Street, 20th Street, and Holmes used to collide at Jefferson in some titantics. For a while they held city-wide meets, and Nevin, like Jeff, was the class of the field. Mrs. Alice B. Tibbets, then principal at Nevin, used to march the students all over the grounds practicing for the Posture Parade.

Any boy who could run or jump and didn't give his best, received an application of paddle to hips.

Red Mack Morris used to lead the parade from Nevin to Jeff, blowing on his trumpet. The boys would be togged out in gym shorts and black stocking caps with orange tassels. The posture parade was the marching of the entire student body around the track. This was a snap for Nevin. Then came the track events. With orange tassels flying, Nevin would win handily.

That was a great institution, and created an interest that produced many great athletes. Wonder why it was discontinued? Wonder if my record of 6 seconds for the 35-yard dash for boys under three feet tall still stands?

Jeff's varsity baseball team started out with a loud thud. They lost their first three tilts to Roosevelt, Manual, and Garfield. Today (Thursday) they meet the Washington Generals at Ross Snyder. Game time is 3 o'clock.

The tenth grade team has had better luck. They defeated Fairfax, 21-3, and downed Santa Fe, 8-6. However, they bit the dust, 9-6, at the hands of Manual. Manual's tenth graders looked like UCLA's football team.

On the brighter side, the Democrats' tennis team defeated Roosevelt and has high hopes of winning the league title. William Alston is the star of the team.

Jeff was drowned by Huntington Park last week in a swimming meet. Maybe Leslie Bisco had better transfer back to Central Playground and start turning out some swimming stars. Swimming team yet. What will they think of next?

The next time the San Diego Padres come to town, drop out and take a look at Lonnie Summers behind the plate. Summers is one of the many fine baseball prospects developed at Ross Snyder Playground. Determined to make a living at it, Lonnie, for years has played in the Negro leagues. Finally in the decline of his career, he gets a chance. Lonnie was a splendid pitcher, a long ball hitter, and an excellent centerfielder.

Now he concentrates on catching, where his rifle arm and hitting ability counts, and he doesn't have to worry about his running speed. There's a lot of baseball left in Lonnie yet. Summers reminds me of the fabulous "Raggedy Nine," but that's a story for another column. See you at the Southern League meet at the Coliseum Friday.

JACKIE'S TOE OKAY

BROOKLYN, N. Y. (CNS)—Jackie Robinson came off the injured list this week when his fractured toe felt good enough for him to be back in the lineup. Batting in a new spot—third—Jackie joined four of his teammates hitting over .500. He even managed a home run against the Giants in the first of the series.

IMPRESSIVE—Shirley Curry became the bride of James Greene in the loftiness and grace of solemn nuptial rites performed at St. Philip Episcopal church by Rev. H. Randolph Moore Saturday. Wedding party included Charles Harris, Jacqueline Sebastian, Basie Frasier, Junanita Banks, James Allen, bride, groom, Dorthello White, Nathaniel Harris, Ellyn Greene, John Jackson and Frances Dabney.

Dignified, Solemn Nuptials Unite Shirley Curry And James Greene

Soleumn nuptial mass united Miss Shirley Curry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Alford Dunn, to James Alfonse Greene Jr., son of Rev. and Mrs. James A. Greene Sr. at St. Philip's Episcopal church with Rev. H. Randolph Moore the officiant and celebrant last Saturday morning.

The bride was given in marriage by her step-father, Charles Alford Dunn. She was regal in a gown of exquisite bridal satin of Rior's creation with a long train. The tight bodice was accented by a gently scalloped peplum at the hipline ornamented with pearls and orange blossoms.

Her veil was draped from a crown of seed pearls. White orchids, spikes of lillies of the valley and cascade of bovardia made up the bridal bouquet.

Mrs. Juanita Banks was matron of honor and Miss Dorthella White was maid of honor. They wore similar gowns of ice blue satin with snug bodice and a narrow mandarin collar at the neckline.

The bridesmaids Jacqueline Sebastian, Frances Dabney and Ellyn Greene, the groom's sister, wore gowns of the same style but in shell pink. Little sweetheart tiaras of forget-me-nots crowned the heads of all the girls.

To complete the picture, each girl carried a colonial bouquet of cecil-brunner roses and blue iris.

Umbrellas and Flowers Adorn AKAs at Formal

Alpha Gamma Omega chapter of Alpha Kappa Alpha sorority staged its Pastel Formal last Friday evening at Zenda's modernistic ballroom.

Amid a perfusion of one thousand American Beauty roses, and a multiplicity of red carnations, gladiolus, stock and other spring flowers, Zenda's was fashioned into a flower garden. A huge floral arrangement also gave dignity to the stairway.

An imposing as well as impressive floral design likened to a rare chandelier with sprays blossoming to the ceiling enhanced the ballroom proper; delicate lacey and net pastel umbrellas gave beauty to the orchestra strand.

Norma Earles, chairman of the dance committee, predicted the dance would be established for a traditional Pastel Formal.

At 1 a.m. the unique introduction took place. Members of the sorority wearing exquisite gowns ranging in all hues and colors of the pastel shades took their places on the huge double stairway and circled the ballroom floor amid applause.

Each soror twirled a silk umbrella, completing the dance theme, "April showers bring May flowers." The famous sorority song followed after which the sorors and their escorts only danced.

The Far Western Regional director, Miss Carolyn Carrington, Berkeley, California, attended the dance. Mrs. Blanche McSmith of Anchorage, Alaska was also present. Mrs. Zenobia Allen is the basileus of the local graduate chapter of the sorority.

UNDERCOVER hounds

HAL MILLER and KERRY JACKSON

We always have said that four eyes are better than two but it would take twelve eyes to note all of what happened over this mad, mad weekend.

Not being able to make the AKA formal our gathered bits of information made us realize the jollies we had missed. The elaborate Zenda ballroom was the setting for this Jollie Ridden Fandango. Out of the hoard of those attending we secured the names of Lorenzo and Dolly Williams, Barbara Garrott and Bob Gudger, Sherril Luke and Dorothy Cain, Herman Ward, Mary Drye, Jackie Daugherty, Yvonne Watson, Pyrom Taylor and Charlene Derrick, David Reed, and Bob oJnes. An after party was held at Anna Kings.

Pardon me, but you're on my toes.

The charming ladies of Les Calievettes turned the crow on with a gig last Friday that would have turned the "Merry Widow" over in her grave. Speaking of graves females like Gwen Lott, Doris Harris, Marsha Owens and exciting Barbara Hale literally dug theirs when the chanced dancing with guys like Zeff Frazier, Don Wilson, Cordell Hickman, John Haynes, and Bernie Bernie Erving.

SOMETHING NEW AND DIFFERENT

It is, and has been our policy in the past to write about affairs that people won't forget for a long time. In keeping with this idea we feel it necessary to mention the newest star in the horizon, the LORELEI's sponsored by the popular Tweedsmans mens club, this new organization cristened themselves Sunday afternoon with a long to be remembered cocktail party. Clubmembers Leatrice Dodd, Erma Berry, Ann Allen, Irene Drisdom, Betty Braxton, Martha Ellis, Margaret Brown, and Peggy Beasely hosted a choice guest list with names like Thomas Greene, Roy Loggins, Uly Greggs.

A HOUNDS HOP—

There was a small clubmeeting being held at Hound Hal Miller's house and someone suggested that since we had an over abundance of food why not have a few kids over to play some cards. A few were notified. About twenty minutes later folks came from far and near to cram the pad and help dwindle the food supply. When each had well fed his face, namely Geneva Fields, Leander Tennette, Allen St. Julian, Walter Smith and Jean Bugg, they joined with Sam McCullum and Arlene Thomas, Orville Diggs and Joyce Overr, Freida Hodge, Zenobia Thomas, Mary Cantrell, Walker Bruce, Wendell Williams and Mary Ann Baumann. They went dancing away on the crowded floor. This constituted one more Hassle.

PEOPLE WILL TALK

About the way Ray Austin is eying Sylvia Griggs (this could be the beginning.

When they find out a newly girl on the scene is the victim of a dreaded social disease.

About the wonderful eats that are available at Hazels Hot Dog stand on Adams at Western.

About you, if you act like Paul Barber who in his small way broke up a very popular married couple recently.

About the new couples of Betty Norman and Kenneth Till; plus Tony Sheen and Mary Vandange.

About Charlotte Johnson, love struck society gal who was on the receiving end of a shower, Sunday, thrown in honor of her coming marriage to Austin Nicholas.

About a certain set of people if we let the world know what's been going on behind those closed doors. For the information of those curious the doods are green and the house is white.

A DOUBLE DO

Double weddings are now the things to do. Clarence Kennedy and Bret Harte Smith, along with Don Benjamin and Wilma Jean Sexton made it a Andrew Wallace, Chester Wood, and Tony and Norma Williams.

A NUDDEN

Robert Armstrong, in the best of fashion, had the crowd over after the game in his westside abode. We didn't OVERLOOK those naughty young men who were peering at the crazy frame in the brown skirt. But we won't mention their names. Getting back to the so called decent things of life James Elkin brought a girl (Is this decent?). The partygoers included Leroy Matthews, Don and Joan Baily, Dickie Hall, Janie Williams, James Cantrell and Gerome Canard.

COMING ATTRACTIONS

Tomorrow evening will be the time for the Scrollers, "Hob-Knobbers Ball". For the men who wear the Red shirts this will no doubt be another success. This ball will be staged at the Kappa Kastle.

Also don't forget the Ivies picnic this weekend at Griffith park.

His mom and stepdad, Dr. and Mrs. George Biram, anticipate him but eagerly. Peering thru the current mist: Any sign yet of due-on-the-mainland Ann Marquess Garrott and her army officer husband? En route east they may stop here briefly.

Quick glimpsing Barbara Weaver driving recently fetched sudden thought if her sister Inez could be living in or near the South Carolina base where her officer mate is stationed after Japan. Seems to me, too, Barbara is due to vacation in Chi with her grandmother after school. The Leon Smiths (Bernyce) expect their new addition in June. Well, golly, let me get busy around here and check to see if Irene Morris is a grandma yet! It was to be an April event. Jay MacRae made it to the altar in Balto. the other day. He lived here once. Arm in arm with eyes only for each other: The newly-wedded Jimmy Lucases (Robert V. Edwards). Their happiness is contagious, golly.

Party Honors Eight Guests

It was a round-about birthday party given in the home of Laura C. Dunlap last Wednesday. Mrs. Dunlap, the celebrant, surprised her friends with a buffet luncheon rather than being honored herself.

Congenial Mrs. Dunlap has been convalescing after an automobile accident in which she saved a young child's life. Since returning home from the hospital she had made plans for her birthday. When Mrs. Dunlap invited eight close friends, she purposely did not mention the affair was birthday time.

So, eight ladies were surprised instead of one!

Mom, Dad and Junior Alphas Get-Together

Mr. and Mrs. Alpha and all the little Alphas are still talking about the recent family day affair at Alpha house, sponsored by the Alpha Wives Auxiliary. This affair provided an opportunity for Alpha families to get together in an informal manner, and become better acquainted.

There was a gala fashion extravaganza with Alpha wives on Monday. Children and sweethearts participated which was followed by a variety program by the children. Many mothers and fathers beamed proudly as the little ones performed.

An over capacity crowd indicated that more such affairs are desirous, and the program committee is planning another family event in June. Alpha wives are proud and appreciative of the efforts of Mrs. Robert E. House, who is program chairman. Mrs. John H. Talbert is the auxiliary's president.

Indians Whoop Up Wives Fashionetta

Who is the big Indian chief? Usually you would meet him and lovely squaws, Georgia Hardiman and Maggie Rawls, in their camp or reservation. This year they are to be guests at the annual fashionetta presented by the Medical, Dental, and Pharmaceutical Association under the direction of Joyce Cockrell.

The theme is "America the Melting Pot." The dazzling pageant begins with the presentation of "Big Indian Chief." Look forward to seeing the lovely Scottish girl and the beautiful Hawaiian dancer and many others from far-off places whose ancestors years ago came to America.

Smartly dressed women, and men, too, will parade styles that milady and her escort will wear this summer for every occasion.

For an outstanding afternoon, it's the Professionals' Wives' annual "Fashionetta" for charity at the Elks Auditorium, Sunday, May 25, from 2 until 6 p.m. Contact Janice C. Edwards for further information.

Administration under President Roosevelt, was to have spoken at the Englewood Junior High School at a meeting sponsored by an American Legion women's auxiliary.

Legion Unnerved

The Legion was pretty much unnerved by the thought that it had sponsored a possibly dangerous radical. The local group hastily communicated with the national president of the auxiliary in Indianapolis, Mrs. Leonard Davis.

Mrs. Davis advised the group to "proceed with caution" in view of the Legion's "policy on matters of Americanism."

The auxiliary withdrew its sponsorship. The Board of Education cancelled use of the school building.

Mrs. Bethune spoke at a privately sponsored meeting in the Bethany Presbyterian church.

Walter White immediately informed Mayor M. Leslie Denning, of Englewood, that the NAACP is "amazed and distressed" at the action.

The Board of Education and the Legion auxiliary announced jointly that the sponsored meeting would be postponed until Mrs. Bethune has "cleared herself" of the charges.

Lt. Rosenberg, leading the investigation at the murder site, sent deputies to search the house and grounds at Davis' new residence.

One of the deputies spotted Davis in the shack sitting on a keg. When the deputy approached within 10 feet of the love-slayer, Davis shot himself in the left side of the chest near his heart with the same double-barreled shotgun he used to kill Martin.

More About
Molester of Child Guilty

ton of 1477½ East 41st place; Elizabeth was at Hanible's house the afternoon of February 20, playing with his nine-year-old daughter, Lillie Mae, waiting for her father to come and pick her up.

Hanible and the two girls were in the living room when he sent Lillie Mae out to the back porch to wash and polish her shoes. Sitting directly across from the other girl, clutching her dress, he pulled her to him and began fondling her. She tried to squirm away, but he did not release her until his daughter returned a few minutes later. He whispered to Elizabeth, "Is your daddy going to be home in the morning?" She told him, "No." "Then I will call."

Father Calls Police

When Payton, assistant pastor to Rev. B. Albert Beauchamp of Bethany Community Church on 22nd street near Central avenue, came to get his daughter, she told him about the "funny way" Hanible had acted, and that he was going to call her following morning.

Payton called the police. He was instructed not to let it be known that they would be prepared for the molester's visit.

Trapped!!!

Around 7:15 a.m. Thursday, February 21, Hanible telephoned and asked Elizabeth Yvonne, "Is your daddy home?" When she replied "No. Daddy is gone to work," he said "I'll be right over."

About one-half an hour later Hanible arrived. Officer L. O. Triggs was staked out up the street from the house, Officer Jackson and Payton were standing behind the bedroom door adjoining the living room with the door ajar so that they could see and hear.

When the girl opened the front door she had a book in her hand. Hanible stated, "We can't do anything while you're hanging on to that book."

On his way to the bath room, he caught sight of Jackson and Payton. When questioned, he said, "I came over for Rev. Payton to drive me to work." He dedenied everything else.

Beaten by Police

Hanible took the stand in his defense April 24 and testified that when Jackson questioned him in the house, he hit him in the mouth, knocking out a tooth from his upper plate, and punched him several times in the stomach and ribs.

Payton denied seeing the officer strike the defendant.

Previous Arrests

Hanible has a long record of previous arrests for gambling, fighting, selling liquor without a license, annoying children, etc. He was arrested April 18, 1950, convicted June 5, 1950, and placed on five years and six months probation for molesting a 12-year-old girl.

PARISIAN MODEL—Lovely Dorothea Towles, who has been a top model in Paris for the past two years, is currently touring the country presenting a style and fashion show entitled "Parisian Fantasy." This outstanding fashion event has been playing to turnaway crowds. Miss Towles, who went to Paris from Los Angeles, will present her show at the Florentine Gardens on May 24th.

Fashions, Human Boxing Ring

The drama department of the California State Association of Colored Women, Inc. under the leadership of the state superintendent, Pearl Clematis Walton, is busy making plans for the presentation of "My Lady Has A Dream of Styles," a fashion show in play form, which will be held at Brown House, 2103 S. Harvard boulevard on Sunday, May 18, from 3 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. The added feature of the "Human Boxing Ring" will be unique and most entertaining.

THEATRE

NEGRO ART THEATER TO PRESENT 'STARS ON REVUE' AT CLUB ALABAM

COCKTAIL FETE—When the Negro Art Theatre held a recent conference relative to their coming Stars on Parade Review scheduled to May 11 at th Club Alabam the folowing members and guests got together for a lively chit chat over pink champagne (left to right), Wesley Brazier, Juanita Moore, J. Jones, Nadine Cole, Gloria Gordon and Lionel Asher.

It'll be show time but definitely at the swank Club Alabam May 11, when the Negro Art Theatre stages its stellar "Stars on Parade" revue during the appointed hours of 3 to 8 p.m.

A brilliant array of top name artists headlined by sultry-voiced Billy Holiday, the Nicholas Brothers, Four Step Brothers, Mabel Scott, Vivian Dandridge, Eddie Beal and a host of other performers will pace a star-studded three hour revue.

Energetic committee assisting Alice Keys in securing the guest talent is comprised of Juliette Ball Brown, Juanita Moore, Camille Cannady, Nadine Cole, Lena Torrence and Ethel Sisstle Gordon.

According to Miss Keys the artists have assured the group they will definitely appear.

Making a concerted effort to corral community enthusiasm and support the Negro Art Theatre is enlisting the aid of various civic, fraternal and social groups for their anticipated event.

The Negro Art Theatre provides opportunities primarily for Negro actors and theatre craftsmen and strives to develop their skills; to work in materials seldom offered them; to bring good theatre to the community; and to stimulate writers in the exploration of themes related to Negro life.

Organized three years ago, the group has produced such plays as "Golden Boy," "Florence" by Alice Childress, and "Cotton Curtain" by Frank Grenwood. Both are promising Negro playwrights.

Proceeds from next Sunday's event will be used to finance the group's spring production "Come Back, Little Sheba."

Tickets may be secured by calling REpublic 3-9836 or PArkway 7165.

All music is what awakes from you when you are reminded by the instruments. — Walt Whitman.

JORDAN BAND SET FOR CAVALCADE OF JAZZ

Representing his first engagement following a rest period of several months, Louis Jordan and his Tampany Five, will be the stellar attraction for the Eighth Annual Cavalcade of Jazz Open-air show at Wrigley Field, Sunday afternoon, June 1, 1952.

This announcement was made last Saturday night by promoter Leon N. Hefflin, Sr., at a party for the press and Cavalcade staff.

Also headlining the mamouth afair which last year attracted more than 20,000 persons, will be Toni Harper as well as some of the biggest acts in show business.

Selection of "Queen of the Cavalcade" will be an added attraction handled by the Charm Center and will be competed in by beauties through-out the state. The Queen will reign the week preceeding the Cavalcade of Jazz and will be feted at a dance given in her honor.

Hefflin said other feature acts will be announced as rapidly as contracts are completed.

Lloyd Glenn Big Hit Here

Making their initial appearance before home town fans, Lloyd Glenn and his orchestra attracted a near capacity crowd at the Elks Easter Sunday night. Well known for his record hits, Glen proved equally as popular in person. At intermission time he was mobbed by the femmes.

He played a succession of such tunes as Yancey Special, Blue Shadows, Old Time Shuffle, Pine Top Boogie, Chica Boo, and his New Flyin' Home brought down the house.

Glenn is being readied for a nationwide tour by the Ben Waller agency. He is set for one nighters in San Diego, Long Beach, Las Vegas and Phoenix in the immediate future.

Candi Davis, song specialist, was accepted as a new vocal threat to the entertainment world. He will be signed by Glenn and accompany him on the scheduled tour.

People and Places

"It says here that a scientist crossed a lion with a tiger and got a tiglion!" That's nothing; my good Friend Dr. Overstreet Gray crossed the street with his new '52 Victoria and got a luscious dinner from Berkeley.

Trapped

ATTY. TOM BERKELEY, big Berkeley, Calif., (no relation) legal brain and former UCLA high-hurdle champ of a few years back, got himself caught in the leap year jam. The brilliant young lawyer will soon say "I do" to a northern California pretty. Tom was in town over the weekend showing off his prize to his many friends. We all agree she rates high.

Big Shot

The illustrious William Gower, supposed leader of the highly respected body of the Shriners, cut his second hog in a telephone conversation. Coming quickly behind his now famous Florentine Garden speech he added a bit of salt to an open wound by asking a much respected lady of our staff was she a moron. We think the members made a mistake in looking and hoping for leadership from Gower.

Class Plus

MAE MYERS—busy 52nd street school teacher and wife of big time "Bumps" Myers, is definitely one of our most informed young ladies. When I say informed I don't mean a passing acquaintance with Negro history and current world topics. Mae can run circles around our so-called local leaders and she rates in our books tops, including your Sadie Alexander.

Troubled Mind

USC's Dr. Isidro de Rieras, consulting phychologist (I need to see him) and author of a book titled "Kala," is important people. The young, smooth, intelligent counselor is considered one of the best in his field. His plush Western Ave. office is attracting the carriage trade.

Plush Spot

Busy Leonard McClain of the Simon Levi company was telling me the newest spot is called the CHAMPAGNE BAR at 5821 S. Broadway. Its modern policy and first class operation is the big feature. Impressive Ruth Semas will announce her grand opening about the second week in May. Natch McClain is gonna stock the place with the best in champagne. Better drop in.

Stranded

Understand from my eastern operatives that the model DAUPHINE, who made an eastern trip with the ex-heavyweight boxing champ is now stranded in the Big Apple. They are talking about the way a certain big shot west side wheel dropped his apartment house in one of those slick games with a guy with a cold deck.

Ballot Burglary

We have it that certain well-known political big wigs had a get-together the other eve. The group is slated to make it tough for young Kenny Washington, seeking office in the coming election. All I can say the Mexi-

Army Bound

Officer Sgt. Maurice Page flipped his gun nd badge on the desk of Chief William Parker. He'd rather serve as an officer in the air force. The gang threw a "going into the army" party for him Saturday night at a West Adams Blvd. address. It was a way-out affair with plenty of everything.

Leg Work

DOROTHY WATSON—Popular matron and the mother of charming young DIAN WATSON, is mobilizing forces in an effort to get her daughter selected as one of the Los Angeles girls who will study in Europe. Any help you might lend couldn't go to a more deserving mother who has always been a worker for a bigger and better community.

Party Lines

Two socially prominent matrons of the swimming pool set almost came to blows when their telephone wires got crossed. Seemed like the young doctor unconsciously called the wrong number and seconds after he had done it was too late to clean up and now his wife is demanding an account on all his calls in and out of the office.

Hucksters Note

LLOYD LA BEACH, McKesson & Robbins fleet-footed salesman, is minus a fifth as a result of his visit to our office. Should call more often. MARVIN WHITAKER—dapper, smooth - talking car salesman who is working out of the Wilshire office of Berl Berry, is a good enough reason to buy a Victoria, Lincoln or Mercury. FRED HARRIS, top lush salesman, is delivering invites for his Fortuna party at the Paradise May 3. HERMAN BRUCE was not minus a fifth when he left our office this week. However, we will know how the improved FOUR ROSES tastes on his return.

BILLIE HOLIDAY—Brings her smooth and easy tunes to the SILVERA of "Viva Zapata" fame, was mysteriously dropped from the 20th Century Fox Studios. Wonder what is the story behind the story of this great actor? GINGER SMOCK, who swings the violin, is overdue for the big time and it looks as though her day has arrived. She graced the cover of a national mag last month. Handsome John Anderson, trumpeter, is heading a classy group of musicians. He is slated for a Western Avenoo spot.

DEAF GIRL VICTIM OF ASSAULT

— Mother ... ar —

SMILES AND HEARTACHE—The Eagle has selected as Mother of the Year Mrs. Dessaline Kelly, who smiles proudly, though she knows the heartache in store for her, as she poses with the three grandsons she raised. All three, 1952 graduates of the Los Angeles Academy, enlisted two weeks ago in the Air Force. They are Rodger M. Lee (seated, left), Marvin E. Bryant (standing, left) and Harold H. Lee (seated, right). They are shown with recruiting Sgt. Harry Williams,

Mother Slits Throats Of Her Three Babies

By Eddie Lee King

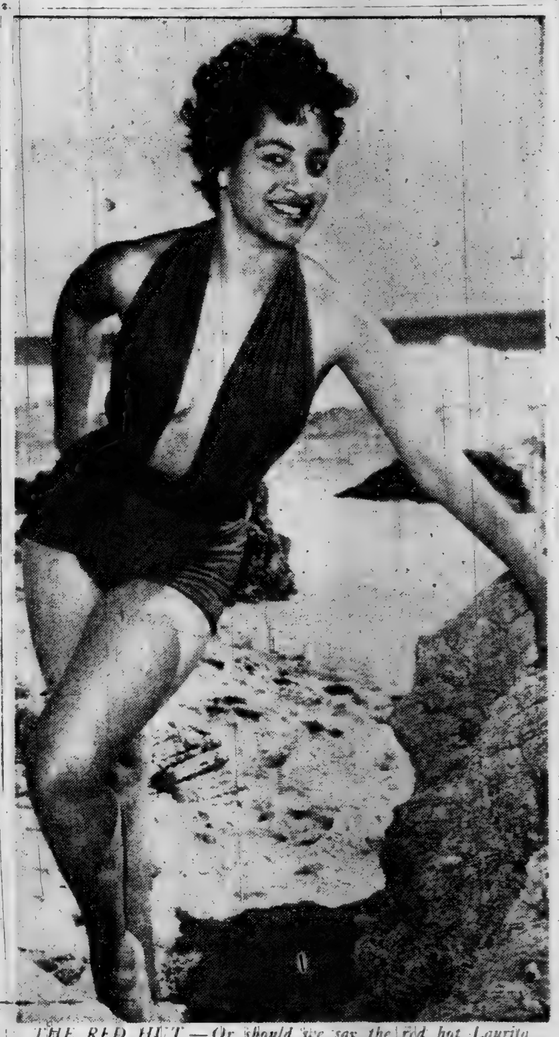
"I did it so they wouldn't feel pain while I was cutting their throats."

Mrs. Ruth Edwards told the EAGLE how she put her three small children to bed Wednesday morning, then killed them, one after the other, with a butcher knife, while they slept.

She slashed each child in the throat once, neatly.

"One screamed," she said calmly, "but only for a moment. They all died right away."

The attractive, 31-year-old mother, who lives at 205 Paseo Valdez, Aliso Village, remarked that "it had to be done."



Not Sorry

She explained, when inteviewed by the Eagle at Hollenbeck police station, that she wasn't sorry, that all three were illegitimate, that she getting $139 in State aid, but that wasn't enough. She said that she'd been trying to find a husband, that she was tired of living alone, and just having men come to visit her now and then.

After killing the three children, Mrs. Edwards called the family priest, Father Bernard J. Gannon, and asked him to come to the house, she wanted to talk to him.

She told him what she had

Deaf Girl Charges Assault

An alleged criminal who returned to the scene of his crime landed in jail Monday night when 42-year-old Joe Lasley was arrested and charged with the criminal assault on an 18-year-old deaf girl last April 18.

Lasley came to grief when Helen Bradley, who can neither hear nor speak nor use sign language, pointed him out as the man who had assaulted her in the bathroom of a hotel at 766 San Julian street. Her mother, Mrs. Della Bradley, called police who held him on charges of suspicion of rape.

The girl had pointed Lasley out on a previous occasion when she saw him near the Grand Central Market on Broadway two days after the occurrence, but while the mother was looking

Her mother, Mrs. Lula Mae Watson, rushed towards the piercing wail, only to find her 4-year-old daughter enveloped from head to tiny feet in flesh-searing flames.

Mrs. Watson frantically put out the fire and hurried the suffering child to the hospital, but it was too late.

Negro Bowlers Charge Bias In Tournament

Four Negro bowlers charged this week that they were refused permission to bowl in an Examiner-sponsored tournament at the Llo Da Mar bowling alley in Santa Monica Sunday night.

Floyd Lawrence, Jim Hill, Herman Jones and Ed McFall, all A-rated bowlers, said that they went to the bowling alley at 507 Wilshire, and the manager told them they did not permit Negroes to bowl in the place, and wouldn't let them participate in the tournament play that was in progress.

The bowling esablishment is jointly owned by movie star Harold Lloyd, Ned Day and Hank Marino.

Dave Brandman, in charge of the Examiner tourney, when contacted by the EAGLE said that his organization did not tolerate discrimination in tourney play, and if such a thing happened, the Examiner would not use the Llo Da Mar bowling alley again.

Mrs. Josephine Settien, manager of the establishment, said

Injured by Fall From Streetcar

A 19-year-old youth suffered serious injuries this week when he lost his balance and fell from a street car at Santa Ana and Alamada streets.

Taken to Tweedy Hospital suffering with multiple lacerations and abrasions of the face and body and a fractured right hand was George Allen, of 1931 East El Segundo Blvd.

Allen, according to sheriff's investigators, fell from the rear steps when he lost his balance after boarding the car.

Bailey Takes Over Local NAACP Post

Fresh from participation in the dramatic events surrounding the Cicero race riots and a successful campaign to eliminate segregation in Illinois schools, Lester P. Bailey arrived in Los Angeles last week to take over the post of assistant regional director of the NAACP. He told a Friday press conference that he hoped to launch a "civil rights program second to none in the country right here in California."

The 32-year-old Bailey studied journalism in Ohio and worked as a columnist and editorial writer on newspapers in that state. After a three-year hitch in the Marines during World War II, Bailey entered NAACP work in 1947 and has been stationed in Ohio and Illinois since that time.

"California can go backward despite its reputation as a liberal state," Bailey said. He backed up that view by pointing to the large influx of southerners to the community.

Bailey's experiences in NAACP include an arrest in Cairo, Ill., when he was leading the fight against Jimcrow schools in that city. The grand jury refused to return an indictment and he was freed.

No Arrests In Bombing 54 Days Ago—

Fifty-four days ago hoodlums bombed a school teacher's home on Dunsmuir avenue.

Those hoodlums are still at large.

They must be feeling pretty secure by this time.

They must be chuckling at the loud words and lack of deeds of the law enforcement authorities of this city.

What has happened in the Dunsmuir case is what has happened in every one of the more than two dozen instances of vandalism where Negro home owners have bought houses in so-called "white neighborhoods."

Nobody has been arrested.

It looks like nobody ever will be arrested.

We don't know whether our police force is as inept as this record indicates or whether it lacks the will to solve this kind of case.

What about it, Chief Parker?

Wife Fires Two Shots at Erring Spouse

Suane James, 28, 620 E. 118th street, discovered that her husband, Jimmie Lee, 41, had been stepping out with other women.

Monday night, James was out making some steps so Mrs. James and her good friend, Zenola Sherman, 25, 2371 E. 119th street, set out to catch him "red-handed."

They found James in the clutching arms of Lettie Williams at 2237 E. Century boulevard. An argument started, then a fight, and Mrs. James told her husband to leave the house and go home.

Mrs. James pulled a gun from her purse and ordered her husband to be on his way. Mrs. Sherman saw that Mrs. James

Quakers Rocked by Negro-White Love

RICHMOND, Ind. — Integration is all right—fine, in fact—but interracial marriage, well, now, that's just a bit too "impetuous."

So ruled the Quaker fathers at Earlham College here last week when they learned to their embarrassment that two of their senior students had taken literally their teachings that all men are brothers.

Announcement that Miss Grace Cunningham, a pretty young colored girl, and white Robert McAllester planned to wed immediately after graduation in June, jarred the administration like a bombshell.

Had to Leave

Earlham College, founded by the Quakers, has been widely heralded as a shining example of the teaching and practice of racial tolerance ever since the days of slavery. But marriage!

The audacious couple was hurriedly called into conference with college authorities and urged to give up the idea of matrimony. When they refused, a compromise was reached whereby McAllester returned home to finish his studies by correspondence, while Miss Cunningham continues at the school until the end of the term.

Both will receive their diplomas and A.B. degree at graduation June 3.

Parental Approval

They plan to marry the next day, with the consent and approval of the parents of both.

The announcement was made during the spring vacation while Miss Cunningham was visiting her fiance's parents at their

Even Texas Can Change

DALLAS, Tex. — Even Texas can change.

On Tuesday, the Texas Medical association blurred the color line at its 15th yearly scientific meeting and decided that Negro physicians would be extended full scientific privileges.

There is a little proviso in the ruling, but then this is Texas. The proviso was "unless housing and meeting hall regulations are prohibitive."

The announcement followed a vote by the Texas association House of Delegates. The delegates also voted to request the parent organization, the American Medical Association, to accept affiliation of the Lone Star Medical association, composed of Negro doctors.

Caught Out on a Limb—Ends Up In Hospital Bed

Fred Flanagan, 34-year-old transient, was taken to ths hospital Saturday with serious injuries suffered when he fell out of a tree and was impaled on a picket fence in Burbank.

Flanagan climbed a tree on the parkway across the street from Warner Bros. studio Friday afternoon. "dT get a better look into the studio property," he told police.

He was out on a limb of the tree when it broke. Flanagan landed on the picket fence and the tree collapsed on top of him.

It took public service department workmen and equipment more than 30 minutes to free Flanagan. He was given emergency treatment at St. Joseph's Hospital for a possible fractured pelvis and punctures caused by the fence. He was later moved to General Hospital.

Elks Leader Tells Civil Rights Fight

"I made this trip to California to help strengthen the Civil Liberties department of the Elks in California," declared Hobson R. Reynolds, national director of the Civil Liberties department of the Improved Benevolent Protective Order of Elks of the World, at a press conference Saturday afternoon at the Golden West Lodge temple.

"We plan to open a full-time office," said Hobson, "so that when such things as the Florida bombings or the bombings you had here recently occur, we can dispatch special investigators to the scene and help catch the criminals."

Featured Speaker

Reynolds, who is a judge in Philadelphia, flew to Los Angeles to be the featured speaker at a meeting Sunday afternoon at the Vermont Theater sponsored by local Elks to arouse a greater interest in the work of the Civil Liberties department.

At the press conference Saturday, and at the meeting Sunday, Reynolds outlined the work done by the Civil Liberties department. The department was or-

Ralph Bunche To Speak Here Next Tuesday

Dr. Ralph Bunche, top-ranking director, Trusteeship Division, United Nations, leading American citizen and America's most illustrious Negro diplomat, will appear exclusively for the Modern Forum, explaining "The U. N. and World Tensions," at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening, May 13, at the Beverly Hills High School, Olympic boulevard and Moreno drive.

Due to a record number of season ticket holders, according to Herman Lissauer, Forum director, single seats available for Dr. Bunche's lecture are limited to less than 500. Tickets are now on sale at Forum headquarters, 432 Philharmonic Bldg., MU. 0048, all Mutual Agencies, and after 6 p.m. Tuesday, May 13, the Beverly Hills High School box office will be open.

However, due to the importance of this event it is advisable to make immediate reservations, for tickets are moving very fast and there are liable to be many disappointed persons who wait for the last minute to buy their tickets.

Two Arrested On Complaint Of Young Girl

A tangled story of interracial association led to the arrest of two boys, one white and one Negro, on statutory rape charges this week. The charges were preferred against Edward High, of 216½ W. Vernon avenue, and Roger Porterfield, of 3402 W. 82nd place, both 18, as the result of complaints made by a 16-year-old girl who is pregnant.

Admitting that she had had relations with both boys at about the same time, the girl said that either could be the father of the child.

You Can't Vote in Miss. if You Can't Count Bubbles

NEW YORK—How many bubbles in a bar of soap? What is due process of law?

If you can't answer these questions, you can't vote in Hattiesburg, Miss. That is, if you are a Negro.

These and similar questions have been asked Negroes attempting to register in that state, according to affidavits of nine Negro citizens which have been transmitted to the Department of Justice through Thurgood Marshall, special counsel of the NAACP.

"Come Back"

The three women and six men assert that on April 11 when they sought to register they were told by two white women employees of the registrar of voters "that they could not register us but we would have to come back when Mr. Cox, the registrar and county clerk, was there." However, the women registrars "on other occasions, have been observed registering persons of the white race but never registering persons of the Negro race."

The rejected citizens assert they have all the qualifications required by law and were denied the right to register solely because of their race and color. The action of the registrar and his deputies, they declare, "is in violation of the Constitution of the State of Mississippi and the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments of the United States Constitution."

Not Humorous

Such questions as "How many bubbles in a bar of soap?" and "What is due process of law?" are "obviously questions which have the sole purpose of disqualifying the applicant," Marshall charged. They are "neither 'humorous' or valid," he asserted. "They merely stress the point of how ridiculous and callous these state officers are in performing their governmental functions with complete disregard for the law of the land."

Found Bodies

When police arrived, they found the blood-stained butcher knife at the head of the bed of three-year-old Benita, next to her lifeless body.

Two-year-old Ronald Lee lay still in the bed next to her, and seven-month Rosemary was dead in the crib. All three bodies were taken to the coroner's office.

Mrs. Edwards said she'd been thinking about killing the children, and then Wednesday morning, she fed them all breakfast and put them back to bed. When the three of them were asleep, she continued, she went and got the butcher knife, but was careful not to hurt them.

Mrs. Edwards was married, but separated from her husband in 1945. Her former husband, Booker Taliaferro Edwards, who lives in Banning Homes, San Pedro, was not the father of the murdered children.

Mrs. Bass To Open Drive For Election

Mrs. Charlotta A. Bass, Progressive Party candidate for Vice President of the United tSates, will be the main speaker at an Election Rally at the Embassy Auditorium, 9th and Grand, on Sunday night, May 11, sponsored by the Independent Progressive Party.

Active for 40 years in California before she established residence in New York, Mrs. Bass has for many years been a leader of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, and in church and fraternal societies. Before joining the Progressive Party in 1948, Mrs. Bass was Western Regional Director of the Wendell Wilkie presidential campaign in 1940. In 1948 she publicly broke with the Republican party and became a founding member of the Progressive Party.

Mrs. Bradley said her daughter pantomimed the story of assault immediately after it had happened and that she took the girl to General Hospital for an examination where doctors noted signs of the assault. Another examination on April 30 showed she was pregnant.

The deaf girl told the story of the assault in gestures after she had been missing from her room for a half hour, according to Mrs. Bradley. The mother said that the girl was crying, that her clothes were torn and that she had dirt and debris on her back. She indicated that the man entered the restroom behind her, clapped his hand over her mouth and threw her to the floor.

Harbor Workers Get CIO Charter

The Government and Civic Employes Union, CIO, held a meeting Wednesday night to install a charter for a local of county employes at the Harbor General Hospital, according to Luther A. Merriweather, national representative of the union.

These workers were formerly affiliated with the United Public Workers, which was expelled from the CIO on allegations that it was Communist controlled.

Merriweather, retired city employe, commenting on the split in affiliation among county employes, stated: "This would perhaps not have happened had my fellow city employes accepted my advice as early as 1949 that the UPW would be expelled because of Communist domination.

There are about 80 employes in the new CIO Harbor unit, out of a total of approximately 120 workers in the hospital.

Demand End Of Ban Against Dr. Bethune

ENGLEWOOD, N. J.—The absurd action of the Board of Education in banning Dr. Mary McCleod Bethune from use of one of its schools last week on the fantastic grounds that she is "subversive" has brought forth scathing protests and a demand to "bring Mrs. Bethune back to Englewood."

Walter White, executive secretary of the NAACP, has also formally requested the chairman of the Board of Education, William J. Fitzpatrick, for use of the school auditorium for an address by Mrs. Bethune under auspices of the Bergen County branch of the NAACP.

The action, together with circulation of a petition to retract the ban against Dr. Bethune, has been endorsed by a widely-supported Citizens Committee, formed immediately following announcement of the outrage.

Dr. Bethune was barred from a speaking engagement when the Englewood Anti-Communist League protested her appearance on the ground that she allegedly belonged to 22 organizations officially listed as subversive.

The cancelled meeting had been sponsored by Negro post of the American Legion, which hastily withdrew its sponsorship when the dread word "Red" was whispered.

Dr. Bethune, one of the best known and most widely honored Negro women in the United States, indignantly spurned the request that she "prove" her loyalty. She said that her whole life of 76 years was proof of her views, and proceeded to give her talk at a privately sponsored meeting at one of the local churches.

A. P. Randolph Stoned in Japan

TOKYO — A. Philip Randolph, president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, together with Socialist leader Norman Thomas, was stoned by workers during the angry anti-American and anti-government May Day demonstration in Tokyo.

Randolph and Thomas were scheduled to speak before a large crowd of unionists in Meiji Park, but members of the thousands present did not distinguish between friend and foe among foreigners.

The two were surrounded by police and saved from bodily harm.

Oklahoma City to Welcome NAACP 43rd Conference

NEW YORK—The 43rd annual convention of the NAACP is scheduled for Oklahoma City, June 24-29.

Principal speakers at the five-day conference will be Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, and Walter P. Reuther, president of the United Automobile Workers, CIO.

Administrator Roy Wilkins will deliver the keynote address, while Walter White, executive secretary, will address the closing mass meeting Sunday, June 29.

Also speaking at the convention will be Rev. James Robinson of the Church of the Master, New York, who recently returned from a world tour, and Dr. Louis T. Wright, director of surgery at Harlem Hospital and chairman of the NAACP board of directors.

Urban League Will Convene in Cleveland

NEW YORK—"Building Better Human Relations Is Everybody's Business" will be the theme of the National Urban League's 1952 Annual Conference in Cleveland, Ohio, September 1-5, it was announced this week by Lloyd K. Garrison, president. Over 1,000 delegates are expected to attend.

Last time the nation's oldest interracial socil service agency working for equal economic opportunity for Negroes met in Cleveland was in 1924 when it had 42 local affiliates. Only 26 of these had offices and staffs, according to Lester B. Granger, executive director. This year, the league has affiliates in 60 cities and 30 states. Guichard Parris, director of the department of promotion and publicity, will serve as conference secretary.

Host to the conference will be the Cleveland Urban League, of which William O. Walker, editor and publisher of "The Cleveland Call-Post," is president. Arnold B. Walker is executive secretary of the host affiliate. Edward L. Worthington, former president of the Cleveland Urban League, will be host chairman. Headquarters will be at the Hotel Hollenden.

Nationally - known speakers will address the sessions. A panel of six experts in the fields of press, radio, television, publicity, advertising and public relations will discuss practical methods of telling the Urban League story.

The conference will hold small group meetings in order to assure better individual participation in deliberations and discussions of league activities in health, housing, comunity services, industrial relations and vocational guidance.

totally covered with third-degree burns, the hospital reported, and a few hours later little Pamella died.

The accident occurred about noon Sunday, in a shack at the rear of the family home, 859 E. 52nd street. The building was usually kept locked, but Mrs. Watson had left the door open after taking clean clothes into the shack from the nearby clothesline.

Immediately after the tragedy, Mrs. Watson was so hysterical that she was unable to tell police what had happened.

On Monday, however, she told an Eagle reporter that Pamella had only been out of the house about 10 minutes. She was playing with the little girl next door the last time her mother saw her outside. Then Mrs. Watson heard the screams.

She believed Pamella must have found some matches somewhere, and not realizing what would happen, lighted them.

The child's father, Chauncy Watson, is employed as a garage worker. They have four other children, aged 7 to 14. Pamella was the baby.

The Angelus Funeral Home is handling the burial.

The college followed with an announcement that it discourages interracial marriages "because they present extra problems which may be almost insurmountable in the civilization of today."

The conductor admitted that he couldn't identify the pair but insisted that he had secured their car license number as they sped from the robbery. Under Taylor's cross examination he admitted that there might be a doubt as to his ability to memorize the number in his excitement.

Man Fights Return To Ga. Chain Gang

NEW YORK—George Clabon, who escaped after serving 12 years on a Georgia Chain gang for a crime he claims he never committed, faces a court fight here May 19 to prevent his extradition to a living death.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey has already signed extradition papers. The hearing is being held in an attempt to halt the proceedings.

Claybon gives his story in a signed statement, released this week.

"My name is George Claybon, a fugitive from a Georgia chain gang," he states.

Am Innocent

"I was convicted of murder, but I am innocent.

"On the night of Feb. 5, 1938, in the summer resort town of St. Simon's Island, Georgia, a white minister, the Rev. Dr. Charles H. Lee was shot to death while fighting vice in the town. He was the second cousin of Civil War Gen. Robert E. Lee.

"The police held me seven days and nights without sleep, threatened me with death and forced me to sign a false confession saying I was hired to kill Rev. Lee by the men I worked for, Harry and W. H. Cofer who owned an inn called "The Brass Rail.

"There were footprints near Rev. Lee's body of a size 8 shoe. I wear size 10½. Police figured the bullet angle and said the murderer was 5 feet, 2 inches high. I am 6 feet tall. Although they said I killed Gen. Lee's cousin, the judge recommended mercy and sentenced me to life in jail.

Sweated It Out

"For 12 years I sweated it out on the chain gangs. When I was eligible for parole they refused it because they claimed I was "a good cook." Finally, last June I escaped.

"The New York police seized me. Governor Dewey signed a paper sending me back to the Georgia chain gang. I am fighting to stay in New York because I am innocent of any crime.

"I did not kill Rev. Lee. I know nothing about who killed him. But my lawyers have legal proof to show how they framed me for his murder.

Frame-Up

"That story has never been told till now! Here it is: They convicted me on the say-so of a white couple, Grady and Carrie Stevens. This pair said they saw the Cofers give me money and a gun to kill Dr. Lee. That was a lie. Here is the truth:

"Grady and Carrie Stevens were caught breaking into "The Brass Rail." They confessed to other burglaries and were sent to jail for seven years. Chief L. O. Godwin and Sheriff G. M. Owens quizzed them about Rev. Lee's murder and they said they knew nothing. Police listened to their private talk over a dictaphone and they never once mentioned the Lee murder.

"But nine months later they knew all about it! They were star witnesses against me. Why?

Boasted of Deal

"Convict B. F. Etheridge knew Stevens in jail. He states that Stevens boasted he had made a deal. He bragged that he would get out of jail for good and win the $1500 reward money if he lied about the murder.

"That is why he lied. His wife has a police record of an indictment for robbing a drunken man, two for drunk and reckless driving, three for loitering and one for larceny. On the word of these people they sent me to jail for life!

"Witnesses in the Brass Rail that night in 1938 have sworn that I got no money or gun and that the Cofers did not leave the inn all night. But the night watchman, E. B. Lewis, says Grady Stevens had a gun that night "to kill a dog." He left his wife and came back later out of breath, saying "he wasn't home." When Carrie Stevens robbed the drunken man, one of the things she stole was a gun.

"All this is not hearsay. It is not rumor. My lawyers have it down in sworn affidavits and depositions.

"I am fighting to keep from being sent back to Georgia. My hearing comes up May 19 but the court can only rule on technical things. The only thing that can free me is the protests of people like you.

"Fourteen years is a long time to suffer for no reason. You can help me."

New Yorker Selected as Catholic 'Mother of Year'

Mrs. Thomas, 48, is the mother of 10 children. Her husband is a former president of the Catholic Layman's Union of New York.

Announcement of the choice was made by Dr. Edgar Schmiedeler, director of the National Catholic Welfare Conference family life bureau, in Washington.

NAACP Hits Walker Case Fund Racket

RIVERSIDE—Unauthorized groups and individuals are attempting to use the case of Sgt. Lawrence Walker, air-force sergeant recently sentenced to life imprisonment for murder, to raise funds, it was charged by Franklin H. Williams, Regional Director of the NAACP last week.

"Sgt. Walker has requested the NAACP and the NAACP alone to provide legal counsel for his appeal," Williams stated. "No other group has authority to raise money for his appeal. I understand that an alleged Walker Defense Committee has been appealing to the public for funds. This committee has no authority to do so and are not utilizing such money for Walker's appeal. Attorney Crispus Wright has been retained by the Association to prosecute Walker's appeal. The NAACP is paying him and the general public will not be assisting in this effort by giving money to anyone other than an official NAACP representative."

New Orleans Y Sets New Record

NEW ORLEANS—The New Orleans YMCA membership campaign enrolled 1835 members and totaled $6,927 in cash. C. L. Speaker, popular Washington High instructor, spearheaded the drive. He was supported by A. Holtry, president of the Good Citizens Insurance Company and R. B. De Franz of New York.

BAILEY MEETS BOARD—Consolidated Realty Board presented its first quarterly program which sponsored a report to the community from the NAACP on the Dunsmuir avenue bombings at St. Paul church Sunday. Greeting new executive secretary, Lester Bailey, are board members Andre Vaughn, Florence Nukes, Clarence English, Wesley J. Fairchild, board president; Dr. E. J. Robinson, Bailey and Mayme G. Lewis. Anti-Housing Plea Branded 'Big Lie'

Terming arguments against the city's ten thousand unit low cost public housing program as "the big lie," four community leaders this week joined to urge a "Yes" vote on Proposition B on the June 3 ballot. Approximately 2500 of the units will be located in South Los Angeles and at 55th and Long Beach streets. All projects are open to eligible persons without reference to race or color.

Dr. Vada Sommerville, Dr. E. J. Robinson, George A. Beavers, Jr., and Wesley R. Brazier teamed up with organized labor, church groups, veteran organigations, women's clubs, civic committees and businessmen in the fight to uphold the public housing contract for Los Angeles.

The committee announced this week that its main purpose is to bring the "true facts to correct the false impressions which have been left by the many lies which have been spread against this program."

The announcement of the formation of the committee pointed out that the anti-housing members of the City Council seem determined to levy a 13 million dollar tax load on the taxpayers of the City as well as deny its citizens the means by which to clear the slums and provide decent, healthful homes for low income families.

"It is strange," the announcement said, "that never in the discussions in the City Council has it been stated that the costs of public housing—which have been badly exaggerated—are to be paid entirely from money appropriated by the Federal Government, while the 13 million dollars will come immediately out of the pocket of the local taxpayer."

In commenting on the formation of the committee, Wesley R. Brazier, executive director of the Urban League said: "I am happy to join with the Committee in urging every American citizen who believes in the American way of life to vote "yes" on Proposition B. The highest court in our State has said that it is unlawful to break this contract.

Sengstacke Buys New York Age

NEW YORK — John H. Sengstacke, owner of the Chicago Defender, on Monday of this week became the publisher of Harlem's New York Age, one of the oldest Negro newspapers in the country.

Opie McCollum was named the new managing editor.

Sengstacke said negotiations for the weekly were completed with Richard Bourne-Vanneck, former editor and publisher, only a few days ago, but did not disclose the purchase price.

Bourne-Vanneck bought the Age in 1948, reportedly for a sum in the neighborhood of $130,000.

ganized in 1926. In 1936, Reynolds was appointed Grand Director.

"Every year we spend ten to fifteen thousand dollars in litigation, fighting segregation and discrimination. The case outlawing jimcrow dining cars, and the case outlawing restrictive covenants, we had a hand in," Reynolds said proudly.

"Now we want to expand the department, put is on a full-time basis so we can meet any emergency. Right now we have several special investigators working on the Harry Moore case in Florida," Reynolds declared.

"We've got to be a live working organization, as well as a secret one, and we are accomplishing this through our work in civil liberties and our fight for equalization of opportunities. Our Grand Exalted Ruler, Robert H. Johnson, has pledged to go all-out to make this the strongest department in the Elks organization."

Reynolds outlined the "block system" of registration inaugurated by his department. "We find an Elk in every block and put them to work getting people out to register. It has worked wonders in the South, where the problem of registration is very acute. In Mississippi we tripled the registration."

Reynolds left Tuesday for Phoenix where he will attend the Pacific States Association convention.

Vote Yes on Proposition B

Although the outcome of the vote on June 3 can have no effect on the city's ten thousand unit low cost housing program it is apparent that opponents of public housing are determined to take a poll of the citizens.

The reason for their anxiety to hold an election on an issue that is already settled by the decision of the California Supreme Court is that they believe that they can roll up a majority against the proposition.

They can get that majority because they have thousands, even hundreds of thousands, of dollars to spend and they figure that they can buy the votes they want.

That isn't to say that the average voter, or any voter for that matter, is going to be offered a dollar or ten dollars for his vote or that his ballot is for sale. What it does mean is that many voters are going to be taken in by catchy slogans and idle words. The public housing program is already smeared as socialistic. The voters are being told that a vote for public housing is a vote to pay somebody else's rent. Those who favor public housing haven't got the money or the resources to meet this campaign of slander.

We would like to point out again that the interest of Negro voters lies in the support of Proposition B on the June ballot. We know very well that there are short term considerations that seem to militate against that view but we would like to point out that the need for housing among Negroes, and members of other minority groups is very great. That need exists to a large extent because of the discriminatory policies pursued by private contractors and builders. For its part, the Housing Authority admits all citizens to public developments on the basis of need and eligibility.

There are the additional facts that if the projects are not built the citizens of this city are going to have to pay out thirteen million dollars in damages. That money will come from the pockets of taxpayers.

Whether the issue is viewed from the standpoint of our special racial problems or from that of our status as citizens and taxpayers it is apparent that we have everything to gain and nothing to lose by support of the housing program. That means Vote Yes on Proposition B when you go to the polls on June 3.

How to Help Reds

The barring of Mrs. Mary McLeod Bethune from a New Jersey auditorium on the grounds that she is a "red" illustrates the degree to which hysteria has replaced reason in the current excitement about Communists.

Mrs. Bethune is one of America's most distinguished women, regardless of race. Her story of success reads like a Horatio Alger yarn. She overcame a mountain of obstacles in her long climb to eminence and she did it by always insisting on her rights as an American citizen.

In the very nature of things, Mrs. Bethune spoke out time and again against injustice, against racial prejudice, against segregation, against the rights of Negroes on the basis of race. The Communists have pretended from time to time that they, too, are opposed to those same evils and those who charge that Mrs. Bethune is a "red" base their case on the fact that at times she and the Communists were on the same side of a specific issue. It is this kind of confusion that helps the Communists. When it suits their purposes they can make loud outcries against the denial of civil rights to Negroes.. It is silly, and worse, to brand as a Communist the Negro, or the honest white person for that matter, who is genuinely opposed to denial of civil rights and civil liberties just because the Reds have taken a similar stand from time to time.

Segregation, injustice, racial prejudice and the ills that trail in their wake are facts in American life. They must be opposed. Those like Mrs. Bethune who oppose them are the real benefactors of our democratic way of life. The rooting out of these evils will give democracy added strength. Their persistence will rob it of vigor.

Patronize Your Grocer

There is a small business man in your neighborhood who owns a grocery store. Ordinarily, he sells all kinds of sundries in addition to his groceries. Most of you run by and patronize him every once in a while —when the larger markets are closed or when you want him to do you a special favor.

We think that this grocer of yours deserves better of you than the smattering of patronage that he gets. Maybe he doesn't have all of the items that the chains have to offer. Maybe he is out of another item on an occasion or two. And incidentally, those small failings can be charged to your failure to patronize him.

What that grocer does have to offer is standard articles at standard prices. He doesn't charge you any more for those items. The quality is the same as for that same article purchased at a super market.

Why not give your small neighborhood grocer a break? He is the fellow who helps support the neighborhood church, who contributes to the YMCA, the YWCA and the NAACP. He is part of your community and you turn to him for support on community enterprises. Help him support you by supporting him.

Limiting Immigration

The busybodies who promote racism never tireo f their work. The latest snide move in that direction is the attempt to limit West Indian immigration to a small number each year.

West Indians have been coming to the United States in large numbers for the past half century.

A large number of these West Indian immigrants have played important and praiseworthy roles in American life. They're among our leading professional and business men in many parts of the country. There is no sound reason why West Indian immigration should be limited as is proposed in the latest immigration bill.

The underlying reason for the attempt to clamp down is the fact that most of these West Indian immigrants are Negroes. The Dixiecrats don't want them here; they would like to exclude all persons of African descent in the same manner that Orientals have been excluded for so many years and for the same reasons.

A letter or a postal card to your Congressmen and Senators will help defeat this pending legislation.

Our Changing Times

There is no better commentory on our changing times than the news that the University of Missouri has hired a Negro on its teaching staff.

The battle to secure graduate and professional training for Negroes began with a suit against that university ten years ago. At that time Missouri barred Negroes from its state law school and maintained no such institution for them. It was in that case that the Supreme Court laid the foundations for later rulings that have resulted in the admission of more than a thousand Negroes to state colleges and universities in the South.

A decade ago Missouri was spending thousands of dollars to keep Negroes out of its state university. Now it has hired a Negro to teach white and Negro Missourians. You can write your own comment.

Roy Wilkins'

The Watch Tower

Millions of words have been spoken and written on the lack of unity among American Negroes who are, by and large, in a position of second class citizenship in a land whose constitution, federal laws, and ideals provide for first class citizenship for all.

Get any 100 of the dark Americans into a room, and while you may get agreement of a sort on what the Negro suffers, you will get at least twenty different ideas on what he should do about it. There is little unity in program and action among America's largest minority.

A recent issue of LIFE magazine drove home this point with a photograph, not of an American scene, but a South African one. It showed the empty grandstand seats which had been reserved for the natives in Johannesburg, South Africa, for the celebration of the 300th anniversary of the arrival of white men in the country. A few natives were underneath the stands, peeping out between the boards for a glimpse of the affair, but the stands themselves were empty. No native walked in the gate and was ushered to, and sat in, the special Jim Crow section.

For the natives, the celebration only reminded them of the inequalities and cruelties which the whites had brought with them. It reminded them of rigid segregation, white supremacy, economic exploitation, disease, murder, lynching. Why should they sit in a Jim Crow section to celebrate such? They stayed home.

The action of these natives is in sharp contrast to the conduct of Negroes in the United States. Here many of us go cheerfully, even gaily, to places where we are humiliated and mistreated. All down through the years until it was eliminated in about 1945, Negroes in St. Louis bought tickets to a Jim Crow open air bleacher section in Sportsman Park to watch the St. Louis Cardinals play baseball. No matter how distinguished or how able to pay, these dark St. Louis citizens could not buy a seat in the covered grandstand section, yet year after year they humbled themselves. And if a visitor should make a slighting remark about the Cardnals or the policy of the park, Negro St. Louis fans would want to tear him apart.

Each football season sees hundreds of Negroes throughout the South fighting to buy tickets in the Jim Crow sections to watch games between teams of colleges that do not admit Negro students and that never had a Negro on their teams.

No one has forgotten that in 1928 the Negro delegates to the Democratic National Convention in Houston were Jim Crowed behind a chicken-wire fence. At about the same time local Republicans in Kansas City had actually planned a county rally with white party workers to sit on one side of the hall and Negroes on the other. The plan was abandoned when a few Negroes with more backbone than palm-itch lodged a protest.

As long as we, ourselves, by our own actions, accept second class treatment, we will never get first class treatment. Years ago Negro parents in a Pennsylvania township kept their children out of school for an entire semester when the school board barred them from a newly-built school. Some went to jail rather than pay truancy fines. Their children finally were admitted. However, instances like this are few and far between. How much farther ahead we might be if they were a firm racial policy!

The South African natives don't drive Cadillacs. They don't own town houses and country homes. They don't walk on broadloom carpeting and drink imported whiskies. Their wives do not wear fur coats and luxuriate in two or more tiled baths. But they are wiser than their dark brothers in America. They know that these things do not make men. They know that no matter how dark the hour, how brutal the physical treatment, or how far the climb to the top one cannot win the respect of others until one has self-respect.

Lester B. Granger's

Battle Axe & Bread

One of these columns a couple of months ago referred to the chronic ineptitude of our State Department in handling racial issues that are constantly brought out by Communist propagandists here and abroad in a shrewd plan to weaken American prestige. The column pointed out that the State Department will never be able to satisfactorily to answer such propaganda as long as our diplomatic service itself is dishonest on the issue. State's attempted strategy is to pretend that racial discrimination and legalized bigotry doesn't exist in this country. When this strategy fails, our diplomats seek to answer hostile propagandists by talking about slave camps in Russia.

It is the most puerile and ineffectual strategy to be imagined. Of course Soviet Russia maintains slave camps on a scale that matches Hitler's record.. Of course Chinese Communists, by their own statements, have stage-managed mammoth lynch-courts and executed their helpless victims by the tens of thousands. But to depend upon mere countercharges to silence anti-American propaganda on the subject of racial discrimination is as unconstructive a procedure as the argument that one Harlem urchin gives to another: "You is the ugliest!"

The disillusioned peasant in India or the Far East—in North or South Africa, Latin America or South Europe—doesn't want to know which is "the ugliest," Russia or the U.S.A. He wants to know where in the world he can turn in hopes of finding an example of democratic government such as the Voice of America is always describing. When charges are made that our propaganda is phony on the race issue, and our diplomatic gentlemen start talking about the price of their television sets instead of answering the charges, Communism scores a victory that we don't need to cede.

For instance, earnest researchers and public relations specialists are busy digging up "interracial situations" in various parts of the country and describing them in pamphlets and radio transcriptions in an effort to refute charges that Negroes are legally segregated in the U.S.A. Not so long ago Jesse Owens was "put on the air" to refute an absurd Communist canard that had him serving as a doorman at a 52nd street night club. That's a classic case of using a cannon to shoot a sparrow. The Owens story was concocted to prove a point. The fact that the story was a lie is of less importance than the point that Negro workers with better-than-average training are frequently forced, because of their race, into worse-than-average jobs. But this point, the Voice of America didn't touch.

It is not mere stupidity that accounts for such evasion of the red issue. It is more apt to be political cowardice when it is not downright political immorality. State Department has Senator McCarthy and his houndpack yelping at its heels. It is afraid to unleash an infuriated Dixiecrat pack to join in the baying chorus. Thus, the diplomat lads carefully refrain from admitting what literate people throughout the world have long known, and illiterates are beginning to learn—that the Talmadges and Rankins of Southern politics are the antithesis of Democracy, and that Jim Crow laws and customs show how far we have to go before we attain the status of a democratic nation.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Sir:

I've read both articles in your paper of Mrs. Stevenson's and Samuel K. Richberg, about Alaska.

First, I want to thank Mrs. Stevenson for bringing to the light the actual facts on living conditions of the Negro in Anchorage, Alaska. She has seen living conditions just as I've seen them and many others whom I have talked with who will not write in to tell you about it which is rather disghsting.

"Shacks and Bunk Houses" are the correct names for the places we have to live in here unless we are a very lucky person, then we would be able to get a room with cooking privileges. There are about from 6 to 12 Bunk beds in one room here in some of the bunk houses. The beds or cots rent for from $12.50 to $15.00 per person per bed per week. Which means that there are from 6 people up in one room. The room sizes range from 12x14 up. Whereas your facilities are usually on the outside of the house. One room with cooking privileges rents from $25.00 UP. Yes, there are Gov. Apartments gov. workers can rent. 3 rooms unfurnished for $125.00 per month and UP.

I for one happened to SEE the CASHIER WANTED sign at the window of the Bus Terminal. Underneath, written in PENCIL was WHITE ONLY. I inquired as to why this was written on the sign and the lady at the window told me "Because so many Negroes had applied for the job." Of a population as great as ours we have only two Negro bus drivers. This statement too, I have other witnesses.

Does he also know that in certain parts of Anchorage I have answered ads in newspapers on houses, rooms, cabins and trailers for rent and have been told that it is a restricted area and that they are afraid to rent to me because of the neighbors.

So, Mr. Samuel Richberg, again I remark, I wish you would please leave the base for awhile and attend some of the meetings of the NAACP or the Progressive Club meetings and you will find that Mrs. Stevenson is the one who is very truthful and has nerve enough to bring it out in print hoping that it will awaken people like you so that you can come on in and help us make this a much more democratic place in which to live.

I am not personally acquainted with Mrs. Stevenson but I certainly would like to meet her. My wife and I have seen her and Mr. Stevenson at all of the meetings but have not had the opportunity of meeting her personally. Would you please tell us how we can contact them here in Anchorage? Thank you very much in advance.

Yours truly,
Mr. and Mrs. Richard D. Gordon

Sponsor of the services was Mrs. L. Kinney, church secretary, aided by Missionary S. Williams, and officials of the church.

No man is poor who has had a godly mother.

Methodists End Racial Barriers

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif.—The Methodist General Conference, meeting in its quadrennial session here, took the first step Saturday toward removing jurisdictional racial lines which have caused the denomination to be under unending criticism since 1939.

On recommendation of the Committee on the State of the Church, the conference voted unanimously to permit a congregation in the Central (all-Negro) jurisdiction to become a member of the geographical (white) jurisdiction in which it is located, on mutual consent of the annual, quarterly, and jurisdictional conferences involved, and finally on vote of the following General Conference.

The "round about" procedure proved to be the only constitutional way in which integration could be effected. At present, the Central Jurisdiction covers or touches three-fourths of the country, over-lapping practically all of the five geographical jurisdictions.

Among the hundreds of petitions asking the end of segregation was one presented by Dr. Hobart B. Amstutz, president of Trinity College in Singapore.

"I hate this discrimination," Dr. Amstutz said in discussing his group's resolution. "It was a shock to come back here, walk into a church and see that everyone was white. This whole problem of the American attitude toward the Negroes is a great puzzle to everyone in Asia. 'Why come out to Asia,' they ask, 'when you don't clean up the mess in your own country.'

"I am absolutely opposed to discrimination. . . . On the way here I visited Washington, D. C., and I can tell you it was a strange sensation to visit the Lincoln Memorial and read all those fine words and then go to the churches and see nothing but white faces."

In another controversial session, the unofficial Methodist Federation for Social Action was asked by the conference to delete "Methodist" from its name and to vacate its offices in the New York Methodist Building.

The Rev. Dr. Henry Crane of Detroit, spoke against the adopted majority report saying that "very precious principles are involved."

"The practical result of passage would be to issue a general threat to any sort of deviation and to fasten upon the church the curse of uncritical conformity."

"Nothing," he added, "could be worse right now than succumbing to the present tendency to shut up dissenters."

Bishop Willis J. King, of Liberia, Africa, is eligible for assignment to one of the episcopal areas in the United States, according to a ruling declared by the Judicial Council (Methodism's "Supreme Court") at the April 30 morning session.

Bishop King was elected at the Central Jurisdictional Conference in Greensboro, N. C. in 1944, specifically "for service in Liberia." Because of this, the opinion has he could not serve an area in prevailed among churchmen that this country. The same situation affected two white bishops of the church, Bishop Newell Booth, of South Africa, and Paul N. Garber, of Geneva, Switzerland, both of whom may be assigned to United States areas under the Judicial Council's ruling.

BLACK AND WHITE Triple Strength BLEACHING CREAM Triple Strength

A very, very prominent member of the realtors' association that sells numbers of the plush homes in our bomb area, is madder than a wet hen. It seems as though he gave a friend some loot to take care of a traffic ticket. The said friend had other use for the loot it appeared. We don't know if Ofcs. Dunbar Hunt and Hannibal, the nemesis of the warrant violators, served papers on him or not. At any rate, he was a much surprised young man when it happened last week. After contacting his friend about the matter he learned what happens when you trust a buddy to pay a $10 ticket. It's gonna cost him $65.

Juicy Par-Eminent

The much denied marriage rift between the big social wheel and his attractive wife is just about ready for the court. He is using all his charms and skill in attempting to get wifie to hold the fire. It's election year and he figures for a high California appointment if his man succeeds in landing the Washington, D. C. job come November. Wifie may think this point over since she has—so she claims—taken so much from hubby. She can also think of the days when she was just an ordinary nice looking person and not at the crest of our so-called society. According to persons close to her, she loves the position. Then, too, she's not too old to play!

Deadline U.S.A.

A 20th Century Fox production done up in grand style by the BOGART - HUNTER - BARRYMORE great acting ability. We recommend it highly for the Negro angle, because the Eagle is "Day," and the editor could easily be S. W.

BILLIE HOLIDAY, the pretty brownskin gal, and the nation's best when it comes to making a tune sound crazy good, is making the 4200 block on CENTRAL AVE. a happy spot. She's greater than ever and looking like the beauty she is. Owner Joe Morris should do right well with the Lady Day this run. Better catch this show at the Club Alabam. That dapper young westside atty who sent the young lady one dozen red roses, is the talk among the legal set. The brief case boys rule that it would be very interesting to be buried in red roses.

Two Points

The frat gang is buzzing about the little incident that occurred the other eve involving a westside deb who got trapped with mother's boyfriend. Mother was boiling inside but appeared a graceful lady because hubby was along. Watch the morgue for developments. Mother took a shot at another fellow a few years ago. IKE JONES, the UCLA footballer, is making passes at our society editor and she ain't missing 'em.

Inside Job

Pretty Sue Jones, the victim of silk stocking bandits, can start by checking her friends. Who would know her movements and the amount of money she carries and for how long? The finger was pointed at Sue by her darling buddies, for the hams that pulled the job were handed all the drawings about Sue and her movements that night as well as the amount of money she would be hauling.

Poodle Dog Set

Maurice's swank Jefferson Avenoo ladies beauty center, one of the popular charm houses, won't be if certain operators are not careful about their business. It seems that the women customers are resenting the presence of men when they are having their wigs treated. Especially when the visitors are "chalk." ... You know how that is!

Bonus Baby

Albert Chism, the old 28th Street YMCA basketballer, is boasting about his young son and his baseball ability. The 9-year-old is a regular member of the junior American kid baseball league. He is a little demon in the outfield and hits a long ball. Albert is his best coach.

Say It Isn't So

The grapevine out USC way has it that ADDISON HAWTHORN, the school's first sepia player, isn't a bit pleased about the way they are treating him. In fact, things are so bad he is thinking about leaving the school. Wonder if USC is really ready for the integration program?

Sipping With Spurs

The Silver Spurs Riding Club's Wilfandel House champagne sip last Sunday is the talk among the social set. The gals really turned on the mob with lots of class and charm. President Howe, Mignon Spencer and Lenora Lewis are three members we would like to get stranded with in a dark, deserted bridle-path. Pray tell how in the e'll did that Roach, Hancock team get in the act? A lousy political hustle.

Fast Company

That little Mt. Vernon 14-year-old is traveling in awful fast company. She is an entry in the coming Miss Bronze contest. The officials better check her age before the event comes off or the juvenile authorities will make it hotter than her name sounds, which is what comes in the Hills Bros. can.

IT WAS ALMOST—In our hands sighed Kappa party-goers as they soulfully admire trophy which they missed by a long shot. This gay group met at the Kastle, celebrated near victory. Guests milled throughout the house while Gloria Person, Gerald Strange, George Brown, Tony Adams, David Reed, Artis Saunders, Ruth Thompson, Attorney Dave Lee and George Granberry reminisced.

Fraternities Serve Many After Game

Many a weary head throbbed Sunday morning following the mad rounds of parties and breakfasts held in houses throughout the city after the Interfraternity basketball championship game at Loyola gymnasium.

Fashionably dressed maidens and nattily attired squires were seated about two thousand deep, watching, screaming and jumping during thse fast moving game. Betty and Bob Lee, without Stephanie, found a minimum of space to join in the swing of thing, offering encouragement to their idols, the Kappas.

Forcing his team onward was Lambert Green. Chiming in were the Samuel Marlowes, Prosper and Stella Bullin, Lloyd and Ella Courtney, John Merrill, Frank Beck and Cathy Schaffer attracted attention with clever roots and toots.

Winning and losing fraternities invited guests to drink toasts for next year's success after the barrage of balls. Alphas, Omegas, Sigmas and Kappas entertained until the early hours and climaxed with good eating.

BILL SMALLWOOD

Hobson Reynolds arrived Friday, been on the go ever since and assures all their many local friends that he will indeed remember to take each and every message of greeting home to Evelyn. With the Atlantic City assembly of Elkdom this summer I know the Reynolds' house in Philly will be busier than Pershing Square garage at rush hour. To Europe: Kelsey Pharr, Ivan Harold Browning's sister, Margaret Ann, a patient in Good Samaritan. Clara Fentress' regal mother leaves for an extended trip back East on the 18th. She will visit her other daughter Ann and her family in Alabama while covering the land. In town: Ex-Portlander Bill Allen. At his brother and sister-in-law's, the Bob Allens (Dottie). Brother Bob quit his Watkins Hotel managerial post the other day. Is in business now with his alert wife.

The William Bantons entertained the Cross and Crown club Saturday night at their recently acquired Rimpau Blvd. place. Petite Gerri Ellis, a County Civil Service employee now. Their daughter must be all of a ripe ten years old now. Gosh, time! Sam Harris did it again. One of his floral headdresses won the cup as the most exotic in the recent Las Floristas annual ball at the Biltmore. That's a new car the Stafford Lotts are in these bright May days. Rev. Damon P. Edna McCormick and Lucille Roach, deep sea fishing, and sporting fans, La Baker hadn't been in town a hot minute (Friday) before she was attraction center of a luncheon. Meanwhile she's ecstatically happy being able to hug Haroldine and Bob Brewington in person since this is her first chance to see them since their wedding which La Baker couldn't attend. Bill Goward will introduce the hostesses and the debutante herself at the Janice Shelby coming out party next Saturday night at Golden State auditorium. Janice's fifteen deb friends and their escorts will gather beforehand at the Shelby House on Manhattan Place. What's All This?

The mystery story surrounding the story about the pretty and wolf is thawing out. Pretty, as you probably know, disappeared after the Alphas' deal at the Ambassador. The wolf who followed soon after supposedly joined her in parts east. Reliable sources say they got hitched. But how could this be, when she's already married?

Was It Love?

What woman (a top flight magazine cover girl last year) gave up supporting one of the lovely socialite entrants in the Miss Bronze LA contest?

Some say we're not too cool,
Bue we live by the rule.
We quote, "Only a fool is cool."

Sob Story

Who is the fellow who was once pleased with the invalidity of his Tiajuana marriage but now that one of his rivals has stepped into the picture he tries anything to avenge himself? And is continually reminding her of their brief married life. As if it mattered to her.

"Never Lose Your Coolness"

Said the judge to the popular young deb who met up with him on account of she was caught posing for some of those stagnastys.

David Reed has something good on the line, Vanola McHatten? If so, where does Artis Saunders fit in?

We wonder if Tony Sheen knows that a PRICE is the price that he must pay for Mary Ann Vandange?

Wonder if Jimmy McMickens stands a chance with Rhae Tate? Heard she was sorta eying Louis Grant.

What's to the story of the celebrating Omegas who were bounced out of a downtown bar Saturday night.

Captivating Camille Roane has annexed a few beaus to her collection lately, the latest being Larry Adkins.

Uncle Sam got free hearted last Wednesday and handed out some long awaited walking papers to Eddie Roberts.

On the new couples list we find:

Judy Pico and Morris Taft.
Carl Clay and Barbara Bryant.
Fayette McCallister and Paul Westfield.

Congratulations to Mildred Mann and Donald Alvees who made it a permanent pair last Sunday.

We percieved via our air waves that Walter Smith is constantly talking about luscious Shirley Lee. Also noticed the big round eyes Rod Tompson has been making at Jan Shaw.

It's not confirmed but we think that Mike Mundy took that final step, the one that leads to the alter.

Hear that photographer Howard Morehead is still holding the torch for Zelita La Blanc, and vice versa.

Those hard playing Omegas are about the greatest team these scribblers have ever seen. The Way they snatched the crown from the grasping fingers of the Crimson and Creme boys brought out those crocodile tears.

And all this talk about love eyes between Peggy Sue Terry and Melvin Mansfield.

Loads of friends and beautiful gifts were received at the reception given in honor of the Hugh Colemans. The best of everything to a wonderful pair.

Scrollers Do It Again

Anybody that stopped by the Kappa Kastle Friday would know that the Scrollers are rapidly becoming the social monarchs again. Although stiff competition prevailed between the city's popular clubs, the red shirt boys pulled through with one of the best.

People Were Talking About

The large eyes Walter Smith had when his head was turned in Bev Winston's direction.

Wallace Wade and Sandra Shields who picked the most secluded court in the park on which to play tennis.—

Look out the HOUNDS are around.

VIVACIOUS—Dorothy Allredd, well known hair stylist is adding charms to Mary Wendel Hair Designing studio.

Dorothy Allredd Creates New, Unique Hair Styles

By MIRIAM CHRISTIAN.

I thought it would be worth my time to visit the Mary Wendell Hair Designing studio where vivacious Dorothy Allredd is back in the white uniform creating more glamourous hair styles than ever.

Dorothy, as you may remember, is the young energetic girl who created quite a furore a few years back when she satisfied many customers at Eadward's House of Charm. At that time her attention-gathering styles were easily detected by their unique, individual designs.

Giving up a widely known profession temporarily to care for her three-year-old son and to manage a lovely Westside home, she is now at the studio, located at 3812 S. Western avenue performing unbelievable miracles with short hair, long hair and just hair.

Knowing that my unsuspected drop-in would net me a complete hair treatment, I was surprised to find that the Allredd touch was greater than ever. Dorothy styled my hair in a creation she named "Black Activity." Waves and soft curls were piled above the nape with smooth Spanish ringlets on either side of the ears.

The exceptionally gifted stylist explained that this summer's fashions leaned toward Indian and oriental motifs. The style she gave me would blend well with the new fad now in fashion, she assured.

This girl knows the latest trends also, being an excellent seamstress, so her beauty information is boundless and priceless.

I am not going off the track to suggest that you readers phone her at RE 9536 and take advantage of a fresh, skilled outlook in any type of styling. Just ask for Dorothy, everyone will know who you mean.

Regular deadline for all social news is Tuesday of each week at 1 p.m. Pictures and articles must be in the office of the Eagle by 1 o'clock

EASTWARD BOUND—Foster Driver bids wife, Frances, goodbye as she trains out Tuesday evening for extended vacation with mother, Mrs. Frances Middleton. She will later visit the AME convention in Chicago before heading to New York. Mrs. Driver, up and coming star of movies, recently completed big part in film starring Virginia Mayo and Alan Ladd.

Local dancing society will rub shoulders with many out of town guests who have promised to be present, along with friends of stage, radio and screen.

Dance time 10 p.m. to 2 p.m.

Mothers Hear Tom Bradley

Tom Bradley, Regional polemark of Kappa Alpha Psi fraternity, addressed the Kappa Mothers at their monthly meeting last Sunday. Following the principal speaker, Gerald Strange, polemarch of Upsilon chapter delivered an interesting speech. Motion pictures taken in Germany, Switzerland, and France by Sylvia Griggs were shown.

New member presented on the occasion was Mrs. Myrtle Wallace.

Bill Smallwood

Balto.: Rev. Charles Briggs and his sister Mrs. Fairfax King. They attended the SF Methodist conference. In town but radiantly: Marion Jackson Downs and taking time to try to see everybody everywhere. She's impressed with the general change she finds in the ole place. En route east she will visit Austin, Texas, of course. Dr. N. Curtis King in town the other p.m. from his ranch says: "I just don't have time nor the urge any more to spend so much time in town socializing."

Seeing John (Our World) Davis in town certainly brings back memories with a reflective chuckle of FDR days in D. C. with the ever-changing cross section of briefcase carrying soul: I can see and hear John now at one of the many cocktail parties holding a glass securely while he theorized. And told some of the darndest funniest jokes on and off the record.

Newlyweds Mrs. Wilson Robinson (Shirley), daughter of the Jester Hairstons, will stay here while her husband is in Korea. The Robinsons wed on the 7th of last month. Sudden thought: You really have to admit it, there IS something to this business of the continental touch! Noting Dorothea Fearonce, Marion Jackson Downs and La Baker in town makes you realize this before-and-after routine more than has its merits, yup. In their individual ways they've "been done right well by" with European flair. All queries: Did Gladys Hampton ever find that diamond ring she misplaced? But, golly, what's one little ole diamond ring to her? They've always had me thinking she has brown paper bags of 'em.

Some L. A. folk who knew Zinky Cohn in Chi just learning of his recent death in that city. On the coast: Philander Smith College head Dr. M. L. Harris; Rev. Dubro Grisham of Nashville; Samuel Brown of Memphis; Rev. John Oliver of Hot Springs, Ark.; John Cullens of Little Rock; Dr. Samuel Sweeney of N. Y. C.; Dr. Robert Morris of Chicago; Dr. Charles Richmond and Beige Wyatt of St. Louis.

The Jackie Robinsons expecting their new family addition any minute now.

3 Hour Star Studded Revue – Sunday, May 11th, 3 to 8 P.M.

4215 So. Central

J. T. GIPSON

— FROM CAPITOL TO CORNFIELD —

IN ONE EAR AND OUT MY TYPEWRITER: Girls in Hollywood are dyeing their hair to match the paint job on their Cadillac convertibles. Honest! . . . Lillian Lee Lomax (our favorite Debeauty) and Dr. Overstreet Gray, the dentist, are on the verge of a merge. A friend of hers told a friend of mine and this friend of mine told me!

Clara Webb, lovely wife of the pharmacist, is one of the nicest persons God ever built! Her "hello there" is one of the Angel City's most cordial greetings.

Thelma Fortier, of San Francisco society, a vision of loveliness strollin' down the stem in figure-fondling attire. She'd be so nice to come home to. . . . Buddy Garcia (everybuddy's pal!) back at his desk in the Walter Gordon office following a short illness. He's the kinda guy you want your kid brother to grow up to be like!

NOTES FROM A NEWSBOY'S NOTEBOOK: Leon H. Washington Jr., whom we love dearly over at Our House, is much improved and planning a summer vacation fishing trip. . . . "Nubby," of the Bronzeville Crowd, is out of the Hosp. where he underwent surgery for the 2nd degree facial burns following an auto accident when the car in which he was riding overturned and burst into flames. His mother is popular in social circles.

Walter Collins, one of the city's most progressive young businessmen (and a handsome fella, to hear the debs argue it), returned home a coupla weeks ago following a vacation-visit to NY and other Eastern cities. . . . Aside to Felix Lewis and Chester Fortier: 'Hi, fellows! Nothing much happenin' in the burg. Same old two-faces. Hurry home, and tell all my Tex's cronies hello!

SCANNIN' THE NEWS TICKER TAPE: Opal Clinton, the modoll, is contemplating a colyumin' career. . . . Ray Rickman, grand guy and prince of good fellows, is studying to be another Louis Armstrong! . . . Dancer Bobby Grayson says he's going to Charm School so he can learn to walk with grace. (Who's Grace?) . . . Kid North, famed sportsman, holding court in front of the Dunbar Hotel. He's as popular as an Eckstine recording!

Attorney Walter L. Gordon Jr., nodding to acquaintances. He's never too busy for a friendly chit-chat with cronies. Prob'ly why he has more friends than a dollar bill! . . . Virginia Hill Hauser (the late Bugsby Siegel's gal-pal) now operates a gambling casino (with hubby Hans) in Acapulco.

The eyeful at the Bill Sampson B'dcast the other two in the morning was Marion Harrison, of the Soc. Reg. . . . If I owned a flower garden, I'd surely send a big bouquet of roses to Robert "Bob" Lewis, popular in Angel City b'siness-social circles. Bob is doing a swelingent job in General Insurance and rates your support. He takes his work seriously and knows his business. . . . The Sweet Young Things of Los Angeles are drinking Zombies. The s.y.t.o.l.a. are nuts.

PATROLLIN' THE BRONZEVILLE BEAT: Loveliest teachers are on the Nevin St. school faculty. . . . Ursula Parrot, the one-time famous writer, tells newsmen she's sleeping in the NY subways. Both luck and friends turned sour at the same time. When you're down and out something always turns up, and it's usually the nose of your friends!

Toni Harper sounds more like Ella than Ella. (Not complainin', just colyumin'.) . . . The week's most misearble news is the Jean Parks-Bob Howard split. They seem'd so devoted. . . . Florence Reddix (she's our favorite Doctor John M. Robinson's office assistant) and handsome Bud Marshall, the tonsorial artist, are thisclose. Don't bet against a merger.

One happy news item is sportsman Quincy Fork's decision to take his camera out of moth balls. One of the best news photogs in the burg, that boy is! We've handled many thrilling news assignments together, and Q. Fork has plenty on the ball. . . . They're always teaisng my pal Joey Adams, the very wonderful disc-jock. Chatting with chums at Dumas' drive-in the other ayem, Joe was telling pals his television sponsor was looking for a new channel for him. "Probably," Bill Sampson claw'd, "the English!"

THE WEAKLY NEWSREAL: Did yez know a street car conductor is really known as a "Vectorist?" (Neither did I, but I saw it somewhere the other evening in a borrowed book.) See, for 10c you get all kinds-a information! . . . Look for colyumist G. Gipson to change her name to Mrs. Elledge Penland, any edition now. . . . Crowds are beginning to flock to Carl Gipson's spacious Rest Haven resort. Swimming, riding and all kinds-a outdoor activities highlight a visit there. The guy is a perfect host and rates are reasonable. If this sounds like I'm trying to tip you to a sweligent place to vacation, then I have definitely managed to achieve my aim!! It's very restful at Rest Haven!

Aren't singer Ella Logan and hubby Fred Finkleroffe planning to call the whole thing off, or have they already? . . . The Jones Bros. Cleaners will open Store No. 2 (on Compton at 67th street) sometime during the summer months. Popular Bill, sharpest dressed lad in town (okay, one of the sharpest!) is his shop's BEST advertisement!

Got any personal problem? What is your lucky day? Does boy friend or girl friend love you? What is your lucky number? Should you buy or sell property? Change jobs?

You may ask any of these questions of Professor Desti after each stage show at the Bill Robinson Theatre nightly. See Prof. Desti describe any article while blindfolded. Hear him answer intimate questions dropped in a sealed box by members of audience. After a sensational cross-country tour, during which he visited all major cities from New York to California, Prof. Desti finally arrived in Los Angeles for his initial visit here.

Do not miss this opportunity to see him on the stage and to consult him on any personal problem. All this in addition to the regular screen program at no advance in prices.

Races and nationalities represented include German, Japanese, Mexican, Italian, Negro, Irish, Czechoslovakian, Scotch, Jewish and Norwegian. Ages of the singers range from 20 to40.

Mary Pickford Is Lauded As Being A Great Liberal

America's first "Sweetheart of the Screen," Mary Pickford, was a picture of personified graciousness and loveliness when she appeared as guest of honor a a male fashion show staged for the new metaphysical center at the beautiful Florentine Gardens. Popular Wini Orr acted as hostess and commentator for the occasion.

The center, known as the Church of Spiritual Revelation, is under the direction of Rev. S. S. Heyliager, a native of the Bahamas Islands. The Rev. Mr. Heyliager, it was learned, is an old friend of the Pickford household. Miss Pickford paid deep and personal respect to Rev. Heyliager, pointing out the fact that at an early age she had regarded him as a member of her family.

According to Charles Wherry, well-known Los Angeles businessman, Miss Pickford is scheduled to return to the screen soon to make a motion picture titled "The Library."

Big Time Show Now At Follies

Bobby Johnson, former dance member of the world famous Bon-Bon Buddies, is currently producing shows at the newly decorated Follies Theater on Main street. Show features a line of dancing beauties, comedians, and other top artists.

Negro In Movies A Postwar History

By L. DAVID
(Part Five)

In the year 1951, only seven pictures out of a total over the three hundred mark, included Negro representation in recognizeable roles. The decrease in the hard-hitting pictures about Negroes had begun to show itself. The two outstanding pictures were "The Well," and "The Harlem Globetrotters. Both pictures were made on small budgets, although "The Well' ran in-long rescue scenes at the end of the picture. "The Well," was a white makers to bring white and tic fashion.

("The Well," failed to bring a stampede response to the box-office despite good reception in Negro and critical audiences. However this should not discourage its white producers or be used as ammunition for those who point to the financial failure of "message pictures." "The Well," has to be judged against a time of public confusion — for without doubt by 1951 the general spirit and progressive drive of the large numbers of Americans had been slowed and partly confused and driven to cover by the cries of "Communist" raised against so many groups and movements.)

"Harlem Globetrotters" the film based on the famous basketball players of the same name was probably the most under-rated and unnoticed picture of 1951. It was released by Columbia Pictures as the bottom half of double feature bills. Undoubtedly this was done because its producer, Sidney Buchman, had refused to become a cooperative witness before the Un-American Committee proceedings and Columbia hoped to slip this picture out quickly and silently, making modest financial returns without chancing the film running its trouble with the American Legion and other groups now picketing the films.

"The Globetrotters," is an example of "do" as against "talking about Do." The picture, in showing the Globetrotters playing and living, packed a tremendous message without saying a word.

It should not go unnoticed that Columbia Studios refused to allow a scene wherein the star kissed his bride-to-be. If you will remember there wasn't one kiss between them in the picture. Too, a scene showing the wife of the manaeg rof the team eating with the players at her supper table was cut from the picture. The studio belivede that the scene showing a white woman eating at the same table with colored men would be too "strong."

The other pictures of 1951 begin to show the gradual return to routine of Negro movie characters in relation to white screen characters. James Edwards did a Negro soldier in "Steel Helmet," his most famous line being "in fifty years we will all be able to sit together on the street cars." Dorothy Dandridge portrayed a native princess in "Tarzan's Fury." Louis Armstrong performed in "The Strip," William Warfield sang the "Joe" role in "Showboat." And in "Detective Story," Russel Evans played a policeman.

It is interesting to note that there were no Negro roles in "Detective Story" until a Negro actor in New York talked Sidney Kingsley into giving him a part. Williams pywwf producer kept the part when he made the picture.

Smith, Rhodes Crack Records as Jeff Wins League Title

ON THE TURF

By GEORGE RAMSEY

CALIENTE, In Old Mexico—Toubowed, the good-looking son of Tombo-Stanfordess outrun early, closed strongly while saving ground in the stretch, wore down the leaders a sixteenth out and finished fast under urging to capture the featured Cinco de Mayo handicap. Go Charm, the favorite who set the early pace, was second and Miss Cross S third. The time for the six furlongs was 1:11 2/5. Slightly overlooked in the betting, he paid $12.00, 4.80, 2.60 across the board. Tranquil Lady closed fast on the outside rounding the stretch turn to get up in the last sixteenth and outgame Trail Me in the May Day Allowance, rewarding her backers with a nice $12.20 mutuel. Again Apprentice Rogelio Trejos was the star of the afternoon; he scored on three winners.

RAMSEY

It was only two weeks ago that this hustling rider brought four winners to the charmed circle. After next Sunday Trejos will lose his apprenticeship and the five-pound benefit. Louis Leon, an up and coming bug boy, won the novel mile and one-half race for apprenticeship booters exclusively. Leon brought Sonny Grove, a field horse, through the stretch in a rousing finish to outphoto Deltoid.

Democrats Favored in City Meet

Bedeviled by bad luck and bonehead officiating, the mighty Democrats of Jefferson overcame all and won their fifth straight Southern League meet with LaVerne Smith and O. W. Rhodes leading the way with record-breaking leaps. Smith cleared 6 ft. 6 in. in the high jump for a new league record, and Rhodes soared 12 ft. 9½ in. in the pole vault to also establish a new league standard.

The final score of the varsity meet was Jefferson, 89; Manual Arts, 40; Fremont, 23; Roosevelt, 15; Washington, 5; Garfield, 2.

Dramatic Relay

Perhaps the most dramatic setback was suffered by the Jeff relay team. The starter on the team, Herbert Vaughn, was placed in the outside staggered lane. He was off like a shot, only he ran around the far turn instead of the inside turn. He was the most surprised young man in the Coliseum when he rounded the turn and saw the other runners 150 yards in front of him.

He slowed down to a walk, but his other seven teammates ran the race out, actually caught Garfield to qualify for the City Meet.

Jeff took 1-2-3 in the mile; 1-2-3 in the shot put; 1-2 in the pole vault; 1-2 in the broad jump; 1-2-4 in the 440, with two men disqualified until a further ruling; first with two ties for second in the high jump, first in the 220 and Taylor was nipped by an eyelash in the 100.

Shoeless Runners

Ronald Harvey, Jeff's top hurdle man, and Earl Robinson, both lost shoes in the high hurdles event. Harvey failed to place, Robinson took second.

Tuesday afternoon, the Democrats defeated Fremont to capture the dual meet title. Twenty-six athletes from Jeff will participate in the City prelims Saturday, starting at noon.

that she had talked to Fred Hurley, the manager on duty at the time of the occurence, and he flatly denied discriminating against the Negro players.

She said that Hurley explained to the foursome that all the alleys were taken, and they would have to wait until one was cleared.

"We have a Negro player on one of our teams. He bowls every Friday night," Mrs. Settlen declared.

RAN OUT OF SHOE—Jefferson's Earl Robinson put on such a burst of speed at the Southern League meet Friday in the Coliseum, that he ran right out of his shoe. He managed to place second, despite loss of spikes. Jefferson won the meet by a lopsided score.

Kappas Almost Upset Dope As Omegas Win Tournament

Coming down the stretch like Subfleet chasing Hill Gail, the fast-closing Kappas almost upset the dope and scared the life out of the Omegas, who won the inter-fraternity trophy by the thin margin of three points.

The high-scoring Omegas seemed well on their way to an easy victory at half time as they led by ten points. Then the Kappas sprung a surprise. Cornelius Barnes, a soldier stationed at Fort Ord, made a quick trip to Los Angeles to help the Kappa cause. He didn't arrive until after the first half, but he changed the complexion of the game.

Barnes was hotter than a $2 pistol and scored 17 points the short time he was in the game, and made the Omegas really work for the trophy.

The Kappas were further handicapped as they were without the services of Johnny Moore, who went to Indiana to visit his family. Their other star, Nichols, fouled out in the first half.

Final score was Omegas 61, Kappas 58. Tucker was high-point man for the Q's with 22 points, Barnes for the Kappas with 17 points.

A fighting Sigma team was barely turned back by the Alphas in the opening game. Shooting for the consolation prize, the Sigmas and Alphas fought a din-dong battle down to the last second. The Alphas won by the margin of one field goal. Final score: Alphas 41, Sigmas 39. Barber was high-point man with 18 points. Blu-ett for the Sigmas with 12.

Final Basketball Standings

	Won	Lost	Points	Opponents' Points
Omegas	7	0	474	341
Kappas	3	4	357	380
Alphas	4	3	376	344
Sigmas	0	6	300	412

Ross Snyder

The East District Track meet will be held for the first time at Ross Snyder Playground. There will be 15 more playgrounds represented in this area for the purpose of eliminations for the Coliseum Junior Olympics to be held Saturday, May 17.

British Stars To Compete In L. A. Relays

Latest word from London in regard to the British track stars who will compete in the Los Angeles Coliseum Relays the night of Friday, May 16, is that E. MacDonald Bailey, British sprint champion, and Len Eyre, distance star, will fly here to compete in the star-studded invitational meet.

Bailey will meet a strong field in the 100-meter dash, while Eyre is slated to face some of the top U. S. milers in the 1500-meter event. Names of these competitors are being held at present, declared William C. Ackerman, chairman of the Relays, for final decision pending the conclusion of such meets as the Drake and Penn Relays.

"Then we will invite the best this country has to offer," said Ackerman.

Definitely scheduled to be here, however, is the fearsome foursome from Manhattan College, winners of two sprint relays in the meet last year. They will be here to defend their crowns in the 440-yard and 880-yard relays. Too, John O'Connell and Lindy Remingino of this quartet will enter the 100-meter dash.

In addition to the dash, other events to be run in meters will be the 440-meters, 1500-meters, 110 meters high hurdles and the 400 meters low hurdles. The two sprint relays and the mile and two relays will be the featured relay races. There will also be five field events, including the hop-step-jump, an Olympic event.

CUBAN PITCHER FIXES THE YANKEES

NEW YORK (CNS) — The formidable New York Yankees were made to look pretty sad right on their home grounds all because of a Cuban pitcher on the Washington Senators' staff named Conrado Marrero. Marrero does not speak English but he is thoroughly versed in the American game of baseball. A short chunky guy, who throws a half dozen different curves, a change-up, a knuckleball and several other pitches, he held the Yanks to one run. Final score was 3-1, Senators.

The sad plight of the Jefferson baseball team is a matter of concern to many instructors and interested alumni. Running, jumping and basketball are good sports, but the money is in baseball.

In years gone by, Jefferson put out some darn good baseball teams. In 1929 they won the championship.

Perhaps the greatest baseball team produced locally was the "Raggedy Nine." They were so called because everyone had different parts of baseball suits and the entire team looked like a barrel of Kansas City wheat.

This was in the bottom of the depression, the "poor boy" sandwich era, so the lack of uniforms didn't matter.

Leslie Bisco was the catcher, Charley Renfro played first, Cheapie Alexander second, the late "Trigger" Baldwin played short, Willie Jake held down the hot spot.

Doc Moore, Joe Fillmore and "Bear" Morgan roamed the outer gardens.

Cleve Macon, Lonnie Summers, and Cheapie Alexander handled the pitching chores.

The team was organized while most of the fellows were in high school and played together for a number of years, winning several city championships.

Fighting with them for use of the diamond was a younger set of ball players. Fleming Miller, Willie Dumas, Charles and Nat Plummer, Robert and Herbie Jenkins, Lambert and our esteemed editor, Wendell Green, and several others. Many fine prospects were produced. Kenny Washington came over and hit one of the longest balls ever hit on Ross Snyder diamond.

Those kids developed 20 years too soon. The opportunity wasn't. Now it is just the opposite. Plenty of opportunity, and no players developing.

Bill Lacefield at Ross Snyder, and James Polk of the Newton DAPs, have vowed to remedy the situation.

Poor Shooter

wasn't quite ready to let daylight into her spouse, so she said, "If you're not going to shoot him, give me the gun and I'll shoot the 'old fossil'!"

Mrs. Sherman indicated that the day of reckoning for James had come. He wasn't ready for confession and while the girls were deciding who would blast him first, he ducked out into the hallway.

He was only a few seconds ahead of his wife. She fired a shot after him, as he sped down the hall.

Another shot exploded and the bullet whistled by his ear. Mrs. James took dead aim, squeezed the trigger and the gun jammed.

James thanked his "lucky stars" that his loving wife hadn't been to the pistol range lately. He finally got the gun away from her.

Tore Down Phone

When Mrs. Williams got dressed and walked into the hall, Mrs. James and Mrs. Sherman grabbed the pay-station telephone, tore it from the wall and bashed Mrs. Williams over the head with it.

Nothing Sure But Death and Taxes— And Postman's Ring

It's traditional—come rain, or shine, heat or cold, fire or flood—the mail goes through.

You, yourself, may be hiding from the blazing sun, too bushed from the heat to move about, to clean the house, to cook, to work—but the postman will come on schedule, carrying his mail bag, walking his route.

Serve Community

The carriers at Station K—74 of them—are no exception. They are amongst the most respected men in the community, serve the community every day, and for good measure take on extra tasks to benefit the community.

According to Supervisor Alva Garrott, practically every employe at Station K contributed to the Westview Hospital fund. Similarly, the carriers at Station K, to a man, recently contributed their free time to collecting funds for the United Cerebral Palsey Association drive.

Garrott said that the carriers, after walking their route during the day, assembled at the station at 6:45 p.m., and retraced their steps of the morning, some not returning until near midnight. in all, they collected approximately $1600 out of the $100,000 collected by the postmen in Southern California.

Contributed Time

It was the idea of the carriers, themselves, as a means of contributing to the general welfare. They volunteered their services, and all participated.

The postman's job is not an

'RAPE' SHE SAYS, 'TWAS RESCUE AVERS SUSPECT

A 38-year-old man was jailed Monday morning for assault on a 42-year-old woman.

Seige Yoshida of 3485 Second avenue called the police when he saw the couple sitting in a 1949 Ford convertible coupe in front of 2216 West 36th street around 6 a.m. with their arms around each other asleep. The face of the woman was bloody and both's clothing were stained with blood.

They gave their names as Joseph C. Wilson of 1891 West Jefferson boulevard and Walbrook Norman of 1308 West Pico Blvd.

When the police accused Wilson of giving Mrs. Norman the beating that she obviously had undergone, he said "I don't know that girl. I met George and Red on East Fifth street yesterday afternoon and we drank at different places all night.

Woman Beaten

"I remember being at the Show Boat Cafe on Central avenue before two o'clock a.m. I met that girl about 3:30 on 36th street and she was being beaten up by a white fellow so I stopped the guy from beating her and put her in my car. I was alone at the time, I don't know what happened to George and Red.

"As I was driving her away and asked her where did she live (as I was going to drive her home) she told me to stop the

HELD FOR MURDER—Mrs. Ruth Edwards, who last Wednesday morning slit the throats of her three babies, was held for murder after a coroner's inquest.

Murder Charged to Baby-Killing Mother

By EDDIE LEE KING

The calm, attractive mother who slit the throats of her three babies remained pleasant and unemotional as the Los Angeles County Coroner's Jury ordered her held to answer for murder, after 22 minutes of deliberation, following the inquest Tuesday.

Ruth Lillian Edwards, 31, of 205 Paseo Valdez, Aliso Village, stood on her constitutional rights and refused to testify on the grounds that she might incriminate herself. Yet she did admit that she cut the throats of Rosemary, seven months; Ronald Lee, two years; and Benita Marie, three years, the midmorning of May 7, as her children lay quietly in their beds.

Don't Care

During an interview with an Eagle reporter prior to the inquest, Mrs. Edward said, in reference to jail, "Being here

21 Klansmen Sentenced for Terror in North Carolina

WILMINGTON, N. C.—Ten Ku Klux Klansmen were convicted of kidnaping and conspiracy here Tuesday, as the Federal government continued its crack-down on the night riders who have terrorized Columbus County and other areas for many months.

The 10 were sentenced to prison for terms ranging from one to five years.

The action followed by three days the conviction of 11 of 13 klansmen in nearby Whiteville on charges of assault. Fourteen more are awaiting trial.

The 10 convicted Tuesday were charged with brutally flogging a 28-year-old white mother and a 40-year-old farmer last Oct. 6. The Klan members had unmercifully beat them because they disapproved of their morals.

The terror has been directed against both Negroes and whites.

Among those terrorized was a Negro, Dorsey Robinson, who told how he had been draped over the front fender of a car before the hooded men applied the lash. He was accused of "cussing in front of a white woman" and "drinking too much."

A woman, Esther Lee Floyd, was terrorized for "going with a white man."

After the floggings began occurring repeatedly, Columbus citizens began answering after-dark calls at their homes with guns in hands. Klan activity reached the peak of activity late in 1951.

The FBI moved in Feb. 16, 1952, and the State began making arrests of Klansmen a week later.

YOUTH SLAYS FOUR ABOARD CLEVELAND BUS

CLEVELAND, Ohio—"I was just mad!" said the crazed killer of four strangers on a crowded bus here Tuesday.

Lawrence Goldsby, an unemployed 20-year-old, could give no other reason for shooting a policeman and three more persons in a seemingly unmotivated rage.

The tragedy as described by the murderer and other bus passengers began when a Miss Annabele Frankie, 24, cried out, "My hair is burning." She charged that Goldsby was singeing her hair. The driver stopped the bus. The policeman who was slain, Eugene D. Stinchcomb, boarded the vehicle to investigate the disturbance.

Got Officer's Gun

Somehow, Goldsby got possession of the patrolman's gun, turned, then shot Stinchcomb, 55; Miss Frankie; Mrs. Helen Garrison, 50, friend and factory coworker of Miss Frankie; and William J. Powers, 60, a former Chicago and Washington lawyer, who in 1944 defended the notorious Silver Shirts leader, William Dudley Pelley, convicted of sedition.

After the shooting, when Goldsby's gun clicked empty, he was overpowered by three men

MOURNED—Noted actor Canada Lee died suddenly Sunday in New York of a heart attack. He was 45 years old.

Heart Attack Kills Actor Canada Lee

Success of Actor Gained Hard Way

By BOB ELLIS

At 45—Canada Lee is dead.

At the time of his death he was reading poetry in an obscure, smoke-filled New York village nightclub.

His story is a symbolic story—the story of a Negro's driving struggle to realize his talents in a "white world."

His death, far short of his goal, was an unhappy, tragic death—a death which, so early in life, can be laid at the doorstep of our country's discrimination against Negro Americans.

Canada Lee had to run almost all the way. Rest and relaxation and normal living he never got to realize.

Brilliant

He became a world-known figure because of the brilliance and power of his acting ability. Yet at the peak of his fame—he was running all the way. . . .

White actors attaining stardom achieve a certain "plateau" where they are flooded with demands for their services. Men like Gregory Peck, Lionel Barrymore, Orsen Welles, Bing Crosby, Vincent Price—to name but a handful—live on this "plateau" where they are in demand constantly. Therefore, they can plan their activities, their vacations. They can feel a certain security.

Canada never could stop run-

Acquanetta and Mate End Feud

Burnu Acquanetta, Tarzan woman of the films, dropped her feud with her husband Tuesday and announced a reconciliation.

The fiery 29-year-old actress withdrew the suit against her 71-year-old magazine illustrator husband, Henry Clive.

The suit, charging cruelty, was filed last March 26. They were married in Riverside March 24, 1951.

FATHER SEEKS RECOMPENSE IN SONS' DROWNING

$200,000 in damages is sought by the father of two boys who were drowned in Bixby Slough last Sept. 8. The dead youngsters were James E. Ward, Jr. 11, and William, 8, sons of Navy Chief Petty Officer and Mrs. J. E. Ward Sr. of 2424 7th avenue. At the time of the catastrophe the family lived at 3401 N. Gaffey street in San Pedro.

The complaint was filed Tuesday against the Oakley Co., said to own the property where the drownings occurred, and Crail Bros. and Rotary Materials Co., identified as holders of leases on the property.

Ward bases his charges on the assertion that although the defendants knew that the soil beneath the water was "slimy, sucking and treacherous," they permitted children to wade through it to a dredging barge. His sons, he tells, were sucked under water while trying to wade to the barge.

Attys. Jerome Weber and Jess Whitehill, who filed the suit, say that parents of two other boys, Clinton Thompson Jr., 10, and Clyde Holmes, 9, who were drowned at the same time, also will sue.

Wife Asks For $1000 Alimony

Los Angeles society was as stunned this week to learn that the marriage of Alma Ribbs Price and Col. C. G. Price ended abruptly in a violent smash-up as they were last New Year's Eve to learn of their whirlwind courtship and wedding.

The four-month marriage came to a sudden halt Tuesday following a stormy battle of dishes and hand-swinging the previous evening.

The lovely Mrs. Price lost no time trying to make up her

Can't Prove Burton Killed Robert Crane

Equipped with a convincing alibi, Harry Burton, 49, was acquitted Tuesday of the charge that he murdered Robert Crane here October 1, 1947.

Superior Court Judge Edwin L. Jefferson, before whom the case was tried, found that there was not sufficient evidence to identify Burton as the disguised bandit who killed well-known Crane during robbery of the home of a wealthy local liquor dealer.

Police were convinced Burton, described as one of America's 10 most wanted criminals, was "their man," but were unable to disprove his contention that he was with his dying mother on the night of the killing.

Negro Minister First in London's Famed St. Paul's

LONDON — Rev. Dr. Marcus James, of Jamaica, last Sunday night became the first Negro to preach in London's famous St. Paul's Cathedral.

Many Negroes were in the audience to hear the secretary of the British Student Christian movement denounce the South African government's rabid race policies.

Said Dr. James: "Too many Christian voices which have been the loudest in their denunciation of Communism have been strongly silent on this monstrous evil of racial idolatry."

— Slum or Mansion? —

FIT FOR DISCARD—This house is one of the hundreds of tumbled-down shacks that are to be replaced by Federal housing projects. Real estate interests are fighting the projects, claiming there are no slums, that plan to provide decent housing is all a socialistic scheme. Picture was taken on Pierce street near Bradley avenue, at site of proposed Pacoima housing project.

tion as member of the Assembly, he had the almost unanimous backing of District organizations, including the Interdenominational Ministerial Alliance, CIO, AFL, Dining Car Waiters, (Locals 582 and 465), Teamsters, State Nurses Association, Aeronautical Lodge 727 and all pension groups. Additional endorsements are to be released later.

Hawkins also announced that he had received during the week strong commendation of his legislative service in behalf of veterans and schools from official representatives of these groups.

Representing the legislative commission of the American Legion was Larry Stevens, speaking for the schools was Harry Howell, associate superintendent of Los Angeles Board of Education.

Congressman Samuel W. Yorty challenged the reduction in appropriation for flood control projects for Los Angeles County on the floor of Congress yesterday, calling such action on the part of the committee, "false economy."

Brown Backed

"The Edmund G. (Pat) Brown Free Democratic Slate of uninstructed delegates are in favor of strong Civil Rights legislation, and deserves the backing of minority groups they are attempting to serve," was the text of a joint statement by prominent Los Angeles civic leaders; Dr. A. Claude Hudson, member of the national Board of Directors of the NAACP; Dr. J. A. Somerville, of the Los Angeles Police Commission.

The statement praised Attorney General Brown for past work in furthering Civil Rights.

Doyle Home

Representative Clyde Doyle returned today from Washington to find his campaign for re-election in the 23rd District "rolling along in high gear," according to his own appraisal.

Kefauver Explains

Los Angeles City Councilman Edward Roybal was in receipt of a letter from Sen. Estes Kefauver in which the Democratic candidate for the Presidency fully explained his views on civil rights.

"One of the chief aims of my life," wrote the Senator, "has been to better race relations and to increase the opportunity of all races. I have opposed a compulsory FEPC plan because, frankly, I do not think that it would have this result. In many states, I have seen instances where such legislation was either ignored, resented or used as a basis for demagogic attacks which increase prejudices rather than lessen them.

Roach Okayed

County Supervisor Leonard J. Roach today received a statement of support from the Women's Political Study Club of California in his race for re-election on June 30 from the Second District of Los Angeles County.

"It is with a great deal of interest that we want you to know we feel you have definitely proved you are an outstanding representative and administrator for our district," wrote Catherine A. Mitchem, club executive secretary.

Renew Plea For One of 'Trenton 6'

TRENTON, N. J.—Demands that Gov. Alfred E. Driscoll grant immediate bail to Collis English, one of the two "Trenton Six" remaining in the prison, were renewed this week.

English suffered his second heart attack in less than two weeks on April 9. A heart specialist who examined the young veteran told his family that "Collis' future is uncertain."

A public appeal by Mrs. Bessie Mitchell, English's sister, who first brought the "Trenton Six" case to national and world attention, appealed for wires and letters to Gov. Driscoll, urging bail for English.

Ask Greetings

Mrs. Mitchell also pleaded for letters and get-well cards to the bed-ridden Negro youth. She said, "I feel, and my mother feels, that one of the reasons for Collis' condition is that he has lost some of his hope. His long stay in prison for a crime the whole world knows he didn't do is affecting him in his present illness."

Her appeal concluded, "I am sure that people of all faiths will understand the unjustness of his imprisonment and will do what they can to help."

English and Ralph Cooper, were sentenced to life imprisonment following the second trial of the "Trenton Six" when the other four of the group charged by the State of New Jersey with committing rape were found innocent and freed.

English's heart attacks are a result of the malaria he contracted in the Pacific while serving with the Navy during World War II.

easy one. He has to be punctual, courteous, honest, dependable, in addition to qualifying under Civil Service regulations. His past record, also, is carefully screened.

The carriers who operate out of Station K walk an average of 10 miles daily on their routes, carrying bags whose contents weigh up to 35 pounds. They cover the area from Washington to Slauson, and from Main street east to Long Beach avenue.

Policy Change

Garrott, now superintendent, first came to Station K in 1935. Most of the employes there then were white. In 1946 he was transferred to the Watts Station, as superintendent, one of the two Negroes in Los Angeles at that time who were supervisors. The other was Christopher C. Scott, who headed Station K.

It was in 1946 that Michael Fanning became postmaster in Los Angeles. He reversed policies previously in force and began a systematic upgrading of Negroes in the department in accordance with their ability, seniority and other qualifications.

At the present time the Los Angeles Post Office is one of the most "integrated" institutions in the city, with about 30 per cent Negro workers, with no racial barriers placed in the path of their advancement.

The next sweltering day we have, when you turn on the electric fan, clink the ice in your glass, and lazily recline—you may like to remember that the postman is plodding his way methodically, toting his bag, making his daily 10-mile round.

They say there's nothing sure but death and taxes—except the ring of the postman.

Ben Bowie Post Sends Delegates To Area Meet

When the Benjamin J. Bowie Post No. 288, delegates attend the 23rd district meeting to be held at Inglewood, May 20, they will hear an address by Wiliam A. White, leading candidate for the office of Legion commander, Department of California.

Delegates will asemble at Inglewood Post No. 188 clubrooms, 423 N. La Brea ave. Ralph R. Kelly, District Comander will preside.

Rep. Dawson Heads for Visit To Los Angeles

Congressman William L. Dawson, representative from Chicago, Ill., will come to Southern California next week-end and will be feted at numerous receptions, luncheons and press conferences, with a grand rally and parade set for Sunday, May 18, at Will Rogers Park, 103rd and Success St.

Congressman Dawson, the first Negro to be chairman of a Congressional committee—the House Committee on Expenditures in the Executive Departments—is also a member of the Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs.

Dawson was first elected to Congress in 1942 and has been returned to office every two years since that time. He is the third member of the Negro race to be elected to the U. S. Congress from Illinois.

Congressman Dawson is considered highly by labor and business groups and is a leader in the Democratic party. He is secretary to the Democratic National Congressional committee and vice-chairman of the National Democratic committee.

The parade at 1:00 p.m. in Watts honoring Dawson will start at 122nd and Wilmington and proceed along Wilmington to 103rd street, West on 103rd to the baseball park at Will Rogers Park.

His collegue and friend, Rep. Clyde Doyle, of the 93rd Congressional district, which includes most of Watts and Willowbrook, will introduce Dawson.

Dawson's arrival here was arranged by Atty. Edward Hardwick, chairman of a citizens committee, which will be Dawson's host during his stay.

CIO Loses To AFL in Transit Vote

In an election conducted by the National Labor Relations Board, Los Angeles Transit Lines employees went to the polls, Wednesday, May 7, and gave the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employes of America, AFL, a decisive victory over the Transport Workers Union, CIO.

The AFL campaign was spearheaded in part by one of its most influential and militant supporters, Alfonso J. Radford.

The respect which Radford had won from employees of the Los Angeles Transit Lines was demonstrated at a mass meeting, Friday night at which he was unanimously elected as one of the two members from the operating personnel to serve as contract negotiators with management in negotiations to resume immediately upon certification of the election by the National Labor Relations Board.

"Am I supposed to be glad you're big?"

Many people write us such comments as this: "I've heard people talk against big companies like you. Lately I've been reading your statements about bigness. Am I supposed to be glad you're big?"

The answer to this question depends on your answer to certain others. Some people have come to feel that bigness itself may be bad. Consider the good that comes from this same bigness.

Do you like a bargain? You're getting one in gasoline. Except for taxes, gasoline today costs just about what it did in 1925. (And it's better gas; 2 gallons now do work that then took 3.) Why? Largely because of competition among big oil companies.

Do you like new and better things? Standard has spent over $35,000,000 on research and technical service in the last 5 years, developing new or improved products, and new raw materials for other companies. Yet only when allowed to grow big, by serving you better, can we take on the work and risk involved.

Do you want to keep your country strong? It takes big companies to back our fighting men and keep defense goods in full supply. Standard is at work for our government on aviation gasolines, atomic research, synthetic rubber, and other vital projects.

Are you glad you have the conveniences of this "machine age?" They depend heavily on oil. You're assured an ample supply of oil by the enterprise of big companies like Standard. We seek out new crude reserves, in this country and abroad, with exploration that may cost millions before the first gallon is found.

Obviously, there are countless ways to express the benefits you gain by our bigness . . . countless questions we could ask, to which you'd probably answer "yes" just as readily. And if you like the things that bigness brings, then you can be glad we're big.

passengers who beat him savangely.

The killer told police that, "I was mad at that girl for saying I was burning her hair. . . I shot the other woman because she was going to call the cop. I shot the cop because he was going to take me off the bus.

"I didn't mean to shoot that other man. That was just a stray bullet."

Cries For Mercy

Rushed into the municipal court of Judge Louis Petrash the slayer screamed for mercy. He claimed that the burning of Miss Frankie's hair was an accident. The match with which he was lighting a cigaret flared up and singed her, he declared.

He is being held for first degree murder for which Ohio's penalty is death in the electric chair.

mind. On Tuesday morning she went to her attorney, William R. Freeman, had him file suit for divorce on grounds of extreme cruelty, and ask the court for an award of $1,000 a month temporary alimony.

Dishes Fly

Mrs. Price told the Eagle that the dish slinging started after her 49-year-old wealthy oil man husband hit her on the head, slapped her on the cheek and knocked her up against the stove. She exhibited fingernail scratches and bruises on her arm, throat and face, which she said she received during the fisticuffs.

But the fiery Alma didn't take the roughing-up demurely. She said she found a potted plant ready at hand, and let fly, clipping her handsome husband on the temple and drawing blood. Crockery began crashing in all directions.

Mrs. Price said she then called the police, and that Price denied to the officers that he had hit her. The policeman asked, she continued, how he accounted for the fingermarks on the side of his wife's face

Left Home

No arrest was made, but Mrs. Price reported that she left the family home at 2017 Raymond avenue and went to spend the night with relatives on E. 48th street.

"This isn't the first time it happened," she told the Eagle, in explaining what otherwise might have seemed a hasty decision to seek a divorce.

In her divorce action, Mrs. Price asked for alimony, attorney's fees and other costs, and an equitable division of community property. She estimated her husband's assets in the neighborhood of $175,000.

No Comment

Price, contacted by the Eagle, refused to make a statement.

The lovely Alma Ribbs came to Los Angeles last December to spend the holiday season with relatives here. She is the daughter of Henry Ribbs, of San Jose, owner of the only Negro plumbing company there.

She met Col. Price during her visit, and the meeting resulted in a whirlwind courtship which culminated in marriage Dec. 31, 1951.

It was the third marriage for Mrs. Price, the second for her husband. Price is reputed to have "struck it rich" in Texas where he owns two oil wells. He is now retired, and has spent considerable time in traveling throughout the world.

Officers said the thief broke in through a screen and unlocked the front door.

Elks of 7 States Meet In Phoenix

PHOENIX—The 22nd annual convention of the Pacific States Association of the Improved, Benevolent, Protective Order of the Elks of the World began its 4-day session here last Thursday.

Approximately 750 delegates attended from Washington, Oregon, Idaho, California, New Mexico, Nevada, Arizona, Mexico and Hawaii.

The Phoenix host chapter was the William H. Patterson Lodge No. 477 and its auxiliary, Grand Canyon Temple No. 437.

General committee sessions occupied the delegates Friday and Saturday. A huge afternoon parade brought throngs of onlookers to view the colorful spectacle.

Featured was the Golden West Band 86, one of the top winners in the Tournament of Roses parade in Pasadena last January.

President's Ball

Saturday's festivities were concluded with the President's Ball at 333 W. Washington.

Sunday, annual memorial services were held in Harman Park auditorium at 11 a.m., officially concluding the convention.

Numerous Los Angeles members of the association attended the convention including E. Preston Greene, president; Wendell Hill, acting secretary, and R. Bentley Strather. From Pasadena came J. W. Coleman, chaplain, and from Long Beach, Leroy O. Christy.

A special resolution commending Theodore Albritton of Los Angeles for his outstanding work in the field of public relations was passed by the convention.

car and said if it hadn't been for me that man would have killed her. As it was, he really gave her the beating of her life, all across the face and upper part of her body. She said she didn't want to go home in that bloody condition. 'And besides,' she said, 'I want to thank you for rescuing me."

"I did whatever she wanted and we went to sleep, arm in arm. The next morning she awakened and kissed me. I said, 'You must have had a better night's sleep than I did."

"After you picked me up, I had a good night, but who slept?" she said. The next thing I knew the police were there."

Waiting for Cab

Mrs. Norman stated, "I was at a bar with some friends and I left my friends and went to a taxi stand to wait for a taxi.

"That man picked me up and said he was going to take me home. I don't remember the location where he picked me up as I was kind of drunk."

"He drove me to 36th street where he began to make advances to me and I told him that I wanted to go home.

"He started beating me with his fist. He hit me in the face, left ear and about my shoulders and arms."

He Raped Me

When the police found them with their arms around each other and her head against his chest, their clothes were bloody and disarranged. There was blood and bruises on her face.

She said, "He raped me!"

Wilson was taken to jail and the woman was transported to the hospital.

Wilson, who is a Los Angeles Transit worker, is married and has one child.

NAACP Mourns Roddy K. Moon

NEW YORK—Roddy K. Moon, founder of the Cleveland NAACP branch in 1913 and father of Henry Lee Moon, the association's public relations director, died in Cleveland last week.

In a telegram to Mr. Moon's widow and family, NAACP executive Secretary Walter White sent condolences on behalf of the association's board and staff and paid tribute to the late Mr. Moon for his "long and faithful service to the cause of freedom and human rights."

Woman Admits Assault That Caused Death

Mrs. Alberta Jones pleaded guilty, Tuesday, to assault with a deadly weapon in Superior Court during her trial for the murder of Arthur L. Spears, 41, 405 South Hewitt Street. Judge Clement B. Nye accepted her plea and set the date of sentencing and probationary hearing for June 5.

The 31-year-old Mrs. Jones of 836 Crocker street said that she had known Spears for several years.

She said that on the night of Jan. 6, after her release from jail on a morals charge, she met Spears on East Fifth street and they went to the Panama Cafe, at 626 East Fifth and had some "short, dogs," small bottles of wine for 40c, with each of them putting in 20c.

Mrs. Jones said she became very angry during an argument over sex and took out her pocket knife. "I stuck him with my knife, using my left hand, in a backward motion. I cut him somewhere in the center of his body. I don't know exactly where."

She had 27 prior arrests and is the mother of two children.

Youths Protest U. S. Stand on Tunisian Issue

NEW YORK — Refusal of the United States delegation to the United Nations to vote for consideration of the Tunisian issue on the agenda of the Security Council was protested here last week.

Reversal of the U. S. position was urged by Herbert L. Wright, youth secretary of the NAACP, and 10 members of the Association's New York Intercollegiate Coordinating council.

The United States did not vote when the issue came up in the Security Council early this month. Tunisian nationalists have long demanded independence from France.

In recent months, the situation has become critical. France has resorted to force to put down disturbances and demonstrations.

When you pay your telephone bill, about 28 cents of each dollar goes for taxes.

How much tax in your telephone bill?

When you pay your telephone bill each month, an important part of your money is passed on in taxes to the Federal Government and to state, county and city governments. Naturally, we expect to contribute our fair share of the cost of government . . . but because taxes now account for such a large portion of the cost of service, we feel we should report about them to you who, as telephone customers, have to pay them.

Your telephone is taxed in two ways. One, through the operating taxes we pay to run the business—income taxes, property taxes and the like. In 1951 these came to $81 million for Pacific Telephone, an all-time high. Two, by Federal excise levies you pay on local and long distance service. Last year we collected more than $70 million in excise taxes from our customers and turned it over to the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

To give you some idea of the size of our tax bill, it is estimated that the total excise and operating taxes we paid in 1951 . . . $152 million . . . could have supported all the 131 schools of higher education in California. In terms of the average telephone, this is $35 per telephone per year . . . $2.92 per month. Twenty years ago the average was 53 cents a month.

Your telephone is one of today's best bargains

In spite of sharp increases in taxes, wages, materials and other costs of providing service, we've been able to hold down the prices you pay for service . . . hold them so low, in fact, that the telephone today is one of the best buys in any budget.

Four Cents a Week

At last accounts the membership campaign of the local branch of the NAACP wasn't reaching expectations. There is a long way to go if it is to reach its goal of 10,000 members.

There aren't many people in Los Angeles who won't agree that the NAACP serves a much-needed function in our city and in our nation. On a national scale it has been responsible for a long series of legal victories in the past decade. Due to its activities the white primary has been abolished, race restrictive covenants have been declared unenforceable by the courts, graduate and professional schools have opened their doors to Negroes in the South, teachers' salaries have been equalized and Jim Crow has been abolished in interstate travel. Every Negro, no matter where he lives, is freer by reason of those victories.

On a local scale the NAACP has waged a long battle against police brutality, it has pushed for the arrest and prosecution of those responsible for vandalism against Negro home owners, it has lent its aid in the national battles that the parent organization has fought.

The very fact that we have an NAACP in this city has tended to create a higher degree of respect for our civil rights and liberties.

The cost of the service that the Association renders is two dollars a year. That amounts to about four cents a week and we're willing to guess that that's about as cheap a price as any people was ever asked to pay for constitutional rights and privileges.

There are more than two hundred thousand Negroes in this community. It will be a disgrace if ten thousand of them don't chip in with two dollars apiece for the NAACP.

We'll Take McKinnon

Californians who will choose a United States senator this year will have a choice between William F. Knowland, the incumbent, and Clinton McKinnon, who is presently a congressman from the San Diego area.

The fact that both are office holders affords a basis of comparison. Each must stand on his record. In the very beginning it is well to keep in mind that Knowland is a Republican and that McKinnon is a Democrat.

The NAACP, which lists the voting record of congressmen and senators, gives McKinnon a perfect record while Knowland is rated as having a fair one. That is a good starting point and it seems to us that where the choice is between those two kinds of records the preference should go to the person who has consistently voted right from our point of view. McKinnon has that record.

Before he went to Congress, McKinnon ran a newspaper in San Diego and the citizens of that city are unanimous in their verdict that his newspaper was as consistent in its support of fair play for all citizens as he has been since he has been a congressman.

McKinnon's individual record is as imposing as his record as a publisher and as a congressman. Those who know him point to the fact that he was willing to stand up and be counted on every issue that came up regarding civil rights and other matters of prime importance to Negro voters.

It seems to us that McKinnon deserves the votes of Negroes in the June 3 primary election.

All Brothers But . . .

Despite a great deal of talk the Methodist Church failed to make any great change in the segregation pattern of its church set-up at its San Francisco conference. The old Central Conference, which is a high-faluting name for the rather involved segregatory device for Negro churches, remains.

The segregation pattern was bootlegged into the Methodist church when the northern and southern branches merged after a century-long split which occurred over the slavery issue. We know that even churchmen don't always rise above the prejudices of their times and we're willing to go along with those who hope that step-by-step progress will ultimately bring churches to the practice of the brotherhood of man.

On the other hand, we think that it is plain enough for all to see that American churches are the most completely segregated social institutions in America. They cling to a far higher degree of Jim Crow than private schools, YMCAs, YWCAs, the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, or any number of other voluntary groups. Their practices are in stark contrast to their preachments. An interracial church is an oddity anywhere in America.

America's battle to preserve democracy can't be won by pronouncements in high places. This nation must set the example if it wants the rest of the world to believe in what it says. For the life of us we can't think of any better place to begin than in institutions dedicated to the proposition that all men are brothers under the skin.

School Bonds?—Yes

Those who have read the Eagle for the past year know that we haven't been entirely happy with the way our schools have been run. We entertain a very low opinion of the present Board of Education which has only two persons who were elected to office and who deserve to hold their positions.

We're sure that many of our readers go along with us in that estimate of the Board. We only hope that those who do won't take their spite out on the school bonds that will be voted on at the June 3 election. Los Angeles needs those bonds if it is to keep its schools up to par.

The vast increase in population combined with the lag in building that attended the war years and restrictions on materials has dragged our schools so far below par that the bonds are badly needed.

The tax burden is heavy on all of us whether we pay such levies directly or indirectly and it is easy to make out a case of sorts against further burdens but we can't think of any worse place to practice economy than at the expense of our schools and our school children.

Vote "Yes" on the school bonds when you go to the polls on June 3.

Elect Lundy In 55th

We said a long time ago that the new 55th District should have a Negro assemblyman and we haven't changed our mind on that score. Rayfield Lundy, an attorney, is the only bona fide Negro candidate in the district and we hope that he gets the vote of every Negro who lives in his district.

We wish that we lived in a world where a candidate who happens to be a Negro could be judged strictly on his merits, but we haven't reached that point yet. The only remedy is for Negro voters to use their ballots to elect Negro office seekers where they hold the balance of power.

Roy Wilkins'

The Watch Tower

In race relations, segregation is the word of the day. It is the topic beneath all other topics, the motivation of plans and procedures. Lately it has become a political issue of no mean proportions.

Are you a Christian? Then how do you stand on segregation of the races? Do you believe in a black and white church, in a Jim Crow heaven?

Are you a believer in democracy? Well, how about the segregation of people according to skin color? Do you believe that white people, just because they are white, are better than all others and thus have the right to rule all others, to enjoy special privileges for the sake of whiteness alone?

What about health and housing? Must there be separation on the basis of race and color? Is it all right with you for men to be set off into ghettoes?

Or education? Jim Crow schools? White schools, just by their existence, teaching young whites they are different and supreme; black schools, both by their existence and their inferiority, teaching young blacks that they are inferior?

About government? Must men, because of skin color, have nothing to say about their destiny, no choice of who shall lead their societies and direct their governments?

Yes, segregation is the principal topic in all these and a hundred other relationships. In a day when the world is getting smaller, when men are being brought closer together physically, when the complexities of modern life affect all men everywhere, we are forced to come to grips with a plan for living. The world has invaded mountain-locked Tibet. Jet airliners zoom over herds of wild animals in Africa. A revolution in Indonesia is felt in the rubber factories of Akron, O., USA. Black workers in the Congo dig uranium that may destroy mankind through the atom bomb. Japanese textiles can make unemployment in England, and more and more Egyptian cotton can chnge life in the Mississippi Delta.

Who can throw racial stones in this glass-housed world? The brown men in Iran whom we never saw before turn off the oil for the great British Empire. What sense does segregation make in this middle of the twentieth century?

South Africa is trying to stop the clock, and America's Dixiecrats are trying to turn it back. Neither will succeed. In America things have gone too far. Negroes here know the secret: no man, by reason of skin color alone, is superior to others. There is no magic here in white supremacy talk, only bombast and transparent ignorance. And little magic remains elsewhere in the world. In South Africa only the guns of the police and the army keep the natives ground down. In West Africa the spell has been broken and the blacks are on the march.

The great Methodist Church in its quadrennial meeting in San Francisco dodged the question of segregation, but by smooth words recognized that it is the real issue. The desperate Dixiecrats will come to the political conventions talking of corruption, foreign policy, government spending, and "socialism," but in their hearts they think and scheme on one basic topic: segregation of the races.

More and more Negroes realize that the issue is here, out in the open. The variety of Uncle Toms is squirming and running to Old Master with first one formula and then another. But the truth is there: there can be no free society for anyone with segregation.

Lester B. Granger's

Battle Axe & Bread

YOUNGSTON, Ohio—Clarence L. Robinson is a tall, slim, brown man of quiet manner and passionate ideals who is important in the life of his home city in a way that few Americans of African descent ever attain. Not that Youngstown is necessarily a "liberal' city. In most ways this is a typical steel town. You're conscious of it when you enter it, from the moment that you drive past the outskirts, into town, past mammoth, smoking plants.

You see steel in the quality of the big-framed men and women whom you pass in the Youngstown streets—their Slavic cast of countenance shown by so many, their rought-cut clothes and their rougher, spreading hands. You see it too in the peering look of their eyes and the fine-meshed network of wrinkles that come from looking over-long upon molten metal as it flows red-hot from giant ladles.

And there is steel, too, in the personality of Clarence Robinson, though it is covered over with the graciousness of an educated, cultured lawyer who has learned his way around a big-industry town. I had corresponded with Clarence Robinson for several weeks before I knew that he was a colored American. The address at which he received his mail told me nothing; he is legal counsel and secretary-treasurer of the Wilkoff Company, one of the country's largest fabricators of scrap metal. The Community Chest director who mentioned Mr. Robinson to me as a good local contact never included reference to his race. Perhaps he had forgotten it, because the Robinson personality so completely transcends the usual racial considerations. And yet, there is never a week—so I'm told—when this quiet-spoken, shrewdly-planning community leader is not projecting his personality upon some racial situation for the benefit of his fellow-citizens. The man fascinated me, and I spent part of my time in Youngstown getting the facts on him—not from him, but from his fellows in civic interests.

Clarence Robinson is a Youngstown product. He attended the local schools, captained his high school football team at a time when this was an achievement to make headlines in the national Negro press. His classmates and fellow athletes became big men in Youngstown, and Robinson moved right along with them—naturally, as if he had never learned that he shouldn't be expected to. He prepared for secretarial work, a most unusual choice of career for a Negro lad forty years ago. The president of Wilkoff Company gave him employment, took an interest in his advancement, encouraged him to go to law school at night.

Clarence Robinson completed his legal training and went right on with the company, rising step by step, in the best Horatio Alger tradition, until he became one of the senior officers. Not a contract is signed that does not have his approval; no important sums of money are received or disbursed except through his authority. He has a solid place in community life-at-large. A year or so ago he received a citation for having contributed "most to human relations." And yet he isn't a professional "causist." He doesn't "ride the black horse" in search of prestige and acceptance. He is just a good citizen who feels his civic responsibilities deeply and who naturally has a special concern for opportunity extended to members of his own racial group.

He and his wife have raised a family of six—three boys and three girls. Of the girls, one is deceased, another is a college student and the third is a YWCA secretary. Of the boys, one is a law student, one a real estate operator and the third, manager of a local company cafeteria feeding a couple of thousand people. Here is a success story that is unlikely to make headlines in our Negro press, but it is significant in a way that outstrips nine-tenths of the stories that do. It is the triumph of ability over color, and the victory of personality over frustrating circumstances. The Clarence Robinsons of today presage interracial democracy of the future.

MY SON'S STORY by John P. Frank.

"This is a book about my son," begins Mr. Frank, "who is sick in a particularly terrible way." And terrible it is, for of all the afflictions that can befall a child the most helpless is the brain injury that shows he will never grow up. For the sake of all parents who know what it is to have such a handicapped child, this very brave father outlines dispassionately, the heartaches, hopes and adjustments in the life of his family. With its thoughful commonsense acknowledgment of a tragic situation, this account is in its way a quiet testament of belief in the spark of the divine that quickens every human being, in spite of all handicaps.

THE GROVES OF ACADEME by Mary McCarthy.

The acid wit and cold eye of Mary McCarthy make her a match for the follies and pretensions of those she has marked as her special quarry—the intellectuals of our strange age. She is especially deadly concerning the cliches of intellectual pretension, which she snares, mounts, and exhibits in fine style. This time the background for her satire is a small progressive college and its is evident the author is thoroughly acquainted with her subject. An incompetent teacher claims that he is facing dismissal because of his liberal views and becomes a martyr in the eyes of his conscientious but confused colleagues. What follows is rich in comedy, if a little uncomfortable, especially for the reader, if there is one left, who still subscribes to the optimistic nineteenth century view of the perfectability of mankind.

Negro Is Foreign Ambassador-At-Large for Presbyterians

(Reprinted by Permission of Time Magazine)

Presbyterian James H. Robinson, 45 and a Negro, knows the taste of race prejudice. A Tennessee boy who went to college in Pennsylvania, he came near being lynched years ago when he went back to Tennessee and preached about civil rights. As a minister, he has known the "utter humiliation" of standing in line at a joint communion service, while white clergymen invented some kind of excuse to avoid marching with him.

But when the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions asked him to take a leave of absence from his Harlem pulpit as an ambassador-at-large, Pastor Robinson accepted. He had something to say about his country and its churches. In interviews since he got back, and in a series of articles ending in this week's Presbyterian Life, Robinson tells how it went.

Admit the Worst. In five months Pastor Robinson spoke to at least 400,000 students (he averages four speeches a day). Indians followed him on trains, begging him to stay longer. Japanese Buddhist priests brought their friends to hear him. In Berlin, during the 1951 Youth Rally, heargued into the small hours with young communists. Wherever he went in Asia he ran into Jim Crow in reverse—his color got him places where white Americans are scarcely tolerated.

"Most people in both Europe and Asia," says Dr. Robinson, "were amazed to find a Negro who wasn't a Communist." He found Indians, Lebanese and Pakistanis surprisingly well informed abotu discrimination in the U. S. Communists peppered him with loaded questions. Sample: "But can you be President of this fine country of yours?" By taking five minutes to admit the worst," says Dr. Robinson, "I could then spend an hour saying what you can do in a democracy, and showing them what an excellent expectancy there is for the next ten years in U. S. race relations."

The Village Level. Besides giving foreigners something to think about, Pastor Robinson brought home some words for his countrymen. He warned U.S. Christians that the "younger churches" of Asia are growing up and want to be run still more by their own leaders. "It is time to drop the word 'missionary,' which becomes increasingly offensive." More generally, he feels, Americans, Christian or otherwise, have not got their message across to Asia: "Many of us have not yet learned the elementary psychology of color."

Expensive U. S. press and radio propaganda programs seldom reach the mass of Asians. The only way to convince them of American aims and sincerity, says Robinson, is by talking to them as he did. "We must get down to the village level . . . This is where Communists always concentrate. We've got to outmatch the Communists where it counts—with the people."

At the moment, Pastor Robinson believes the very best unofficial ambassadors the U. S. can send are qualified Negroes: "Such people would be the best answer to Communist propaganda, because white people in Asia are apologists at best about race problems."

AFRICAN NURSE BRINGS HEALTH TO COUNTRYMEN

LIBERIAN PROJECT—Miss Betty Goodson discusses with Nurse Henrietta Brock plans for luncheon to be given by Helms Bakeries May 15 at 12:15 p.m. for the Ellen M. Moore Foundation, 8780 Venice Blvd., fund will go toward the erection of the maternal and child welfare center in the Liberian hinterland West Coast Africa. This project is headed by Nurse Henrietta Brock.

FOREIGN MISSION—In an African village, native daughter Ellen Moore, an American-educated nurse, is pioneering to bring modern health care to her underpriviledged people. In an inadequate center accommodating about 20 mothers and babies she labors day and night, breaking down harsh tribal customs during childbirth, and she has proven an "angel of mercy" to her community.

The center has no inside walls and affords litle privacy for mothers. Its eight by twelve foot delivery room averages one birth per day. Patients are carried to and fro in the arms of attendants because there are no stretchers. Until recently, electricity was not available and work was carried on after dark by the light of kerosene lamps. Some of the motherless babies who share the center as an orphanage know only the comfort of crates and wooden boxes used as cribs. These are only a few of the problems faced by the courageous nurse and workers she has trained to assist her.

Membership in the Ellen Moore Foundation may be secured for $10.00 or more. Sustainer memberships are available from $2.00 up, monthly.

For further information concerning this project, or for making contributions, please contact Ellen Moore Foundation, Mrs. Henrietta E. Brock, Director-Founder, 8716 S. Central avenue, Los Angeles 2, Calif.

Services were conducted by Dr. Wesley L. Hawes of the Hope congregation, but were held in the more spacious Westminister church. Official date for merging of the two cohgregations was May 4.

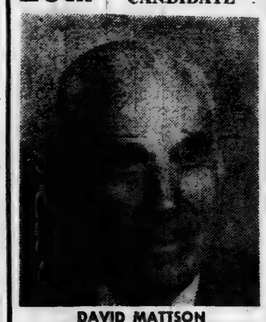
SHERIFF SALUTES SCRIBE—Eddie Lee King is being congratulated by Sheriff Eugene W. Biscailuz on his first anniversary with The California Eagle following a grand party given in the Sheriff's Press Room.

County Sheriff Lauds King, Eagle's Top Reporter

"This is one of the best banquets ever given in the Civic Center since I've been sheriff."

This was the comment of Sheriff Eugene W. Biscailuz about the grand party given by Howard Hertel, Bevo Means, Nick Vaccariello, Cliff Dektar, Phil Morehouse and Buck Forbes of the five Los Angeles metropolitan daily newspapers in the sheriff's press room, 159 Hall of Justice with Eddie Lee King as guest of honor.



King is celebrating his first anniversary with The California Eagle this week. He started one year ago with a column, "On the Scene" which he still maintains, and worked his way up to the top crime reporter of the Eagle staff in that period.

More than 2500 people from the Civic Center and newspapers passed through the press room to be served and to congratulate Eddie Lee King on his splendid accomplishments with the Eagle.

In that year people have given him such names as, "The Eagle's Eye," "Speedy Eagle" and "The Eagle's Ace Reporter."

26th CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT CANDIDATE

DAVID MATTSON

I have an unbroken record of honesty, efficiency and courtesy over a long period in public office.

A PRACTICAL PLATFORM

For Statehood for Hawaii and Alaska.

Opposed to ever-expanding Federal bureaucracy and appeasers of communism.

Against corruption, incompetance and waste.

Protect our water rights, our tideland and our western defenses.

I have no racial prejudices, thank God, my record in Congress would show. I have maintained my Real Estate office, with Ivan Austin, 2517 Central avenue, for several years, and lived in this district 5 years.

PUBLIC OFFICES HELD

County Clerk and County Auditor—Ogden.

State Treasurer — State Road Commissioner.

Secretary of State—State Bank Commissioner and Acting Governor—Utah.

In 1946 I was chairman of the Republican assembly to secure Fredric M. Roberts the nomination for Congress. We both worked hard: He was nominated.

This time Mr. Roberts and myself are the only persons on the Republican Ballot for Congress who really belong in the district. All others have just come in to the district for that purpose.

I have agreed to support Mr. Roberts if he is nominated and he has agreed to support me if I am nominated. . . . So you would be well represented in Congress.

"MY SKIN TROUBLE ANNOYED ME A LOT"

I. Margaret Sharp, 2109 Division St., Baltimore 17, Md.:

"My skin trouble annoyed me a lot. It was on my face and would itch and burn frightful. The Doctor called it Acne Pimples. I tried a lot of ointments but none seemed to hit the spot, until I tried Black and White Ointment. It certainly is a fine ointment. I recommend it to everybody."

Waiters Celebrate Festively

The Protective Order of Dining Car Waiters, Local 465, AF of L celebrated their 17th Anniversary at the Elks auditorium last Saturday, with a dance and raffle. Fine music was furnished by the Sammy Franklin orchestra.

The ladies auxiliary assisted in entertaining the guests and set the pace for the fun fest evening of frolic.

The first prize of a Hoffman TV set was won by Jack Girbney No. 3158. Second prize, a table model radio, was awarded to Clifton Davis No. 1812; and the third prize, a case of assorted "Cheer" was given to Albert H. Saunders No. 2894.

LADIES' AUXILIARY—Lower, Lucille Foster, Ruby Johnson, Elizabeth Johnson, Eddie Mae Spiller. Second, Helen Williams, vice-president; Mickey Whitaker, Goldie Washington, president; Clyde Howell, financial secretary. Third, A. J. Radford, Lydia Jackson, Josephine Cato, Lulu M. Dabney and Maude Bird, treasurer.

GUESTS GAILY GAB—Mrs. George E. Brown, G. Sanders, Mrs. W. Mc E. Pollard, Bill Walker and Mrs. C. Downey.

RAFFLE OFFERS LUXURIES—Intermission brought three lucky holders of raffle tickets three grand gifts: television set, radio and case of "Cheer." With assistance of Hester Beverly and Juanita Smiles, W. H. Wintersmith, Charlie Delaney, Santifer Cato, Leon Johnson, chairman, Homer Foster and Lawrence Cloyd fondly eye stubs before drawing.

OLD-TIMERS REMINISCE—While hundreds of people weaved in and out of the spacious Elk's auditorium, the retired members and old-timers of Local 465 found a secluded corner and tossed stories of the first celebrations held by the group. They all had one agreement in common and that was the fact that last Saturday's anniversary was the greatest of all. Pictured are Stewart Bryant, William Greer, L. E. Howell, district chairman; Mrs. A. J. Radford, office secretary; Harry Barnett, Allan William, Earl Abbott, Lee Toran. Top, John Farrell and Edward Clease.

BILL SMALLWOOD

The line forms on the right for chums of Cal Bailey. As of Monday a.m. last the guy went on the (mighty handsome) payroll out at NBC-TV as staff artist-illustrator. He's the first and only colored artist at that address; I for one think that calls for glad hosannahs in the village square! The Paul Williamses will be packing soon. They're off to Washington, D. C. whence Howard University is conferring an honorary degree on him. En route west again they will attend the Republican National Convention in Chicago.

June first is the wedding day for Willa Lorraine Green, daughter of the Lawrence Greens. She will become Mrs. Willard J. Powers at the University Methodist Church. Reception will follow at Wilfandel. Grandma-to-be Irene Morris chuckling at our recent query about the Big Date says: "As far as we know it will be any day now!"

The Pelican Pleasure Club were entertained by the John Norwoods Saturday night at their S. Manhattan Place home. Inez Davis has been on the ailing list. Ruth Towles expects summer house guests, come June. The Stafford Lotts (Gladys) get off on the 29 for their annual coast-to-coast trip by car; they've a new one for this trek. Always do they include his home town Minneapolis. They've plotted the trip this time in order to be in Chi by June 7 when Joe Robichaux make it to the altar (he and bride will honeymoon here). Also on hand then for the wedding will be Helen Lamb Crozier who will fly east. And her mother-in-law, Mrs. Joseph Crozier, also will be there. As will Mae Castleman who took a train out of here last Thursday for an extended trip. She will dash down to Miss. one weekend to visit her in-laws, then right back to Chi.

The Minnesota Club, busy again, plan a gay sort of night of it on June 21 on S. Harvard. A cross section of a raffle and dancing party, etc. These folk are masters of downright good ole times of getting together. Ralph Vaughn is doing the new cocktail lounge for the Watkins. Ethel Thomas and her youthful, fun-loving mom leave on the 29 for a trip about the land. They will swing through Texas and into N'Orleans then across to Manhattan Isle (here they'll settle for a gay spell of shows, shops, sightseeing ,etc.) and back to L. A. via Chicago. They will be gone a month. Ethel, whom everyone affectionately calls Tee, says: "It's my first time in New York and I'm thrilled already!" She's on the YWCA staff, you know.

Calvert's Joe Makel actually planes in tomorrow (Friday) via Inglewood from SF. He usually makes a bee line for the Clark Hotel annex on trips here. Everything obviously is well under control for one of our usually busy glamour gals takes time out to meet his plane! That birthday party on tap for (and by) Ray Mills comes off tomorrow night (Friday). His birthday is Sunday (18).

Dr. Ralph Bunche in reply to our query says: "I wish I did have more time to stay but as it is I must take a plane right back to N. Y. in order to maintain my schedule."

In town again: Dr. and Mrs. Bill Ozier. They were here earlier but decided to explore the Bay area beforedeciding on a permament nesting place. They found an apartment out on Somerset so that I presume indicates that (John's folks) of San Francisco have given up their long-time residence there and moved to LA. They have a place at Edgehill and Adams. Their son John and his wife Medeil (they live in Washington, D.C.) were out here earlier last summer visiting. The senior Hoskinses have consistent hopes they may someday entice the younger members of their family to trade their D.C. address for a local one.

Busy deb Janice Shelby, on the L. A. Hi debating team which journeys to Redlands College for competition. Holy Name School's brilliant Harold Hart-Nibbrig selected as the lone representative to attend an upstate Red Cross camp while learning life-saving techniques, etc. Fannie and Cy Mason due in from Louisville en route to Hawaii. They return to the mainland in July then continue direct to Europe for a rousing binge ("Long delayed!" Cy emphasizes). In Italy they will pick up a high-brown slick job of a Siata. That I especially want to see as I've never inspected that particular foreign-make car. They have reservations for the maiden voyage July 3 of the new United States, largest liner ever built in this country.

Must check the vague rumor that Mercedes Rector Horne and mate Frank are due here from D.C. this summer for a visit.

Woodlawn YWCA Winds Up Many Orchid Day Activities

Mrs. Beulah Arnaud, ways and means chairman of the YWCA Woodlawn branch, described the recent Orchid Days held at the branch as "tremendously successful."

Total reports from the affair were still incomplete at the report meeting this week as donations and payments are still coming in. To date some of the money has been used to help finance the cost of four delegates to convention, two of which were teen-agers and young adults.

Plans are underway to assist the young adults and teenagers to attend summer camp and conference.

"Catonians"

Activities of the branch during the week were numerous. On Saturday night the "Catonians" teenage co-ed club sponsored an orchid dance in honor of the Woodlawn Orchid queen, Carmelita Weathers. Admission was the cost of an orchid.

A decorated car in the recent NAACP parade was shared by the Orchid Queen and her court of teenagers Rochelle Wiliams, Clara Grey, Gay Lacey, and Goldie Fulcher, who took honors along with chairman Ethel Bryant. The car was furnished by Phil McGee of Elbow Bend and beautifully decorated with orchid leis.

Fashions

The Business and Professional club of the branch had as the theme of their annual fashion show "Fashions and Orchids" with Lena Torrence modeling the highlight of the show . . . a hat of live orchids created by Ruth Epps. Fashions were narrated by Mrs. A. C. Harris Bilbrew.

Mrs. Arnaud highly commended the orchid committee and the chairman, Ethel Bryant for a splendid job of organization. The Committee on Administration is planning a social meeting for this group in May for evaluation of the project.

The Committee on Administration also takes this opportunity to extend thanks to all individuals, ministers, churches and clubs who contributed to this success.

Assistance

Special commendations must go to the American Veteran Committee, chaired by Herbert James (Wendell Wilkie Chapter) for the largest number of sales of any organized group and for lending assistance in all phases of the project.

Members of the working committee were: Mmes. Ethel Bryant, chairman, Rosetta Overr, Will Elam, Jettie Mae Mathis, Carolyn Grant, Ella K. Mays, Effie Enox, Florabelle Jordan and Fannie Dean under the chairmanship of Etolia Jones, who solicited individual sales from churches and spots in the community.

HAL MILLER and KERRY JACKSON

WHAILS FOR TWO

Believing that my partner in scandal was going to miss the week-end whails, I (Kerry-Jackson) thought it only right to party for the both of us. 'Twas regretted later.

Pushing the unpredictable flivver along is pretty tough on a smaller fellow. So you can see I was relieved to find that the Zenda ballroom was situated in hilly part of the city.

When I finally fought my way to the door through the mob of scalpers and hot ticket venders, your scribe overheard the boys discussing that certain ofayish looking chick who withdrew from the contest because her folks felt it would be a detriment to their social standings if she won. (No hopes for that tho.)

Screams and smacking of lips distracted my attention from this hot conversation, but I finally found out why, when I gazed upon the various anatomys represented in this battle of the bulges.

The judges came to an agreement with apparent ease (can't see how) but as the way with all beauty contests the decision was not to well taken by some of the entrants who thought they had been slighted. Those who were hurt most were those who had gone out of their way to influence some of the male judges. And of course there was as always nasty tinge in the form of a few burlesques which helps to lower morals as well as opinions.

People Were Noticing:

Vera Francis' way out ideas. (UGH).

The rendition of the Horse, fox trot put on by Laurita Alexander.

The harsh words flying between a winner and castaway.

Betty Norman, Barbara Stovall and dates who were whispering about the good times to be had later.

The five that didn't show up, smart girls.

People like Sidney De Costa, Bill Tyre, Dorothy Akan, Walter Smith, Lorenzo Wallace and Artis Saunders who were carefully scrutinizing the contestants.

Calvin Lawrence, Beverly Kirkwood, Elaine Lindo, Alma Johnson, Betty Jones, Loretta Lee, Dorothy Cain, and Mary Cantrell who were having a stag-ing good time.

Marvelle Finks, Gloria Casey, Betty Brandon, Ted Schaffer, James McNeal, Valorie Coleman and Herb Wood who helped add color to this gay affair.

I (Hal Miller) thinking of how unfortunate it was that I had to leave prior to these good times but yet knowing there was no way of excape, traveled with LACC's track team up north to San Luis Obispo and Fresno respectively for a couple of grueling track meets.

After racking up a ninety-three point victory over the majority of JC's in California Thursday, at the Poly Royal Relays, we packed up gear and left for Fresno the following day. In my leisure time between meets I happened upon one of Fresno's loveliest, a certain Sandra Simms who was very hospitable and showed me around during the brief visit. I was quite amazed to find such a beauty hidden away in raisin valley. And too, she made it a more enjoyable stay for the home-sick Hound.

Noticed that a few Angelenos traversed to Fresno at this particular time. Saw Randy Gooseby and David Reed sitting on the athletic field as if they were ready for action. A few others noticed in the crowded stadium were Kenneth Hill and Gloria Crouch; Leon McCarty; Mary Ann Vandange and Fred Zanders; Lang Stanley; and Joan Southern whose face registered wide smiles as George broke records. Also spoke to Guy Blackburn whose able talents fared him well in the sprints and relays. Met Ollie Matson, Mal Whitfield, Herm Wyatt, John George, and other greats who participated in the great fest.

Congratulations and all that sort of rot to the neophites that just joined the sorority of AKA. Rosemary Hunter, Jeanne Boyd, Nira Hardon, Madeline Carter, and Melba Collins were the newlymades.

Things To Come

Watch for the Apollins "Sentiments in Rhythm" at the El Sombrero on Thursday, May 29th. Sonny Criss and Wardell Gray will provide the music and you will be expected to join the fun.

People Are Remembering:

The affairs put on by Millard Johnson just before he shipped out for Germany.

Jimmy Bernard who is using his OTHER girl friend as a front for bigger and better things, namely Greta Green.

How serious affection drove Austin Nicholas and Charlotte (Johnson) Nicholas to the alter.

That John Long is soon joining the ranks of the living dead (married life).

How long it took SAM to catch up with Sam McCalister. His friends gave him a wild sendoff which he will think of as he peels potatoes.

One More Organism

There's one more person in the world as of last Saturday. She belongs to Murial Thompson and hubby who now have a threesome.

Things To Come

If you're not doing anything Friday night after the Coliseum relays, drop by the AKA's "Night in Trinidad at the Masonic Hall on 59th and Broadway. It promises to be well worth your while.

Women's Auxiliary Gives "America the Melting Pot"

They say history does repeat itself! Just as they came to America hundreds of years ago—they are coming again! The French, English, Africans, Italians, Spanish! Yes, they are all coming to "America the Melting Pot." That is the theme for the charity fashionetta to which the ladies of the auxiliary to the Medical, Dental, and Pharmaceutical association are hostesses. It is being produced by Joyce Cockrell. Elaborate plans in brilliant colors are in the making.

The Elks Auditorium on May 25 at 2 p.m. will be transformed in the land that history tells us of. The spectacular pageant begins with the presentation of the big unknown Indian Chief, Chinese live doll, Hawaiian dancers, 4 gay senoritas, with many others representing the American melting pot.

FRATERNAL AFFAIRS — Regional officers are Charles McArthur, A. P. Durouseau, Luther M. Hudson, and Dr. Charles E. Spann.

Dr. Spann Declines Old Office

At that time Dr. Spann declined to run for the office of president for 1952 because he stated "Due to the pressing responsibilities involved in the performance of my duties as Associate Regional Director, to my intense interest in one phase of our program, namely that of bigger and better business, I am forced to decline to run for office of president.

However at this time I would like to thank all of you, my brothers, for the splendid cooperation you have given me during the past year which made it possible for us to acquire the fraternity house that we are now occupying."

Attorney Curtis Taylor is the newly elected president of the chapter.

BEAUTICIAN'S DAY — Committee members of the Hair Stylists Guild Inc. have extended invitations to all hairdressers and barbers to worship with them Sunday, May 25 at Second Baptist church, 24th and Griffith honoring a beautician's day. In the future, the guild of 100 members headed by Sadie Louise Davidson, member advisory committee of State Board of Cosmetology, plans to hold services in other churches. In December an award will be given to some outstanding minister. Next Sunday's service will be held at 11 a.m.

Top Prize of Boat Trip Entices Eager Contestants to Push Votes

Reservation for a trip to Europe has been made by the Wilfandel Contest committee and is being held for the girl who, after closing report on May 30, has received the highest over 1400 votes in a race for three scholarships.

Top prize is the boat trip, and friendly rivalry is running high as the month of May starts off chock full of activities for eager contestants. In the spring a young man's fancy turns to thoughts of love, but these girls —well, they'll travel first.

The postal group which has endorsed Diane Watson predict that she is sure to win, and their dance frolic on May 24 at Humanist hall should put this little lady out in front.

Contestants Marcela Turner, Gloria Brandle, Danellen Mabry, Shirley Rose Alexander and Fay Wagner are doing some quiet campaigning, but any of them might create a deadlock. Then, too, one might settle for the scholarship to any university in the United States, as second prize; or third prize scholarship to a local university.

People and Places

The only thing wrong we found with the selection of Miss Bronze L. A. at the Zenda Ballroom the other eve, was the sorry attempt of the judges to put a "Miss Bronze in a "Miss America" measurement. It seemed to us that aping our white brothers and sisters in mannerisms is one thing, but to insult the beauty of the Negro woman by trying to fit her into someone else's bathing suit is just too much. And if what the judges came up with as their idea of bronze, the gals better stock up with plenty of Black and White bleaching cream.

PARISIAN FANTASY

The Pen and Scroll group that will sponsor Dorothea Towles in her only L. A. fashion show come May 24th at the Florentine Gardens is getting to be known as the Hens and Squablers. The WESTERNETTES Riding club once one of the city's most popular social clubs is about to split. The members can't seem to agree and some are being accused of poultry dealing.

SHOW BIZ

AL WILLIAMS of the famed Four Step Brothers is back in town sporting one of those crazy '52 De Villes and natch the chicks are tossing him that please pick me up look. Understand that "SHUFFLE ALONG" is getting so many sensational new raves that it may soon reach NYs Great White-Way. The boys along the avenoo are asking themselves how poor can a road manager be? It seems that the manager of the current headliner of the Club Alabam borrowed one dollar from one of the waiters to eat the other eve. Only thing wrong is that he had been getting advances on the "Lady's" salary. One and two hundred at a time and the only night he missed was Friday when the owner said "no" to his request for loot.

AIN'T LOVE GRANDSSS?

The rumors have it that sudden marriage of that very looted and attractive San Jose number to the big man out of Chicago is cooling off. In fact things are supposedly so bad in the household that dynamite may explode any second.

THE DOPE SET

The grapevines are buzzing about a heroin raid on E. 58th drive the early a.m. It's certain to have put two well known figures in a tough spot and were it not for a good flow of words the news would have rocked the pillars of our high society.

BANG GANG

The guys and gals who get a bang out of life by shooting "Harry" in their arms, toes and hips added a new twist now that you get the joint for fresh marks found on your person as a result of using dope. The new gimmick to baffle narcotics agents is that they shoot the stuff behind the tip end of the ear.

THREE FINGERS

Leslie Biscoe, expert playground and swimming instructor, is missing a couple of fingers as a result of testing a power-lawn mower. He wanted to feel if it worked! It did! BILLY BOSWELL, the beau-brummel of the west-coast, is dividing his time between here and Las Vegas. Dapper Robert Jenkins is on the loose again. His love flew east. He is turning down tickets to join her but says he might weaken any moment.

GOOD MEAL

Maurice Saunders, brings her culinary arts to the old Dunbar Grill establishment at 42nd and S. Central avenue. Elihu "Black Dot" McGee, a lover of good foods is setting the lady up in business. It is his way of showing her how well he thinks she can burn.

BLOOD RED

Paul Harris of the great Ford and Harris dance team has danced his way into the driver's seat of a new '52 blood red Packard. The team will open at the Warfield with the Andrews Sisters May 28.

WE MEAN IT

Epsilon Nu Delta means embalmers, the "Digger O'Dells, and according to secretary Noami Fudge they are tossing a cocktail party Sunday, June 1. The members will be looking over the bodies with tape measures. Hoping they won't spike the punch with formaldheyde.

UP S. F. WAY

Cleat Oliver, one-time L. A. man-about-town and a heat robber among the social set, got himself married to an "grey" gal up San Francisco way. Al Webster is operating at Michel's delicatessen, a Fillmore street biz. Buddy Lewis, ex-husband of Nellie Lutcher, the singing star, is sporting up and down Post street in his sleek new car. Les Armstrong's Plantation Club is still the mecca for show folks and visitors. Les was off to Fresno for the relays a sport he seldom misses. Chas. Sulivan is boking the Louis Jordan band around S. F. Will be in town for the Calvacade of Jazz. Wayne Smith and Willie Raine are still doing business at the W. & W. Liquors. S. W. Corlett is in the building business. Curtis Mosby's Champagne Club reminds us of the great shows he produces at our Club Alabam.

LOCAL GALS

Dorothy Dandridge, and Angele De Lavallade, a couple of glamour brownskins, are the cover gals on two national magazines this month. Both are former Jefferson High school students, which is another boost for the already famous prep institution.

GRAND OPENING

That cozy 58th and Broadway Champagne club operated by Ruth Semus is having its grand opening come Friday, May 16. Better drop in for some fun.

HOW MUCH YOU GANNA TAKE

That, "What Gives, Mike?" handkerchief heads editorial about the swellest bunch of postal employes you will find any place, gives rise to this query: "Does she consider Negroes who read her paper nothing less than tramps?" It's your thanks for your dime. Maybe one day we will grow up and act against the Negro-evils that hold back our progress.

She insults every worthwhile Negro organization, makes mock of the NAACP, contends that Negroes have no business living west of Central avenue.

THEATRE

FORTUNA PARTY—Fred Harris, popular liquor representative, splurged wildly with a cocktail party for the press and guests recently at the Paradise Lounge, 5505 S. Central. The "sip" introduced his distiller's new bourbon, Fortuna which was readily consumed by several hundred people. Serving as hosts were Harris, Cheri Turner, Al Austin, Paradise owner, Clara Yeager and L. C. Bland, Paradise manager.

Louis Jordan Booked For Eighth Cavalcade of Jazz

The fabulous Louis Jordan and his greatly enlarged orchestra fresh from a short retirement is scheduled to "blow the walls off" Wrigley Field, when they headline the Eighth Annual Cavalcade of Jazz, Sunday afternoon, June 1.

With a veritable caravan of stars appearing on the show and added attractions galore, the event looms as the biggest Cavalcade of Jazz yet.

Youthful Toni Harper, singing star of motion pictures and stage, now 15 years of age, will spotlight the show with vocals that has caused critics to compare her with Billie Holiday and Ella Fitzgerald. Also appearing on the show will be blues singer Jimmy Witherspoon, Roy Brown and his orchestra, Jerry Wallace, impersonator, and others to be announced in a later release.

Crowning of the "Sun Crest Queen of the Cavalcade of Jazz" will be one of the main attractions of the show. The Queen will reign at the Cavalcade of Jazz.

Tickets for the Cavalcade may be obtained from the following agencies: Westcoast Service Bureau, Dolphins of Hollywood, Rosslyn Music Center, Watts Music Center, Southern California Music Store, Capitol Record Shop, Flash Record Studio on Western Ave., Wrigley Field, and at all Mutual Ticket Agencies.

ning, never could plan. A star in 1941 — he was unemployed, unwanted in 1942.

Only "Bit" Part

In 1944 he came to Hollywood for a starring role in "Lifeboat" with Tallulah Bankhead. Two years later he was lucky to get a bit part as a police captain in "Lost Boundaries."

Fighting, battling all the way along the road, Canada put on white makeup in 1947 to play in the "Duchess of Malfi"—in a vain, unsuccessful attempt to convince Broadway and Hollywood to hire him as an actor and allow him to make-up to different roles.

In 1950, Canada had to run so fast to land the part of the minister in "Cry the Beloved Country," that he finally lost his health in the running.

GIPSONNET

Three Monkeys sat in a cocoanut tree,
Discussing things as they're said to be —
Said one to the others, 'Now, listen, you two,
There's a certain rumor that can't be true —
That Man descended from Our Noble Race,
The very idea is a disgrace

No Monkey ever deserted his wife,
Starved her babies and ruined her life —
And you've never known a Mother Monk,
To leave her babies with others to bunk.
Or to pass them on from one to another —
'Til they scarcely know who is their Mother.
And another thing you'll never see —
A Monk build a fence 'round a cocoanut tree.
And let the cocoanuts go to waste,

Forbidding all other Monks a taste.
Why, if I'd put a fence 'round a cocoanut tree,
Starvation would force you to steal from me.
Here is another thing a Monk won't do —
Go out at night and get on a Stew.
Or use a Gun or Club or Knife —
To take some other Monkey's life.
Yes, Man descended — the orneky cues,
But, brother, he didn't descend from Us!

"GIP'S QUIPS"

I ASK A FEW QUESTIONS: Why doesn't Laraine Day-Durocher cease calling Jackie Robinson "a cry-baby" in every interview she gives out especially when she admits in the same breath that it isn't true? Could it be that the publicity-conscious Day knows this item will keep making the headlines?

Why must Negroes pit one star against another as if one must be better than the other? Can't they stand at least two in the same field when the whites have fifty and praise them all? We've been noticing one magazine pitting Dorothy Dandridge against Lena Horne. They're both greats and we can certainly stand both stars so why ask the insane question "Which is greater?"

BLUES IN THE NEWS

Louis Jordan's television stint for Milton Berle show was interesting though he could only do a novelty number. No dialogue between the two as with the other stars. Porfirio Rubirosa, the suave Puerto Rican who was former husband to richest-girl-in-the-world, Doris Duke, now figuring prominently in the tobacco heir Richard Reynolds' divorce case. Billy Daniels called another "Copa Scoop" because he followed right on the heels of Johnnie Ray (the "CRY" boy) at the Copacabana.

BLUES IN THE NIGHT

BILLIE HOLIDAY'S currently at the CLUB ALABAM and from what we hear IS WRAPPING THINGS up in a NEAT PACKAGE! GAL CHIRPS like a bird, and has PLENTY "MIKE" SAVVY plus terrific KNOWLEDGE ON how to put a SONG ACROSS!

GLADYS BENTLEY'S NEW record, "JUNE TEENTH JAMBOREE," is clicking already! Disc FEATURES THE Tenor-tooting of BUMPS MYERS and GLADYS plays some mighty solid PIANO! A DEFINITE "HIT" disc!!!

RIGHT AT NIGHT

BILL SAMPSON clicks as the MAGNET that's drawing the guys and gals into the DUMAS DRIVE-IN RESTAURANT out on FLORENCE. Sampson's nitetime radio program IS ONE OF LOS ANGELES' leading air shows. He plays POP records and Favorites OF YESTERYEAR!

WARDELL GRAY, former Benny Goodman SAX TOOTER, IS planning to ORGANIZE his OWN SWING BAND. Mr. Wardell recently concluded a record-breaking engagement at the TIFFANY CLUB, where he laid 'EM IN THE AISLE and is now a stellar feller at the Cellar!!!

Babe Wilson took exception to the little squib about the "Raggedy Nine" that appeared last week, and with good cause. Babe says we forgot to mention Eddie Kaufman, who pitched a no-hitter against the Giants and a kid, the Royal Giants, that is. O.K., Babe, we'll go all with you this time.

Incidentally, Babe got his name because he was such a long ball hitter when he was a kid.

Along with the Raggedy Nine, which really was the Social Knights, was Grant's All Stars, a softball team. They won so many championships that it was a shame. "Big Train" was the pitcher, and he can still fog them in.

Station K's baseball team had a little trouble with the Muni in concern with the baseball tournament. Seems that the boys have been winning so much that the playground department figured to keep them out. The boys squawked so loud, and got hold of Mr. S. W. Green, playground perennial, who went down and put the heat on the dept. Now the boys figure to give Shumway and Co. hades in the coming play-offs.

Hal Miller, one of the many gifted athletes on the Eagle staff, took a second in the junior colege division of the Fresno Relays. All the boys from San Francisco went to witness the event. Les Armstrong, Emory Haller, Pervy Williams, Charles Sullivan and all the rest of the Frisco sports attended. "Boss" Hatcher couldn't make it. Had too much going at the track, Golden Gate, that is.

JEFFERSON High School's great track and field team led the field last week at the Coliseum in the city's preliminaries, qualifying 25 men for Friday night's finals.

HEAVYWEIGHT champion Jersey Joe Walcott churned through his first boxing session in preparation for his scheduled title defense against Ezzard Charles in Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium, June 5.

LARRY DOBY, out of the Cleveland Indians line-up since May 1, broke a 0-0 game in the third inning with a two-run homer. Doby went on to hit three for five.

MINNIE MINOSO, Chicago White Sox battling star, drove across four runs, two of them with a 415-foot homer as the Sox handed the Red Sox their fifth straight loss, 5-0, Tuesday.

JEFFERSON High's baseballers scored a 1-0 victory over the Manual Arts team.

JOE LOUIS celebrated his 38th birthday with his two youngsters. The Brown Bomber is devoting plenty of time to golf.

NATIONAL LEAGUE President Warren Giles said last week that the NL is proud of Jackie Robinson. Giles and Robinson ironed out their differences and Giles went on to present Brooklyn catcher Roy Campanella with a plaque for being named the league's most valuable player last season.

FRIDAY was proclaimed "Coliseum Relays Day" Tuesday in a resolution passed by the County Board of Supervisors.

The Board also proclaimed May 18-25 as "Olympic Games Week," and urged people of the Southland to contribute to the Olympic fund for American athletes. The annual Coliseum Relays will be staged on Friday evening. WARCOS, one of the best horses ever bred in Long Beach, ran away with first prize in the $29,650 Premiere Handicap Tuesday as Hollywood Park's 13th race meeting opened before a crowd of 26,327 fans.

Democrats Win Diamond Pair

The varsity baseball team at Jefferson High School finally lined up to supporters hopes and won their first pair of Southern League victories for the year. Led by alert, competitive Earl Wilson the Democrats completely baffled the experienced nine from Fremont. Wilson pitched a 4-0 shutout limiting the Pathfinders to four scratch bingles. Arthur Alvarez, the teams leading hitter, was outstanding again at bat and in the field. Coach Ray Webba can be very proud of the business like the way his boys handled themselves in this fray.

Again three days later on the Ross Snyder diamond the Jeff broke a seventh inning tie by blasting home a run with one out in the bottom of the seventh. Wilson was again the big guy as it was his smack tha broke the tie and, although he was only credited with a single because the game ended with the blow, the ball was still going in right center when the overjoyous Democarts were celebrating the win.

Rickey Wants Negro Players in Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, Pa.—Branch Rickey is coveting anxiously the hard slugging Negro infielder, Jim Pendleton, now the property of the Dodgers' farm club, Montreal. When Rickey meets with the Dodgers vice-presidtnt, Buzzy Bavasi, over the weekend, it is known he will bid most eagerly for Pendleton.

Rickey needs infielders—among other things—with his club comfortably in the cellar 8½ games off the pace. Moreover he is anxious to bring a Negro to Pittsburgh. So if he could manage to swing Pendleton from the Dodgers by offering substantial bait, it would be quite a feather in the cap of this ace trader.

JEFF CALLED CINCH TO WIN TRACK FLAG

By MIKE MARIENTHAL

The Jefferson High School Democrats are odds-on favorites to again overwhelm their opponents and capture the city track and field championship. Going into last Saturday's preliminaries with 27 entrants the Democrats almost did the impossible. They lost only two men and these two on the closest of margins. The boys who didn't qualify for the finals were Earl Robinson in the high hurdles and Billy Wright in the shot put.

Jeff has representation in all the varsity events including the relays. They have two participants in every event except the mile, broad jump, and high jump, where there are still three boys competing in the 880 where Jeff has only Willie McMahan. The balance and terrific depth on this team is a real asset even though the present outfit doesn't possess the first place strength that the 1950 outfit did. In all three divisions, there was only one event that will go without Jefferson representation, that being the class C shot put. This is surely a record of some sort. The Bees earned 16 qualifying places while the Cees got 14.

It is believed by this reporter that the Democrats will break the city scoring record with something like 121 points. The record was set two years ago by Blackburn, Stanley, Green and Company but the present team doesn't figure to be anywhere as strong as that outfit in the state meet which, incidentally, will be held in the L.A. Coliseum on Saturday, May 24th.

Outstanding in the preliminaries were the performances of the city pole vaulters who had to clear 12' 3" to qualify for the finals. O. W. Rhodes and Charles Hammond were two of the twelve who made the grade but Rhodes had a considerable amount of trouble and this gutty performer came through anyhow even though he was having an off day. The Manual Arts relay team came in with the season's fastest time to establish themselves as the favorites in the eight man mile. Their time was 3:01 compared to Jefferson and Jordan's 3:02.1.

City College Eyes Junior Championship

Eager to compensate for their disappointing showing in last weekend's West Coast Relays at Fresno, Coach Wendell Smith's Los Angeles City College trackmen rule a solid favorite to mop up all opposition in the Southern California Junior College championship meet Saturday afternoon and evening at Riverside JC.

The Southern California meet is being renewed for the first time since 1943 when Fullerton was the winner. The meet was begun in 1927 and Cub teams have been victorious four times (1933-35-36-37). The discus event will be held in the afternoon at 2:30, with heats at 3. Finals in all events get underway at 6 p.m.

Smith has entered 19 men and hopes to see his pupils bring back blue ribbons in the 440, 880, two-mile, broad jump, and mile relay.

MURDER CHARGED

with these people, I feel different, I feel wanted."

Previously Mrs. Edwards had said that she wanted a husband, but no one seemed to care anything about her. "I wanted a man to love me and my children—I wanted a man to—to live with, but they only came for an hour or a night, never longer but it was long enough for them to get the only thing they came for and leave me with another baby, most times."

Haunted By Fears

"It's wonderful in jail. It's better than on the outside. . . . I couldn't sleep and now I've slept every night since being here.

"I was always haunted by inner fears and had no peace of mind. I don't know what of, but I was always afraid."

Mrs. Edwards talked as though she was protected and safe in jail and with her three younger children dead and the older two, Lois Marie, seven and Frances Elaine, six, with her husband, Booker Taliaferro, who lives in the Banning Homes in San Pedro.

A witness stated during the inquest that Mrs. Edwards was in Kankakee State Mental Hospital for the insane in Kankakee, Illinois in 1948.

Last Wednesday, after giving her three babies their breakfast, Mrs. Edwards put them all back to bed, then quietly and neatly proceeded to slit the throats of all three with a butcher knife, one clean cut to each child.

She told the Eagle that she did it in such a manner as to cause the children no pain. One screamed for a moment, she said, but then was still. All of the children died instantly.

After committing the murders, Mrs. Edwards called the family priest and told him what she had done. He notified the police.

When police arrived they found the three children in their blood-spattered beds, the stained butcher knife lying on one of them.

Mrs. Edwards said she was not sorry, that it had to be done.

QUALIFIED ENTERPRISING PERSONNEL — The Independent retail market chain of Thriftmart, Fitzsimmons and Roberts, was wise to place men who are respected community members in top positions in the Vermont-Adams Thriftmart. Happy to serve their neighbors and friends are Minor Clark, grocery department; J. B. "Jug" Neal, assistant manager grocery; Edward Johnson, manager liquor department; Joe Englehart, manager produce and Richard Sadler, head of meat department.

Thriftimart Modern Version of Super Mart

Placed in the center of one of the community's busiest thoroughfares is a modern version of a deluxe market center. Designed, constructed and maintained to serve buyers of every kind with the quantity and quality of good merchandise, Thriftimart, corner of Vermont and Adams, is rapidly becoming the mecca of consumer's exchange in Los Angeles today.

The success of a grocery, produce and meat enterprise is based upon customer's satisfaction of the market's goods. Thriftimart is one of the few markets that has consistently maintained its patronage and increased buyers to its present high quota.

As one enters the brightly lit, aid conditioned and immaculately cleaned market, he is impressed with the friendly service, good merchandise, and low prices the chain has created for the family budget.

Sparing no expense to inaugurate a structure which would provide adequate space for shoppers, Thrifitmart boasts a building which houses 1000 buyers at one time.

The reason why Thriftimart can supply its community with goods priced exceptionally low is due to its great quantities purchased at one time. The money saved from such carload marketing slashes the prices for money saving shoppers.

Storage of food in huge refrigeration devices keep it fresh and ready for the housewives' market basket. Produce of all kinds, displayed in nature's own colors attract the eyes as well as the pocketbook.

Varieties of good are emphasized by its buying department to satisfy the various food wants of thousands of people.

Scouts In Search Of Good Deeds

1000 Boy Scouts from McKinley District will ring doorbells in search of good deeds from the public, from 6:30 p.m. till 8:30 p.m. on Friday, May 16.

Supervisor Roach deserves re-election

This I have learned from many years of journalistic contact with political activities:

It is always easier for a candidate to appear worthy of an office he does not hold, than it is for the office-holder to appear worthy of re-election.

It is important, I think, to bring the truth of that observation to the attention of those voters of Los Angeles county who must deal with the important job of selecting a county supervisor at the primaries on June 3.

Outside the presidency itself, there is probably no elective office in the country as exacting and exasperating as the office of supervisor of Los Angeles county.

In the Second district, Supervisor Leonard J. Roach is running for re-election. On the basis of his record in office he should be re-elected at the primaries.

His record of accomplishments during nearly seven years of service should be considered within the framework of his efforts to reduce rather than increase the county tax rate. In the face of increasing costs in every department of county government, coupled with population increases that must be met with increased services, Supervisor Roach and his fellow supervisors have succeeded in cutting the county tax rate 30 cents per $100 assessed value.

Supervisor Roach has rendered outstanding service to the Second district. He brought to a successful conclusion the long-time effort to establish Sportsman's Park at Century boulevard and Western avenue. He was able to push through to completion the community buildings at Roosevelt Park and Will Rogers Park.

I think it can be said that no section of the United States is as beset with demands for opening, widening and paving streets as is Los Angeles county. Such projects do not just "happen" as a matter of routine. Each one requires the guiding hand of an experienced public servant who knows how to get public work started—and finished.

In the Second district Supervisor Roach has put through the widening and paving of Santa Barbara boulevard, Exposition boulevard, Compton avenue, Budlong avenue, Normandie avenue, Century boulevard and Imperial highway.

Parents and youngsters alike will long remember Supervisor Roach for his successful fight to secure funds to open school playyards to children after regular school hours, Saturdays and Sundays, under trained recreation directors. Perhaps no other single bit of county legislation has done so much to meet, in a realistic way, the problem of juvenile delinquency.

The people of the Second district will do well indeed to re-elect their supervisor for another term. The entire county will profit from his experience and ability.—Manchester Boddy. —May 8, 1952

Rev. Jordan Voted New AME Bishop

The Rev. Frederick M. Jordan, pastor of Ward African Methodist Episcopal church here was named bishop Monday at the general conference of the A.M.E. body in Chicago.

Bishop Jordan will be sent to South Africa as will one of the other newly-made bishops. Dr. E. C. Hatcher of Nashville. The third, Dr. Howard W. Primm of New Orleans, will go to West Africa.

First From West

Western members of the A.M.E. persuasion are jubilant over Dr. Jordan's election both because of his popularity in this area and because he is reportedly the first bishop ever selected from the far west. (This district is known officially as the Fifth Episcopal District and extends from St.

ATTY. HERBERT GREENWOOD

H. Greenwood Named Asst. U. S. Attorney

Herbert Alonzo Greenwood, well-known attorney, was appointed an assistant U.S. attorney Monday by U.S. Atty. Walter S. Binns.

Greenwood will be in charge of the Federal Housing Authority unit of the Federal prosecutor's office.

The new appointee will be the only Negro to hold a post of U.S. attorney in Los Angeles, but is not the first to hold this office here. Ivan Johnson III held the first such appointment. A number of years later George Cannady served for a brief period.

Greenwood has been on the Board of Equalization since 1935, and a resident of Los Angeles for the past 22 years. He is a native of Atlanta, and is a graduate of Atlanta University and Western Reserve Law School, in Cleveland, and has also studied at the University of Southern California.

With his wife, the former Miss Irene Flood of Hawaii, and 11-year-old daughter Jean, he lives at 3011 12th avenue, and has long participated actively in community life, in addition to handling his law practice.

Greenwood was recommended for the position by Assemblyman Augustus F. Hawkins and Rep. Sam Yorty.

He is a member of the Alpha Phi Alpha fraternity; has been a master for the past two years of the Angel City Masonic lodge No. 18, of which he is the Grand Senior Warden and former Grand Inspector; member of the People's Independent Church of Christ; and of the American Legion Post No. 532, also past judge advocate of the post.

Victim Is Critically Wounded

ON EMERGENCY POLITICAL MISSION—Attorney William T. McKnight is greeted by Eagle Editor S. Wendell Green upon his arrival by American Airlines from Cleveland to pinch hit for Senator Estes Kefauver. The senator was unable to make a scheduled speaking engagement at the Democratic Luncheon Club Tuesday. McKnight will remain in California until June 3, campaigning for the Kefauver slate.

Negro Lawyer Takes Place Of Kefauver

By WENDELL GREEN

"Estes Kefauver is the man for President," declared William T. McKnight, Clevelaand's top Negro attorney and wartime regional director of FEPC. "I have followed his career closely since we were classmates in Yale, and I know that on his record, he is the outstanding liberal candidate for the presidency today," McKnight told a press conference in the Town House Tuesday morning.

"I know that many of us are

Granger Slams Gwinn Prop. Now in Senate

The Gwinn amendment to the Independent Offices Appropriation Bill, passed recently by the House of Representatives and now before the Senate Banking and Currency Committee, has been characterized as a "thoroughly mischievous and destructive legislative proposal" by Lester B. Granger, executive director of the National Urban League, in letters sent to members of the Senate committee and made public this week.

Announcing the League's opposition, Granger said that if the Gwinn amendment should pass "it would imperil the financing of all kinds of public housing" and charged that it "strikes a blow at the democratic concept of civil liberties."

The amendment, proposed by Rep. Ralph W. Gwinn (Rep. N.Y.) and attached to the Appropriation Bill as a rider, provides that no federal funds may be spent on any low-rent public housing that shelters a tenant who belongs to any organizations designated by the Attorney General as subversive.

Explaining the opposition of the National Urban League, Mr. Granger wrote that there are more than a hundred organizations which have been officially listed as subversive, and that with more than 800,000 persons now living in government housing units, it would be impossible for the FBI or any other agency to make more than a pretense of checking their affiliations.

He also said that it would be impossible for any such investigations to be attempted without inflicting gross injustices and severe hardships upon thousands of innocent persons.

'Yes' Vote Urged On Public Housing

A "Yes" vote on Proposition "B," federally financed low-rent housing, was strongly urged this week by Woodrow Redo, chairman of the Hou[illegible]ng Committee, Los Angeles branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

"The false and misleading propaganda widely distributed by real estate interests has confused many people in Los Angeles, and throughout our community on the housing issue," Redo stated.

"Negroes and members of other minority groups have a real stake in the outcome of this issue," he continued. "For one thing, there is absolutely no segregation in the federally sponsored housing projects in the city of Los Angeles.

"For another, residents for the projects are selected strictly on the basis of financial need and similar considerations. These homes are designed for people with low incomes, and these are the people who will live in them. This is the truth of the situation, and any other statements about favoritism, etc., are totally false.

"Nor is it true that these projects will increase taxes for other citizens of Los Angeles. The opposite is true, and the facts prove this.

"The Housing Committee of the NAACP, after careful consideration of all the issues involved, is wholeheartedly endorsing Proposition "B" on the June 3 ballot, and urges all of its members and everyone else in the community to go to the polls, vote "Yes" on Proposition "B," and see to it that every voter among your friends also votes "Yes" on June 3.

Mother Begged For Test

Mrs. Ruth Edwards, the young mother who on May 7 neatly slit the throats of her three babies while they were in bed, told the EAGLE this week that before the tragedy she had begged for a sanity test.

She said she had gone to the General Hospital three weeks before, that they had examined her, found her normal, and sent her home.

She also said that five days before the triple slayings she had called the police and told them she had killed one of her children. They investigated, found the children alive, and dropped the matter.

Mrs. Edwards, now in County jail, is to be arraigned June 3. She is being held without bail, but prefers to be in jail than on the "outside."

"I went to the psychiatric ward at General Hospital," Mrs. Edwards told an Eagle reporter Tuesday afternoon. She didn't remember the exact date. Hollenbeck police confirmed that it was about three weeks before the murders.

"I told them I thought I was going crazy, that I was thinking of killing my children and committing suicide, and asked

Robeson Here After Battles In Northwest

Paul Robeson, one of the world's most famous baritones and currently one of the nation's most controversial political figures, is scheduled to give a concert here May 25, at the Embassy auditorium.

He comes here fresh from the Northwest, where he won two battles and lost one for the right to sing at previously arranged meetings.

He won in Berkeley, after one of the most rousing talk-fights in recent years, in which everybody, including the mayor, got into the battle.

He also won in Seattle. But he lost in San Francisco. He was to have sung there at the War Memorial hall May 23, but at the last minute authorities refused to go through with the contract. The concert was hastily changed to the Macedonia Baptist church.

The Los Angeles appearance is the first since 1950 when Robeson sang to a tremendous crowd at Wrigley field.

68 LONG DAYS— HOME BOMBERS ARE STILL FREE

Sixty-eight days ago—eight days more than two months—two bombs exploded on Dunsmuir avenue.

The dynamiters were trying to drive Negroes out of homes they had bought.

The mayor, the chief of police and an assortment of public officials rushed into print to announce that the bombers would be arrested and prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

Today—68 days later—nobody has been arrested. Nobody.

City officials are silent now.

What are they waiting for? Another bomb?

Nobody has ever been arrested in Los Angeles for acts of vandalism directed against Negro home owners.

What's the matter, Chief Parker?

Negroes Tortured at Steel Whipping Post in La. Jail

BATON ROUGE, La.—Medieval barbarism in the treatment of Negroes was uncovered in a Louisiana prison last week.

Torture instrument was a steel whipping post to which Negroes were shackled, their wrists thrust through hoops of iron. The prisoner's hands were then bound together, so tightly that he could hardly move.

He was then "given the works." The racks were used in all kinds of weather, the prisoners kept without food or water.

The whipping post was "standard" punishment at St. Gabriel prison, a division of Louisiana's Angola state penitentiary.

Head of the prison camp where the whipping post was installed, Capt. John Landry, admitted its use on Negro prisoners. He added cynically that prisoners "can sleep at them just as well as they can in bed."

Existence of the torture instrument was disclosed by a white former inmate. Following his disclosure, Baton Rouge newspapers printed pictures of the whipping post. After the expose, the post was ordered torn down.

The white man who revealed the brutal torture was beaten before he was discharged. He reported this to the FBI, and decided to tell what he had seen while he was prison guard over 300 Negro prisoners.

Rev. Cofield said, "I was aware of many reasons why Mr. Roach should be re-elected and relative to his devotion to fair treatment for all citizens regardless of race or color, but I had no idea he had touched the lives of so many individual citizens in the district.

WASHINGTON HITS SLUMS

Kenny Washington, candidate for Supervisor, demanded that an end be put to politician-created slums in a statement today.

"The housing problem in Los Angeles is much broader than the Federal housing issue," Washington pointed out. "Certainly existing slums must be cleared by whatever means necessary and adequate homes provided for our citizens.

Kefauver Gets MacBeth Okay

Hugh E. MacBeth, Los Angeles attorney, long prominent in Negro community work, today made public a letter he wrote to Sen. Estes Kefauver.

"I am particularly concerned over the possibility of any cowardly political attacks upon you directed to the colored American voters of the country and based upon the fact of your having been born and reared in Tennessee," wrote MacBeth.

"You are no more responsible for the fact and place of your birth than are our colored people responsible for their racial identity, or the color of their skins.

"Do not fail to call upon me if I can be of any service to you in your campaign, which campaign, in truth, is my campaign and the campaign of every sincere American who believes in the Democratic way of life."

MacBeth is a delegate at large on the Kefauver slate in California.

Southeasterners Elect Negro to Education Board

Atty. Xenephon Lang last Friday won a seat on the Board of Education of Enterprise School District, an area largely peopled by whites.

The wealthy elementary school district extends south from El Segundo boulevard to 190th street and west from Central avenue to Main street. The newly built Rosecrans Gardens tract is within the boundaries.

Lang led the field in the voting from the time the polls opened until they closed. The nearly 500 votes cast in this election represented the largest number in the history of the district.

The newly elected Board member is a practicing attorney with law offices at 25th street and Central avenue. He, his wife and children are residents of the area in which he won office.

Father Shot By Youth, 16

the bed and sought cover behind it; fired again under the bed as the father slumped to the floor, and let fly with two more bullets as Clinton, Sr. tried to rise up.

Clinton Sr. was taken to White Memorial hospital in critical condition, bullet wounds in neck, back and at the base of the skull, where he underwent an immediate operation.

Family Fight

The shooting took place at the family home, 9001 Holmes avenue, following a bitter family quarrel the previous evening between the elder Clinton and his wife, Mrs. Delzaine Clinton.

Clinton, Jr. told police that the quarrel the night before the shooting ended with his mother telling his father to "get out." Young Clinton said he then went to the attic and got the gun where his father had hidden it, and waited up till after midnight. Then he went to bed, placing the gun under the mattress, and in the morning stalked into his father's room.

No Support

The father, the former Jordan High School student said, didn't contribute to the family's support. Instead he spent his time and money gambling. Arguments with the mother were frequent. On occasion, he added, the father had walked about the house, gun in hand.

Mrs. Clinton told the Eagle that her son had always been good, but that he had been upset and unhappy from a very early age because of the constant bickering in the family and the husband's actions.

Young Charles, she went on, had formerly been an "A" student, but recently had been too disturbed by the home conflict and the need for money to pay much attention to his school work. He was in grade 10-A when he left in February to take a job at McDonald's Manufacturing Company in Long Beach. He was contributing part of his earnings to help her pay for the family home, and regularly attended the Tabernacle Baptist Church. He never stayed out late, she said, was always home around 10 o'clock.

Poll Finds Voters Swayed by NAACP

Eight percent of voters are swayed in their choice of presidential and other candidates by the views of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

This was found to be the case in a recent Elmo Roper survey.

The question asked was phrased as follows: "Here are a list of some groups and organizations that aren't directly connected with any political party. Are there any of these groups whose ideas you'd expect to be good on candidates running for office?"

The poll was taken of a cross-section of the population, including all races.

Other organizations rated were: American Legion, 23 percent; church, 22 percent; League of Women Voters, 17 percent; AFL and CIO, 16 percent; Farm Bureau Federation and National Grange, 15 percent; National Association of Manufacturers, 6 percent; Southern leaders, 5 percent.

McKnight, Kefauver Backer, No Stranger to Los Angeles

William T. McKnight, Cleveland lawyer who flew into the city Tuesday night, to put in his licks for the presidential aspirations of Senator Estes Kefauver is no stranger to Los Angeles. His mother lived in Pasadena from 1917 until her death two years ago and his sister, Ruby McKnight, has lived here 20 years and is prominent in social and business circles.

McKnight, himself, has visited here many times and once contemplated practice in Los Angeles.

Kansas born McKnight was educated at the University of Kansas and at Yale law school and began the practice of law in Topeka where he was associated with Loren Miller, Eagle publisher. He moved to Ohio in 1930 and has practiced in Toledo and Cleveland where he has maintained offices in the past 15 years.

A long time fighter for civil rights, McKnight is a member of the national legal committee of the NAACP and served as war time director of the FEPC in the middle west.

"I'm serious about Kefauver," McKnight insists. He and I were class mates at Yale and when he announced his candidacy I wired him and told him that I liked him as a friend but couldn't take the stump for him unless he satisfied me as to his stand on civil rights. He asked me to talk to him. I did and I'm satisfied."

The fact that the senator says the "same things in the South as he does in the North" is evidence of his sincerity, McKnight thinks.

While his main interest is centered on the Kefauver candidacy at the moment, McKnight did take time out to remark on the growth of California and its increasing importance in the national picture. "Maybe I should have followed my hunch of four years ago and moved to California," he remarked a little wistfully.

The increasing importance of the Negro vote saddles the Negro voter with more and more responsibility, he thinks. "We've got to think about other issues as well as civil rights and make judgements based on all factors," he told the Eagle.

Judge Sends School Suit To State Court

PHOENIX, Ariz. — Opponents of this city's Jim Crow high school must take their fight to the Arizona state courts. Federal Judge Dave Ling decided last week in refusing to issue an injunction ordering admittance of colored pupils to white schools. He kept the case on his docket in order to give the plaintiffs a chance to file the state suit. Such a suit will be filed immediately, accordings to Attys. H. B. Daniels and Loren Miller.

The suit was filed by Dr. Robert B. Phillips and State Assemblyman Carl Sims last fall and charged that segregation was both unconstitutional and impermissible under Arizona laws. It was backed by the Arizona Council of the NAACP and culminated a 25-year-old battle against school Jim Crow.

Pointing out that present Arizona laws simply provide for "segregation of pupils" without mentioning race, Judge Ling said that "any judgment regarding statutory meaning" should be left to the state courts.

Before 1950, Arizona required segregation of grade school pupils and permitted segregation of high school students if voters of school districts voted to do so. The law was changed in 1950 to make segregation optional in grade schools and a number of cities have discontinued separate school systems. Phoenix has the only segregated high school in the state.

Carver Gets Improvements

A contract for improvement at George Washington Carver Junior high school, 885 East 45th St., was proposed last night for awarding by A. J. Stoddard, superintendent of Los Angeles City Schools.

He recommended that the job of installing a new tile ceiling in the cafeteria be given to Leon A. Chernus whose $5700 bid was lowest of six submitted.

Stoddard said the work should be done in about six weeks after the contract has been awarded.

HELPS NAACP—George McLain, long-time member of the organization, and candidate for Congress in the 23rd District, explains to Miss Jo Holmes, member of the membership committee of the NAACP just what he thinks should be done to further the program of the National Association for Advancement of Colored People.

Quick Thinking Hero Saves Boys

Quick thinking on the part of James M. Wright, chauffeur for Mrs. Esther Rosenwald, probably saved the life of a 9-year-old boy, the son of friends with whom Mrs. Rosenwald was visiting last week.

Wright, upon hearing the screams of two boys standing in a field, ran to them in time to see them "frozen with fear" while a huge snake lay coiled a few feet from them.

Telling the boys not to move the chauffer killed the reptile with stones. The boys, Milton, 9, and Bobbie, 2, are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rosenbaum of Loma Linda drive in Coldwater Canyon.

Beauty Queen Leads Benefit For YMCA

Last Thursday night the Interfraternity council held its annual Basketball Trophy dance and for the third time in as many years proceeds were donated to the 28th Street Branch YMCA to further the fight against juvenile delinquency and to aid other worthwhile activities of the "Y". Co-sponsoring with the Council was the Y's Men's Service Club under the leadership of its president, Lee Marshall. Executive Secretary Kenneth A. Morris accepted the check from Charles Thrash, president of the Inter-Fraternity Council.

The gala affair was held at the Elks Ballroom with scintilating music donated for the third consecutive year by Jeep Smith and his Jeepsters under special permission of the Musicians Union.

Reigning over the festivities was beautiful and personable Lynette Cobb, cinderella teletype operator recently crowned "Miss Bronze L.A." over a field of 30.

NAACP Workers To Get Free Trip

Hundreds of NAACP campaign workers renewed efforts this week in the local NAACP drive for 6,500 members when it was announced by Campaign Chairman E. C. Atkinson that the 40 top workers would be given a free round trip to the Association's 43rd annual convention at Oklahoma City, June 24 through 29.

The extended closing date of June 17 gives new workers an opportunity to qualify and catch up with those who have been active for some days in the drive.

The contest rules in brief are:

An individual worker must report at least 100 memberships solicited by himself in order to qualify. A team captain must report at least 500 memberships not already entered in the contest. A social club may act as a team and qualify its president or any other representative for the trip to Oklahoma by reporting at least 500 memberships. A church may qualify its pastor or his representative by reporting at least 500 memberships. A campaign district manager may qualify if his or her team reports at least 1,000 memberships. Area supervisors in the drive may qualify with 1,500 memberships.

The 40 contest winners will leave Los Angeles Sunday evening, June 22, arrive at Oklahoma City Monday evening, June 23, and return to Los Angeles Monday, June 30.

Seek New Law On Race Libel

WASHINGTON — Rep. Adam Clayton Powell and three other New York congressmen introduced legislation last week to make it illegal to libel any racial or religious group.

Dawson Visits Watts Area to Aid Campaigns

Congressman William L. Dawson made a whirlwind trip to California last weekend to help bolster the campaigns of fellow Congressmen who have helped him in his many battles for civil rights legislation in Congress.

Dawson made the trip in particular to aid the campaign of Clyde Doyle in the 23rd District, which takes in a large portion of the Watts area.

Atty. Edward Hardwick, who headed the committee that handled Dawson's itinerary, kept the Congressman on the move, and made the most of his short visit.

Meets Press

Immediately after Dawson arrived from the airport Friday night, a press conference was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Jackson, 817 E. 116th place, where the Congressman was houseguest during his stay.

Saturday at noon Dawson attended a luncheon for the businessmen and merchants of the Watts area and that afternoon a barbecue was given in honor of Dawson and Congressman Doyle at the home of Charles Casaway, 846 E. 115th street.

That evening, Dawson addressed a meeting at St. John's Methodist Church, pastored by Rev. John J. Hicks.

Sunday afternoon a large auto caravan paraded through the Watts area and ended at Will Rogers Park where Dawson addressed an outdoor crowd.

Praises Doyle

In both speeches, Dawson was warm in his praise of Clyde Doyle, who supported him in the House of Representatives on every important measure concerning civil rights. "I knew I could depend on Clyde Doyle whenever I needed votes or help, and that's why I'm here to help him. We need men of his caliber and experience in Washington."

Dawson also praised the voting record of Clinton D. McKinnon, candidate for United States senator, as one of the most effective men in the House, who would make a fine senator. "Knowland is one of the worst senators in Congress. Californians should do their best to rid their state of the blight of his representation." Dawson declared.

Must Vote

"The vote is the most important weapon we have. You got to get the people registered, and then get them out to vote. A voteless people is a hopeless people," said Dawson. "You've also got to organize and stick with the party to hold the gains we all want."

After the speech at Will Rogers Park, Dawson left to catch a plane back to Washington.

Vote for Slum Clearance at the June 3 elections! Your vote counts!

DAWSON AND FRIENDS—Congressman William L. Dawson was a visitor in Los Angeles last weekend to aid a couple of his fellow Congressmen. Dawson urged that Clyde Doyle (left) be returned to Congress and urged the election of Clinton D. McKinnon to the Senate, "because I could count on them, when I needed them."

Community Helps Fund Drive for Negro Colleges

Top leadership in community and downtown business interests are giving a hand to the United Negro College Fund this year, according to an announcement today by Miss Fay M. Jackson, coordinator for the local campaign.

Their community officers are Kenneth Morris, chairman; Mrs. Wm. Beck, vice-chairman; Charles M. Thomas, secretary, and Wesley Brazier, treasurer.

Prominent stars in Hollywood will help put the campaign over under co-chairmanship of Miss Louise Beavers, radio-TV and screen actress, a director of the Screen Actors Guild, and Mrs. Adela Rogers St. John, celebrated writer for King Features Syndicate.

With such outstanding Corporate Council members as Robert L. Smith, associate publisher, Daily News; Leonard K. Firestone, president, Firestone Rubber Co. of California; A. N. Kemp, chairman, Pacific Mutual Life Insurance Co., and Hal Thomas, consultant, a community section of 100 heads of church, civic, fraternal, social, business and professional groups will be working toward the 1952 goal of $30,000 for Los Angeles. The national mark is set at $1,500,000.

Tonight, in the Clark Hotel, the kick-off dinner formally opens the UNCF drive.

Beavers said this year's campaign will emphasize the educational opportunities provided for 32 of America's most important private colleges.

Headquarters for the Fund campaign are in the YMCA, 1006 East 28th street, telephone Adams 4-9728. Contributions should be made payable to the United Negro College Fund and sent to this address.

Loren Miller, Publisher

1050 East 43rd Place, Los Angeles 11 AD. 4-0161

Editorial

Don't Vote Against Yourself!

On June 3 the voters of this community must decide whether or not they want the Housing Authority to proceed with its plans for ten thousand low rent housing units.

At first blush it would seem that there could be no local opposition to that program. The units will be open to all eligible persons without reference to race or color. There will be no racial segregation in the housing developments.

Negroes are in need of housing out of proportion to their numbers, partially because all too many of them are in low income brackets and partially because long continued segregation has deprived many of them of the chance they ought to have to buy low cost homes.

Opposition to the ten thousand-unit housing program is led by the Los Angeles Realty Board and the Chamber of Commerce. Both of those organizations have been leaders in the fight to enforce residential segregation. Each took a large part in the campaigns against FEPC on both local and state levels.

On the face of it, it is apparent that opposition to the housing program would put the Negro voter in league with his proven enemies and array him against what is the apparent best interest of the vast majority of Negroes.

The fact remains that all too many Negroes are opposed to the housing program. Reasons for that opposition vary from lack of information to the very human failing of stressing short time individual preferences and forgetting the long term benefits.

If these ten thousand low cost units aren't built the land that has been assembled for them will be turned over to private developers. And turning the land over to private interests means that Negroes will be denied the right to live in whatever homes are built except in those instances in which the land is located in defined Negro communities. Lakewood Village is an excellent example: more than 85,000 people now live there but not a single Negro is permitted to purchase or rent a home in Lakewood. That's because Lake wood is covered with race restrictive covenants, placed there by the same interests who are out to sabotage public housing.

Nothing but blind shortsightedness can persuade any Negro to vote against public housing. Don't vote against yourself. For your own best interest vote Yes on Proposition B on the June 3 ballot.

Schools and Scholars

We agree with Dr. Ralph Bunche that Los Angeles has made itself the laughing stock of the nation by banning all instruction about the United Nations in its public schools. Blame for this stupid move belongs more to Dr. Alexander Stoddard than to anybody else. Ever since the Pasadena flare-up over Willard Goslin, our superintendent has been sticking his head deeper and deeper into the sand.

The agitation against UN instruction was the work of a handful of diehards who hope that somehow or other we can turn the clock back fifty years. They want to pretend that World War I and World War II never happened, that the airplane, television, radio and the atom bomb don't exist and that the United States can live in a state of splendid isolation.

With all of its weaknesses, United Nations is our only real hope for world order and for propagating ideas of decency in the world today. Our children ought to be told what United Nations is all about and they ought to be told about its good points, and its failings.

We're in the midst of a campaign for a bond issue to improve and enlarge our schools. Those improvements are sorely needed. The Eagle has urged adoption of necessary bonds and will continue to do so but we can't resist the thought that what is taught in our schools is as important as buildings in which instruction is given.

Two Kinds of Bombers

There are bombers and bombers.

Two bombings happened in the same city—right here in Los Angeles.

There are the bombers who bombed School Teacher William Bailey's home on Dunsmuir avenue more than two months ago.

They are still at large.

Then there are the bombers who bombed a non-union barber shop about three weeks ago.

The barber shop bombers are in jail.

In each instance the law was violated.

Why is it that Chief Parker's men find it so easy to catch the one set of bombers and not the other?

Can it be that the police department exercises a different sort of zeal in the two instances?

Can it be that one set of bombers was so much more clever than the other?.

Some citizens will make one of those guesses; some the other.

We don't know.

What we do know is that nobody has ever been arrested in Los Angeles for acts of vandalism directed against Negro property owners who have had the courage to exercise their constitutional right to live where they choose.

We know, too, that it is a disgrace to this city that the Dunsmuir bombers are still at large. We know that our police department has been inefficient, or worse and that unless these men are caught we can expect more of the same kind of violence.

Bad Law—Good Riddance

Attorney General Pat Brown is to be congratulated for his decision against appealing the alien land law decision to the United States Supreme Court. Our own state supreme court decided by a four to three vote that the law which forbade alien Japanese to own land was unconstitutional.

That law was cut from the same cloth as the legal theories that permitted judicial enforcement of race restrictive covenants. Both were attempts to prevent non-whites from enjoying the same property rights as white persons. It is interesting to observe that the three justices, Shenk, Schauer and Spence—who voted to uphold the alien land law were the same judges who voted to uphold our anti-marriage law and who have consistently lined up against attempts to strike down other color barriers.

Where They Belong

North Carolina Klansmen who went on a flogging and terror spree last year got their just deserts last week when they were sentenced to prison by a federal judge.

Most of their victims were white persons which will lead the cynical to observe that they should have stuck to the business of molesting Negroes. There's some merit in the observation that Dixie mobsters fare better if they spend their time keeping the Negro in his place, but we can't resist pointing out that the outbreak of violence against white persons that finally led to jailing the Klansmen wouldn't have happened had they been arrested when they first started on the rampage against Negroes.

In the long run nobody's rights are safe in a democracy unless everybody's rights are safeguarded.

Roy Wilkins'

The Watch Tower

If anyone has had, up to now, any doubts as to the importance of the civil rights fight, he has only to read and reflect upon the speech of Governor James F. Byrnes of South Carolina, delivered May 15 at Cleveland, Miss.

Gov. Byrnes has brought the fight right out into the open. There is no more pretense. He said the white people of the South must unite and fight against civil rights. That means, of course, that he wants the southern whites to fight Negroes and their aspirations. The gloves are now off and all double-talk is behind us. Negroes want first class citizenship. They want an end to inequality, discrimination and segragation. They are seeking their objectives by all means open to them, but they are particularly active along political lines. They know their vote is important. In 1948 their votes in Ohio, Illinois and California furnished the margin by which Mr. Truman was re-elected. And this despite the fact that some southern states pulled away from the Democratic party and gave their votes to the Dixiecrats.

The 1948 demonstration of the power of the Negro vote profoundly disturbed southern Democrats. They became more desperate than ever before, realizing that the Truman Fair Deal program on civil rights could be halted in Congress only by a filibuster. This they organized more thoroughly than in former years, with Senator Richard Russell as the very capable brains of the maneuver. They had help from northern Republicans who were grasping at every straw to block the Democratic program and build a case for the election of Republicans in 1952.

Now we are in 1952 and despite the killing of civil rights bills by filibuster, the civil rights issue itself refused to die. It is the one issue that every candidate is being measured by. It has thrust itself into every speech, every television and radio discussion, every party caucus, and every platform committee meeting.

Governor Byrnes, astute politician that he is, has become more frightened than he was six months ago. Then he thought it sufficient to talk about not instructing delegates to support the nominees of the Democratic party if a man of the Truman beliefs led the ticket. He talked then about states' rights.

Today he talks openly about whites opposing blacks. Referring directly to Negroes, civil rights, and the 1948 Democratic platform fight at Philadelphia, he says: "we have witnessed the success of the efforts of the minorities in the national conventions. Their efforts are directed against us. It is necessary that the minority to which we belong, in defense of ourselves, should act in concert."

This is strange language, indeed, from the hitherto arrogant elements in the South. What did they expect of Negroes at the polls and in general party political activity? When a man or a party or a wing of a party campaigns on a white supremacy platform, is it to be expected that Negroes, who cannot believe in white supremacy, will sit silently by, or contribute their votes to maintaining a system that tells them they are inferior? How foolish can Gov. Byrnes get?

Negroes seek equality with other Americans. They seek this equality by employing regular American weapons like the courts and the ballot. They did not start and do not want a white-black war in politics. They want their rights and they will join with any other American, southerners as well as northerners, who will fight for the principles of equality, absolute and complete equality.

The Byrnes speech in Mississippi means that the Dixiecrats are now in frantic battle with their backs against the wall. This bold call for a color line war in politics can mean only that. It means, also, that Negroes can be the most strategic and determining element in the 1952 election if they understand clearly how significant they have become politically, and if they will hold out against degrading compromise in their crusade for their goals. The Democratic party must have them if it is to have a chance of winning in November. The Democratic party also believes that it must have its southern wing if it is to win. With the Negro on one side of the table and the conservative South on the other, and with the party leaders needing both, the Negro, if he is smart, can drive a bargain and guarantee substantial advance toward his objective of full citizenship.

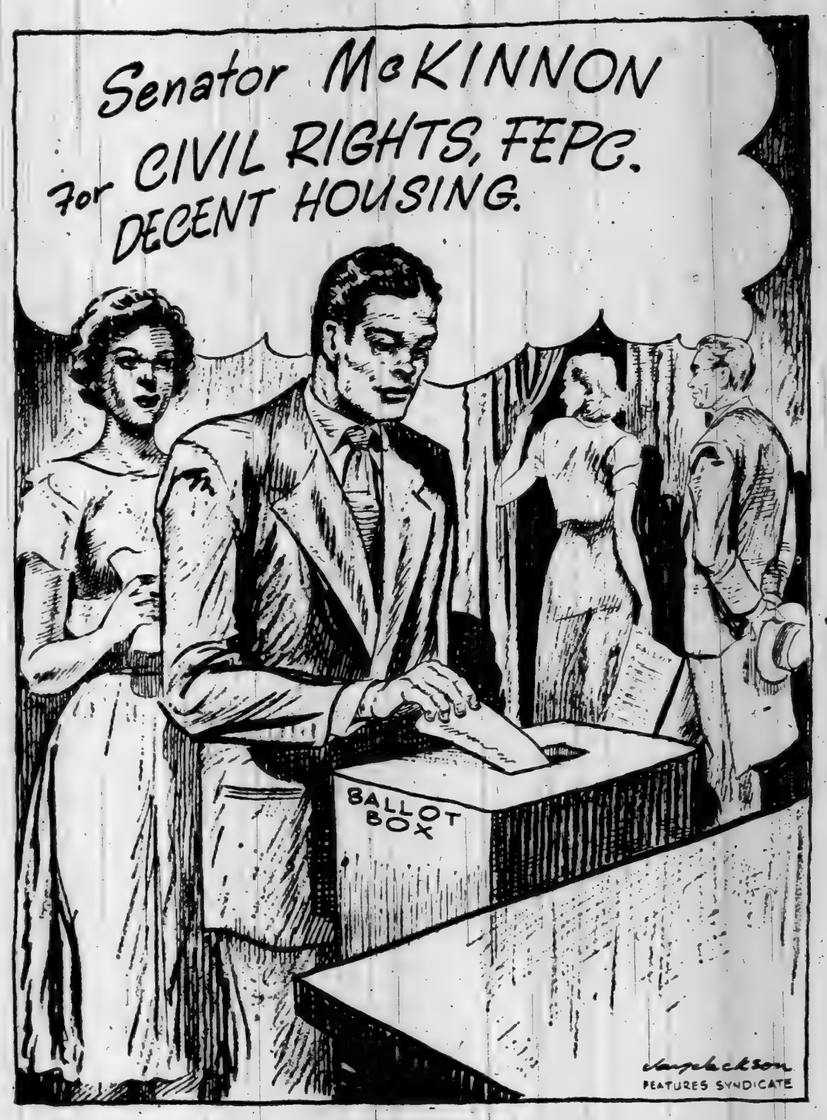
Lester B. Granger's

Battle Axe & Bread

One of the bright spots on a generally murky political horizon is the announcement by W. Stuart Symington of St. Louis of his candidacy for U.S. Senator from Missouri. There are very few Americans who have forgotten so soon that Mr. Symington was the first Air Force Secretary, when that branch of the armed forces was separated from the Army and set up as an independent operation in 1947. There are very few Negro Americans, I hope, who have forgotten that it was under Stuart Symington's leadership that the Air Force announced its decision to end segregation as quickly as possible and to use all personnel, regardless of race, solely on a basis of ability.

It's true that the Air Force was not the first branch to take this step. The Navy had shown the way two years earlier, in February of 1946, when Secretary Forrestal issued a directive forbidding in the future any special treatment or provision for any Navy personnel because of race. But the Navy took this step after two years of study, experimentation and discussion; the Air Force took it within a year after it was separated from Army control.

The President's Committee on Equal Treatment and Opportunity in the Armed Services had called in the heads of the various branches to tell what they were doing to carry out President Truman's Executive Order 9981 that established the Committee. Navy, with some smug satisfaction, told of its progress and its goal—and got a good mark from the Committee. Army, mean and stubborn, sat tight and refused to budge, insisting that "equal treatment and opportunity" could best be guaranteed under its system of rigid segregation.



The Air Force representatives then made Army look bad by declaring that, "of course," now that Army no longer had jurisdiction, the Air Force would proceed to eliminate racial segregation, because it was convinced that it was wasteful, trouble-breeding and harmful to the morale of both races. Furthermore, Air Force brass declared, it would proceed to match Navy's record and beat it!

It's that kind of straightforward attitude that Stuart Symington has had on race for as many years as I have had any contact with him. A dozen years ago I knew him as the president of Emerson Manufacturing Company of St. Louis. He was one of the few local industrial leaders at that time who could be persuaded to talk sense and fairness on the matter of employing Negro defense workers. As a member of President Truman's Committee on Equal Treatment, etc., I found the Symington policy on racial segregation in the armed forces to be clean-cut and clearly stated.

Two years ago, Julius Thomas and I visited Stuart Symington in his capacity as chairman of the National Security Resources Board and temporarily top dog in the defense set-up. We put before him the need for White House action to prevent racial discrimination in defense employment; we urged him to use his good offices to this end, and to start off by choosing Negroes for posts in his own operation. He didn't need any urging or argument; in fact, he told me there was a job for me as one of his assistants if I would accept it. I couldn't, of course; I hadn't come there looking for a job, but this was a characteristic "Symington way" of disposing of a question that a lot of officials would have kicked around before finally fumbling it. And when George L. P. Weaver was appointed to the Board's staff, it wasn't as "adviser on Negro affairs," but as a straight assistant in carrying out Board policy.

Those are some of the reasons why it's good to have a man like W. Stuart Symington running for public office—especially in Missouri, and most especially for the Senate. He can do a good job for all Missourians, white or colored. As was once said about another distinguished American citizen, of slightly darker hue: "He can be a credit to his race—the human race, that is."

Dear Mr. Miller:

Thank you very much for the very fine article on page one of this week's issue of the Eagle, in which you compliment the carriers and the entire crew at Station "K."

We don't have any finer station in the city than Station "K," nor any more able superintendent than Al Garrot. You do well to be proud of this outfit.

Thanks again, and with best personal regards, I am

Dear Sir:

Again I find myself in complete agreement with the writer of the column, "The Watch Tower," Roy Wilkins.

Mr. Wilkins points out that a policy of racial discrimination can only be effective if those against whom the discriminatory laws, rules, or customs are aimed, accepts them either with or without protest. He cites the refusal of Negro South Africans to occupy segregated seats in a grandstand in Johannesburg, and he contrasts this suddenly awakened self-respect of the South Africans with its apparent lack in the Negro Americans, who far from boycotting entertainments, games, etc., in the South where they are restricted to segregated and inferior seats, throng to buy tickets to games or shows in which they are automatically barred from participating.

As a New Zealander, I found Mr. Wilkins' comments particularly interesting. New Zealand is a country in which native New Zealanders, the Maoris (racially kin to the Polynesian Hawaiians) live on terms of social and economic equality with the Caucasian New Zealanders, who are mostly of British origin. Now the interesting thing is this, the Maoris in general are not particularly sympathetic toward the Negro American because of the many economic and social disabilities under which he labors. Their attitude is, and I have frequently heard it expressed, "if the Negroes were the equal of the white man in America they'd fight for their rights. If someone tells them to go to the back of a bus and they go, well I guess that's why the Yanks can keep them down," and quite a lot more to the same effect.

When I returned to New Zealand a few years ago, I heard stories of clashes between Maoris and some American GI's who forgot they were not at home. The Maoris reasoned with these forgetful visitors with the aid of empty beer bottles, a not infrequently used persuader down-under under such circumstances.

Mr. Wilkins sums up the situation in a very few words, as long as American Negroes, themselves, by their own actions, accept second-class treatment, they will never get first-class treatment. Perhaps "never" is not quite the word to use; I would substitute "a very long time." Even during the 12 years I have been a resident of this country I have noted a challenging of old values, and a critical examination of hitherto unquestioned life patterns, but in this day and age we have not a long time to solve our problem, we must work fast, hence folks, if need be I recommend a taste of the Maori medicine for those who clearly need it!

SYBIL STICHT

Dear Sir:

I have been receiving copies of the "California Eagle" here in the office and noticed last week, in the May 1, 1952 issue, an editorial on the subject "What the Reds Want."

Whoever wrote this article certainly has a good grasp of the situation with which we are confronted in coping with the Communist Party, and a very apt command of language in expressing the position we should take.

Very truly yours,
WALTER S. BINNS

More About Bishop Jordan

Louis to Seattle.) He also is believed to be the youngest bishop now in office.

Dr. Jordan has been pastor of Ward here for 19 months during which time the congregation acquired a new church home at 25th street and Magnolia avenue. Prior to his pastorate there he was stationed at historic First A.M.E. at 8th street and Towne avenue for 10 years.

Bishops Retired

The vacancies filled by the three new bishops were created by the retirement of Bishop W. A. Fountain, oldest living bishop of the denomination, Bishop R. C. Ransom and the placement of Bishop R. R. Wright Jr. in the post of church historian.

Consecration of the bishops was performed at the closing session of the Chicago conference. Bishop Jordan is expected to return to Los Angeles within the week. He will remain here approximately two months before embarking for South Africa.

Other Actions

Other important actions taken by the general conference included the creation of a 17-person judicial council which will function as the supreme court of the church and will relieve the Bishop's Council of some of its former powers. Nine ministers and eight laymen will compose the new council.

All things in common nature should produce without sweat or endeavour.

NEW YORK — The African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church closes its 34th Quadrennial General Conference — beginning May 7 and lasting two weeks—in the largest church in the connection, the First A.M.E. Zion Church, located at Tompkins Ave. and McDonough St. in Brooklyn.

Dr. W. O. Carrington is host pastor for the conference which is expected to draw 1,000 delegates from the United States, Africa, South America and the Virgin Islands. Bishop William J. Walls is the host bishop.

Although the A.M.E. Church—the oldest Negro denomination in the United States—was founded in New York, this marks the first general conference held in New York for more than 80 years.

1,000 Attend Dinner Honoring Dr. L. T. Wright

NEW YORK—More than 1,000 persons from all walks of life heard a dozen speakers extol Dr. Louis T. Wright as scientist and humanitarian at a dinner here recently.

Leading the array of speakers who gathered to honor the famous surgeon and to inaugurate the Louis T. Wright Library of Harlem Hospital was Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, who paid tribute to his valiant fight against segregation in medicine and in other fields. She cited his contributions as surgical director of Harlem Hospital and as chairman of the board of directors of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Florence Miller Shows Deep Concern in World Relations

The first trouble is in Luke 10. The 21st verse teaches us that Jesus hides from the wise men and makes it known unto babes.

Then you have to find out how many boys Adam had. He had Cain and Abel, and God gave Adam another son named Seth to take the place of Abel whom Cain slew.

The next trouble you will find in the 9th chapter of Genesis. The 18th verse teaches us the three sons of Noah who were Shem, Ham and Japheth, God told Noah to save the seed.

Now we are coming right back where we came from, and the next trouble is to find out where the seed falls. One fell on Roosevelt; one fell on Hitler and one fell on Florence Miller. They say that Roosevelt and Hitler are dead; therefore that leaves Florence Miller to be the one seed, and he is standing ready to tell the rulers what step we have to take to make peace.

Just as soon as somebody represents me before Truman and the Senators we are ready to get the job done.

Saul sent for David; Pharoah sent for Joseph; and I feel that our President ought to send for Florence Miller; so I will close.

Bye, bye, looking to hear from you,

Florence Miller,
Ready to do the job.

James Ewell In San Diego Concert Sunday

SAN DIEGO—James L. Ewell, tenor soloist of the St. Paul Baptist Church appeared in concert at the Greater Calvary Baptist Church, Sunday, May 18 at 8:00 p.m. Mr. Ewell is an outstanding artist and is presently singing Sundays—10:30 to 11:30—on the "Echoes of Eden" broadcast on station KFWB in Los Angeles, at which time the Rev. John L. Branham and his choir is presented.

This artist was assisted by Eunice T. Hendon who will do several dramatic readings. Miss Hendon has been in the field of dramatics for quite a number of years. She has edited two books of poetry and will perhaps do one "original reading." She is a former San Francisco teacher and is at present employed by the San Diego Board of Education at the Riley School (for the Retarded). Miss Hendon has appeared in dramatic recitals at many outstanding churches; recently she was presented at the Greater Cornerstone Baptist Church at Los Angeles.

Mrs. Oliver Red Cross' Top Leader

Mrs. Beatrice Casiell and Mrs. Louise Oliver were commended recently by the American Red Cross for their exceptional efforts in meeting their Red Cross quota in the Western Avenue to Arlington district.

Mrs. Casiell, Colonel for Division 42, SA. Adams-Crenshaw area, was praised for her personal efforts in blocks where no volunteer workers were available. Volunteers who work with her were also praised for the excellent cooperation they have given.

Mrs. Oliver, who worked as a major under Mrs. Casiell in Division 42, was praised for her "service over and above the call of duty." It was pointed out that, in addition to her work with Mrs. Casiell, Mrs. Oliver volunteered her services as a major in Small Business Division 8A-11-8A-B.

Leaders of the Red Cross campaign also praised the volunteers who worked with Mrs. Casiell and Mrs. Oliver

Churches Aid In NAACP Drive for 6,500 Members

NAACP Sunday will be emphasized in the local drive for 6,500 members by many Los Angeles churches according to an announcement by Leon Stewart, NAACP publicity chairman, this week.

A plan of church cooperation in the drive calls for setting aside a Sunday morning service to be designated as NAACP Sunday when the pastor or a representative of the NAACP will speak on the work and value of the organization in the field of human rights.

The drive showed all indications of going over the 1000 mark at the regular report meeting Tuesday night at the NAACP office, 4263 S. Central avenue.

At the close of last week the East Area workers had overtaken the West Area group in the battle for first place. The Special Activities Committee is running a close

Russell, Civil Rights Foe, Gets Some Calif. Backing

While Brown for president headquarters was blasting away at Estes Kefauver's presidential aspirations on the grounds that the Tennessee senator has a spotty record on civil rights, an increasing number of members of the Brown slate were playing footsie with Senator Richard Russell of Georgia, outspoken opponent of civil rights.

Attorney General Edmund G. (Pat) Brown heads a slate of presidential delegates and while he is the nominal candidate for president, he has said that each delegate will be free to vote as the delegate pleases. Brown has been an outstanding prophet of civil rights.

Among the delegates on the Brown slate are Assemblymen Augustus F. Hawkins and Byron Rumfort, both of whom have also led in the fight for civil rights in this state. Curiously enuogh another delegate, Oilman Edwin Pauley, is wearing a Russell for president button and is said to be chief mentor of the Russell forces in the state. The Russell organization is headed by Y. Frank Freeman, movie mogul, and includes a large number of right wing Democrats.

Explaining that she wouldn't mind staying there, she said, "I couldn't get a husband anyway. Before, I couldn't get one because of the children. Now I couldn't get one because men would be afraid of me."

Preliminary hearing on the case was held last Thursday before Judge Ben Rosenthal. Mrs. Edwards was represented by Public Defender Hayes F. Meads. The prosecution was handled by Deputy District Attorney Gerald Lenoir.

Public Housing

Urging the support of the community for the city's low-rent public housing, slum clearance program, the Southeast District Health Council at its meeting last week unanimously endorsed a "Yes" vote on Proposition B on the June 3 ballot.

Pointing out that the fight which it has been waging against disease can never be won so long as a vast number of people are forced to live in unsanitary and inadequate housing, the group urged the community to support the program which it considers the only practical method of removing the source of the problem.

Mrs. Sydonia Thompson, of 514 E. 21st street.

The airplane crash occurred when the plane hit Paddy Mountain, near Pusan. The machine burst into flames. There were five men in the plane—Taft and four white companions. Taft received three back injuries. The lieutenant was trapped by flames.

Despite his injuries, Taft dragged the lieutenant, badly burned, to safety, and helped pull out the other three men, who were not hurt. The 21-year-old sergeant continued the rescue work until he collapsed.

Doctors said that the exertion in pulling the other men from the death trap was responsible for paralysis to Taft's lower body. Had he lain quiet, they said, he would probably have suffered no permanent disability.

As it is, hope is still maintained that the young hero may regain use of his limbs. Latest letters to Mrs. Thompson indicate that they should have more definite knowledge of his condition by May 27. Mrs. Thompson is praying for the best. Taft has experienced some slight feeling in toes and abdomen, letters from officials indicate.

Taft was 1948 all-city B-220-yard dash champion while he was at Poly, and in 1949 placed third in the all-city meet.

In 1946 he won the Jacobs Model Products Co. award at the Wichita, Kan., meet for model airplane builders. In the same year he won second-place honors in the all-western open model aircraft meet in Los Angeles.

He volunteered for the Air Force in which he was an engineer. He has been in Korea since January 5.

Stockholders Demand Buses End Jimcrow

Thirteen minority stockholders from three states and Hawaii will call upon the Greyhound corporation at its annual stockholders meeting to abolish the segregated seating system on southern buses. The 13, owning a total of 282 shares, will be represented by James Peck and Bayard Rustin of New York City.

The meeting takes place at 11 a.m., Tuesday, May 20, at the office of the Greyhound corporation, 100 West 10th street, Wilmington, Delaware.

The 13 stockholders had sought to have included on the printed agenda which goes to all stockholders: "A recommendation that management consider the advisability of abolishing the segregated seating system in the south." But Greyhound ruled it was not a proper subject for action by the stockholders. The Securities and Exchange Commission originally ruled to the contrary but then reversed itself and upheld Greyhound.

Since the 13 were unable to get the question on the printed agenda as a separate order of business, they will raise it under point three (the final point), which is: "to transact such other business as may properly come before the meeting." At that time Peck and Rustin will present a statement signed by all 13 urging that "the Greyhound management take immediate steps toward ending the illegal practice of segregated seating on southern buses."

Janice Shelby Has Coming Out Ball

The debut of Janice Shelby opened the growing list of coming out balls in an array of lovely debutantes, ornate floral decorations and very prominent guests The distinctive ball was given for Janice by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Shelby.

Setting for this occasion of beauty and elegance was the Golden State Auditorium. The stage was a garden of flowers and foliage with an arch and white picket fence. The decoration was by Harold of Leo's Beverly Hills Florists.

William Goward, Potentate of the Shriners, as master of ceremonies, presented the 15 hostesses, graduates of summer '52, who were beautifully gowned in pastel shades with wrist corsages of varieties of sweet peas. He then presented Janice Shelby, who was being formally introduced to a new world of grown-up society by her parents.

Miss Shelby made her bow exquisitely gowned in silk irridescent organza over chartreause taffeta. Receiving a huge bouquet of talisman roses, she bowed graciously and then danced the traditional waltz with her father. This was followed by a dance with her escort for the evening, Donald McAllister. Both were joined in this dance by hostesses and their escorts.

Mr. and Mrs. Shelby, radiant in gold slipper satin, beaming with pride, received the guests with Miss Shelby, Ernest Shelby Jr, handsome in white dinner jacket and tux, assisted.

From the stage Janice thanked her mother and father for being the most wonderful parents in the world to her.

Music for the gala affair was played by Py Taylor's Combo.

An after party by friends gathered at the home of the Shelbys, which was filled with gifts and flowers for the young lady of the hour to compliment this young couple for presenting Los Angeles with an event of the year, climaxing the evening.

Janice will graduate from Los Angeles High School. She is a member of the Philomathian Fine Arts Club. She plans to enter UCLA in September in the pre-medical department. Her ambition is to be a doctor.

Mexican Food Gulped At Border Party

Mexico's most delicious dishes were served at the Chi Delta Rho, Alpha Chi Pi Omega's "South of the Border Party." The blow-out was held Saturday night at the Westside home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Jackson.

Younger Set Tosses Dance Honoring Gloria Hunnicutt

Without a doubt, the dance which will be held at Wilfandel club house, 3425 W. Adams Blvd., honoring winsome Gloria Joy Hunnicutt, popular Wilfandel scholarship contestant will be one of the brightest of the pre-summer season.

This coming Saturday, May 24 from 8 to 12 p.m. will draw the juniors from many parts of the city to participate in youthful frolic.

Gloria Joy, 3837 W. 27th Street, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Sherman Hunnicutt. She began her school life in Topeka, Kansas, in the school of which her father was principal.

On coming to L. A. in 1945, she entered Mt. Vernon Junior High school. After finishing at Mt. Vernon, Gloria entered Dorsey High and graduated with the summer class of 1951. Last September she entered Pepperdine college, majoring in education. She plans to be a kindergarten-primary teacher.

Gloria has studied piano with Consuela Pappy and at present is studying piano with Mr. Hilde at Pepperdine.

Gloria has learned to do by doing. She is a charming hostess; loves to "keep house" and is right at home in the kitchen preparing a meal.

She is a member of the Westminster Presbyterian church, and enjoys the social activities of the "teen age" group. She is a charter member of the "Honey Bees"; an active member of the "Anchorettes"; the Jack and Jills and the Pyramid Club of the Delta Sigma Theta sorority.

BILL SMALLWOOD

They're still talking about: Janice Shelby's coming-out party last Saturday night. Nothing like it in these village parts in long years, it seems. Signs-of-the-times touch was Janice's inclusion of her many young friends of other groups. And the night was gay, pretty as any garden with all those fifteen radiant teen-age lovelies and the town turned out too in best bib 'n tucker. Bill Goward handled the mike duties. Friends of the Shelbys came down from Berkeley. The flowers were strictly dream stuff; expert-at-it Harold Oden did them, incidentally. Janice was truly the belle of the ball once she traditionally waltzed with her handsome Dad and then with her Lochinvar of the evening. After the party a crowd of intimates of the senior Shelbys gathered at their place for a cross-section of nightcaps. Elsewhere in this edition you can see first hand evidence of how beautiful Janice really was. Yep, by golly, it was her night of nights, all right!

Back from Texas: Affluent Ann Oliver. Due from Berkeley: The Hugh Beatys (Nellie). To SF: The Allen C. Woodards III. Due home momentarily from SF: The Harvey Brookses who had their kit bags at the Olympic Hotel. They did some of the sights with Joe Makel (flies in tomorrow for a local week) who spent part of his SF trip in St. Francis Hospital. Girl Friends met Monday at Mrs. Huld Sanders' place on Kingsley Drive. Lena Tucker heads the group this year, you knew? Laura Fowler is corresponding secretary. The GF are among our club groups who forego aimless card-playing, etc. for worthy causes and projects. Their annual rummage sale is a highlight. I'll never forget one year they put on a hilarious cabaret show party (YMCA) and packed 'em in.

Dorothy Brown's sudden passing Tuesday morning was quite a shock to her friends, many of whom did not know she was ill the short time she was. Hazel Washington determined to make Switzerland in December. That lush cocktail lounge in the Watkins Hotel will have such fancy-fol-de-rol as plug - in phones, mind you. Supposedly ready for a formal look-see in mid-June. Joe Robichaux and his bride-to-be in Chi will spend part of their honeymoon at Lake Tahoe en route here. Their June nuptials (Catholic) will have several Angelenos present. Ex-Angeleno Joe Crawford leaving the Southernaires.

Dinner hostess Saturday, Ethel Thomas. "Tee," as she's better known, is one of the only two colored staff members at the Central YWCA. There three years, she is now an integral part of the Central desk. One of the best

GAY COTTON COCKTAIL DANSANTE—Will be given by this charming group who make up the popular Co-Operettes Social and Charity club. The girls met at the Brown house where the big doings will take place on the afternoon of Sunday, June 1. Informally scheduling entertainment are Sarah Anderson, Helen Stewart, Pres.; Ophelia Huntley, Marie Holmes and Ruth Smith.

PRESENT "AMERICA THE MELTING POT"—These attractive members of the Women's Auxiliary to the Medical, Dental and Pharmaceutical association have completed plans for the fashionetta which will feature some outstanding models of the city. Site chosen will be the Elks auditorium and will be transformed into a land of historical setting. Talking it over are Janice Edwards, publicity director; Lillian Berryman, Dr. Lucille C. Fiske, Mary Alice Johnson, Ruth Smith, Thelma Forde, Lydia McCain, chairman of entertainment and refreshments; and Joyce Cockrell, program chairman of the auxiliary.

Fred Merkels Entertain

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Merkel offered hospitality to intimate friends and relatives in their modern South Los Angeles home recently.

Accepting the graciousness were Messrs. and Mmes. Walter Rousseau, Emil Arnaurd, John Rencher and Lincoln Peggese.

Parisian Style Show At Florentine Gardens

By EADWARD EISIDE

Svelte and chic Dorothea Towles, looking as Parisian as the Champs Elyseeses declared at a press conference Tuesday afternoon, "American men are the best dressed men in the world."

While the men were patting themselves on their "Berman pads" and basking in the reflection of their glowing egoes, Miss Towles got down to the business at hand, and gave the women present a quick preview of the $50,000 wardrobe she will model Saturday evening, May 24 in the style-revue cocktail dansante at the Florentine Gardens.

The lovely Miss Towles, former teacher in the Los Angeles school system and nemesis of the local wolf set, went to Paris three years ago and has gained international fame as top model in such centers of fashion as Christian Dior's and Schaperelli's.

She has returned to the United States with creations from the best known names in Paris, and has been touring the country, showing the women how they can better empty hubby's pocketbook.

Miss Towles was a striking sight as she talked about fashions and Paris, emphasizing her remarks with a long gold and black cigarette holder. Clad in a black lounging outfit that was in sharp contrast to her platinum blond hair and her cafe au lait skin, and Italian black suede golden-stone hand made shoes, Miss Towles looked like a perfect French mannequin.

This outstanding fashion event will be presented by the Agence International under the sponsorship of the Pen and Scroll club.

The $50,000 wardrobe she will model will include daring style trends for which the French fashion masters are noted as well as practical creations that can be worn by the average housewife. The lush elegance, workmanship and design of Miss. Towles' wardrobe will encompass a maze of color and styles ranging from sexy French numbers to loose fitting, smart Africana fashions.

As her only American presentation she will model a stunning new line of jeweled sweaters and ski togs by Hazel Washington, famous Hollywood leathercraft artist with matching footwear styled exclusively for her by Jenny of Beverly Hills.

Bill Burwell, talented young artist designed the program book cover and James Moore is show co-ordinator.

BABIES WILL WORK—And hard, too, for votes which will aid in winning the contest sponsored by Eastside Settlement house committee. Babies with parents are, seated, Willetta Holmes, Ronald Nelson Mays, Sharon Lynn, Madae Willingham, Keith Alfred Winn, Arenthia Pearl Woods, Eugene McLaughlin. Standing, Clarissa Tyler, Deborah Felix, Mrs. Venora Williams, chairman of baby contest; Mrs. Julia Lee, chairman of membership drive; Charmetre Kennedy, and Joseph Patterson.

Gladys Marie Smith Wins Baby Contest

Winner of Herrons of Jerico's spectacular baby contest was beautiful Gladys Marie Smith, 10 month old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Smith. Infant polled 1001 votes which netted her $35.

DIRECTOR and author of "My Lady Has a Dream of Styles," is Madame Pearl C. Walton.

MAY QUEENS—Reigning over May festivals are, left, pretty Shirley Walker, 15, at Compton playground and lovely Margie Samuels, Pueblo Del Rio playground.

Bill Smallwood

statistical clerks on record too. She and her mom leave next week for a month's tour from coast to coast. Have fun, you two.

Billy Lane's impressive tie-in with National Distillers (he's their only colored representative in the area of some seven states out here) is really agreeing with him. He never looked better in his active life. He's in town until early July, and as ever suave and cook about the whole thing. Saw him the other p.m. and darn if he didn't look as if he was a walking ad for Oviatt. Same p.m. saw Fay Jackson town-crossing after lunch with Louise Beavers and Adela Rogers St. John. Fay is coordinator of public relations for the current United Negro College Fund drive which begins with a kick-off dinner today (Thurs.) at Clark Hotel. Interesting side-light: The very first contribution to the local drive came from a bank janitor, a Mr. Orr, who collected $143.00 from fellow employees! Brava!

In-the-News C. G. Price yawns and says: "I'm going to Chi and Idlewild then over to Jean Jones' ranch in August. You better come go along."

Frank Eng out at Dance Theater corners us to reassure us (as if we needed it!) this current Choreo '52 is the most exciting thing yet out their way. But then with Carmen DeLavallade and Jimmy Truitt spotlighted what, pray tell, could they have other than rousing success? Ellington, so enthused with what he saw of them, is going to do a special melody treatment for the company. Angelenos who attended Canada Lee's funeral: Gladys Dent, Dr. Gertrude Curtis Thompson, Rev. Walter J. Bryant, Bill Lawrie, Teddy Hirshfield, Bertha Powell, Hall Johnson. Improving slowly, Dooley Wilson. That birthday hoedown marking Ray Mills' natal day ran on over into a full weekend, winding up at the Crescendo Club on the Strip, no less. "Jo" Cooper, at his side and svelte, sleek and satiny as ever. Returns east today: Chas. Dilworth. He visited his cousin, Arthur Dilworth, in S. F. before coming here.

Ann Hunter heading west with the Met Co. Her mom here is thrilled at idea of having her home briefly. The senior John Hoskinses of SF have become Angelenos. They live now in the Edgehill - Adams neighborhood. Whatever has become of Russell (Bobby) Evans? Murmered politely: The recent merrie plans MADE FASHIONABLE HISTORY—Nadine's fashion parade held last Sunday at Florentine Gardens triumphantly climaxed the many shows sponsored during spring season. Nadine, third left, with her exquisite models presented clothing for Californians. Serving as host was Emil Arnaud whose congenialness and hospitality will be remembered by the enthusiastic crowd. Foto by Verdell.

LADIES OF DISTINCTION—Befitting of name, this elated committee approved last minute plans for their Cotton Ball which will be held Saturday, May 24, 9 p.m. at Rumpus Room, 1135½ E. 47th street. Group includes Trudy Harper, Dorothy Carter, Lovie Harris, Viola Watson, Ruby Burkes and Merlin Cooks.

Les Charmantes Serve in Cottons

The Les Charmantes entertained a capacity crowd with music, refreshments, and dancing at their annual Charity Cotton in Cocktails last Saturday night.

From the beginning strands of the music to the last lingering notes when a reluctant crowd went its way home, there were hours of fun and fellowship shared by all.

The club members were as a spring garden in their crisp cotton dresses and each wore a wrist corsage of white carnations.

Ten lovely ladies competed for the title of cotton queen. Claudia Kaufman was chosen to reign. The queen was lovely in a white halter-necked dress with a bouffant organdy overskirt daintily embroidered with pink flowers. She was crowned with a fragrant wreath of pink carnations.

Philanthropics Give "Charity Cocktail"

Jackie Robinson Philanthropic club will give a Charity Cocktail May 25, 5 p.m. at 4118 Wall street. The public is invited to help someone else in need by attending.

WRITER SELECTS FLOWERS—In the patio and garden of Mrs. Kenny Washington's home, Pischella Smith, Louise Beavers, Mrs. Washington, Mary Elizabeth Vroman, Judge Ida May Adams and Adela Rogers St. Johns admire flower selections of Miss Vroman's favorites. Purpose of get-together was to meet Miss Vroman, in whose honor a mid-afternoon tea was given. The event marked the last celebration of the young author who spent several weeks in Los Angeles writing script for Hollywood studio.

New York Scene

By LARRY DOUGLAS

NEW YORK — Two Thursday nights ago, at the Broadway Theater, "Shuffle Along" came back to town. The auditorium from top to bottom was jammed with folks and both colored and white critics.

The setting was in Italy. The costumes were beautiful, the gals pretty, the talent great. Delores Martin, the gal who replaced Pearl Bailey for the lead, was sensational.

This writer goes on record as saying that Miss Martin did a better job than Pearl Bailey could have. Miss Bailey would have perfected her part, but I doubt if she could have performed with the versatility that was displayed by the fabulous Delores Martin, who played Sgt. Lucy Duke.

Saralou Harris, who played the part of Margie and who also was one of the models and singing girls, added color and class. Thelma Carpenter did her part well. Her singing was clear and enchanting.

This critic says "Shuffle Along" was sensational and breath-taking. Members of the white press gave it bad reviews. I was there, too, and I say the show was good, at least it was not the flop it was reported to be by the white writers.

Some white observers along Tin Pan Alley said that members of the white press got toegther and agreed to write the same reviews for the show.

From where this writer sits, it appears the white critics formed a conspiracy to keep Negroes off Broadway.

This reporter congratulates Noble Sissle and Eubie Blake for bringing a greater "Shuffle Along" back to life, even though white critics seemingly conspired against my people. Negro performers made Broadway what it is today. Proof of that is that most white entertainers who are at the top today are forced to copy styles of Negro artists in order to achieve fame and fortune.

Phyllis Branch is clicking at Snookies downtown.

Billy Bowen of the Ink Spots is set to record eight sides for MGM Records, as "Billy Bowen and His Manhattan Scotchmen."

Bixie Crawford, vocalist with Count Basie, is a great singer who deserves a big break.

Ruby Stratton will play the lead in the summer stock version of "Member of the Wedding." This is the play made famous on Broadway by Ethel Waters.

Melvin Moore, vocalist with Lucky Millinder, has a soothing voice.

MGM Records will start a publicity campaign on Billy Eckstine, tying in its latest signed MGM artist, Billy Bowen.

Horton Group In Dance Concert

"Choreo '52," which premieres this Friday evening at the Lester Horton Dance Theater, will be the biggest production in the theater's five-season history. All new dance show calls for record 17 dancers and unprecendented outlay in music, costumes and settings.

Following premiere, the show will be performed every Friday and Saturday evenings. Carmen de Lavallade and James Truitte head the cast, and a modern ballet set to Duke Ellington's "Liberian Suite" is the highlight of the show.

THEATRE

Jo Baker to Crown Jazz Festival Queen

The Eighth Annual Cavalcade of Jazz, scheduled for Wrigley Field, Sunday afternoon, June 1, takes on an international flavor with such big names in show business as Louis Jordan, Josephine Baker, world's stellar model and actress, Toni Harper, Anna Mae Winburn and her Sweethearts, Roy Brown and His Mighty Men, Jimmy Witherspoon and Jerry Wallace.

The four-hour open-air show will be packed with action from start to finish. Miss Baker will crown the Sun Crest Queen of the Cavalcade of Jazz for 1952, who will be presented at a gala Coronation Ball, Sunday night at the Elks Auditorium.

Tickets for the Cavalcade may be obtained from all mutual ticket agencies including: Watts Music Center, Dolphins of Hollywood, Southern California Music Company, Capitol Record Shop, Flash Record shop on Western Avenue and the West Coast Service Bureau.

Anna Mae Winburn and Her Sweethearts make their second appearance on the Cavalcade. In her first appearance she is credited with stopping the show. Louis Jordan, recently returned from a year's rest, has added two new vocalists as well as several musical instruments.

WHO WILL BE QUEEN?—That is the question uppermost in the minds of this group of beautiful girls receiving entry blanks for the contest to decide who will be the Sun Crest Queen of the Cavalcade of Jazz. Milan Quarles, company representative smiles happily as he signs up the girls. From left to right are La Rue Anderson, Pauline Willie, Dalphine Moore, Dorothy Lamb, last year's winner; Milan Qualls, Betty Richardson, Ella Jean Thomas and Mary Moore.

'No Jim Crow' New Policy of D. C. Theater

WASHINGTON, D. C. — There wil be no segregation at the National Theatre here when it opens in the near future as a legitmate playhouse.

This was the announcement made this week by new owners of the former jim-crow theater, Richard Aldrich and Richard Myers who have obtained a 10-year lease.

"Call Me Madam" with Ethel Merman wil show there for the first four weeks. "Porgy and Bess" will follow.

"Well" Called Best of Year

CHICAGO—"The Well," United Artists' hard-hitting drama of violence in an average American town, has been selected as the best picture of the year by "The Negro Traveler," National Negro magazine published in Chicago, it was announced today.

In selecting the Harry M. Popkin production, Clarence M. Markham, Jr., editor and publisher of the magazine, noted particularly that Negro performers played outstanding roles in the film and singled out Maidie Norman for her brilliant and sensitive portrayal of the mother of the mising Negro girl in "The Well."

Canada Lee Story

(Due to lack of space we were unable to print the entire story of Canada Lee's life as written by Bob Ellis. Due to the importance of the man, and the keen insight of the story, we did not "kill" the rest but saved it to run this week.)

Sir Alexander Korda, the producer of "Country," did not know who Canada was—at first. Canada finally took a bat to London at his own expense to convince Korda that he was the actor for the role. Canada donned the make-up of an old man in order to prove to Korda that he could act the part of an old man.

And when Canada came back from Africa and London and from what critics later were to call his "greatest performance," that of the minister in "Country"—he found nothing to do in America.

No Job

A "star" — with no job. So, while waiting for parts to materialize in Italy, he went to work reading poems at the Village Vanguard in New York.

I knew Canada as a driving, eager, sensitive, powerful man, a kind man, a person eager for full integration. This, I think, is the kernel of Canada's thinking. He was full-grown, bursting with health and vigor. He was not a man to live in a second-class world of Jim Crow. He could not even understand, much less accept it.

Canada to give a party and not have the finest actors in Hollywood in attendance — why? He was as good, as talented, as vital as they were! So at his parties wtre Hattie McDaniel and Charlie Chaplin, Tallulah Bankhead and Louise Beavers, John Garfield and Joel Fluellen.

Wanted Equality

Canada was for the people and political parties that stood for integration and equality. This led him through the years into entanglement with the House Un-American Committee in 1950. He had gone to Washington and participated in the fight to abolish the committee. Later, unable to find even a "bit" acting job in America, he went back before the committee and issued a general statement condemning those he had backed and condemning the Communist party of America. But he still had to leave the country in order to continue his career. Italian producers were eager to employ him.

Canada Lee was born Leonard Lionel Cornelius Caregata in Manhattan's San Juan Hill district.

At 14 he ran away from home —to the races at Saratoga.

It was not long before he became a jockey on the race tracks at Belmont. He met a friend who had turned prizefighter and the future actor decided to try the prize ring. He went into the basement of the Methodist church near his parents' home, put on boxing gloves for the first time and excited the curiosity of his boxing teacher, who became his trainer.

By 1926, he was able to tour professional.

His stage career began with a part in the W.P.A. production of "Brother Mose." One of his last public appearances occurred on March 6 when he and other stage and screen personalities entertained 15,000 persons at a fund-raising show of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People in Madison Square Garden.

Surviving are his widow, Frances; a son, Carl Vincent, an actor; a brother, Casper, and an uncle, Dr. David Canegata, administrator of the Virgin Islands.

Jimmy Huff Is One Bluesinger Who Can Sing!

Once in a while a blues singer comes along that solidly sends this writer wherever it is theatrical writers go when they're solidly sent. Such a singer has appeared on the musical scene. His name is Jimmy Huff, a quiet, unassuming young lad with pleasing, shy manner, and one of the few show stoppers on the stem.

Among the new crop of blues singers, Jimmy is just about tops in his field. And even if you're a T-Bone Walker fan and appreciate other blues singers about as much as a gambler does a red card draw to a black card flush, you'll love the way Jimmy sends chills up and down your spine with his rendition of "All That Wine Is Gone" and other blues tunes.

He has terrific knowledge of how to put a song over. During all the years I've spent in the various clubs listening to so-called "Big Time" material, I've never seen a fellow that had as much on the ball as Mrs. Huff's little boy, Jimmy. He's a blues singer of such rare ability (i.e., he sings and doesn't SHOUT the blues) he'll have Hollywood at his feet quicker than it takes the Treasury Department to run through your last year's salary!

The kid rates the breaks. He's terrific.

Boston Bans 'Birth of Nation'

BOSTON—After more than 30 years of recurrent runs in theaters throughout the world, the silent film "Birth of a Nation" was banned in Boston Friday.

Reason for the ban was protests to the city censor that the film stirs up racial animosity.

The D. W. Griffith film was withdrawn from the Fine Arts theater. "Charlie Chaplin at the Circus" was shown in its place.

DETROIT, (IPS)—Kitty Stevenson, sensational blues singer, is seriously ill at the Detroit Memorial Hospital here. The singing star is a favorite in night clubs and theatres throughout the Middle West and in the East.

People and Places

PRICE-RIBBS ROW

Attractive Alma Ribbs Price's divorce may turn out to be as juicy and spicy as an item in Keyhole magazine. The fiery bundle of loveliness will let go with both barrels when they meet in the courtroom. This was Alma's second marriage and it was shortly after she had waited some five years before making up her mind for a second try. Incidentally this Colonel guy "aint" no spring chicken, this was his third fling at the altar. He is a five-time grandpappy—three kids by a daughter and two by a son. Alma is gonna charge Colonel with much stronger charges than reported last week. She is going to add licentious acts and strange household actions.

DEEP FREEZE

A trio of unpopular characters who fancy passing themselves off as the newspaper people got an ice-berg reception when they paraded into the newly opened Sunset Strip night spot. The trio's grand entrance didn't draw as much as a whisper from one of the famed owners as he ignored business cards sent him by a messanger. They later left with frozen faces.

HERE'S A LIFT

Chief Parker, who is having his troubles with brutality and house bombing, can look in the direction of Newton University and 77th Street Station for a bit of relief. The Good Citizens Club recently announced that officers Chas. B. Scott, Tom Bradley, Robert Hannibal, Dunbar Hunt, Red Davis, Fernando Collins, Robert Polk, John Thomas, Robert (Bob) Green, Barney Hoskins, Sgt. Milton Hayes, Harry Stovall, Bill Broady, Kermit Brown, Helen Jenkins, Marie Thomas, Thelma Range and Walter Goodlow are a few of the best liked and most respected officers on the force.

Virginia and Bob Johnson of the famed Western Avenue bath house really tossed one at the Pent House for visiting relatives. Champagne flowed like rainwater and more than 300 enjoyed one of the best parties since the days of Sidney P. Dones, dean of all party givers.

We spotted a few names like Lillian (Hammy) Hammond, Louise Beavers, Betty and Horace Clark of the mink coat clan. There were Jerry and Libby Clark, Lillian Lomax, Wini Orr, amazing the wolves with their charms, and before our head started spinning we spotted Dr. Grady Orange, Dr. Overstreet Gray, Walter Miller, Atty. James Reese, Al Mills and Dr. Nate Fearonce.

INTERNATIONAL SET

The young attractive London visitor's fondness for the male set of Los Angeles is causing certain heavy society sisters much embarrassment among this Oo! La La set. After a recent escapade by the young lady her benefactor accused a well-known divorcee of introducing her to the wrong "type." The wrong type only happened to be the son of the chaperone's dearest friend. She will be leaving for London most any day now.

GOT AN EAR FOR MUSIC?

Louis Jordan headlining the 8th Cavalcade of Jazz; Earl Bostic moves into the Shrine and the boys just about have taken over the Sunset Strip musically speaking. Don't crucify smooth talking Joe Adams and easy going Bill Sampson for their disc bout, it was all in fun, didn't sound half as bad as the green eyed fellows put it. Both programs rate tops in our books and according to a recent poll the "Adams Show" is the most listened to program on the air while the "Sampson Show" is a pressing second.

SIGHT ITEMS

Atty. Martha Williams Jefferson looking as pretty as ever but losing that hour glass figure. CHERI, the very oute florist making with pleasant festivities for Sapphire club members at Horace Clark Blue Room. Cocktails and Chicken ala king in patty shell was the menu. James Scott, big L. A. lush salesman, sporting a '52 Pontiac. Al Williams of the Four Step Brothers ducking a trap set by a gal with ideas. Williams' idea of a woman could easily be an international model coming to the Florentine Gardens May 24.

Ruth Semus's Lazy Room up Broadway is the talk of the town. Leonard McClain, Simon Levi Welch's salesman, makes the peasants and everyone smile as he pops bottle after bottle of the very choice champagne. Some illustrious names that were on hand for the grand opening: Zenobia Ragland, Sunny Maddox, Johnetta Starks, Thelma Marie Starks, Floyd Hooks, Mae Myers. Incidentally, Johnetta Starks' (West Adams dress designer) new Greige creation in faille, two piece number for Betty Howard will rank among the city's best in all-year-round attire.

A NEW TWIST

Lysbeth Rogers, popular Red Hut Broiler waitress and one of the better dressed young ladies, added to her garage a new '52 Chevy-Power-glide. Only thing, the lady can't drive. Up from San Francisco comes lovable Connie Lynwood Delgado and her marriage to S. F. Delgado is no more secret.

Joe Baker Invades New Club Alabam

Josephine Baker, worlds top fashion model and actress, will invade Central avenue's Club Alabam, Sunday afternoon, May 25 in a priceless array of "window curtains," "Christmas trees" and torrid songs of many languages.

Spotlighting previous events of the season the affair will benefit the Josephine Baker World Cultural society, its sponsor. It represents the first of a series of projects to be staged in the future.

Miss Baker has consented to do a benefit in some part of the world every year for the Society. Music for the affair will be furnished by the Lorenzo Flennoy orchestra and tickets are available at the Charles Williams Charm center, 701 E. Jefferson boulevard, phone AD 4-7694, and delivery will be made upon request at Lorraine Nelson realty, 2827 Brighton avenue, phone RE 2-5227. Donations are $2.40 and $5.00. Due to the limited seating capacity of the club, Laura Slayton, president of the society, advises that tickets be purchased immediately.

JEFF STEALS SHOW AT RELAYS

SPORTS Eagle

Negro Stars Dominate Track Meets

Fifty thousand rabid track filberts worked themselves into a frenzy Friday night as Jefferson high school stole the show at the star-studded Coliseum Relays. National and international stars took a back seat, while the lads from the Hooper street institution ran and jumped their way to a lop-sided city track title, cracking one record while doing it.

It was a great weekend for the thousands of track fans in Southern California as Negro athletes dominated the Relays, and four other meets, held over the weekend.

Cracks Record

LaVern Smith, again jumped higher than he ever did before to crack the City mark held by the late Cornelius Johnson since 1935 when he cleared 6 ft. 6¾ in. on the first attempt. He tried for a new national interscholastic mark but failed in three tries at 6 ft. 7¼ in.

O. W. Rhodes took the pole vault with a 13 foot jump. Rosslyn Ange won the 220; Robert Taylore the 440; Roland Harvey the high hurdles and Louis Scott the low hurdles. Jeff scored 109½ points. Their closest rival, Manual, scored 54¼ points.

But the most spectacular thrill of the evening was the final event, the eight man mile relay. Frank Bull announced it as the most thrilling event on the program. It was a ding dong battle all the way, with L.A. wresting the lead from Jefferson on the second lap. Jeff got it back at the fifth pass, and hung on for dear life as Manual pressed them all the way. Jeff won by a scant three yards. Everyone in the stands was limp, tired and hoarse.

Bragg Winner

In the college and open class, which was the first real proving ground for the Olympic trials to be held here next month, Bragg of Morgan State, a small Negro college in Baltimore, Maryland, showed his heels to a classy field in the 100 meter dash.

The 400 meter, which was supposed to be the big race of the night, with Rhoden of Morgan State, Matson, of USF, Whitfield, formerly of Jefferson, now in the Air Forces, McKenley, and McKibben. McKenley was a last minute scratch due to a case of mumps. Rhoden led from wire to wire, setting a new meet record. Whitfield was second and Matson third.

Harrison Dilliard led the 110 high hurdles for 60 yards, but couldn't stave off the fast finishes of Dixon of UCLA and Davis of USC. This was the first race over 60 yards Dilliard had run this year.

The class of the meet was the 440 and 880 relay team from Manhattan college. Anchored by John Carty, they retained their championships, won last year.

Brown Wins

George Brown of UCLA again proved he is the greatest broad-jumper in the country, when he set a new Relays and Coliseum mark of 25 ft. 7¾ in.

In the Modesto Relays Saturday night, Matson showed his class when he won the 440 handily. A week earlier he won the 100 in Fresno in good time. Long Stanley, former Jefferson-ian running unattached, won the 880.

The same night in San Diego in the Southwest Pacific Border AAU championships, Floyd Dennis, formerly of Jeff, now in the Navy, won the century dash.

Miller Second

In Riverside, Saturday afternoon, the Junior colleges clashed, with LACC an easy winner. Hal Miller, Eagle reporter, took a surprise second in the high jump while Moore won the 220 and 440, Williams won the 880, and Tyler won the mile.

In the CIF meet Saturday afternoon, Compton high placed five men in six events, and will be a challenge to Jefferson, who placed 10 men in eight events, plus a four man 880 relay team.

The State meet, to be held in the Coliseum Saturday afternoon, promises tobe a real ding dong affair. The Democrats will be shooting for their third straight crown, with no holds barred.

ON THE TURF

By GEORGE RAMSEY

HOLLYWOOD PARK—With the Hollywood Premiere Handicap and the Golden State Breeders' Handicap now history, Hollypark swings into its second full week of its summer meeting. Conversion, the $42,000 brother of Solidarity, finally rewarded the faith of his owner, Mrs. Connie Ring. His smashing performance in the Golden State Breeders' Handicap over nine rivals stamps him as one of the best California bred in may years. Hemmed in on the rail most of the way down the back stretch, the five-year-old son of Imported Alibhai was steered to the extreme outside by Jockey Robert Baird and burst past his field to win by a neck over his stablemate, Joystick, earning $28,850 for Mrs. Connie Ring.

RAMSEY

Tonga, who won the Debutant Stakes at Del Mar last summer, came back to whip her illustrious rivals in the Sea Breeze Stakes, including the $100,000 beauty Princess Lygia, from the stable of Louis B. Mayer. As the longest shot in the race she paid $105.20. Running the fastest six furlongs of the season, the time was 109 2/5, only one-fifth short of Special Touch's track record. The Will Rogers Stake will be the feature for this Saturday at six furlongs and carries an added value of $25,000.

CALIENTE in Old Mexico—A track record set 17 years ago was equaled by the first starter Ali Khal, from the stable of R. C. Ellsworth, the popular, tall Arizona-California horseman who has promised the western turf one of its most stirring chapters, sprang another surprise on the fans last Sunday with his dainty chestnut-coated filly Ali Khal. Breaking very fast from No. 1 post position, the little daughter of Knaled-Ali Litt hung to her rail position like a seasoned racehorse to score by ten lengths, as second choice in the mutuels she paid her backers $6 and ran the four furlongs in .53 flat. She will be shipped to Hollywood Park this week.

The daily-double from Broval, winner of the fourth race, and Tony's Empress, victor of the fifth, paid $126.60. The Quniela holders of War Again and Rude Exit, who finished in that order, received $37.00.

Omegas Cagers Set to Meet San Diego

The high-flying Omegas interfaternity 1952 basketball champion will travel to San Diego May 24th to meet the Border City Allstars. The game is being sponcored by the local chapter of the AKA's.

The scrappy Omegas five has won seven straight games in the recent frat series to give them the title. The San Diego outfit is loaded with stellar stars and the game looms a thriller. It is slated for the San Diego High school gym at 8:00.

CRACKS 15-YEAR-OLD RECORD—High flying LaVern Smith of Jefferson sails over 6 ft. 6 and ¾ inches to crack the city high jump record at the Coliseum Friday night. Smith broke the record held by the late Cornelius Johnson. Smith and Jefferson are favored to repeat their wins in the CIF state meet in the Coliseum Saturday afternoon.

Dispatchers Defeat K

The hitless wonders of station K went down to a 4 to 1 defeat at the hands of the old men of the Dispatch department in the Postoffice league at Ross Snyder Sunday noon.

While station K couldn't buy a hit, their sharp eyes detected the center fielder wearing a first baseman's mitt when he caught a crucial fly, and the argument was on. The game was finally continued under protest.

"Big Train" Wyatt pitched flawless ball for three innings, but the roof fell in in the fourth.

J. Baskin blanked the Vernon and Central lads until the final inning when they scored their lone tally.

CAMPY HAVING FUN IN CLEANUP

BROOKLYN, N. Y. (CNS)—Roy Campanella, now elevated to the cleanup spot on the Dodgers by virtue of his literally "murdering" the ball, revealed that he likes the change immensely. Already he's hitting .583, the top percentage on his club. Asked how he's managing to put so much meat on his bat, Campy said: "I just swing, don't care where they go, just as long as they land safely."

HENRY THOMPSON BATS CLEANUP FOR GIANTS

NEW YORK (CNS)—The almost forgotten man of the new Giants, Hank Thompson, keeps finding himself getting chances to regain his 1950 form but only fleeting chances. His newest one—batting fourth in the cleanup spot—came when Bab Elliott, the expensive outfielder purchased to take over Monte Irvin's place, fell down on the runway and injured himself.

Jefferson qualified their four-man 880 team for the State meet to be held at the Coliseum Saturday afternoon, but this is the shocker, the best Jeff's four fastest men could do was to place second behind Manual. Seems that without a 100 and 220 under their belts, Manual's Hutchinson and Wade are more than a match for the Green and Gold clad lads. Shhh, don't say anything, but Wade and Hutchinson will only participate in the relay, come Saturday.

However, there is this hope. The trials were held at South Gate, a distance a little too far for even the most rabid Jeff rooter. When the boys hear the roar of the stands in the Coliseum, it might be a little different.

Afraid of Johnny

Johnny de la Vega, the Times' ace prep reporter, has handicapped the meet and thinks Compton is a real challenge. Johnny and I were classmates at City College, and were both out for the two-mile. Johnny used to beat me a quarter to a half on the track. It was awfully discouraging watching the diminutive Johnny's shoulders grow smaller and smaller. The coach used to wonder why I had such a kick in the finish. I was just trying to keep Johnny in sight.

With that background, I'm a little afraid to challenge Johnny on anything, but I'm going to try to out handicap him on the State meet. Unless everyone breaks a leg, the only teams battling for title are Jeff and Compton.

for a mid-summer patio wedding of two youthful villagers have taken on a discordant note and they aren't speaking. The rings were returned to the jeweler. And how are you?

Bene Green, in a hurry as usual, parks alongside us to tell us about the reactivated Negro Motion Picture Players Association. They meet every Friday at South Park. Chartered by the state in '44, NMPPA couldn't have picked a better time to busy themselves for their very necessary good work is needed, but yes. They have interesting plans in general.

The Links have their regional in the Bay area next month. Safe bet, they'll do much swishing in and out of the recently-touched-up Scaggs Hotel. Maud Scaggs, who loves to entertain and be on the fashionable go, is a member and when she elegantly tosses magnums of champagne on ice, arranges bowls of rare cut flowers, sets out a groaning buffet and checks her list you can count on the fishtails lining up at the curb bumper to bumper. Many local Links will go up for the meeting, of course.

Due next month: Perky Kate Cleves from Detroit. Bless her live-and-let-live heart, I've not seen her since many a winter begone when for no overwhelming reason she decided to throw a whole raft of glinty parties. The minks exceeds in number those found anywhere but in an overcrowded mink farm. The poker games were rough and erratic involving rather high stakes and as she put it, rather low-life remarks. That's the winter too she, not knowing what to do with a handful of tired mink tails, tacked them onto her laundry bag for draw-string. And felt no pain.

Hiring Hall at Stake In 'Lurline' Tie-up

Joe Johnson, port agent for the National Union of Marine Cooks and Stewards, told the Eagle this week that the dispute around the Matson liner "Lurline" in Los Angeles harbor is the result of a determined effort on the part of anti-union forces to deprive workers of the protection of their hiring hall.

Pointing out that more than 100 members of the Lurline crew are Negroes, Johnson said the Marine Cooks and Stewards members walked off the ship when Matson Co. officials attempted to fill a job vacancy with a non-union member who refused to go through the hiring hall.

Every member of the union, he said, walked off and will stay off until the company changes its policy. The Cooks and Stewards are being supported by other harbor unions, including the International Longshore Workers union.

"By virtue of the hiring hall," Johnson stated, "all hands are assured of equal job opportunities. Because of this principle, hundreds of Negroes were attracted to the Maritime and Marine Cooks and Stewards unions, and because of this threat to their security, every member of this union walked off this ship and will remain off until the Matson Co. sees the light.

"This dispute is the result of a concerted effort by anti-labor forces to break our union. After months of haggling over contracts, conditions and wages, we had begun to believe that a semblance of order had come to the maritime industry. In an effort to gain accord, we have abided by court orders and NLRB rulings which were vicious and insulting. Yet, again, according to Pattern, we are being attacked. This time the target is the hiring hall, our most important economic gain. The rotary hiring system is the most democratic procedure in labor-management relations."

Kefauver Sub

skeptical because the Senator is from Tennessee, and frankly, so was I, but after talking things over with him, and traveling around the country with him listening to him campaign in such divergent sections of the country as Ohio and Florida, I know that Senator Kefauver is a man of integrity and sincere convictions, and does not indulge in making one speech to one section of the country, and another to another section. He made the same speeches in Florida he made in Ohio. I know, because I was with him all the time."

The Cleveland lawyer flew into Los Angeles Tuesday morning to take the place of Senator Kefauver, who was to address the Democratic luncheon club at the Rosslyn Hotel, Tuesday noon. Kefauver was unable to attend, due to pressing business in Washington, and asked McKnight, who has been campaigning with him for the past two months, to fly to California and make the speech for him.

McKnight spoke after James Roosevelt addressed the crowded luncheon meeting, and threw his support behind the Kefauver delegation and urging all liberal Democrats in California to vote for the Senator. Roosevelt charged that the Edmund G. "Pat" Brown delegation was swinging into the Richard Russell of Georgia camp, and introduced as evidence a picture of Russell, Brown and Ed Pauley, who he declared is Brown's chief sponsor, wearing a Russell button.

The tremendous respect and popularity Senator Kefauver has gained is due to his forthright stand against corruption in government and his war on the underworld and their tie-in with corrupt government officials, McKnight said. Machine politicians are making a last-ditch fight to discredit Kefauver on the question of civil rights, he added.

"With all the spouting off about civil rights that everyone is doing, I'm firmly convinced that Senator Kefauver is the only presidential aspirant who means what he says. He stated that he is for an FEPC without penalties, but to work through a commission, investigating and bringing the problem to light in similar fashion to the crime commission," he told the audience.

"I was regional director of FEPC under President Roosevelt's Executive Order 8802 for the states of Ohio, Michigan and Kentucky. I know from experience that you can't have FEPC by fiat or edict. You've got to have some type of leverage such as contracts or materials, in many situations. Naturally, I'm for a FEPC with punitive measures, and I'm going to work as hard as I can to get it passed at the convention. The Senator says that he will support it if it is in the platform, and that's good enough for me."

HUMAN BOXING RING—A unique way of presenting one of the many interesting scenes of "My Lady Has a Dream of Fashions" was a boxing ring in the form of human ropes, active referees and fistic pugilists. The clever idea was originated by Madame Pearl C. Walton and was held Sunday at Brown house. Taking parts in the unusual script are models Murdine Morris, Jessica Pate, Ernestine T. Baptiste, Bernice Henry, Audrey Garrett, Eva Wong, Freda Harris, Vivian Morrison, James Gatson, Nelson Saunder, R. Reese, Jimmy Huff, Freddy Clark, Curtis Talfair and Clarence Lively.

Hot Contests in Supervisorial, Congress Races

Negro voters will play a large, and in some instances, a decisive role when Californians go to the polls next Tuesday to select party nominees for presidential delegations, state offices, members of the board of supervisors, United States senators and representatives and accept or endorse municipal, school and county bond issues.

Six Negroes — one Democrat, one Independent Progressive, three Republicans and one nonpartisan—are seeking major offices. Frederick M. Roberts, Republican and Horace Alexander, IPP, want to represent the newly formed 26th District in Congress; Kenny Washington, registered as declined to state, is seeking the job as supervisor in the second district. Rayfield Lundy is gunning for the assembly seat in the 55th District, while Augustus F. Hawkins, a Democrat, wants to return to the assembly post he has held in the 62nd District for 18 years and is opposed by Leon M. Giles, a Republican.

Housing Measure

Aside from the candidates, major interest of Negro voters centers around the highly controversial housing measure, Proposition B, and a series of six school bond proposals. A Yes vote on Proposition B will give the go ahead signal for the construction of 10,000 low cost housing units of which 2500 will be located in the Central Avenue and Watts areas. School measures are listed as Propositions F, G, H, I and J and a favorable vote will insure large scale construction of public schools. Proposition A provides for a bond issue for the construction of a new juvenile hall center.

The senatorial race lies between William F. Knowland, incumbent Republican, and Clinton D. McKinnon, Democratic congressman from San Diego. McKinnon is listed as having a perfect voting record in Congress

Alma Price Gets Alimony of $300 a Month

Temporary alimony of $300 a month—instead of the $1000 she had asked—was awarded last Thursday to the fiery Mrs. Alma Ribbs Price whose four-months' marriage to wealthy oil-man C. G. Price erupted violently in a smash-up two weeks ago.

In addition, Price was ordered to pay Mrs. Price's attorney, William R. Freeman, $600 on account.

On Tuesday the sparring, attractive pair again appeared in court, this time for a hearing on the divorce action itself.

Judge Roy Herndon, who heard the case, sustained a demurrer presented by Atty. Stanley E. Fox on behalf of Price, finding that there was not sufficient evidence in the original divorce complaint to sustain charges of extreme cruelty. He gave Mrs. Price 10 days to amend the complaint.

The brief marriage of the popular society couple came to an abrupt end following a stormy battle of dish-throwing and hand-swinging. Mrs. Price forthwith left the family home at 2017 Raymond avenue, and the following morning went to see her attorney.

Mrs. Price is the daughter of Henry Ribbs, of San Jose. She met the dashing Price while visiting relatives here during the Christmas holiday season. They were married Dec. 31, 1951, and separated May 13.

Price, who was married previously, is reputed to have "struck it rich" in Texas where he owns two oil wells. He is now retired.

Candidates

Kenny Washington . . . wants to be supervisor.

Augustus F. Hawkins . . . seeks return to assembly.

Frederick M. Roberts . . . would be congressman.

Rayfield Lundy . . . 55th assembly candidate.

Leon M. Giles . . . wants Hawkins position.

Horace Alexander . . . wants congress seat.

Florida Threaten Voters

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. — In a further attempt in this terror-ridden state to intimidate Negroes and keep them from voting, white-supremacists dynamited a Negro college here early Tuesday morning, and attempted to dynamite the home of a prominent Negro political leader.

Dynamite ripped a hole in the roof of Walker vocational college in the pre-dawn hours before voting started. The school had been designated as a polling place.

A block away, two unexploded sticks of dynamite were found under the porch of the home of David H. Dwight, president of the Duval County Democratic Alliance.

Negro Area

The district is almost exclusively Negro, with approximately 2000 Negro registered voters in the area and not more than a handful of whites.

No one was hurt in the explosion.

Police had no clues as to the perpetrators of the terrorist plot.

The dynamiting was planned to occur shortly before the polls were to open in Florida's second primary, Tuesday. The first primary, some weeks ago, was in the nature of a popularity contest.

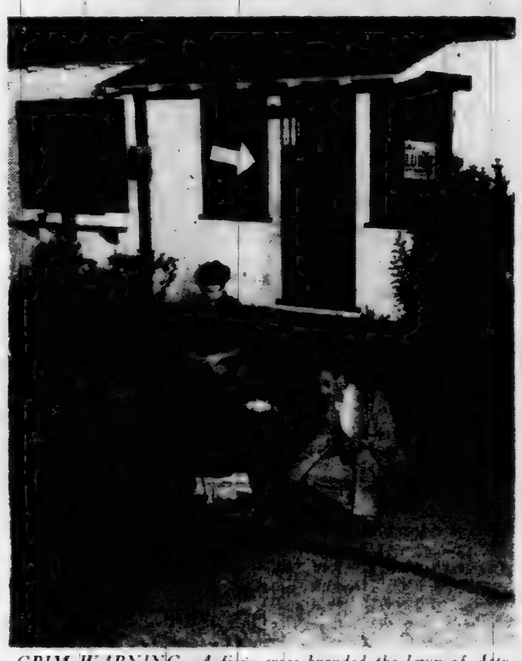
Initial returns in the State's voting showed Sen. Russell of Georgia gaining an impressive lead over Sen. Kefauver, of Tennessee, for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Bunco Artists Claim 2 New 'Gyp' Victims

Two bunco artists, one of whom claimed to be a Jamaican seaman, picked up $935 from two unsuspecting victims Saturday.

Thomas R. Bryant, 1319 West 36th Place, said he had just made a deposit in the bank and was returning to his car in a parking lot at Vermont Avenue and 30th street when he was approached by a man with what appeared to be a West Indian accent, who asked for a ride.

When Bryant refused, the suspect approached another man, who claimed he couldn't understand the suspect and asked Bryant to interpret.



The first suspect then said he wanted to investigate the condition of Negroes in Los Angeles and that he had heard Negroes couldn't own anything. Bryant said this wasn't true.

After the first man bet $300 that a Negro couldn't, Bryant, withdrew $700 from the bank, he told police. The suspect then put the total $1000 in a money belt and left it in the glove compartment of Bryant's car.

They got out of the car while Bryant was turning around to park and disappeared. He then discovered the man had switched

Religious Groups Want 'Yes' on B

Urging a "Yes" vote for Proposition B, representatives of the major church organizations and individual ministers of the Negro community in all areas of the city this week signed a letter which will be distributed to congregatons throughout Los Angeles on Sunday, June 1.

Pointing out that "As servants of God we cannot remain silent in the face of the unprincipled attacks which have been leveled against the 10,000 unit housing program in our city," the ministers signing the letter stated: "This is a question of Truth, Morality and Christian Obligation."

A partial list of those signing the letter included:

Dr. G. W. Reed, president of the Interdenominational Ministerial Alliance; Rev. George L. Coefield, president of the Baptist Minister's Union; Rev. J. J. Hicks, president of the Southeast Los Angeles Interdenominational Ministerial Alliance and Rev. St. Paul Epps, moderator, Los Angeles Presbytery of the United Presbyterian Church.

Also signing the letter were: Rev. John L. Caston, Rev. H. Mansfield Collins, Rev. F. Douglas Ferrell, Rev. Lloyd L. Galloway, Rev. Grant Harris, Rev. George L. Hayes, Rev. J. Raymond Henderson, Rev. M. Frederick Mitchell, Rev. E. A. Pleasant, Rev. R. B. Porter, Rev. J. W. Price, Rev. J. W. Price, Rev. Clayton D. Russell, Rev. D. Dewitt Turpeau, and Rev. L. L. White.

Fall With Bottle Cuts Tot's Hand

Tripping with a baby bottle in his hand proved disastrous Friday to Clardal Swanson, 2, of 839 East 83rd street.

The boy's grandmother, Mrs. Helen Jackson, of the same address, told officers the tot was playing in the back yard when he tripped. The bottle broke, gashing his right wrist and right middle finger. He was treated at Georgia Street Receiving Hospital.

Postcard Insults Lundy

Atty. Rayfield Lundy, campaigning for Republican assemblyman of the 55th district, Wednesday morning received a new and baseless insulting threat, aimed at Lundy and at all Negroes.

"Nigars ar show smelly," concluded the rude and crude message written on the back of a postcard.

The threatening note followed acts of vandalism Sunday night when a fiery-cross warning was burned into Lundy's front lawn and a rock hurled through his front window.

The postcard, misspelled and written in a childish hand and signed "A. Reader," with the address given as 307 W. 4th, underneath which was written the word "Barbers," said:

"Hide Yourself"

"Stay in the background. Hide

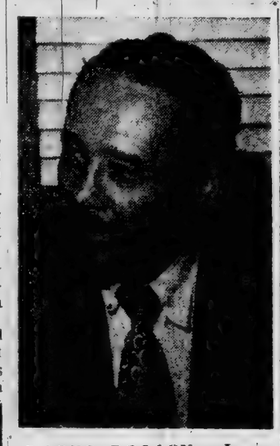
75 Days Ago! No Arrest Yet

Seventy-five days have passed since William A. Bailey's home on Dunsmuir avenue was bombed. Nobody has been arrested. It begins to look as if nobody will ever be arrested for that crime.

Last week, vandals burned a cross on Rayfield Lundy's lawn, ostensibly because he is a candidate for Assembly in the 55th District. Nobody's been arrested for that, either. One crime breeds another.

Woman Gets Bomb Threat At Midnight

Another threat to "get out or you'll be bombed out" was received by a local resident at midnight on Tuesday.



The male voice told Miss Mary Tripp, 4506½ Saturn Street, "We're coming over and bomb you Niggers out of this neighborhood."

That was all. Then the telephone receiver clicked, and the line went dead.

Miss Tripp, who lives by herself, has been in her apartment for about six months. There are three Negro families living in the block.

Murder Possible in Mysterious Illness of Atty. J. Henderson

Foul play involving the possible repeated administering of small doses of arsenic poisoning was suspected in the death here last Thursday of a prominent Oakland attorney, John C. Henderson.

BACKS POLICY—Loren Miller, attorney and Eagle publisher, participated on the KECA-TV program, America Votes, Tuesday night when he supported arguments of Oscar Ewing, social security administrator, and John Costello, congressional candidate, in favor of the administration's far eastern policy. Opponents were Congressman Thomas F. Werdel, Dr. Bill Lawlor and Frederick M. Roberts, congressional candidate.

Thirty-six hours after Henderson died, laboratory reports at Temple hospital where he had been a patient indicated the cause of death was metallic poisoning.

The hospital immediately called the coroner's office, reported the findings, along with the possibility that Henderson may have been murdered.

The body had already been removed to Angelus Funeral Home by Mrs. Anne Henderson, wife of the deceased. It was taken from there to the coroner's.

Poisoning Confirmed

Preliminary reports of the coroner assertedly confirmed the diagnosis of metallic poisoning, with the likelihood that the poison used was arsenic. The possibility of radium or some other type of poisoning was not ruled out, however. Chemical analysis to complete the findings was continuing. At press time, no final report had been issued.

The need for making an autopsy on the body forced cancellation of funeral services at Angeles Funeral Home, which had been scheduled for Saturday, after which the body was to have been shipped to Oakland for final burial Tuesday.

Asked to Remain

Police asked Mrs. Henderson, Dr. John Lopez and his wife, son-in-law, and daughter of the dead man, to remain here during the autopsy examination. The body was released Monday afternoon, and that evening Mrs. Henderson returned to Oakland.

The body was also shipped

Ban Against Dr. Bethune Is Lifted

ENGLEWOOD, N. J.—Yielding to protests against its insulting action in banning Dr. Mary McLeod Bethune as a "Red," the Board of Education here last week climbed down from its previous refusal to permit the distinguished Florida educator to speak at one of the city's schools.

The auditorium of the junior high school has now been made available to Dr. Bethune for an address.

President of the school board said that previous objections to Mrs. Bethune's appearance were withdrawn when she wrote a letter denying membership in any "subversive" organizations.

Rescinding of the ban followed bitter protests from all over the country at the insult to Dr. Bethune and representations to the school authorities from the New Jersey NAACP.

The board of directors of the State conference of the association sent the board of education a copy of a resolution stating it was "chagrined and embarrassed that a person with such an excel-

Henderson's Death Linked to Poison Case

The possibility that Atty. John Henderson, who died last Thursday, may have been murdered by being given doses of arsenic in his food was being probed by police following disclosure of another case of poisoning Sunday.

The peculiar circumsance that the victim in this second case lived next door to the home where Mrs. Anne Henderson, the Oakland attorney's wife, was staying while she was in Los Angeles led police to suspect a possible link between the two cases.

While here, Mrs. Henderson was living at 2033 Virginia Road. Mack Weise, who, police said, was suffering from arsenic poisoning, lived next door, at 2103 Virginia Road.

The case of Weise was brought to the attention of police by Dr. R. C. Harner, of General Hospital, who, according to the report, told homicide on May 25 that a heavy concentration of arsenic had been found during a laboratory analysis in connection with Weise's case.

According to Dr. Harner, there was enough arsenic found to "kill an army," 415 micrograms per 100 cubic centimeters, as against a normal of 10 micrograms.

Weise, a blacksmith employed by the city, was admitted to the hospital May 11 complaining of severe stomach pains, especially after eating. He reportedly said that his food was served separately from that of the rest of his family.

He was dismissed from the hospital May 20, but it was not until five days later that the doctor received the laboratory report on his case.

Mrs. Henderson is reportedly a friend of Mrs. Missie Weise, Mack Weise's wife.

Mrs. Weise, according to the police report, went to the city hall while her husband was in the hospital and asked how much insurance he had and if it was paid up. Weise is said to be heavily insured, with property in excess of $30,000.

Henderson Death

there, and funeral services are now planned for Thursday.

According to information given to the Eagle, Henderson had been ailing for some time. He had been going to doctors for some weeks before he left Oakland May 8 to attend a case involving an estate matter here in Los Angeles.

Ill on Arrival

He had been suffering from exhaustion, loss of appetite and other complaints, but had assumed his troubles were due to over-work.

He had a bad attack the day he was to leave, and delayed his departure for three hours, but took another plane later. He was very sick upon arrival and immediately went to a hotel and to bed.

He reportedly did not call a doctor right away, however, assuming he would be well after a few days' rest. When he became noticeably worse, he finally summoned medical aid. The doctor recommended that he be hospitalized at once.

Hospitalized

He was taken to Temple Hospital May 14, but doctors were unable to determine the cause of his ailment. Poisoning had not been suspected.

The next day Mrs. Henderson, Dr. Lopez and Mrs. Lopez flew down here to be with the stricken man.

One week after he was admitted, Henderson died.

Detectives here and in Oakland were investigating the possibility of foul play, but were taking no positive steps pending receipt of the final autopsy report.

Leading Attorney

Atty. Henderson, a native of Texas, came to California at an early age, and was employed for many years as a clerk in the Oakland Post Office.

He attended law school while continuing his post office work, passed the bar, and started upon the career that was to mark him as one of the Bay area's leading attorneys.

He was one of the first Negroes to become a member of the Northern California Bar association, and held various elective offices in the association. He was also a national officer of the National Negro Bar association.

In addition to Mrs. Henderson, he leaves two daughters and a grandchild.

Alphas Cite Civic Leaders At Banquet

Alpha Phi Alpha fraternity, through its three local chapters, will present awards Thursday evening, May 29, at a banquet at the Bit O' Sweden Restaurant on Sunset Blvd. The dinner, scheduled for 8:30, will honor five local citizens for outstanding community service in the field of human relations. These men are being cited by Alpha Phi Alpha for leadership in the fostering of racial goodwill and, as Samuel DeBose, graduate chapter president puts it, for making the world a better place to live by having lived here themselves.

These community leaders who will receive awards are Michael Fanning, for outstanding work with community and civic organizations and for leadership in racial integration on public jobs; Dr. Leonard Stovall, for great sacrifices in time, talent and energy in the cause of public health; Manchester Boddy, for his continuous fight through the free press for freedom privileges and opportunities for every segment of the population; Kenneth Hahn and Ed Royball for truly honest and unselfish service to all groups through their service in the City Council.

In Los Angeles, there are three chapters of the fraternity, Alpha Delta on campus at the University of Southern California, Gamma XI at UCLA and Beta Psi Lambda, the local graduate chapter. The chapter house is located at 2116 S. Western Avenue.

P-TA Hears Discourse on Menta! Health

The Carver PTA met recently in the school library with the president, Mrs. Carl B. Foreman, presiding. Highlight of the day was a talk on "Mental Hygiene for the Normal" by Mrs. Irma Pixley, supervisor of moral and spiritual education for the Board of Education.

HOT COMPETITION—Competition was mounting this week in the NAACP competition for 40 free round trips to the Oklahoma City convention June 24. Field Secretary Lester P. Bailey indicates the standing of the various divisions in the membership drive. From left, Dr. E. I. Robinson, NAACP president; E. C. Atkinson, campaign chairman; Bailey; Mrs. Zella Taylor, branch secty.

Many Near Top In NAACP Drive

NAACP campaign workers began to look down the home-stretch in the local drive for 6,500 memberships as the day nears for choosing those who will win free roundtrips to the 43rd Annual NAACP Convention in Oklahoma City, June 24 through June 29.

Early reports indicate that the few weeks left before the close of the drive June 17 will see many workers qualifying to go on the California Calvacade to Oklahoma City.

South Central avenue businessmen, organizations, and professional offices presented an idea this week to underwrite the calvacade by calling upon each establishment on the "Avenue" to contribute at least $25 toward the sending of the 40 top workers to the NAACP Convention.

A committee headed by D. C. Montgomery will call upon the Central avenue group. Doctors E. I. Robinson and H. Claude Hudson, Lorenzo Bowdoin, Angelus Mortuary, and Clarence S. Smith, contractor, kicked off the underwriting with $25 each to the NAACP. All businesses and offices assisting in sponsoring the trip will display stickers indicating: We Support NAACP-1952.

E. C. Atkinson, campaign chairman, reported this week that the drive has realized nearly one-third of its goal with more than 2,000 memberships having been recorded at the NAACP office. Leon Steward stated in his report that many more churches are coming into the drive and NAACP Sundays are planned in all congregations supporting the civil rights fight.

The reactivated Los Angeles NAACP Youth Council plans to quality at least one delegate to the Oklahoma Convention. Senior Branch NAACP President Dr. E. I. Robinson promised at the youth meeting Sunday that he would send an additional youth delegate if the group reports a minimum of $200 in membership fees between now and June 17.

Qualifications for the free trip are: 100 memberships for an individual worker; 500 memberships for a Team Captain, club representative of pastors; 1,000 memberships for a campaign district manager; and 1,500 memberships for area supervisors. The contest winner will leave Los Angeles Sunday, June 22, and return on June 30.

Seek Negro Appointment to Vacancy on ICC

NEW YORK—Appointment of a Negro to fill a vacancy on the Interstate Commerce Commission was urged last week by the NAACP as a means of combatting racial discrimination in travel.

In a telegram to President Truman, NAACP Executive Secretary Walter White asked that such an appointment be made to replace John L. Rogers, who recently resigned after 35 years of service with the ICC, the government agency which has jurisdiction over interstate transportation.

The ICC, White charged, "has stubbornly refused to attack segregation in transportation, except under court order. Repeated efforts to get positive action from this agency have been met with stony refusal to curb discrimination."

Citing the large number of Negroes who travel, the NAACP leader said "they are entitled to representation on the ICC to aid the implementation of the recommendation of your Civil Rights Committee for elimination of segregation from public facilities."

Supreme Court Upholds Ban on Race Slander

WASHINGTON—The U. S. Supreme Court last week, in a 5 to 4 decision, upheld an Illinois law prohibiting the publication of literature which libels minorities.

The court upheld the conviction of Joseph Beauharnais, founder of the White Circle League of America, which has been actively insulting and defaming Negroes in the Chicago area for several years.

Beauharnais was in the forefront of those fomenting trouble in the Cicero riot last July.

In May, 1950, he was fined $200 for distributing petitions which blazoned such accusations as the "rapes, robberies, guns and marijuana" of Negroes who were moving into white neighborhoods. It was this conviction which was appealed and on which the Supreme Court ruled.

In Chicago, meanwhile, the Federal District Court has refused to dismiss indictments against seven Cicero officials charged with violating the civil rights of Harvey Clark, Jr., whose renting of an apartment in the lily-white suburb set off the Cicero riot.

Band Concert

Free Sunday sings and band concerts, as well as a special Memorial Day band program, will enliven the holiday weekend, J. Arthur Lewis, Los Angeles' music coordinator, announced this week.

The Los Angeles Negro Concert Band, led by Percy McDavid, will play a special Memorial Day program on Friday from 1 to 3 p.m. on the steps of the Vernon branch of the Los Angeles Public Library, 45th street and Central avenue.

NAACP Urges 'Yes' Vote On Proposition B

"Don't be the tool of the small property owners and the real estate lobby—and don't be fooled by their lies and their propaganda," stated Woodrow Redo, chairman of the housing committee of the NAACP this week.

Redo urged all voters to vote "Yes" on the low-rent housing proposal, proposition B, at Tuesday's elections.

"If you read their propaganda carefully, you will see that their motives in opposing the Federally financed housing projects are purely selfish.

"If these realtors take over the sites and put up private houses on them, the rentals will be too high for the little man.

"And, judging by past experience, the houses they build will be plastered from one end to the other with race restrictions.

"The record of the Housing Authority in Los Angeles speaks for itself. In the Federally sponsored sites here, there is no discrimination, and there is no favoritism.

"This is an opportunity that comes once in a lifetime. It is up to us to tell the real estate lobby that the people of Los Angeles—especially the people of our community—need and want and are eager to obtain the Federal housing projects that have been approved.

"They were approved by the City Council. Contracts were entered into, and the California Supreme Court has twice held that those contracts cannot be broken.

"But the realtors are desperately trying to kill the whole program.

"It is up to us. Our vote can tell them where we stand. Go to the polls Tuesday, June 3. Vote "Yes" on proposition B."

lent national and world-wide reputation in the fields of education, religion and human relations as the vice-president of the NAACP (Mrs. Bethune) should have been so humiliated in a city in the State of New Jersey."

Pledging all its resources to the effort to have the ban lifted, the NAACP branch asserted that "it is also one of the purposes of this association to aid all loyal Americans who fall victims of this war-time hysteria of character assassination."

Stately, white-haired Dr. Bethune, president emeritus of Bethune-Cookman College, Daytona Beach, Fla., former president of the National Council of Negro Women, director of the Negro division of the national advisory committee of the National Youth Administration under President Roosevelt, was to have spoken at the high school at a meeting April 24, sponsored by a Negro women's auxiliary of the American Legion.

When the Englewood Anti-Communist League charged Dr. Bethune with being a member of a number of "subversive" organizations, the school board withdrew permission to use the auditorium, and the Legion auxiliary hastily withdrew its sponsorship of the talk.

Man Placed by Urban League Gets Promotion

The National Urban League hailed this week the success of Albert Black, a "pilot placement" whose promotion to the position of personnel manager of the Rome, N. Y., plant of the General Cable Corporation, was disclosed today by Julius A. Thomas, director of the League's Department of Industrial Relations.

Black, referred to the General Cable Corporation's largest plant by the Urban League last year for a position as assistant personnel manager, was upped to personnel manager this week when a vacancy arose in that position. He will be in charge of industrial and personnel relations of the plant and act as main spokesman for the corporation in its dealings with the various unions to which the 1,600 employees belong.

The "pilot placement" project, a key activity of the Urban League's Industrial Relations Department, seeks to place qualified Negroes in highly skilled, technical and supervisory positions in American industry and commerce, and it was through this source that Mr. Black was referred to the General Cable Corporation.

Panel Cites Progress of Deep South

PHILADELPHIA — Although still short of the democratic ideal, the South is showing significant improvement in the area of civil libetries, it was agreed on the "Lincoln University on the Air" program, Saturday, May 24 over WIP.

The considerable progress made in the fight for civil rights was attributed in part by panel members on the program to replacement of the "old guards" of Dixie by a new, liberal-type leadership.

Participating in the round-table discussion on "Civil Liberties and the South" were Clarence Mitchell, director of the Washington Bureau of the NAACP, and W. Beverly Carter, Philadelphia public relations consultant, both Lincoln graduates.

One of the tools helping to break down the barriers in the Civil Rights field, Mitchell pointed out, is the growing strength and number of Negro voters. He predicted that by November, 1952, there would be two million registered voters below the Mason-Dixon line.

Topic of the last of the current series of panel discussions at 5:30 p.m. on Saturday will be: "World Peace—When?". Panel members will be Leslie Pinckney Hill, II, Philadelphia attorney; Samuel Bradley, Lincoln faculty member; and Kalu Ezera, Lincoln student.

In a similar case Charles I. Metoyer, 1701 Leighton Avenue, said a man with a West Indian accent approached him at a parking lot at Western and Santa Barbara avenues after he had cashed a check at the bank.

The smooth talking stranger completely confused him, Metoyer said, and talked him into handing over the $235 in his pocket.

"You can give me the money. I know I can trust you because I have $2700 in my pocket. I'll mail you your money and you'll get it right back."

After the stranger left with his money, Metoyer said, he realized the lack of logic in the argument.

A 15-year-old girl died in General Hospital Monday after being in a coma for 35 days.

Lillie Davis, of 1016 Basilone Homes, Sun Valley, never regained consciousness after the car in which she was a passenger plunged over a 100-foot cliff on April 21, at Lopez Canyon and Eagle Canyon roads.

Artellious Raymond Jackson, 19, 592 Basilone Homes, the driver of the car; General Calvin Anderson, 17, 830 Basilone Basilone, registered owner; and Shirley Walace, 16, 477 Basilone were also severely injured as Jackson apparently lost control of the car at a sharp turn in the road. Pennsylvania University Gives Highest Honors to Negro Students

The first members of their race elected to the "Sphinx," senior honor society of the University of Pennsylvania, are Robert A. Evans and Edward Bell, selected last Friday.

Evans who was named chief of the honor society also is the first Negro football captain at the university. He already has been elected to head the 1952 team. Bell is star end on the team.

Retiring members of the Sphinx choose new members to receive this, one of the school's highest honors.

Rag Drive

When Carver Junior High School PTA in conjunction with the student body held a rag drive at the school recently, more than 16,000 pounds of rags were brought in by the students. Cash prizes went to Isabel Howard, who collected 378 pounds, and Florence Foreman, 364 pounds. Beatrice Shaw and Harriet Howard.

'EXCEPT ME' VERSION OF 'PLEDGE' QUOTED

The "except me" version of the Pledge of Allegiance frequently repeated by Negro children is quoted in the current issue of the Ladies Home Journal.

"Many little brown boys and girls," the magazine quotes, "when they repeat the Pledge of Allegiance, say: 'pledge allegiance to the flag of the United States of America and to the Republic for which it stands; one nation indivisible, with liberty and justice for all . . . but me.'"

The statement was attributed to Mrs. Eva Butland, of Atlanta, whose five-year-old daughter had grown to feel that all whites are "bad," as a result of her attending an inferior, all-Negro, segregated school.

College Fund Drive Off to Excellent Start

First one thousand dollar gift to the local campaign of the United Negro College Fund was made Thursday night at the kick-off dinner in the Clark Hotel by Robert L. Smith, associate publisher of the Daily News. Headquarters are at 1006 East 28th St.

Accompanying his gift by other pledges of support from downtown business leaders, Smith pointed ou that the 32 colleges sharing in the fund "serve and strengthen the whole population, its labor and consumer markets, its health and are a distinct asset to prosperity and goodwill."

George A. Beavers, chairman, Golden State Life Insurance Co., and a national director of UNCF, keynoted the drive by rapping a movement against private schools.

"Private Negro colleges have a right to take their place among other great national institutions," he declared.

"There is no logic to the belief that Fisk or Atlanta or Tuskegee should be sacked because Negroes built them. Anymore than there is logic to the belief that Catholic, Methodist or Seventh Day Adventist private schools should be sacked because state-supported schools are open, too," Beavers said.

Among the prominent Angelenos attending the kick-off dinner were: Hal Thomas, public relations consultant; Mrs. Gertrude Hicks, Federated Clubs state president; Atty. George Cannady, Lawyers Club; Brice Taylor, Omega Psi Phi scholarship chairman; Sgt. Robert Green, Police Dept. public information specialist and Kappa Alpha Psi representative; Samuel DeBose, Alpha Phi Alpha fraternity.

Others at Dinner

Also Mrs. Mary Lou Talbot, president Delta Sigma Theta sorority which is furnishing volunteer solicitors for the fund. B. B. Bratton, former Board of Equalization supervisor, now prominent in private business circles; Dr. Harlan Osborne, Mrs. Yolande Stoval, medical auxiliary president; Mrs. Wm. Beck, vice president-chairman UNCF; Mrs. Tena Thomas, head of the church groups for the campaign.

Also Richard Hickman, Southeast Health Center; Clarence Smith, city building contractor; Dr. G. W. Reed, Interdenominational Alliance; Wesley Brazier, L. A. Urban League; Charles M. Thomas, Intercollegiate Council; Mrs. Gaynelle Miles, Pan-Hellenic Council; Mrs. Luella Taylor, Fisk Club; and Mrs. Mildred Moore, California Association of Colored Women.

New Juvenile Center Needed, Judge Claims

Lack of facilities at Juvenile Hall is so critical that from "80 to 150 girls and boys must be kept in the County Jail and various local jails throughout Los Angeles County."

This was the statement today by Judge William B. McKesson of the Juvenile Court, who urged citizens to cast a favorable vote at the June 3rd primary election on Proposition "A", the $2,100,000 Juvenile Hall bond issue.

"These jails are not equipped to care for juveniles," Judge McKesson continued, "and have no facilities for permitting youth to be properly housed or have any recreation."

Judge McKesson pointed out it is contrary to the intent of the Juvenile Court law to put boys and girls under 18 in a jail. "It is a travesty and a disgrace for such a large and rich county as Los Angeles to have to keep its youth locked up in improper quarters."

Health Center Meeting Held In Willowbrook

The Willowbrook Citizens' Advisory Committee had its regular monthly meeting Monday, May 19, at the Willowbrook Health Center, 11725 Compton boulevard according to Dr. P. R. Auriemma, Compton Dirstrict Health Officer of the Los Angeles County Health Department.

Roy Elliot of the Urban League discussed proposed plans for a new health center. Messineo and Messineo, industrial engineers are expected to start construction in the near future.

Get Your Money's Worth at Bekins

The phrase most used by consumers today is "Get your money's worth." No matter what the commodity is, that hard-hitting phrase remains the same.

In furniture, Bekins Storage Company Furniture Sales Division, is prepared to meet the consumer's attack by selling new and used furniture at prices within any shopper's tightest budget. At this time for public inspection are exquisite pieces of furniture ready to leave Bekins' floor almost one-half the normal price.

How is this possible? Bekins does not waste money in elaborate display rooms and ornate surroundings. Rather, Bekins has conceived the warehouse display. The money that would normally be used for fancy display rooms is taken from its furniture prices, thus enabling the buyer to make great savings.

The used furniture which Bekin's sells is purchased only because it is in perfect condition. This permits the modern housekeeper to acquire expensive pieces at a much lower cost.

How To Lose Next Fall

Word is out that the resolutions committee of the Democratic national convention is packed, or will be packed, with opponents of FEPC and that Democratic big-wigs are looking around for a compromise plank on fair employment.

Behind this quest for compromise is the hope in high places that some way can be found to placate the Solid South and keep the Dixiecrats in line. What the Democrats need to understand is that such a compromise will cost them the votes of Negroes who live in the large industrial states of the north and west. And those voters can determine the outcome of next fall's election.

It won't do the Democrats any good to carry Alabama, South Carolina and Mississippi—the Dixiecrat states—and lose New York, California, Ohio, Michigan, Illinois and Pennsylvania. In fact they'll get the short end of the bargain in that kind of swap.

Reliable statisticians figure that some two million Negroes are going down South this year and those voters will be able to keep many southern states in line if the Democrats stick with their 1948 stand on civil rights.

Indications are that the GOP is getting ready to nominate General Eisenhower and the Democrats are going to need every electoral vote they can get to defeat the general. Stabbing civil rights in the back may be an effective way to carry the southern states but it strikes us that it is just about the best way in the world for the Democrats to lose the large northern and western states they must carry if they want to retain power in Washington.

You're Registered—Now Vote

Next Tuesday is primary election day.

Figures at hand show that the registration in the Negro communities isn't what it ought to be but that it is better than in former years.

If past experience is any guide a great number of those who have registered won't bother to cast their ballots. They'll stay home for one reason or another and then grumble when they don't get the kind of public officials they think they ought to have.

The polls will be open from seven in the morning until seven that night and everybody will have a chance to vote. California law requires that where necessary employes may demand two hours off for voting time.

Elsewhere we have indicated our choice of candidates and our attitude toward the propositions that will appear on the ballot. We hope you agree with us, or that we can persuade you to our way of thinking, but whether we have or not we hope you will exercise your right of choosing those who will conduct our government for the next few years.

It's Your NAACP

The membership campaign of the local branch of the NAACP is still far behind, and that at a time when the need for its services is greater than ever before.

There have been years when lack of activity on the local scene could have been blamed for a poor showing but the branch has been very active for the past twelve months.

It has been responsive to every public demand for action and has shown a renewed willingness to do the kind of a job that the citizens have a right to expect.

In addition the Los Angeles NAACP has just equipped itself for added service by hiring an experienced executive secretary who can be expected to give the branch the kind of leadership it needs to do even better in the futuer than it has in the past.

An NAACP membership costs two dollars and for the life of us we can't see why every Negro in this city can't spend that much to safeguard his civil rights and civil liberties.

A Good Appointment

United States District Attorney Walter Binns deserves a pat on the back for the appointment of Herbert Greenwood to his office as an assistant attorney.

Mr. Greenwood has lived here for almost twenty years and has won the reputation of being a hard working and conscientious public servant. We know that he will do a good job in his new position.

It is rather remarkable, in light of the claimed liberality of California Democrats, that Greenwood is the second Negro to get a position in the district attorney's office in the 20 years since 1932. That circumstance centers attention on the fact that the Democrats haven't been very vigilant about integrating Negoes into federal service out here. We hope that the Greenwood appointment presages a new day.

Congratulations, Bishop Jordan

The West Coast's growing importance in national affairs as far as Negroes are concerned was reflected last week with the election of the Rev. Frederick D. Jordan as a bishop by the AME church. We don't want to take anything away from the Rev. Jordan or to discount his attainments.

What we do want to point out is that not so long ago no Negro from the West Coast had much of a show of advancement as far as national organizations were concerned. Most easterners and middle westerners looked upon this part of the nation as a place where Indians lived and wild animals roamed the streets. The tremendous increase in our population and our own larger participation in civic and political affairs has finally led to the discovery that some of us out here have some merit.

We know too that the Rev. Jordan will fill his new post with honor and distinction and will help pave the way for recognition of other deserving Californians.

We're Glad You're Gone

Aldrick Blake has moved the headquarters of his America Plus outfit to Oklahoma. In case you've forgotten that is the organization that proposed to mend the California constitution to forbid all FEPC legislation, repeal our civil rights acts and lay a new basis for enforcement of race restrictive covenants. About the only vestige of America Plus that will be left in Los Angeles will be State Senator Jack H. Tenney, who will continue to be "honorary chairman," whatever that means.

We hope Oklahoma has as much luck as we've had so far in keeping America Plus from making any substantial inroads as far as membership is concerned. And we're glad that Mr. Blake is gone. We just hope that he stays gone.

Here Are Our Recommendations

Next Tuesday is primary election day.

Voters will choose party nominees for state and federal offices and approve or reject a number of important propositions and bond issues.

The Eagle has made its selections on the basis of merit and what it believes to be the best interests of its readers. We hope that our discussion of the men and issues will help voters make intelligent choices when they go to the polls.

The Presidential Slates

Democratic voters will have a choice of two presidential slates: one pledged to Senator Estes Kefauver and the other to attorney General Edmund G. (Pat) Brown. We urge a vote for the Kefauver slate.

Mr. Brown IS NOT a candidate for president. Delegates on his slate will be free to vote for whomever they choose at Chicago and some of them favor Senator Richard Russell of Georgia, the most influential and articulate spokesman for Jim Crow in the United States today. John R. McFaden, publicity man for the Brown slate, is at the same time sending out publicity for Russell. We can't believe that Negro voters should lend support, direct or indirect, to the Russell candidacy. Of course, Pat Brown isn't for Russell; of course he is a friend of civil rights and if he were a bona fide candidate we would back him. But he has no control over the delegation at all.

All of that isn't to say that we're satisfied with the Kefauver stand against a compulsory FEPC or that we believe his civil rights stand is above reproach. Voters are faced with a practical question of voting for a man who has had the courage to say that he will abide by his party platform on civil rights or buy a pig in a poke by voting for a man who isn't a candidate and who can't control his slate which contains delegates who will vote for our worst enemy. The choice seems plain and that choice is Kefauver.

Republican voters should vote for the slate favoring Governor Warren.

United States Senator

Congressman Clinton D. McKinnon clearly deserves the support of Negro voters as against William F. Knowland, the incumbent Republican who has taken advantage of our cross filing system to get his name on the Democratic ballot. Mr. McKinnon had a perfect record in the last Congress, according to the NAACP test votes. Mr. Knowland has a fairish record but has gone out on a limb as favoring "states rights," the inevitable dodge put forward by Dixiecrats and their northern Republican allies to excuse direct or indirect support of segregation. Vote for McKinnon.

Congressional Contests

Negro voters will be decisive in the 26th and 23rd districts and little less effective in the 15th district. Congressman Samuel W. Yorty is listed as incumbent in the 26th. His record is so well known that it doesn't need embellishment here. The Eagle strongly urges all Democrats to vote for him and if it were not for the candidacy of Frederick M. Roberts, we would urge Republicans to do the same thing. However, Mr. Roberts is a Negro; he has filed only on the Republican ticket and from our point of view the issue of Negro representation is so important that we believe that Republicans should nominate Mr. Roberts who has ability and integrity. Vote for Yorty if you're a Democrat; for Roberts if you're a Republican.

George McLain is the chief opponent of Clyde Doyle in the 23rd district. Mr. Doyle is a colorless liberal who means well and does little. During the war years the Long Beach and Compton Chambers of Commerce badgered him into protesting against location of a war housing project near Compton because Negroes would be housed there. We don't say he would do that now; we do say that the record shows he did make such a protest. McLain has a long record of friendship to civil rights and has been a leader in the fight for adequate social security and old age pensions. Negroes will be better represented by McLain than Doyle. Vote for McLain.

Gordon L. McDonough, Republican, is the incumbent in the 15th district. A one time liberal, McDonough has had a spotty record in the past few years. He has weaseled on FEPC and voted to restore power to the House Rules Committee this past term. That Committee, controlled by southerners, is the graveyard of all civil rights measures and Mr. McDonough knows it. Our choice among his opponents is Meyer Royal.

Other congressmen who deserve support are Chet Holifield in the 19th; Cecil King in the 18th; Raymond C. Simpson in the 18th; Jerry Harter in the 16th; Edward N. Barrett in the 20th and Dean McHenry in the 22nd.

The People Say—

The Eagle is glad to publish your letters. Say anything you want to say, whether it is critical of our policies or in approval of them. We'll print what you have to say if you will keep your letters as short as you can. And you'll help us if you'll type your letters. If you can't type them, please write legibly on one side of the paper. Thanks.

Dear Sir:

My attention has been called to an article in the May 22 issue of THE CALIFORNIA EAGLE on the subject SCHOOLS AND SCHOLARS. I am not writing this note to answer in any way the statement made about me personally. Naturally I regret that statement because I believe that it is the result of the same misunderstanding that caused the writer to make the other misstatements in the article.

The particular object of this note is to tell you that we have not banned "all instruction about the United Nations" in the public schools. As a matter of fact, it is probably true that we do more in our schools in studying about the United Nations and its agencies than is true in most other school systems. The fact that our Curriculum Division decided to omit for this year our participation in the United Nations Contest and the fact that we have withdrawn one of our teaching manuals for further study does not mean that our program of study about the United Nations and all that it stands for has been "banned."

I do not suppose you are interested in knowing how much I have tried as Superintendent of Schools to resist some of the destructive influences with which we in the public schools must deal these days. However, I do regret that THE CALIFORNIA EAGLE would print the kind of article which it did without trying to determine what the real facts are.

Yours sincerely,

A. J. STODDARD
Superintendent of Schools

Dear Sir:

Democrats Warned Against FEPC Compromise Plants

NEW YORK—A compromise on a compulsory FEPC in the Democratic party platform will cause "widespread repercussions among Negroes and other liberal voters," Walter White, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, has warned Frank McKinney, chairman of the National Democratic Committee.

Prompted by recurrent reports that Mr. McKinney is seeking to "tone down the 1948 plank on civil rights" through elimination of specific reference to FEPC and other measures, Mr. White wrote the Democratic chief, assuring him that Negroes "are gravely disturbed" by these reports.

Representatives of a score of national Negro organizations who met recently in New York agreed, Mr. White said in his letter, that such a compromise "would not receive the support of Negro voters or of a considerable number of other liberal voters who are concerned about this fundamental issue."

"In light of this unanimous agreement," the NAACP executive continued, "the reports from Chicago that you would lend your support to proposals to tone down the 1948 position of the Democratic party is most shocking."

The Watch Tower

Some of our biggest and most successful magazines with large circulation among white people are not giving the race a well-balanced a presensation as it should receive.

In some respects we are being made to look ridiculous and childish. We are revealed as full of pretensions that cannot be backed up solidly with accomplishments, or with facts. Disproportionate emphasis is being placed upon the mixing of the races and upon interracial marriage. Gaudy social events, many in bad taste, are being held up as important and significant items in the life of the Negro population.

Within our racial family we know these things for what they are and we value them accordingly. About them we laugh tolerantly, or joke pointedly, or sneer definitely. But white people who pick up these magazines have no balance wheel of knowledge about he race as a whole. They get their impressions from the headlines, the photographs, and the printed accounts. Well, what do they see?

They see an article about Negro millionaires. They read the headline and then they search in vain through the pictures and blurbs and over-zealous prose for a real, honest-to-goodness millionaire. They seek for the evidence that marks a millionaire (provided such a one would consent to evidence being broadcast so flamboyantly) and they do not find it. They find assertions that such and such a one "is known to own" a mansion, an apartment house, rental property, a big automobile, etc. There is nothing about cash in banks, or securities, or the value of shares of business being operated. This writer knows a man who may be said to "own" an apartment house whose assessed valuation is slightly better than $500,000, but his net income from rentals, after expenses are paid, is less than $5,000 annually. Millionaires according to today's income estimates are those who have investments that bring in from $40,000 to $60,000 a year. Our magazines cannot parade a man who earns $20,000 a year through a profession and owns two or three houses or a summer home and two automobiles as a millionaire. It won't wash.

Speaking of summer homes, one of our magazines had a big spread of photographs and boasting, but on close reading one found that several of the summer homes were commercial boarding and rooming houses for summer visitors. This kind of stuff holds us up to ridicule. Then there was the article on "Richest Negro Widows." One such was revealed as a lady whose husband had left her $30,000 in insurance!

To read some of the issues of some magazines one would think that Negroes as a whole are greatly pre-occupied with interracial marriage. Such events are interesting occurrences in the light of public opinion among American whites, but they by no means constitute the No. 1 topic among American Negroes as is suggested by frequent headlines and leading articles in our magazines.

Worst of all are the stories and pictures of Negro social events. One lady stole the show at a club dance in the Middle West by appearing in a mink dress, costing, according to the magazine, $12,000. Is this the measure of our maturity as a people? Is this the evidence upon which we base our demands for equality and positions of responsibility in American life? This sort of trash, put forward as Negro progress, does nothing to win friends and influence people. There is no solidity here, no judgment, no sense of values, no hint of responsibility. Every group has its playboys and playgirls, but other groups do not exalt these people and their empty and vulgar performances. They do not devote pages to them in their leading publications or brag about them. One Negro earning $90 a week at the Ford Company, buying his home, paying his bills, educating his children and supporting his church, is worth a hundred of the show-offs who spend $90 for a case of imported whisky.

It is time to be concerned about the picture of the Negro that is being presented so steadfly to an enlarging circle of white readers by some of our magazines.

SEVEN MILLION NEGRO VOTERS ELIGIBLE TO BALLOT IN NOVEMBER

Calif. Voters Ballot Tuesday

CALIFORNIA Eagle

Thursday, May 29, 1952 — The California Eagle—5

Here Are Our Recommendations

Assembly Contests

Augustus F. Hawkins wants to return to the assembly from the 62nd District and is opposed by Leon Giles. The Hawkins record is such an excellent one that there is no sound reason why voters should replace him with even such an outstanding citizen as Giles. Vote for Hawkins.

Rayfield Lundy is a candidate in the 55th district, the majority of whose population is Negro. Vernon Kilpatrick is the nominal incumbent in that district but he never lived there before last summer. Again the principle of Negro representation in government is so important that it outweighs all other factors and we strongly urge all voters to cast their ballots for Lundy.

Supervisors' Races

Kenny Washington, well known athlete, wants to replace Leonard Roach as supervisor in the Second District. We hope that he does so and again for the primary reason that Negroes deserve representation in government, something they've never had as far as county government is concerned. Opponents make much of Washington's lack of experience but that argument strikes us as the usual smoke screen that is always thrown up when a Negro runs Office holders aren't born with experience. They acquire it and most people know ther are obstacles that make it pretty difficult for Negroes to get the kind of experience that is available to others.

Another candidate in the second district is Kenny Hahn, a city councilman for whom we have the highest respect and who is certainly qualified for the supervisor's job. No man in public life has given more unselfishly of his time to his constituents than Hahn and none has a better record on civil rights and other matters of primary concern to the Negro voter than he does. Those who reject Washington as a candidate should certainly vote for Hahn.

Washington is our first choice.

The Propositions

There is no reason under the sun why any Negro should fail to vote Yes on Proposition B which will enable the city to go ahead with its ten thousand unit low cost housing program. Housing is needed everywhere; the need is double in the Negro community. The City Housing Authority pursues a non-segregation, non-discrimination policy; its projects are open to all on the basis of need and eligibility. The opposition is furthered and fathered by the Los Angeles Realty Board, the Chamber of Commerce and like organizations which have been the mainstays of residential segregation for the past quarter of a century. A vote against Proposition B is a vote for residential segregation. Vote Yes on Proposition B.

The school bond propositions deserve support. If Los Angeles is to have adequate schools we must approve these bonds and a goodly portion of the money will be spent to improve schools in our own communities. Vote Yes on Propositions F, G, H, I and J.

Proposition A provides for funds for a sorely needed Juvenile Hall Center. Vote Yes on Proposition A.

Judicial Contests

Superior Court Judge Allen Ashburn is opposed by Municipal Court Judge Charles B. McCoy. Judge Ashburn is an autocrat in his court room with little understanding or sympathy with people. His opponent has the opposite traits and we urge a vote for Charles B. McCoy.

The District Attorney

District Attorney S. Ernest Roll has token opposition in Claude Watson. Obviously Roll is so much better qualified and equipped for the job that Watson doesn't deserve serious attention. Vote for Roll, who has added a Negro investigator and a Negro deputy to his staff since his elevation.

Negro Voters Can Turn Tide In Nov. Election

By JAY ARCHER
Eagle Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Approximately seven million Negroes—enough voters to determine the outcome of the national election—are eligible to cast their ballots in the November election, according to a survey made public this week.

That figure was arrived at from the census population estimates which showed that the total Negro population is well over 15 million. Of that 15 million some five million live in the north and west where there are no restraints of any kind on their voting. The ten million who live in the South will face various kinds of attempts to keep them from the polls but barriers have dropped in many places in the deepest south.

How many of the seven million eligibles will exercise their right to cast their ballots is another matter entirely. The national average of eligible voters who go to the polls ranges from 40 to 50 per cent and there is no reason to suppose that Negro voters show any higher degree of interest than their white compatriots.

Various polls show that the Democrats have a larger following among Negro voters than the Republicans. That is true in the North because Negroes in that region are prone to vote along economic lines and the Democratic party generally has a pretty firm hold on workers of all age groups and national descent.

In the South, the Democrats

Lundy Planning To Open Office For Constituents

There is desperate need for a direct pipe-line to the Legislature in Sacramento in order that the citizens of the 55th District may be adequately protected. "The first thing that I shall do upon being elected to the Assembly will be to establish an office in Watts to receive, process and take action on all suggestions, complaints, or criticisms concerning the District," Ray Lundy, leading 55th Assembly District candidate said in an exclusive interview.

The modest young attorney said that the office would be completely staffed with a field secretary, telephone, stenographic service and any other materials needed for the convenience of his constituents.

"I feel that the time has come when citizens of this area must constantly be in a position to be enlightened upon what goes on in Sacramento. No representative in either the City Council, Board of Supervisors, the Assembly, or Congress, either resides in this area or maintains an office here for the dissemination of vital and important information. Definite hours will be scheduled and appointments will be made for any citizen to meet with Ray Lundy, your next Assemblyman, upon his weekly trips between Los Angeles and Sacramento. The public is entitled to have a direct hand in the operation of the governmental affairs in Sacramento. I intend to see to it that the voice of the people is heard at all times on any issue that may be presented," Lundy said.

LEON WASHINGTON, founder of the Los Angeles Sentinel newspaper, comes out of retirement to have his picture taken with George McLain, Candidate for Congress in the 23rd District. "I am for him one hundred percent. He's my man," said Washington, a friend of McLain's clear back to the depression days.

Green Tells Why He Backs Kenny Washington

While Kenneth Stanley Washington, former UCLA All-American and professional football great, now a local businessman, followed the natural urge of a person interested in politics and civic affairs, and filed as a candidate for Supervisor in the Second district, one would have thought that he had threatened to drop an atom bomb in the Negro district or had renounced God, Country and Motherhood.

His phone rang all night long, while so-called Negro leaders tried to persuade him to withdraw from the race, and give up his right to seek political office—a right guaranteed by the constitution, and written in blood.

Surprise Reaction

"I was really surprised," said Kenny with a look of anger on his face. Men I've always looked up to and whom I thought were giving leadership in the Negros fight for first-class citizenship called me up to tell me to get out of the race, and what a great "White father" the incument was. I got in this race because I believe I can win and I believe that there are enough Negroes and liberal minded whites in the district, to see that we get adequate representation."

The local political hacks and Uncle Toms were dismayed and angered at the affrontery of this young man who had nerve to seek a seat in the county government. Cries went up that "he's not qualified."

He was castigated, hung and quarted in one of the local weeklies.

All sorts of ulterior motives were ascribed to young man who is seeking success in the framework of the American tradition.

I'm for Kenny Washington!

I'm for Kenny Washington because I believe that our democracy can only function properly when all segments of the population are represented in the policy-making end of government.

I consider Kenny Washington as qualified as any other politician running for office today. Take a bag full of politicians and shake them up, and Kenny will stand head and shoulders above most of them. He is college trained, and his activities have given him a wide range of experience.

I'm for Kenny Washington because I believe that the symbol of representation in government is very important for a people struggling for first class citizenship.

I'm for Kenny Washington because I'm ashamed—ashamed of the fact that with a population of a quarter million, we have no, absolutely no representation in local government.

No Representation for Negroes

In the Second District, there are over 200,000 Negro citizens. They comprise almost 40 percent of the population of the district, the largest single voting bloc in the district. Four Councilmanic districts cut through this population. A trip to the County or City Hall offices of the representatives who exist because of this vote, and nary a dark face can be seen working in the offices.

I know that if Kenny Washington is elected, there will be some visual changes made. I know that I will see Kenny on the Avenue more than at just election time. I know that when any problem affecting the welfare of the district, I can drop by Kenny's house and talk the matter over with him.

I think its high time that the old fogies and handkerchief heads were removed from the political scene, and I think we can start with Kenny Washington.

Yorty Boasts Best Civil Rights Record

Congressman Samuel Wm. Yorty, who is running for reelection from the new 26th Congressional District, has kept faith with minorities, according to the Congressional Record.

Congressman Yorty, who has been in Congress only seventeen months, is the only California Congressman who has seen fit to employ a Negro field representative, on a full-time basis, in his local office in the person of Mrs. Ethel Cole Bryant.

Through his local representatives, the Congressman has been responsible for hundreds of Negroes gaining employment in industries which were closed to them. Hundreds more were given counsel regarding filing applications for Civil Service positions and other governmental jobs.

Through the joint recommendation of Congressman Yorty and Assemblyman Augustus F. Hawkins, Atty. Herbert Alonzo Greenwood was appointed an assistant U. S. attorney, last Monday, in the local U. S. Attorney's office.

Atty. Greenwood will be in charge of the Federal Housing Authority unit of the Federal prosecutor's office.

Congressman Yorty championed the cause of Negroes in his fight for a Federal Fair Employment Practices Commission as protesting to President Truman the recent bombing of Negro homes in Los Angeles. He asked the Chief Executive for an investigation by the FBI denouncing such acts of vandalism as lending aid and comfort to Communist propaganda.

Congressman Yorty, who is the incumbent, is a member of the NAACP and wired the organization his support in bringing the perpetrators to justice.

During his brief career in Congress, Congressman Yorty has sponsored legislation to admit Japanese to American citizenship; he has aided desirable Chinese enter this country and has fought against Mexican-American discrimination.

Kefauver To Appear At Memorial Rites

Sen. Estes Kefauver will fly from San Francisco to Los Angeles Friday, May 30, to honor the local community's war dead at two special Memorial Day services.

The first service, at 45th and Central, will be held at 12 noon. The second, at the Trinity Baptist Church,s playground, will be held at 1 p.m.

Both observances will be held in the open air and will be free to the general public.

Accompanying the Senator will be William T. McKnight, nationally prominent Negro attorney from Cleveland, O., who was a classmate of the Senator's at Yale Law School, where McKnight was honored by Phi Beta Kappa.

Also set to appear with the Senator are James Roosevelt, son of the late president; Hugh MacBeth and Almena Lomax, Negro members of Sen. Kefauver's Cali-

Kefauver, Brown Fight For Votes

A hammer and tongs, no-holds-barred battle for the Negro vote in the Tuesday (June 3) presidential preference primary was under way this week as Senator Estes Kefauver toured the state to woo Negro voters away from a slate pledged to Attorney General Edmund G. (Pat) Brown.

Brown, who has always been a heavy favorite among Negro voters, heads a slate nominally pledged to him but which is in reality an unpledged delegation. Its members will be free to vote for whomever they chose at Chicago, a fact that Kefauver followers have seized upon to charge that some of the Brown delegates will cast their votes for Senator Richard Russell, the senate's number one segregationist.

Kefauver's campaign stock among Negroes took an upward swing with the arrival here last week of William T. McKnight, Cleveland lawyer who is well known in California. McKnight, a classmate of Kefauver's at Yale, has been busy all over the state and is telling all who will listen that Kefauver is in reality a staunch and long time friend of civil rights.

Countering Kefauver's claim, Brown supporters charge the presidential candidate with ducking out on votes on the poll tax, with failure to vote to impose cloture and with making deals to bury FEPC legislation. Kefauver openly admits that he doesn't favor a compulsory FEPC but says that he will go along with his party platf

There isn't so m of a contest in Republican ranks. Governor Earl Warren heads one presidential slate and Congressman Thomas Werdel the other. Never much of a vote-getter among Negroes, Warren has the edge on Werdel principally because the latter didn't even bother to list a Negro on his slate and because some of its members are unfriendly to the claims of Negroes. Werdel has consistently refused to support FEPC during his term in Congress.

Brown headquarters were busy this week picturing the whole delegation as one friendly to the president's civil rights program. In addition to Brown himself, who has a long record of friendship to the civil rights program, the delegation also lists Assemblymen Augustus F. Hawkins and Byron Rumford, Attorney Hugh MacBeth and Mrs. Almena Lomax are on the Kefauver slate.

ROLL CAMPAIGNS

Carrying his campaign to every section of the County, District Attorney S. Ernest Roll is filling a heavy schedule of speaking engagements, radio television and personal appearances, according to announcement yesterday from his headquarters.

School Bonds Win Approval Of Business Men

Two prominent business leaders in this community—Edgar J. Johnson and George A. Beavers Jr.—are making public their personal endorsements of the Los Angeles City Schools and the June 3 school bonds and tax election.

In letters addressed to the "Citizens of Los Angeles" and sent to the board of education offices, the local insurance officials urged a vote "Yes" on Propositions F, G, and H, which will provide structural school facilities and Propositions I and J, which will supply textbooks, teachers, and other resources.

Johnson is vice-president and secretary of the Golden State Mutual Life Insurance Company, 1999 West Adams Boulevard. Beavers is chairman of the board of directors and treasurer of the group.

"The Los Angeles Urban League made a survey last year which revealed that there are many examples that point up the urgent need for increase in school facilities as provided in the coming bond and tax elections," Beavers said.

"The tremendous increase in school enrollment has caused thousands of students to be deprived of adequate school accommodations because of lack of facilities," he added.

"The Public schools in the City of Los Angeles are noted for being among the best in the nation. They have the highly responsible task of teaching and training our children to use the tools with which nature has endowed them and to prepare themselves to be valuable future citizens," Johnson pointed out.

"It is the responsibility of citizens today to assure our citizens of tomorrow that they will have the type of educational training in school facilities that are conducive to progressive and constructive learning," he concluded.

Citizens of Los Angeles will be asked to vote on five issues for schools on the June 3 ballot.

NAACP Rates McKinnon's Civil Rights Voting Perfect

They call Clinton D. McKinnon, Democratic candidate for U. S. Senator, the Giant Killer, and with good reason. McKinnon has never backed away from a fight from the time his father died when he was 14 years old and he was forced to hustle papers on the street corners of San Diego.

He has been singularly successful in figting and winning against tremendous odds, and when no one in the Democratic party wanted to take on the incumbent, William F. Knowland, because of all the power and wealth arrayed behind his candidacy, McKinnon agreed to take on the job.

Supported Dawson

McKinnon, who was publisher of a newspaper and a civic leader in San Diego, ran for Congress in 1948 and was elected. Congressman William L. Dawson said of McKinnon in a recent visit, "McKinnon is one of the most able men in the Congress. He is a diligent and conscientious worker, always concerned about the general welfare and the welfare of his constituents. When I needed support on vital legislation concerning civil rights, I always knew where McKinnon stood and knew I could count on him no matter how much pressure they put on him."

The national office of the NAACP in its appraisal of the voting records of Congressmen and Senators on legislation affecting minorities and civil rights, rates McKinnon as having a perfect record, while his opponent, William F. Knowland, was rated as having only a fair voting record.

McKinnon demonstrated his concern for the economic and social problems of minorities while he was publisher of the San Diego Journal. Immediately after the conclusion of World War II, a tremendous problem was created in San Diego when the great number of Negro workers in the war plants in San Diego were thrown out of work. San Diego had a tremendous influx of Negroes during the war, more than doubling the pre-war population.

Urban Leigue Worker

He was keenly aware of the problems faced by these unemployed war workers and served as chairman of the Urban League Study Group for Jobs for Minorities, an organization set up for the purpose of finding new areas of employenmt for Negroes in San Diego.

A graduate of Redland University and University of Geneva, where he studied International Relations on a fellowship. McKinnon is also keenly aware of the problems of minority people throughout the world, and the great necessity to show them that democracy works at home.

He has visited 34 different countries and worked on various California newspapers, before going to Congress.

McKinnon said, "I have been in the house three and a half years and Knowland has been in the senate for seven yeaers. I am glad to compare my record with Knowland's legislative accomplishments in twice the time I've been in Washington.

I give the Senator from Formosa a two to one handicap and my record will show I have accomplished in my district far more results than Knowland has been able to accomplish in twice the length of time in his district.

"California cannot afford the luxury of two Republican Senators in Washington," he declared. He accused Senator Knowland of aloofness from the "bread and butter problems" of California and charged him with being more interested in Formosa and playing Republican politics than in helping the people of California make progress.

Fay Allen Urges Voters To Back Geo. McLain

Mrs. Fay Allen, director, George McLain for Congress Committee in Watts-Willowbrook area, expressed confidence that the overwhelming majority of voters in the 23rd District want George McLain to represent them in Congress, but she cautioned against overconfidence and indifference on election day. Said Mrs. Allen, prominent citizen and former member of the Los Angeles Board of Education, "We must not become too complacent because of the enthusiasm expressed for McLain and feel that we don't have to actually vote ourselves. We, as good citizens, must go to the polls and vote and do what we can to get our neighbors and friends to vote also.

Mrs. Allen said that "due to the vigorous campaign George McLain has waged, Watts and Willowbrook have received attention throughout the State and the eyes of shrewd politicians everywhere will be watching to see if voters respond." Continuing Mrs. Allen stated, "If the voters of this community fail to vote in large numbers on June 3, it will be assumed that the needs of the district do not have to be filled because the citizens are not interested."

"The voters have the opportunity of speaking for themselves in this war against neglect and discrimination. We in this area are the front line troops. we can win this war by voting all-out for George McLain, the proven friend of the little man," said Mrs. Allen.

"Campaign Lies" Hit By Kenny

"It has come to our attention that malicious and unfounded charges have been leveled against Kenny Washington in his race for Supervisor of the Second District," Washington backers said this week.

We realize that these deplorable smear tactics have become part and parcel of some political campaigns. Many take the attitude that since this is ordinary machine political tactics, the community will recognize it as such. We feel, however, that these charges should not go unanswered—that the people of the community demand that the truth be told," the statement said.

"The slander that Kenny Washington was put in the race to split the Negro vote is a base falsehood.

ROYBAL HITS KEFAUVER 'LIMITED RIGHTS' PLEA

"The Edmund G. (Pat) Brown Free delegation is in favor of a full Civil Rights program in the 1952 Democratic Platform, but Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee is attempting to use a 'limited' Civil Rights voting record in his campaign to gain California's large delegation," stated Los Angeles City Councilman Edward R. Roybal, member of the uninstructed delegation headed by Attorney General Brown for the California Presidential Primary June 3.

Roybal also denounced Kefauver's voting record in favor of the Arizona Water Project.

"He has voted against California by casting his vote for the Arizona Water Steal. This bill is in direct oppostion to the best interests of the people of California, and would place our citizens in a hazardous position if passed.

"The Edmund G. (Pat) Brown uninstructed delegation is a representative group of Democrats desiring only to serve the people of California and continue the progress that our party has made over the past twenty years. As a free delegation they will vote for a Democratic candidate who is not against our State, and who has the capability and integrity necessary to be the President of the United States."

Hot Primary Contest

by the NAACP while Knowland's record is styled "good."

Major concentrations of Negro voters in Congressional districts are in the 26th, 23rd and 15th with a substantial number of Negro voters in the 16th, 17th, 18th, 19th, 20th and 24th districts.

Samuel W. Yorty, incumbent Democrat, is favored to win his party's nomination hands down but will meet stiff opposition in the Republican primary from Roberts who served 16 years in the state legislature and who came within a whisker of beating Helen Gahagan Douglas in 1948 when both ran in the old 14th District. Alexander is unopposed in the Progressive Party ticket.

George McClain, pension leader, and registered Democrat, and Clyde Doyle, Democratic incumbent, are the real contenders in the 23rd District with half a dozen other candidates of other parties going along for the ride.

Gordon McDonough, incumbent Republican, is expected to run away with the Republican nomination in the 15th District and may win the Democratic nomination from Meyer Royal and Trevor J. Martinson.

Other Races

Donald Jackson, Republican, and Jerry Harter, Democrat, are chief contenders in the 16th; Cecil R. King is unopposed on the Democratic ticket and will probably win the Republican nomination in the 17th; Republican Craig Hosmer and Democrat Raymond C. Simpson are leading rivals in the 18th; Chet Holifield, Democratic incumbent, is expected to win both party nominations in the 19th, while Carl Hinshaw, Republican incumbent, is fighting it out with Democrat Edward N. Barrett, in the 20th. Meade McClanahan is trying to make a comeback against Republican Norris Poulsen, incumbent.

Chief interest for Negro voters in assembly races centers in the 55th and 62nd districts. Hawkins, Democratic incumbent in the 62nd, has a wide lead over his Republican rival, Leon Giles, for both party nominations. The 55th District is in reality a new district now located in the Watts-Willowbrook section but Vernon Kilpatrick is listed as the incumbent. He is a Democrat and is being given a tough race by Lundy who is an attorney and a newcomer to politics.

Washington is trying to unseat Leonard Roach in the second supervisorial district which includes the west side and Central Avenue areas and a large portion of the Watts section. Another candidate in the supervisorial race who has a large and determined following of Negro voters stemming from his service in city council.

Voters will also make a choice between rival presidential slates on both Democratic and Republican tickets. One Democratic slate is pledged to Senator Estes Kefauver and the other to Attorney General Edmund G. (Pat) Brown, with Negroes on both delegations. Brown is not a candidate for president and all delegates on his slate will be released to make their own choices in the event his list wins. Attorney Hugh MacBeth and Mrs. Almena Lomax are on the Kefauver slate and Assemblymen Hawkins and Byron Rumford are on the Brown delegation. Governor Earl Warren and Congressman Thomas Werdel head rival Republican delegations. Paul R. Williams and Mrs. Catherine Mitchem are on the Warren slate while the Werdel list contains no Negroes.

All voters will be able to make selections for the non-partisan office of supervisor while those registered with party affiliations will be given only the ballot of their own party. Polls will open at 7 a.m. and close at 7 p.m.

The California Machinists Non-Partisan Political League has endorsed Councilman Kenneth Hahn for Supervisor in the Second District of the County. This powerful union endorsement was because of Hahn's fine legislative record in the City Council.

Hundreds will sign the Blue Book next Sunday, June 1, from 3:00 to 7:00 p.m. at Elks Auditorium, 4016 South Central Avenue, when a Citizens' Committee with Mrs. Gilbert Landsay, chairman, and A. C. The Ladies' Apparel department of Gold's Furniture Store, The Rose Shoppe, Western Department Store, and B & B House of Styles, will furnish models for the occasion.

Martinson Gets Support Of MacBeth

Hugh E. MacBeth, prominent attorney, endorses Trevor J. Martinson for Congress in the 15th Congressional District of California.

Hugh E. MacBeth said, "I am for Martinson for Congress in the 15th District because of the principles for which he stands. He is honest and sincere. It is such men as Martinson that our government needs today. In my opinion, with Trevor J. Martinson as our congressman in Washington, we will have a respresentative of which we can justly be proud."

Platform Told By Alexander

"As one of the two Negro candidates running for Congress in the 26th Congressional District, I believe that the election of a Negro to Congress from the 26th Congressional District would not only be an additional voice for complete equality of the Negro people but would advance the needs of all 26th C.D. voters, Negro and white." Horace Alexander, IPP candidate said this week. "The election of a Negro to Congress from this district would be a potent demonstration of the people's rejection of recent terror bombings in Los Angeles and other states. It would be a re-dedication to the principle that, "taxation without representation" is alien to democratic principles and practice," he added.

"The recent election of Negroes to office in various states throughout the country, coupled with Negro candidates aspiring for public office more than at anytime since reconstruction, would indicate that the Negro people view direct representation as an important step toward complete equality," he said.

Ministers Aid Royal For Congress

Mayer G. Royal, Democratic Candidate for Congress in the 15th District, has just announced indorsement by the Interdemoniational Ministers Alliance. Royal who appeared before that body outlined his platform which included a national Fair Employment Practices Commission in which he stated that no one should be barred from a job because of race, creed, color, or national origin, and that if a person is qualified, he should be hired.

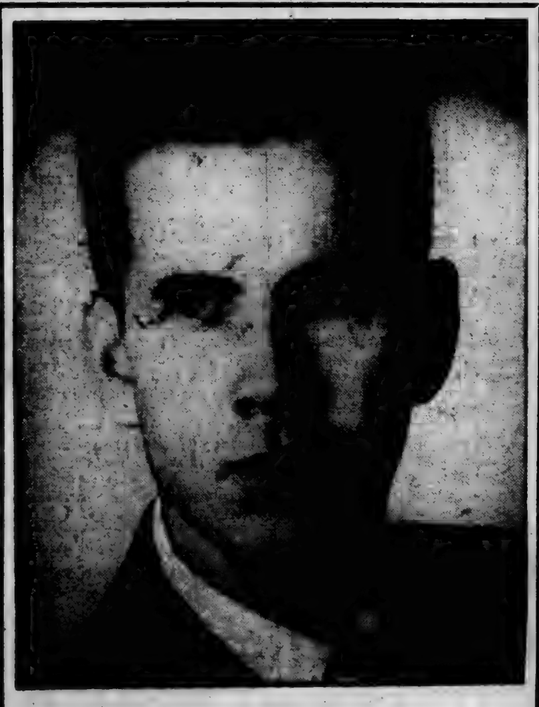
Royal also urges passage of proposition No. 3 on the June 3, ballot which is the public housing bill because minorities and thousands of underprivileged families who cannot pay high rents or buy homes and have children in the family are barred from homes because there are not enough rentals to go around and workers must have a roof over their heads.

Included in his platform is old age pension of $100 per month at age of 60 years, a decent medical plan for the poor, wipe out the poll tax, civil right for everyone. Royal is a liberal Democrat and he urges all right thinking voters not to throw out the Democratic party who has given many social gains in the last 20 years to the people.

Local Leaders O.K. Westbrook

Professional and business men on Central Avenue and other leaders in the Negro community have been receiving calls recently from Richard M. Westbrook, who is running for Congress in the new 26th Congressional District of which the 62nd Assembly District is a part.

Westbrook is a young man, age 39, and frankly admits that he is now in politics. His experience has been in the business world in which he started 19 years ago as a messenger and typewriter cleaner at $12 a week for the Bartlett-Freser Co., grain merchants, Chicago, Ill. After two years as a partner in a public relations firm he moved to California in 1940 and was employed at Douglas Aircraft Co., starting at the bottom as a sweeper in order to learn the business and ending up five years later as Supervisor in the Forms and Procedures Dept. In 1945 he founded the Popcorn Equipment Company and manufactured and installed commercial popcorn equipment in all parts of the country.



Doyle Supporting Social Security

Concerted efforts will be made by congressman Clyde Doyle to secure enactment of legislation this year to give the aged, blind, disabled and dependent children a long overdue federal increase in their aid payments, it was announced today by Doyle.

Senator Ernest W. McFarland, majority leader of the Senate telegraphed Doyle yesterday asking Doyle to join him in a joint move to be made both in the Senate and House to speed this "urgently needed" legislation, Doyle said.

RUTH SEMUS SAYS: "Whether you're one or one-hundred and one . . . everyone will have fun . . . when you come to the CHAMPAGNE BAR or LAZY ROOM, Broadway at Slauson. Open nitely or anytime, by special appointment. Phone: LA. 4911 for reservations."

enlist Negroes because the party there is a one-party system and to vote for others than Democrats means a virtual waste of the vote. Paradoxically enough, the one-party system of the South is based on the attempt to keep the Negro in his place and the Democratic party is traditionally the organ of White Supremacy. Negroes are trying to change its character by boring from within.

Whether the Democrats can retain the allegiance of the Negro voter if they nominate a southerner for the presidency is another matter. They almost certainly could not if that nominee is Richard Russell of Georgia but Estes Kefauver backers point with pride that Negro voters in Florida were among his supporters in that state's primary election.

Kefauver has also been able to attract a considerable Negro following in some northern and western states, largely, his detractors say, because he hasn't had any opposition worthy of the name.

In any event, Negro voters concentrated in the large industrial states such as Michigan, New York, California, Ohio, Pennsylvania and similar areas have enough votes to tilt the scales in any election. Whether they will exercise their power remains to be seen. That may depend on what they think the parties have to offer by way of platforms and candidates.

HOWDY, FOLKS!

For over a quarter of a century, I believe I have been divinely inspired toward a sense of responsibility to the old and the lonely.

I am a candidate for Congress only for the purpose of helping humanity, and acting as a spearhead for democracy in this materialistic and cynical period of world history.

I have tried to the best of my ability, to serve those groups that have been the target of intolerance in one form or another.

I have been, and I expect to be in the future, severely vilified because I believe that every man and every woman, regardless of their circumstances, be they rich or be they poor, has the right to human dignity.

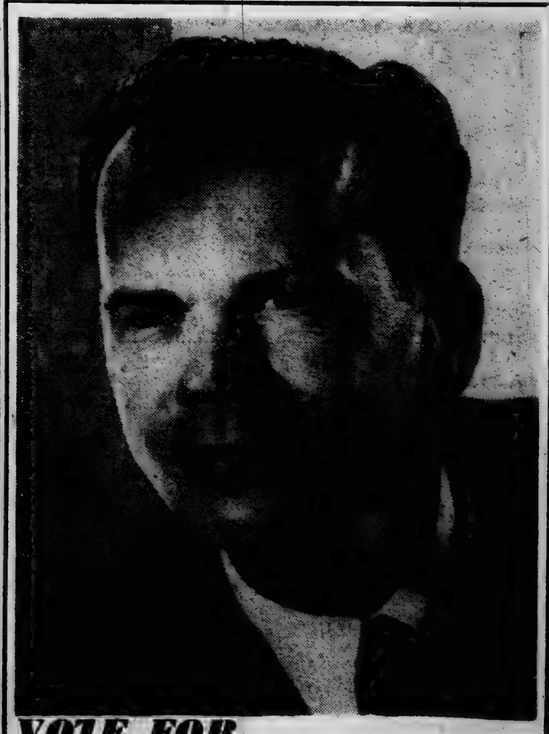
I have never ceased fighting for this right that you are entitled to, and I never will as long as there is breath in my body.

I try to the utmost limits of my capabilities to adhere to the Ten Commandments, and have given my everything to the Fourth Commandment:

"HONOR THY FATHER AND THY MOTHER THAT THY DAYS MAY BE LONG UPON THE LAND WHICH THE LORD THY GOD GIVETH THEE . . ."

The bread that I have cast upon the waters,—I did not seek its return. But in my campaign for Congress, it has been returned two-fold.

The support I have received from the humble people of my district will forever spur me in the service of others to the end of my days.



As is my custom on the eve of any important event in my life of service I shall pray to God, that in His divine wisdom and mercy, He will find it possible in the Eternal Scheme of Things, to look upon my election to Congress with favor, and that I will accept the decision of the people as the Voice of God.

My soul will be comforted.

Patterson Says He'll Win In Congress Race

Ellis E. Patterson, campaigning for return to Congress in the new 26th District, today expressed "full confidence" that he will be nominated next Tuesday on the Democratic ticket—the only one on which he filed.

Patterson stated, "I have travelled the district continuously during the weeks of this campaign, and have been highly gratified with the enthusiastic response my campaign has received everywhere I went. Almost every person to whom I have spoken seems as certain as I that the voters of this new district will, next Tuesday, express their demand for a return to fundamental decency in government; for the re-establishment of the Roosevelt "Good Neighbor" policy and for a Congressman who will fight for their best interests during EVERY month and every day of his term in office, without any suspicion of serving vested interests at any time."

G.O.P. ALTERNATE to the National Republican Convention in Chicago in July, Louis V. Cole, energetic community leader, this week urged Negroes to support Governor Earl Warren. Cole is chairman of Republican County Central Committee, 62nd district.

"These voters," Patterson continued, "know my record in Congress where I worked in close harmony for the success of the Roosevelt policies. They know, too, that when I was State Assemblyman, and later as Lieutenant Governor, I fought for the interests of the people — for peace, security, homes, fair employment, civil liberties and the inherent dignity of every human being regardless of race, creed or color. Remembering these things, people tell me they are working for my return to Congress from this new district. I am grateful for their support, and share their optimism for an overwhelming vote for me next Tuesday. When I am returned to Congress, I assure my friends that I shall again take up the battle for their interests with the same vigor as always."

Among the great number of prominent citizens interested in the Patterson campaign are Reverend M. Frederick Mitchell, Dr. P. Price Cobbs, Herbert Simmons Jr., John Williams, Carlton Smith, Roger Q. Mason and a host of others who urge their friends to vote for Patterson.

Official Scores 'Select' Groups

Dr. William J. Villaume, director of the National Council department of the Urban Church, told a group of city ministers in St. Louis last week that city churches should "stay put" instead of following their parishioners "into the greener pastures of the suburbs."

Urging churches to serve all kinds of people in their communities, the church official said: "Old congregations which try to preserve the ecclesiastical status quo in a changing community by segregating new influxes of 'inferior' people in storefronts or small, overcrowded edifices while reserving the cathedral-like structures for a handful of the 'select' are usually doomed to a short existence. Perhaps that is as it should be."

White Heads Drive For Public Housing

In an effort to unite the action of the community with that of the city-wide Citizens For Slum Clearance, members of the outstanding civic organizations this week selected Mr. Frank G. White, well-known civic leader to act as co-ordinator, it was announced by Wesley Brazier, Dr. E. I. Robinson and Dr. Vada Somerville today. Brazier, Dr. Robinson and Dr. Somerville have been serving on the sponsoring committee of CITIZENS FOR SLUM CLEARANCE since its inauguration a month ago.

White and a large committee of community residents, leaders and taxpayers will spearhead a drive for a "Yes" vote on Proposition B, the public housing proposition slated for the June 3 ballot.

In accepting his appointment as co-ordinator, Mr. White declared:

"I am shocked at the attitude which people opposed to Public Housing have taken toward our Supreme Court. The only protection minority groups have ever had is through the Courts and our Constitution. The Supreme Court has ruled that the City must go through with this contract.

"Every American citizen should vote "Yes" on Proposition B. Not only is it a vote to remove our disease and crime-breeding slums, it is also a vote to uphold the American system of Government. All of my efforts shall be devoted to this cause."

Omegas Win

The Omegas, champion of the inter-fraternal series, journeyed to San Diego last weekend where they played the feature game in the AKA's gigantic Basketball Jamboree. The Omegas continued their winning ways and soundly frounced the San Diego team 67 to 41.

The packed San Diego gym resounded to cheers led by the cute Omega cheer leaders, who also made the trip to the border city.

In announcing the drive, Chairman Herb James said "because if the indifferent attitude on the part of too many of our citizens, we feel that too much attention cannot be paid to this one aspect of citizenship. AVC in conducting such activity hopes to create an awareness that will influence citizens of their responsibility."

James then pointed out the Chapter's program this year which will consist of discussions before groups by Chapter members, letters to candidates urging them to advise voters to vote, conferences with community leaders and spot announcements to radio and television stations urging Voters to Vote.

"We shall be happy to supply groups or individuals with information on voting," continued James. The Chapter may be reached by calling AD. 3-8768.

Jeff Wins Fourth Consecutive State Track Title

— Hail the Champs —

Well after pulling Jefferson through a successful track season, guess we oughta rest. Our dope sheet was a wee bit too optomistic, but we came closer than anyone else. We tabbed Jeff by 36 points. They won with 30½ points. We tabbed Harvey for a second in the high hurdles, and the pictures vindicated us. We tabbed Range for a second in the broad jump and a third in the 220, and he came through like a champion. We picked Leavelle for a fourth in the broad jump, and he took third. We like to be upset like that.

We picked Taylor for a second in the 440 and he did. We picked Smith and Rhodes for first in the high jump and pole vault. So, they took second. We were way wrong on Carey for fourth in the shot put. He never had a look in. Same for Scott a third in the hurdles, and he never had a peek.

We picked Compton for a second with 14 points. They scored 14½. Sure wish we could pick horses as well.

The Corner has earned a good rest, so we'll let Dr. Martin take over.

By Dr. J. B. Martin, president, Negro American League

Why Isn't NAL Part of Organized Baseball?

Once there was a big movement on to make the Negro American League a part of organized baseball. Many fans have wondered why this has not materialized.

Here is the score:

As far as pure baseball is concerned, the NAL operates on the same rules as does regular organized baseball. The league uses three uniformed umpires in all official games. Players are signed to contracts like those in the big leagues. Every game has an official scorer, and the Howe News Bureau keeps official records of the NAL just as it does for the major leagues and most of the minor leagues.

The NAL fails to meet organized baseball standards on one major count—that is the matter of scheduling its games several months in advance.

Chief reason for this discrepancy is that the circuit operates in ball parks owned by clubs in organized baseball. The league must wait until these other home teams already scheduled their home games, then take what it can get of the open date.

Because of this difficulty, the league has to make a split season schedule. Our teams usually operate in their home cities on Sundays and holidays and tour other cities during week days.

The NAL is recognized by organized baseball as a bona fide loop. Its contracts with players are respected, and club owners of other teams deal with NAL club owners for players just as they do with any league in organized baseball.

Why Negro Baseball?

Rarely a day goes by that someone does not ask me why do we continue the Negro American league. We maintain a jimcrow baseball circuit? Aren't colored players already integrated into organized baseball?

Possibly, the best answer to these questions can be given in the performances of graduates of the NAL in organized baseball compared to players who did not come up through organized Negro baseball. Our league's players by far outstrip the others who come up.

Frankly, I am against racial segregation of any kind, whether it is riding on a train or bus or organizing a baseball league. When I operated the Chicago American Giants, the team featured a nmber of white players.

Club owners in the NAL feel that Negroes are far from being fully integrated into baseball. Only six of 16 teams in the major leagues have colored players. Throughout the south there are not more than two or three teams that feature any colored players.

Until I see Negro players accepted just as are other players in both the south and in the majors, and not considered as a novelty, I say there will be a need for organized Negro baseball.

No club owner in the NAL will stand in the way of the advance of any player on his roster into organized baseball. Club owners pay adequate salaries, and they strive to field the best baseball talent available.

The NAL is not operating as a jimcrow unit. Any young man who thinks he can play baseball, regardless of race, color or creed may report to one of our clubs for a tryout. If he can play good ball, I guarantee he will make the team.

Range Is Individual Star of Meet

While Jeff won only one first place, they picked up enough seconds and thirds to score 30½, more than double the 14½ points scored by their closest rival, Compton.

Individual star of the well-balanced Jefferson squad was Rosslyn Range, who garnered 8 points with a second in the broad jump, and a third in the 220. Range also ran the key lap in the 4-man 880 that represented the only Jefferson first place.

Team Victory

However essential, it was a team victory, with the depth and balance of the Democrats' squad enabling them to score an easy victory. LaVerne Smith had an off day in the high jump, and took second behind Fresno's Bernie Allard. The best Smith could do was 6 ft. 4½ inches. Allard cleared an inch higher. This was considerably below Smith's record-breaking 6 ft. 6¾ in. of the week previous.

O. W. Rhodes tied for second in the pole vault at 13 ft. Roland Harvey took a surprise second in the high hurdles. He was originally placed third by the officials, but pictures later showed him to place second, adding another point to Jefferson's total.

Robert Taylor finished the 440 with a burst of speed to take second. Geo Leavell took a surprise third in the broadjump an inch behind Range.

Carey Outclassed

James Carey was completely outclassed in the shot put. Blond Leon Patterson set a new national interscholastic record with a heave of 60 ft. 9 and 7/8 in. All five placers in the event surpassed 55 ft. 6 in. Carey's best throw this year was slightly over 54 ft.

The 4 man 880 relay was the most exciting event of the afternoon. An excellent pass from Range to Barrett gave Jefferson a three-yard lead that they never relinquished. Manual Arts was second, and Herbie Turner closed a large gap to finish third for Alameda.

Negro prep stars dominated the meet. Herb Turner of Alameda won the 100 and 220. Ancel Robinson of Selma won the high and low hurdles. James Briggs of Pittsburg won the 880. Leomon King of Delano and Hampton of Edison ran second and third in the 100. Hampton ran second in the 200 and King took fifth.

Garrison Wins

Woods of McClymond, Oakland took fourth in the shot-put with a 56 ft. 2¼ in. heave. Garrison of Compton won the broadjump and Galimore of the same school took fifth. Bailey of Belmont took a fifth in the mile in the good time of 4.31 and Goodwin of McClymonds took a 4th in the high jump.

Jeff in winning their fourth consecutive title, set a record and in winning their fifth state title, tied Manual Arts for winning the most times.

City College Wins J. C. State Title

Paced by Negro stars who won all the first places for the Cubs, LACC won the State JC meet again this year at Santa Rosa last weekend.

Paced by Albert Moore, winner in the 440; Joe Tyler, winner in the two-mile; Bob oHlland, winner in the broad jump; and winning the four-man mile relay, City College scored 64 1/9 points to win by 21 points.

Hal "Undercover Hound" Miller, Eagle scribe, took second in the high jump. Wilbur Williams was forced to settle for third in the 880, Tyler took sixth in the miler, and Holland, third in the high hurdles.

In the qualifying heats, run Friday night, Holland chalked up his best time of the year in the highs, winning, in 15.3s. Moore won his 440 heat in 50.8s. Only Cub to qualify who did not place in the finals was Dick Jones, 880.

BILL SMALLWOOD

Bernice Barnum poured cocktails-at-five Wednesday for visiting royalty: authoress Mary Elizabeth Vroman and much-discussed Dorothy Towles. Mable Scott's beloved mother passed Monday night.

Rhoda Kemp's sister, Ruth Perry, her husband and young daughter, have moved to town from Chi. Due for a summer visit: Omaha's Dr. and Mrs. Aaron MacMillan. Their son is a medical student here. Still on the ailing list, Joanne Sampler has been ordered by her physician to remain in bed until July.

The Stafford Lotts leave today (Thursday) for the east. Main point of their trip is a visit to his hometown Minneapolis where his brother-in-law is on the sick list. They will go on to the Atlantic seaboard.

Margery Nickens flies to Chi for the Joe Robichaux-Joyin Howard nuptials. She and Helen Lamb Crozier (also flying) will house-guest with the mother of the bridgegrom-to-be. Muriel Pradia nursing a bad foot. It's been in a cast.

The Godden-Hughes reception June first slated for the Cedars on Adams. Althea Warren Polk, now on her last lap of her two-year position in Alaska, was in Seattle on a ten-day leave on Mother's Day and phoned her equally active mom from there.

Bachelor hosts Deason and Jackson, known for their parties, plan a repeat this July fourth of that usually riotous party at their ranch and pool up San Bernardino way. Fun-lovers unerringly come from miles around.

Cliff Bennett and wife have reservations at the Katkins for June 28 on for a week. They're coming from N.Y.

Add La Towles: She is undecided whether to remain on this side of the pond or return to Paris. She finds L. A. "changed." Nice touch about having her here again is her many chums are quite genuinely glad to see her. She's become a legend.

Back from Korea, Dr. Earl Shepard, a civilian again. He brought a wide variety of Oriental art objects, etc. with him.

June Calendar: Josephine Baker birthdays on the 3; Virgie Benson on the 2; Ernie Weaver on the 16; Cal Bailey on the 14; Jay Loft Lyn on the 4; the Harvey Brookses anniversary on the 28. Last Sunday was birthday for Crystalee Maxwell. Her adopted daughter Brenda is sixteen now. Mrs. Fred O'Neal (Charlotte) was through here last week from S. F. n route home to N. Y.

Ruth Ellington James and husband Dan (he was an active pallbearer) took Canada Lee's passing rather hard. It was he who introduced them.

The newlyweds Armand Hudsons dining-at-six with Betty Hudson the other evening. Armand's bride is the clothes model type, slender, relaxed and with chic flair. She's from Pennsylvania.

Luvercha Bray's distinctive apartment is one of the most tastefully done in town surely. She and one of the town's more expensive interior decorators huddled over details, the result being interestingly worth it. Her hand-carved teakwood cellarette was imported from Pamama; matching it to fine detail is a low teakwood table and four stools. Her crystalware came from Sweden.

Originala '52 Wins Spotlight

By C. MARIE HUGHES

Those who were looking for the unusual . . . the exceptional in original designs, were presented with a fashion fantasy that will long be remembered by the throng that attended Nadine's Originala '52 at the Florentine Gardens located in Hollywood, on Sunday, May 18.

Her array of charming models from her School of Modeling, displayed her devastating and daring originals that class her as one of the greatest contouriers of California. Their dramatic entrance into the spotlight was a guide to the best in exquisite creations that this fashion designer had emulated Nature to give an "all-through-the-day-and-evening" look to what milady will be wearing during the late summer and early fall.

It always will be fashionable to look pretty, therefore, we can readily see just what her combination of simplicity . . . beautifully feminine and flattering designs can do for each individual.

This fabulous showing has won her a fashionable following of faithfuls. Nadine believes in originality . . . a fashion to be a good fashion must be personalized in terms of the looks, tastes and way of living of the woman who wears it.

The general public of Los Angeles will be anxiously awaiting and eagerly looking forward to her stupendous showing of Nadine's Originala '53.

Josephine Baker Cheered by Club Alabam Throng

By CHARLES WILLIAMS

The Josephine Baker World Cultural Society benefit at the Club Alabam last Sunday afternoon was the first of a series of events to be sponsored by the organization carrying the name of the fabulous Jo.

As only Josephine could, she halted her show in the middle of a song to give a heart-to-heart talk to the mixed patrons. She pleaded with outstretched arms that have more welcome in their gestures than friendly welcome mats, for us all to get together and try to love each other as we did when we were little children.

Lack of Unity

She spanked the Caucasians for their lack of unity, she applauded them for strides being made by some of the fair-minded ones tired of seeing discrimination in this country.

She chided the American Negroes for being ashamed of their origin. She shamed them for not knowing more of their own wonderful history. She petted them back to her bosom with well-chosen phrases of great Negro Americans, the might of the country built on the sweat of the Negro and their slave forefathers—of their loss of blood in wars that involved the country as a whole with no particular concession toward the still enslaved, segregated Negro.

Laura Slayton, president of the society and Mrs. Kathryn Kinny of Woodlawn YWCA, delivered messages about the Josephine Baker World Cultural Society, and its purposes. Due to a tight schedule being undertaken by Josephine Baker, the benefit was put on in less than a week so that the society might have the benefit of her help and presents while in Los Angeles. Meetings of the society are held every Monday night at the Charm Center, 701 E. Jefferson boulevard, at 8 p.m.

Greatly responsible, unsung heroine for the success of every effort on behalf of the Josephine Baker World Cultural Society is the dynamic and diminutive Dorothy Edwards, assistant to the secretary, whose versatility and dependabiilty are highly significant.

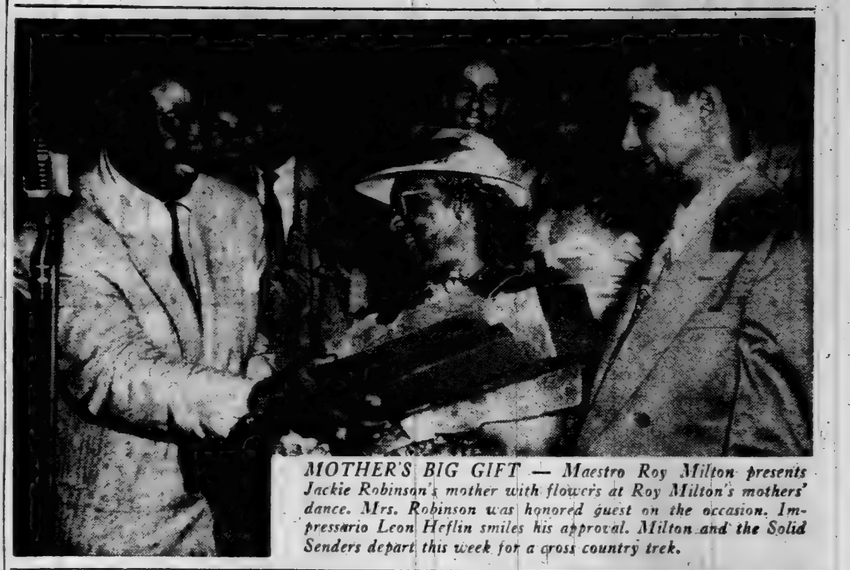
The Woodlawn Branch YWCA began its "Community Directory" project with the meeting held at the Branch recently.

Beatrice Cassell was appointed to serve as special chairman and is seeking volunteers to assist.

Through developing an organization comparable to Community Chest and Red Cross the committee hopes to service the entire Los Angeles community.

Mrs. Cassell's achievements as an outstanding leader and organizer for projects of this nature are well known in both civic and religious fields; having received honorable mention recently of her wonderful job done in the Red Cross drive.

Launched by Committees



The project was launched by the residence committee, Bess P. Vaughan, chairman with the cooperation of the ways and means committee, Beulah Arnaud, chairman, public realtions, Ella K. Mays, chairman, and membership, Dorothy O. Buckner, chairman.

Numerous ladies and men have enlisted their service including James Johnson, Regionald Fisher, Mary Watson, Katherine Ingram, Thelma Robinson, Etolia Jones, Nanette McMurray, Lorraine Nelson, and Katherine Jamison. UNDERCOVER hounds

Due to situations far beyond our control it was impossible to publish the Hounds last week. Thanks to the many who called to inquire about it. We hope this won't happen again.

Here's a little old news mixed with the news—

The tip-top of social activities and probably the most appropriate in quite some time, was bestowed upon the creme of the city high-lifers at the Golden State Life Ins. Bldg. Saturday night (May 17) honoring Miss Janice Shelby. It also fitted fifteen captivating debutantes into the scheme of higher society.

After fifteen minutes of tussling with the fun-crazed crowd in the lobby we gained admission into the dancing quarters, or at least close enough to hear some of those Latin-American melodies by Phy Taylor and his combo. (Noticed Morris Finn and Rhea Tate scuffling one out.) When the music got back to earth (dirty blues etc.) people like Dolores Roberts and Carl Clay; Pat Smith and Hart; George Price and Shirley Johnson; Clara Coffee and Carl Stratton; felt more at home. Mickey Cauliles and Margaret Sides; Sandra Shields and Bobby Splain; Mary Ann Baumann and Wendell Williams; Morris Taft; Kelly Williams; Andrea Finn; Bobby Strange and Doris Tyus were only a few of the factors helping to support the crowded dancing conditions.

Others enjoying the lavish surrounding included Myrtle Davenport, Donald McCallister, Hazel Terry, Shirley Triche and Walter Norwood, Teddy Hart, Fayette McCallister and Pearl Westfield and Ernie Linde.

After the Coliseum Relays most of the set journeyed down to the AKA Gig at the Masonic Temple where they bailed and brawled way into the night.

We hear that there was a little commotion involving a little creep that a certain J. A. had pulled. This time she was caught in the act. But what's life without a little controversy? As they all joined in the fun, namely Reggie Boyd, Ted Schaeffer and Dot Cain; Dave Williams and petite Eula Narcisse; Mary Cantrell and Pete O' Garro, Joyce Overr and Orville Diggs; James Braggs; Wardell Moss and Nira Hardon these found reason to make with the good times too.

The Athenians in their usual style passed on to the fun loving set of the city another willy-nilly affair. Lebenty thousand party goers made with the plastered looks at Park View Manor where this roustabout was thrown.

Corky Gaines and Willy Smith; Carl McKinny, Leonard Slayton, Thomas Hanks, Beverly Welch and Yvonne Taylor made only a small portion of the guests.

Beverly Crump, who is soon to be married to Kappa Man George Gopaul was feted with an elaborate kitchen shower a few Saturdays back. Gift packing guests included Mildred Price, Gloria Crouch, Theresa Matthews, Gloria Curtis, Hazel Terry and of course the Anchorettes.

Prattle and a little Tattle.

From some of our more trustworthy spies we heard that . . .

Barbara Garrett is sporting an engagement ring.

Ruby McClennon is well on the road to becoming a mama.

Big, bronze and terrific Donzella Coulter has big round eyes for Phil Walker.

Chris Lawson is getting nowhere fast with unconcerned Bentley Prescott.

Lo Retta Lee is making the rounds with fast moving Andy Stanfield.

Hugh Coleman is recovering from a serious operation. Hope everything comes out all right.

Pat Roberts is back in town.

Imogene Fatherree and Tom Newsome are more than "just good friends."

Many gals should wise up to the fact that some of these big names in track and field that are visiting our city are substantiating their names in fools anonymous.

The AKA Ivies Lucu, as usual, was the crowning success that hosted the set last Saturday eve. Everyone, it seems, came along and joined in the merry-making. Need we say more?

Hear that there was a real wild beach party given for Barbara Freeman's sixteenth birthday. If reports are correct most of her friends spent the moonlight hours and long times afterwards baking weiners etc. and in general, making with the good times.

Things to look forward to—

Seeing as Friday is a holiday the weekend whails began a day earlier. The Kappas are inviting one and all to their Memorial Day Dance which falls on Thursday, May 29th. An enjoyable evening is assured so be at the Kastle when the fun begans about Ten.

Dr. Hampton Hawes Celebrates His 39 Years as Pastor of Local Church

Reception Is Scheduled at Westminster Presbyterian

Sunday, June 1, Dr. Hampton B. Hawes, pastor of the Westminster Presbyterian Church, 2230 W. Jefferson boulevard, will observe his 39th anniversary at the church.

Dr. Hawes was installed in 1913 by act of the Los Angeles Presbytery. Since that date, he has served as moderator of the Presbytery that first appointed him and the California Synod which covered three Western States.

During his pastorate of 39 consecutive years, the church has grown from a membership of approximately 40 members to a present membership of 1100. The records reveal that there is no other minister in the city of any racial group who has continuously served one congregation for so long a time.

Having outgrown the facilities of the old church, located at 35th place and Denker avenue, the church entered its present site three years ago this month. This beautiful structure houses 52 Sunday school rooms, Fellowship Hall and kitchen that is well equipped to serve more than 300 persons, and two small chapels for weddings or religious study. Youth and adult athletic activities are conducted on enclosed roof area.

Dr. Hawes returned to the city Thursday, May 29, after a busy week in New York where he attended the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, U. S. A.

An informal reception will be held for the pastor Sunday evening after the 8 o'clock worship hour, to which the public is invited.

Mission Leader Expected

The Church of Christian Fellowship pursues a policy of denominational cooperation. To that end, the speaker for Men's Day, Sunday, June 22, will be Dr. Phillip Widenhouse of New York who will be in attendance upon the General Council at Claremont.

Dr. Widenhouse is not only the secretary of the American Missionary Association but is the first Southerner to hold the top office in this, the pioneer missionary agency among the Nothern Congregationalists.

Dr. Widenhouse called the recent conference on policy which was attended by the pastor of Fellowship, the Rev. Harold M. Kingsley. Others among the delegations to the Council are expected to attend Men's Day. Dr. J. Burlin Humphrey is chairman and Ray Miller, coordinator.

Men's Day at First AME

Under the leadership of Lloyd W. Harris, active layman of First A.M.E. Church, Eighth and Towne, the men of that church are reported to be planning their annual Men's program for Sunday, June 15. According to program committee chairman, this year's program will be of wide civic as well as religious interest.

A special afternoon forum on the subject, "Forecast Mid-Year 1952," will review such vital and controversial subjects as housing, civil rights, job opportunities, and the plight of small business. A special guest speaker will preach the morning sermon and music will feature an all-men's chorus under the direction of C. Harreld Rose, as well as outstanding soloists.

A. A. Thomas is the Men's Day financial chairmen. All men of the church are urged to contact the various committee chairmen.

St. Peter's in Finance Drive

St. Peter's Baptist church, 2510 Hooper avenue where Rev E. W. Fisher is pastor, this week is engaged in a financial drive effort. The pastor will deliver a special sermon each night.

At the 11 a.m. service Sunday an old - fashioned "Testifying Meeting" will be conducted. The Lord's Supper will be administered at the evening services.

On Sunday night Rev. Fisher will leave for the National Baptist Sunday School and Baptist Training Union Congress in Milwaukee. He will be absent from his pulpit for two Sundays.

Not Intimidated

Jack Driver, Lundy's campaign manager, told the Eagle that he immediately notified the sheriff on receipt of the card through the mails, and was told to mail it to the sheriff's office.

Lundy stated that far from being intimidated by the threats against himself and his family, he is more determined than before to press for election to the Assembly.

Widespread protests have already been voiced demanding police action to bring an end to the terrorism against Negroes that is on the increase in Los Angeles.

Kidnaping Feared

At the time of the cross-burning, Lundy was appearing on a television broadcast, but his wife and their five children were at home. None were injured, however.

When Lundy failed to return home after the telecast, it was feared that he may have been kidnaped or harmed. He spent the night with friends, however, and did not learn of the attack until the following morning.

Around the rock thrown into the Lundy home, 1816 E. 122nd street, Willowbrook, was a note compiled of letters cut from newspapers containing the single word "lose." The rock was hurled through the front window of the home.

Dist. Atty. S. Ernest Roll sent Special Investigator Jack Livingston to investigate.

Ask Guard

The NAACP wrote to Sheriff Eugene Biscailuz asking that a "night guard" be stationed "in or about the home of the Lundys," following an on-the-spot investigation by Field Secretary Lester P. Bailey.

"We see a real and present danger in the activities of the racists, hoodlum element that seems to rise to the occasion whenever and wherever non-whites or religious minorities seek to assert or exercise their rights as citizens of the United States," the letter stated.

"Whereas in the past this local un-American opposition has reacted for the most part where the inalienable right to live where one chooses is involved," it continued, "we now find that the perpetrators of violence under cover of darkness also feels that a Negro citizen does not have a right to run for political office.

"We urge your office to bend every effort to stem this tide of violence through expedient apprehension of those responsible."

Fisher Studio Of Music to Open Today

Today, the Reginald Fisher Studio of Music and Academic Studies will open at 2326 Wellington road. Appointments may be made by calling PA. 0128 any day between 11 a.m. and 6 p.m.

Fisher welcomes students of

all ages, and specializes in high school and college tutoring.

A musician of note, Fisher teaches piano, voice and choir directing. He has given private lessons at the University of Illinois, Washington, D.C. and New York City. In the nation's capital he conducted the choir of Lincoln Temple Congregational church and was assistant director of the Men's Glee club at the University of Illinois during the time the present band director at USC, Clarence Sawhill, led the Illinois choir.

As a concert singer, Fisher drew praise in all the major cities of the nation. Typical of the comments in the daily press was this statement, which appeared in the St. Paul Pioneer Press: "One of the phenomena of Mr. Fisher's singing is the bigness of his voice. It astonishes one who has become accustomed to the galaxy of light tenor organs so extant."

The Jacksonville Times-Union: "A voice of intense dramatic quality, yet its lyric timbre can well be the envy of many strictly lyric singers."

Moreover, Fisher, who holds a doctorate in languages, is the author of the simplified English Grammar which was required study for all teachers in the Adult Education system of the state of Illinois. He has studied at the Universities of Illinois and of Paris, France. In recent years, Charles Wakefield Cadman, writer of the music for the immortal "Trees," accompanied Fisher in a Hollywood concert of Cadman's own compositions.

RUTH SEMUS SAYS: "Whether you're one or one-hundred and one . . . everyone will have fun . . . when you come to the CHAMPAGNE BAR or LAZY ROOM, Broadway at Slauson. Open nitely or anytime, by special appointment. Phone: LA. 4911 for reservations."

Music Groups To Entertain

The Girls' Glee Club of Carver Junior High School and the Boys' Sextet will entertain the California Music Educators' Association with folk music when the association meets for its winter conference on Saturday, December 1, at Bovard Auditorium, University of Southern California.

INTER-RACIAL CONCERT SET FOR HOLLYWOOD

A special interracial choral concert featuring three of the Los Angeles Bureau of Music's top choruses will be given at the First Presbyterian Church of Hollywood (1760 No. Gower St.,) this Sunday (June 1) at 7:30 p.m. Admission is free.

The Bureau's South Central Adult Civic Chorus—noted Negro group which has many concerts and national broadcasts to its credit—will join with the Bureau's Westwood and West Valley Choruses for the program.

Under the direction of Jester Hairston, noted conductor of choral sequences in films and Broadway musicals, the South Central Chorus will be heard in a wide variety of spirituals and work songs, many of them in imaginative arrangements by Hairston.

Dr. Walter Rubsamen of UCLA will lead the Westwood and West Valley choruses in eight selections from Handel's oratorio, "Samson." The excerpts to be heard comprise almost all of the choral music from a far too-long neglected masterpiece of thrilling dramatic strength and lyric beauty.

The choruses will also combine to sing three numbers — the Dutch "Hymn of Thanksgiving" by Valerius; "Hasten the Day," a beautiful choral setting by the distinguished film composer David Raskin; and Hairston's own "United Nations Hymn."

The concert, which will begin at 7:30 p.m. Sunday (June 1) will also be broadcast, in part, over KFWB (980 kc.) from 8 to 9 p.m.

Christian Science Sunday Lesson

How the Christ, Truth, uncovers and destroys error will be discussed in the Sunday Bible Lesson in all Christian Science churches on the subject "Ancient and Modern Necromancy, alias Mesmerism and Hypnotism, Denounced." The Golden Text is from Isaiah (59:19): "When the enemy shall come in like a flood, the Spirit of the Lord shall lift up a standard against him."

This Christly promise is recorded by John in Revelation (3:20, 21), "Behold I stand at the door, and knock: if any man hear my voice, and open the door, I will come in to him, and will sup with him, and he with me. To him that overcometh will I grant to sit with me in my throne, even as I also overcame, and am set down with my Father in his throne."

Mary Baker Eddy writes in "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures": "The destruction of the claims of mortal mind through Science, by which man can escape from sin and mortality, blesses the whole human family" (p. 103).

Churches Endorse Housing

the A.M.E. church, Dr. Frederick D. Jordan who was not in the city at the time the letter was written, has repeatedly spoken out in favor of the program and has urged a "Yes" vote on Proposition B.

Full text of the letter follows:

Text of the Letter

"As servants of God we cannot remain silent in the face of the unprincipled attacks which have been leveled against the 10,000 unit housing program in our City. Is is not a political issue which is involved in Proposition B on the June 3 ballot: It is a question of truth, morality and Christian obligation.

"We must cast an overwhelming "Yes" vote for Proposition B and repudiate the efforts of those who stand opposed to the principles upon which the Christian Church has stood firm for 2000 years.

"Decent homes are vital to the fullest development of the personalities of men, who are also the children of God. When men, women and children are forced to live under conditions which blight character, endanger physical health and obstruct spiritual development, we are wasting the resources of God's creation.

Despite all efforts to hide it from us, we must recognize the truth. A decent home, in a good environment, at a price his family can afford to pay, is the right of every American citizen.

"Building these 10,000 units of housing is the Christian way of devoting our resources to the benefit of all men instead of pouring them into profits for those who own the slums. It is a protection for the future because it will bring a decent way of life to the 55,000 little children who now live under the worst kind of slum conditions.

Respect Contract

"We must not forget, also, that the Supreme Court of our State has ruled unanimously that the contract to build these homes, which was made in good faith by our elected representatives, cannot be broken. Respect for a contract, or a promise, is a basic tenet of the Ten Commandments which are the basis of our common law.

"As children of God, it is our Christian obligation to uphold Truth and morality. We must go to the polls on Tuesday, June 3rd, and vote "Yes" on Proposition B."

I know Van Johnson is young and thrillin'
But what has he got
That I wouldn't have
After a shot of Penicillin?

THE BRONZEVILLE BULLETIN BOARD: This is my third week in the hospital, and I've been examined, x-ray-ed and ex-lax'd so much that if I had as many needles sticking OUT of me as I've had stuck IN me, Id look like a porcupine! My doctor suggests I keep doing the column to keep what's left of my mind off of whats' left of my lung.

Don't think it isn't fun writing from a corkscrew position in bed—because it isn't! According to my physician, I'm booked for a 52-week stay here. Next stop on my get-well program is the removal of my left lung. If I get well, I'll be back at my desk quicker than it takes an Extra Girl in Hollywood to say "yes"!

If the operation isn't a success, I'll tell Hitler, Tojo and Mussolini what a mess they made of the world. At any rate, I have complete faith in God and confidence in my doctors.

When I arrived here I was weaker than the Punch Bowl at a debutante's party.

I didn't have enough blood to give a transfusion to a gnat. I'm so skinny if I put on a suit of long underwear I'd look like a pipe cleaner; a backache and stomache-ache hits me in the same place, and if I'd drink a bottle of strawberry soda water I'd look like a thermometer! But I'm going to "beat this bug," and with the aid of my pretty secretaries (Melrose Browning) and Betty Allston I'll have enough news coming in to keep the column going.

ONE PARTICULAR reason I want to keep the column going is for the benefit of other tubercular patients. To keep up their morale. I've had seven ribs removed already, in an effort to get well—and now, the removal of my left lung staring me in the face—and I REFUSE to give up! I drink so much milk in an effort to gain weight 'til ev'ry now and then I moo!

Before scannin' the bedside ticker tape for a quick run-down on the wk'ly happenings in the news, I'd like to thank the many fans and friends of the col'm for the hundreds of letters, telegrams and cards received. And to my good friend ("Dick" Williams, popular manager of swing bands) a millyun thanks for keeping me posted on the happenings in show b'sness!

SCANNIN' THE NEWS TICKER TAPE: "Rochester," the neat-wit of the Jack Benny program will audition a show for CBS. John Greene, who writes the "Blondie" air show will script the "Rochester" tryout. . . .

The boys in the back room are giggling over Author Gene Fowler's inscription of his latest book to Errol Flynn to wit: "Dear Errol, try taking this to bed with you sometime!" . . .

SOLEMN INITIATION—In a solemn candlelight ceremony, three new members were initiated into the Benevolent Variety Artists, a charity organization composed of show girls, past and present. Suzette Harbin, kneeling extreme right, holds the Bible while she administers the oath of membership to neophite members Louise Colette, Francis Robinson and Alice Key, while other members of the organization look on. The initiation was held recently at the home of Louise Franklin, 2425 7th avenue. The club, which is organized to help needy show people, announced this week that on Saturday, May 31, they are giving a Holiday Festival from noon to midnight at 2265 W. 22nd street that will feature swimming, tennis, dancing and refreshments.

Largest Jazz Cavalcade in History To Feature Nation's Top Entertainers

"GO AWAY, YOU'RE NO GOOD," is Marlene Dietrich's command to Arthur Kennedy in the Technicolor action story of the Western frontier, "RANCHO NOTORIOUS," now showing at the Lincoln and Bill Robinson Theatres.

Never before in the history of the Cavalcade events held annually at Wrigley Field, has there been pitted together on one program such nation-wide celebrities as will appear Sunday afternoon, June 1 to effect the Eighth annual Cavalcade of Jazz.

Louis Jordan, who headlines the fabulous show with his enlarged orchestra, just recently returned out of a retirement that lasted more than a year, is returning with a new bag of tricks for his multiple fans. Two new vocalists has been added as well as several specialty numbers that are expected to be sure fire hits.

Josephine Baker Crowns Queen

Undoubtedly one of the world's biggest single stage attractions, glamorous Josephine Baker, who has been billed throughout the world as the "toast of two continents," will crown the Sun Crest Queen of the Cavalcade of Jazz.

Promoters are putting on the finishing touches for the elaborate program that will also feature child star of stage and screen, Toni Harper, Anna Mae Winburn and her sweethearts orchestra; Roy Brown and his orchestra; Jimmy Witherspoon, top-ranking blues singer; Jerry Wallace, famous impersonator and numerous other acts.

Tickets for the affair are available at all mutual ticket agencies including Southern California Music Center, Westcast Public Service Bureau, Dolphins of Hollywood Record Shop, Flash's Record Shop on Western Ave., Capitol Record Shop, Watts Music Center and at the Wrigley Field box office.

BVAs to Present A Holiday Festival

Ushering in the summer social season with a bang is the B.V.A.'s "Holiday Festival" which takes place Saturday, May 31st at the Torrance Manse, 2265 W. 22nd St. The affair which is scredule to begin at 12 o'clock noon and run until midnight is expected to provide the usual gaiety and hilarity that is the ear-mark of the popular club's functions.

B.V.A., an abbreviation for the Benevolent Variety Artist's is an organization comprised of former and present show girls whose sole purpose is to aid and benefit ailing and unemployed show folk. Founded five years ago the club has earned recognition for its unselfish and unstinting contributions to charity and enjoys an enviable reputation as producer of smart and colorful promotions.

Saturday's "Holiday Festival" should be no exception. The girls are sparing no effort or expense to make this occasion an unforgettable one. The public is cordially invited and urged to set Saturday aside to avail themselves of a barrel of fun while supporting this very worthy group. Day's activities include swimming, tennis, dancing and varied games and, of course, refreshments galore. Accepted garb for Saturday's fest is cotton casuals, swim and play suits, slacks, etc.

JAZZ QUEEN CROWNED AT CORONATION BALL

The Coronation Ball, given in honor of the Sun Crest Queen of the 1952 Cavalcade of Jazz, was held at the Elks Auditorium Sunday, May 25, before a capacity crowd of over 3000 people.

This event marked the beginning of the festivities scheduled for the Sun Crest Queen and her Court, and will climax at the 8th Annual Cavalcade of Jazz Concert to be held at Wrigley Field on June 1.

The Sun Crest Queen, Tina Thomas, was presented the Scepter and Robe of Office, by the master of ceremonies; Hunter Hancock, one of Los Angeles' most popular disc jockeys. Josephine Baker will personally crown the Queen June 1 at Wrigley Field.

The young ladies who composed the Queen's Court, which was also presented at the Coronation ball were: Joyce Sonnier, Delores Johnson, Carolyn Matthews, Bobbie Jones, Barbara Bartlett and Rosemary Collins.

Actress Louise Beavers Heads Hollywood Clan

Hollywood's Committee of the United Negro College Fund will look like a Who's Who in Movies when Louise Beavers, Screen Actors Guild director, and Mrs. Adela Rogers St. Johns, writer, complete their plans. It's a first for this sort of thing among our stars and producers.

RUTH SEMUS SAYS: "Whether you're one or one-hundred and one . . . everyone will have fun . . . when you come to the CHAMPAGNE BAR or LAZY ROOM, Broadway at Slauson. Open nitely or anytime, by special appointment. Phone: LA. 4911 for reservations."

People and Places

The glamorous Dorothy Towles, former school teacher, was terrific in her Florentine Gardens debut. The technique displayed by the beautiful and willowy blond shows conclusively that she has fully mastered the subtle art of the Parisian school of modeling. With tickets selling at five dollars each, a fashion-crazed crowd filled the Hollywood Boulevard showplace to overflowing. After her fascinating exhibition, the eager audience acclaimed her as one of the most dynamic personalities to hit the town since La Baker.

The Pen and Scrollers namely: Libby Clark, Gertrude Gipson, Jerry Jackson and Jessie Mae Brown, came up with the money making show. Libby cut the gals in, after none of the heavy looted members of the swimming pool set would take the risk. Introduction rhumba came when pretty Jerry Jackson introduced sister Libby as the greatest newspaper woman in the country. Jessie Mae of the tag that is closely associated with the poultry farm didn't like it at all. Jerry spoke the truth; Libby is! The four fillies are gonna be awfully chilly with each other in the next few weeks.

Tennessee Waltz

This is the tune a certain brownskin should be humming now that she has tied the knot with a big westside gent. He has just purchased a four-family dwelling on Dunsmuir, handed his bride of two weeks the keys to a '52 Chrysler and dropped cash for both little items. The happy twosome are house hunting.

Ribbs at a Price

Alma Ribbs Price, the San Jose bundle of loveliness, who hauled her ole man into the courts three weeks ago, did very well—very well indeed. The adorable Alma was able to convince the judge that the Colonel didn't do right by our little gal. William R. Freeman, her able attorney, was victorious in collecting a nice fat almony. The usually talkative Colonel was in this case very decidely mum, as he heard what is going to happen to part of his loot in the future.

Joy Gals

A widely known charity club which recently held its installation of new officers had better check the actions of several members. Those members (and they know who they are) putting the club's charter in jeopardy with those tea-caucases while meeting is going on. We are very fond of this worthwhile group and we would hate to see their charter revoked. Take it easy gals, it's not what you do it's the way in which you do it.

Small Timer

Once a big time show figure with his lazy act is getting on everyone's nerves around the Club Alabam. Seems like his loot has played out and he is living on his past name and swinging on his present. The waiters are getting tired of picking up Guinness Stout bottles he leaves behind when he birds his way into the club. A certain fellow called "Tack Em Up" is going to try him out for size if he makes another lewd crack to his girl friend.

Sight Items

Pretty Texas-born Mary McDay strolling down W. Adams with her young two-year-old son, Harry (The Champ) Wicker, one of our better comedians peddling suit material for an exclusive downtown shop. Wicker is still trying to break into show business.

Jewel and Anna Price looking like high school sweethearts after more than ten years of married life. Joe (Club Alabam) Morris fixing to coin all the money on the avenoo with the club's new street cocktail bar. Elihu (Black Dot) McGee eyeing the opening date of the remodeled Dunbar Grill.

looking as striking as a Hollywood model. Hazel just returned from an extended trip that took her to Europe. Attractive Carrie Jones of the Tick-tocker's making plans for the club's coffee royal. Corrine Kemp may have ice water running up and down her veins. She certainly upped the thermometer to the boiling point when she entered the Pen-House the other eve. draped in a two-piece dark number and wearing a veil. The boys along wolves row were asking each other for her name. Estelle Sherwood, top-flight beautician and business woman, is shopping out W. Adams for a new shop. Estelle's work is ranked among the best in the city and westside residents will welcome her. Incidentally Velma Walker's stunning model hairstyle was created by her.

Southern Belle social club getting the plaudits of this pillar for their contributions to the Cerebral Palsy Fund. We have over 500 clubs and only two were alert enough to come through in the recent television drive headed by Bob Hope. Bouquets to Billy Eckstine for his part. It saved the faces of our so-called big time Negro leaders and businessmen, while Rev. Lloyd Galloway saved the faces of our big shot church leaders by being on hand with his contribution. The cause was so heart-moving that cute little Sharon Russ took it upon herself to collect monies from the residents out Potomac way. She is only 6 years old.

We wonder if we are really ready when most of us repeatedly miss the boat on the important things.

Cut Heap Big Hog

A big downtown editor of one of our dailies really put his foot in it at the recent Negro College Fund kickoff dinner. Seemed like the editor was working on his charming companion so hard that this slipped out in his introductory remarks: "I would like you to meet Miss so and so and she is prettier than any of you here." And, natch, after the big editor realized how it had sounded he became small as a pin head. He could have gotten away with it if he had been addressing any other group but the Negro College gathering.

Word to the Wise . . . and Otherwise!!

RUMOR HAS IT THAT . . . an ex-barber, ex-pug, ex-businessman, ex-husband and "broke" broker has his "feelings in a state" over the fact that a "mutual acquaintance" has befriended his ex-mate.

Aside from the fact that this "mutual acquaintance" is one of the bronze bachelors' best bets, his actions are entirely impersonal . . . since he has more girl friends than a dollar bill. Instead of this "sad sack" intimidating and insinuating how mad and bad he is (other than his breath) . . . our advice is . . . "Stop being a mope—"dope" . . . straighten up and fly . . . and become the fine kind of guy . . . we will all stand by.

Listen, "Jerk," don't shirk from work . . . stop all this turmoil and strife . . . make a success of your life . . . win back your lovely wife . . . and never again roam from your happy home.

Pistol Packing Daddy

A former Central Avenue nite club figure called upon his love with a .45 automatic over on the westside the other eve. Seemed like they weren't getting tractive lady with those hazel eyes put distance between him and the gun. They say she leapedout of her westside home window and the speed she used going up one of the alleys would have made Lloyd La Beach, world's fastest human, look slow. Close friends say the pretty gal is cooling her heels down Texas way, and "ain't" thinking about returning any "more."

The Judge mounted the bench still thinking about the People and Places. He cleared his throat and thought how would he look if he were twenty again. He even felt the part but when the baliff gave him the files he choked up again.

Pistol Packing Papa

Hyram Anderson Marshall, 75, 1254 E. 73rd street, got his tank filled with booze, pulled out his 38 calibre and told his wife, Maggie, 57, that her day of reckoning had come.

When Hyram pointed it at her head and threatened to blow it off she agreed that it had come. "Stop turning against me or you'll end up six feet under," he said as he held her and his daughter, Rebecca Cross, 39, at gun-point.

When Nab Jones arrived Marshall told Mrs. Cross that he would blow her brains out and if he couldn't shoot her he would stick an ice pick in her for sure.

He may not be an ice man, thought the Judge, but the way he would have used that ice pick Mrs. Cross would have been a cold stiff.

Rolling Pin Tune

Raymond Douroux, 31, 1927 W. Jefferson Blvd. came home about 2:30 a.m. in an intoxicated condition. Helen, 33, his wife, got into an argument about his drunken situation.

He took a swing at her with his fist, when he missed she got the rolling pin from the kitchen and played "Why Don't You Do Right" across his head.

Douroux is an out-patient on a 90 day leave from Brentwood Sanitarium undergoing treatment for nervous disorder and alcoholism.

No wonder his nerves are disordered, muttered the Judge, if someone bussled "Yankee Doodle" over my head with a rolling pin, I'd need a drink to stand the pain too.

Batter Up

Roy Milton, 27, 909 E. 76th street and his wife Arthur Mae, 22, a nurse, had been arguing about his girl friend which wasn't Mrs. Milton.

She stayed home from work and hid in the closet. He came home and called his girl friend on the telephone. When the call was complete he discovered her in the closet and became viciously angry. He got a souvenir 20-inch bat and hit her on the head and back. He knocked her to the floor, stood on her neck and kicked her in the back, hit her in the nose and again in the back.

When Oscar Law got there she was so dazed they had to put her in a straight jacket to get her over to Georgia Street Receiving Hospital.

I believe it would be better to let your husband have a girl friend or two, mused the Judge, rather than suffer the consequences.

Man 'r Possum?

One of the second assistant foremen of the city hall janitor department refused to have his picture taken with a possum.

Maybe he thought that people could not tell the man from the possum.

Wonder did he get that possum legitimately, pondered the judge. The owner can't collect now. The last time I saw the possum it was surrounded with sweet potatoes.

Mid-Day Crowd Sees 'Other Woman' Knifed

"I saw her and I ran up to her and started cutting. I was going to kill her for taking my husband."

This was the calm confession of Milinda Dirden, 48, housewife of 1243 E. 48th street, to officers investigating a cutting at 4355 S. Central avenue at the lunch hour, Wednesday.

Central avenue, between Vernon and 43rd place, was thrown into a panic shortly after noon when Mrs. Dirden charged Lila A. Cooper, 776 E. 54th street, and started hacking her with a bone-handled knife.

Mrs. Cooper, who received deep stab wounds in the back, shoulder, chest and leg, one wound puncturing her lung, denies having stolen Mrs. Dirden's husband, though she admits knowing her attacker.

Emile Chelette, an eye-witness, told the Eagle that he was walking down Central on the east side of the street when he saw two women fighting in the doorway of Ralph's Penny Stores. "Suddenly I saw the flash of a knife and blood spurting. I dashed across the street to try to stop someone from being killed.

"By this time the two women were on the ground wrestling. The one with the knife (Mrs. Dirden) cut the other one on the leg. I grabbed her arm and exerted

Fraternity Honors Five Top Citizens

At a lavish banquet at the Bit O' Sweden Restaurant on Sunset Blvd., last Thursday, the three local chapters of Alpha Phi Alpha fraternity presented awards to five local citizens for outstanding community service in the field of human relations.

Receiving awards were Dr. Leonard Stovall, for great sacrifices in time, talent and energy in the cause of public health; Postmaster Michael Fanning, for outstanding work with community and civic organizations and for leadership in racial integration on public jobs; Daily News publisher Machester Boddy, for his continuous fight through the free press for freedom privileges and opportunities for every segment of the population; Kenneth Hahn and Ed Royball for honest and unselfish service to all groups through their service in the city council.

Fanning and Boddy were not present at the banquet but a member on each staff received the awards for them.

Guest speaker at the awards presentation was Assemblyman Byron Rumford. About 200 people attended the banquet.

The three local chapter of Alpha Phi Alpha are Alpha Delta on the campus at the University of Southern California, Gamma XI at UCLA and Beta Psi Lambda, the graduate chapter.

Two Elder Citizens Die During Week

Two of Los Angeles' best-known and most-loved elderly citizens died this week within 24 hours.

James P. Bratton died last Thursday at Temple hospital at the age of 81.

Charles S. Blodgett died on Friday at his home at 501 E. Cypress avenue, Monrovia. He would have been 81 his next birthday, October 15.

Golden Weddings

Both men had celebrated their golden wedding anniversaries in Los Angeles, which had been their home for more than four decades.

Mr. Bratton died following a cerebral hemorrhage. Funeral services were held Monday at 10 a.m. from the Angelus Funeral Home, with Father H. Randolph Moore, rector of St. Philips Episcopal church, officiating. Interment was at Rosedale cemetery.

Mr. Bratton and his wife, Mrs. Maude Bratton, of 1056½ S. Serano street, would have been married 53 years on June 17.

Forty-five years ago, Bratton, then in his 30s, left his home in Austin, Tex., for Los Angeles. For 18 years he worked for the city, but has long been retired. In addition to his wife, he leaves three daughters and four sons: Mrs. Pearl B. Smith, Mrs. Nadine Hicks, Mrs. Betty Scott, James P. Bratton, Louis Bratton, Wilmar Bratton and Jack Bratton.

Founder

Mr. Blodgett, who was one of the founders of the Liberty Building and Loan association, was

Plea in Killing Of Babies Set For Friday

Mrs. Ruth Edwards, attractive young mother who slashed the throats of her three small babies mid-morning May 7, appeared in court for arraignment Monday, but postponed pleading "guilty" or "not guilty" to murder.

Superior Judge Philip H. Richards set Friday, June 6, as the new date for her plea.

Public Defender John A. Tolmasov is handling Mrs. Edwards' defense.

Other Names

At Monday's hearing, it was revealed that the mother's real name is Janice Miles, but that she has also been known as Ruth Flint Andrews.

On the day of the gilling, Mrs. Edwards fed her three children, put them all back to bed, then with a butcher knife calmly slit their throats, systematically, one slash each. She said later that she did it in such a manner as to cause them no pain. One

Minstrel Show To Be Staged At Occidental

A number of calls were received at the Eagle office this week complaining over the report that Alumni Day at Occidental College on June 7 will feature a good old-fashioned "minstrel show," complete with black-face comedians.

Robert Shafer, in charge of the program at the school, told the Eagle that the show could just as well have been called a variety show as that, in reality, is what it is, and asserted that there is absolutely "nothing derogatory or prejudicial" to any racial group in the show.

There are two black-face comedians—two end-men—on stage for about two minutes, out of a program that lasts one and one-half hours, he said.

The theme of the entertainment, he continued, is a plantation party, just as in previous years the evening's central idea has been variously Forty-Niners, Pioneers, etc.

The play is a take-off on Bernard Shaw's Don Juan in Hell, said Shafer, the skits and songs all written by alumni of the college.

Eagle Writer Now Proud Father of Girl

By BRAD PYE JR.

Directly from nine unpleasant weeks in the Marine Corps boot camp to becoming a father—believe me, is the top joy that this lad has known during recent months. It has been a little over two months since these fingers have attempted to bang out copy on this keyboard . . . but chum, they haven't been idle. From 3:45 a.m. reville to 10 p.m. sack time, I have been as our D. I. (Drill Instructor) would say: "Turning to and diggin in." Excuse my phraseology, after nine weeks as a boot or recruit even your vocabulary changes.

During the past nine weeks I have learned to do and accept many things that I never dreamed I would and I should think that the chores of a father will be more pleasant than any of my recent experiences.

I arrived here Wedensday morning at 7 a.m. and at 7:35 p.m. I became the father of a 7 lb. 13 oz. daughter. My daughter, Jan Marie Pye, and her adorable mother, the former Eunice Robinson, are home now at 186½ West 42nd street in the best of health.

My ten-day boot leave will terminate at 0745 June 7 and I will be departing via the SP at 0715 a.m. Thursday for San Francisco for the Marine Corps Depot of Supplies, Special Services, 100 Harrison St., to anyone, wishing to drop the Prying Pye a line, just add Pfc. Brad Pye Jr. and that is it. . . . I hope to be back on the scene around February, '54, and I hope then that all of our battles will be fought on the athletic field. Until then, let's hope and pray.

QUAKER PROBLEM—Grace Cunningham, of Berkeley, and her white fiance, Robert McAllester, are shown with diplomas received June 2 at Earlham College, Quaker institution in Richmond, Ind. They were to be married Wednesday, June 4, despite disapproval of school authorities.

Negro-White Love Defeats Quaker Ban

RICHMOND, Ind.—The interracial marriage that has rocked the Quaker communities from one end of the country to the other was performed Wednesday, June 4, two days after the couple which caused the controversy received their diplomas from the Quakers' Earlham College.

The wedding was being held at a Friends (Quaker) meeting in Ithaca, N. Y., home of the bridegroom.

When the engagement was announced after the Easter vacation, school authorities took a dim view of the plans as far too "impetuous."

President Thomas E. Jones, last white president at Fisk University, was quoted as saying that "The college has regulations against such impetuous things."

The couple was summoned to a conference with school authorities and told that they could not both continue at the school. After that, McAllister continued his studies at his home, but was assured that he would be given his diploma at the regular graduation exercises.

Housing Issue Wins OK From Negro Voters

BULLETIN

Rayfield Lundy will ask for a recount in the 55th Assembly district where he was nosed out for the Republican nomination by less than 100 votes. Lundy won his present position on the Willowbrook school board on a recount after apparent defeat.

Two of the six Negroes who were candidates in the Tuesday primary election will appear on the November ballot.

They are Augustus F. Hawkins, candidate for the assembly in the 62nd district; and Horace Alexander, congressional candidate in the 26th district.

As the Eagle went to press it looked as if Vernon Kilpatrick was nosing out Rayfield Lundy for the Republican nomination in the 55th district.

Favor Housing

Frederick N. Roberts lost his race for the Republican nomination in the 26th congressional district. Leon M. Giles was defeated by Hawkins in the 62nd assembly district, and Kenny Washington ran third in his race for supervisor from the 2nd district.

Departing from the trend in other parts of the city, Negro voters heartily approved Proposition B, gave Edmund G. (Pat) Brown a slim lead in his race with Estes Kefauver for the Democratic nomination for the presidency, gave Kenny Washington a slight majority of their votes in the supervisorial race in which Kenneth Hahn ran a close second and Supervisor Leonard Roach a bad third, and approved bond issues by the necessary majorities.

These results were apparent from a sample of 30 precincts selected by the Eagle at random from all parts of the city. Ten precincts each were chosen in the Central avenue, Watts and Westside areas. Voters in other areas overruled these preferences of Negro voters and favored Kefauver over Brown, turned down two bond issues, snowed under Proposition B, and gave Hahn and Roach top places in the supervisorial contest. They will run off in November.

As was expected, Hawkins won on both Republican and Democratic tickets in the assembly race in the 62nd district and, as he has in the past, easily defeated Leon Giles, public accountant. Hawkins will have no opposition in the final election.

In other races Negro voters went along with the general trend in both parties and cast their ballots in favor of William F. Knowland, incumbent Republican, in his race against Clinton D. McKinnon for United States senator. They also approved Gordon L. McDonough in

Hate Bomb Blasts Kansas City Calm

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—Only the heroic alertness of a visiting friend saved a young couple here from almost certain death in the nation's latest bombing of a Negro home in a previously "lily-white" block.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Crittenden, 3736 the Paseo, were seated in the living room of their newly acquired eight-room home with Miss Morlene A. Johnston of 2518 Forest, an overnight guest, when a homemade bomb came hurtling through a window.

With rare courage and presence of mind, Miss Johnson flung the sizzling missile through the door into the driveway where the device exploded instantaneously.

First in 30 Years

Law enforcement officers promised 24-hour protection for the Crittendens and diligent search for the culprits who perpetrated Kansas City's first home bombing in 30 years.

The local branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, headed by Carl R. Johnson, immediately offered a $500 reward for information leading to arrest and conviction of the bombers.

Henry M. Fox, county prosecuting attorney, promised to de-

Mystery Still Shrouds Death Of Henderson

Although the vital question of the cause of death was still unsolved, impressive funeral rites were held last Thursday for prominent attorney, John Charles Henderson, in Oakland.

Here in Los Angeles, laboratory technicians were still carrying on chemical analyses to determine the precise cause of death.

Report Awaited

Preliminary tests at Temple hospital, where Henderson died May 22, indicated metallic poisoning, with the possibility of homicide. This finding was reportedly confirmed during initial stages of the autopsy. Final reports are expected today, Thursday.

The burial services were held at the North Oakland Baptist church, 32nd and Linden streets, Oakland, after which the body was interred at Evergreen cemetery.

Rev. A. O. Bell, Atty. Henderson's pastor, officiated. Many county and city officials were among the mourners. Honorary pallbearers included judges, lawyers and Omega Psi Phi fraternity brothers.

Active pallbearers were: Atty. Augustin Donovan, Atty. George Vaughns, Dr. F. E. Younge, Dr. Thomas Brown, Dr. Melvin Austin, Joshua R. Rose, Wallace Stewart, and Godfrey James.

Survivors

Atty. Henderson is survived by his mother, Mrs. Addie Adams; his wife, Mrs. Anne Henderson; two daughters, Mrs. Winifred Lopez and Miss Elberta Henderson; a granddaughter; and many rel-

Cicero Riot Story Told at Officials' Trial

CHICAGO—The trial of lily-white Cicero's town president, police chief and five other officials and policemen was highlighted here last week by Negro witnesses who had been warned to stay out of Cicero.

The trial is the outgrowth of the violent race riot last July in which thousands of whites stoned, sacked, burned and looted the apartment into which Harvey E. Clark Jr. and his family had moved. Police stood by while the hoodlums continued to vent their hatred of Negroes.

Mrs. Clark's Story

The riot was finally put down by the Illinois National Guardsment sent in by Gov. Adlai Stevenson.

Most telling testimony at the trial was that of Mrs. Clark.

She said that when she and her two children, Michele, 9, and Harvey III, 7, approached the Cicero apartment building, a man asked:

"Where will your kids go to school? I want to know so I can have my kids beat them up."

Another told her, "Wait until tonight."

During that day, she said, people began to gather around the building, and the children

Harry T. Moore to Get Spingarn Medal

NEW YORK—Harry T. Moore, the martyred Florida NAACP leader who was killed by a hate-bomb Christmas night, 1951, will be posthumously awarded the 37th Spingarn Medal.

It will be presented on Friday evening, June 27, during the 43rd annual NAACP convention in Oklahoma City, to Mrs. Rosa B. Moore, 83-year-old mother of the honoree.

The award is given each year by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People to a Negro American whose achievement is judged the most outstanding of the year.

Harry Moore's martyrdom, the citation accompanying the medal declares, "in the truest sense exemplifies the truth that 'Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends.'"

Mr. Moore is commended for his courageous fight for greater political participation by Negroes in Florida, abolition of segregation at the University of Florida, justice in the courts, equal educational opportunities for Negro children, equalization of teachers' salaries, and "against all the the 15th congressional district.

Frederick M. Roberts, veteran Republican, fared badly in his race against Sam Yorty, incumbent congressman in the 26th district. Yorty won both Republican and Democratic nominations. The ten sample precincts in that district showed Yorty getting a total of 175 votes and Roberts getting 102 on the Republican ticket. Roberts did not cross file. Alexander, Independent Progressive candidate, got 43 Democratic votes in the sample precincts and won the nomination in his own party. He will face Yorty in the November election.

Prefer McClain

Clyde M. Doyle, the incumbent, won both Democratic and Republican nominations in the 23rd congressional district, which includes the Watts area.

On the school bond propositions Negro voters followed the trend and gave each of the issues an overwhelming majority. They also approved the juvenile hall and junior college proposals which did not get the necessary two-thirds in other parts of the city.

Big Surprise

One of the big surprises of the election was the decisive defeat of Supervisor Roach in the Negro areas. He had spent a sizeable sum of money in the campaign and had the backing of a number of prominent public figures, including Paul R. Williams, Dr. E. I. Robinson, Dr. H. Claude Hudson and the Rev. George Coefield, head of the Baptist Ministers Union.

Hahn based his campaign on his record as city councilman and his long interest in local problems paid off for him in a large measure. He defeated Kenny Washington by a vote of 385 to 302 in the Central avenue sample precincts and lost in the West Side sample precincts by a vote of 372 to 281. Roach got only 209 votes in the Central avenue sample precincits and a mere 209 in the West Side samples.

Both Hahn and Roach supporters were casting about to rally the support that went to Washington in the primary and each claimed that victory was assured in November. It was apparent that the big prize and the decisive factor in the finals will be the Negro vote.

Lundy lost the Republican nomination for the assembly in the 55th district in a close race, according to latest election returns. One of the surprises in that district was the large Democratic vote received by Lundy.

whimpered, she said, but only for a moment, then was still.

After slaying the children, Mrs. Edwards called the family priest to her home at 205 Paseo Valdez, Aliso Village.

When police arrived, they found the three small bodies still on their blood-soaked beds, the stained knife neatly laid on one of theb lankets.

Later Mrs. Edwards told an Eagle reporter that three weeks before the killing, she had gone to General Hospital and asked for a mental test. After several hours' examination, she said, the hospital released her as sane.

At the inquest into the deaths, it was revealed that for a brief period in 1948 Mrs. Edwards was an inmate of the Kankakee State Mental hospital for the insane in Kankakee, Ill.

Segregation In European Posts Ordered Abolished

WASHINGTON—A request that Secretary of the Army Frank Pace, Jr., made public a restricted order which directs the end of racial segregation among the troops in Europe was made this week by the Washington Bureau of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Pointing out that the NAACP had been aware of planned integration in Europe for some time, Clarence Mitchell, the Bureau's Director, expressed surprise that the PATHFINDER, a weekly magazine, published the story while the matter is still considered restricted information.

Mr. Mitchell said that while the NAACP has been advised "that the action was initiated in Washington and is part of an overall plan to eliminate segregation on the basis of race in the Department of the Army," PATHFINDER reports it as an action taken by General Eisenhower and calls it "a good talking-point in winning Negro support for his candidacy."

pressure to force her to drop the knife.

When the knife fell to the ground, the ohter woman (Mrs. Cooper) grabbed the knife and was trying to get at the woman who cut her. I let go the woman I was holding, grabbed the wounded woman and wrestled the knife away from her while my friend, Julius Harper, held the other woman.

Cool and calm in the center of the excited mob that crowded around the scene, Mrs. Dirden said that she was on the way to get her clock fixed when she spied Mrs. Cooper standing in the doorway of the store. "I'm going to get her for taking my husband and calling my house, she told officers.

Mrs. Cooper was taken to George Street Emergency Hospital where her condition at press time was fair.

Ban on 'Pinky' Held Illegal

WASHINGTON—The Supreme Court Monday struck down a movie censor ordinance by which the city of Marshall, Tex., disapproved the showing of the film "Pinky."

The high court in a unanimous order cited its decision of a week ago in which it held that New York State film censors had illegally barred showing of the Italian-made movie, "The Miracle," on grounds that it was sacrilegious.

"Pinky" starred Jeanne Crain and Ethel Waters and drew objections in Texas and other parts of the South because it depicts a white man retaining his love for a woman after learning she is a Negro; a white man kissing and embracing a Negro woman and includes a scene in which two white ruffians assault "Pinky" after she has told them she is colored.

asked, "Why are all those people there?"

Fled Cicero

"That was enough," she said. "I didn't want my children to know about such things. I took them to the home of relatives in Gary (Ind., her home town). I was supposed to be back at 8 o'clock that night. As I approached Cicero, the sheriff's police stopped me and advised me not to return. I haven't been back." Defense attorneys did not cross-examine her.

Clark also testified. He described a June incident when he tried to move into the place at an earlier date. He said Police Chief Erwin Konovsky, one of the seven on trial, told him: "Get out of here and get out of here fast, and don't ever come back, you . . ."

Got Orders

A real estate agent for the apartment building told the jury he tried to interest four other Negro families in the apartment before the Clarks rented it, but they were forced away by police. Another witness said that when he looked over the apartment in March, 1951, two officers told him:

"What do you want? We've got orders to take you people into custody when you come out here."

On trial, in addition to Konovsky, are Town President Henry J. Sandusky, Town Attorney Nicholas Berkos, Fire Marshal Theodore Wesolewski, and three policemen.

They are charged with failure to protect the rights of the Clarks when they attempted to occupy the apartment they had rented.

Elks Laud Daily for Hiring Negro

A resolution comending the Los Angeles Daily News for assigning J. Robert Smith to its staff of news analysts recently was unanimously passed by the Civil Liberties Department of the Elks' Golden West Lodge No. 86 at its monthly meeting this week.

The action was largely the result of the efforts of Adolphus B. Clay, director of the department.

"We feel daily newspapers like the Daily News should be encouraged to integrate more and more capable colored writers on their respective staffs," stated Clay. "We further feel that like Jackie Robinson in baseball, J. Robert Smith is an excellent type to pioneer this field in journalism here on the West Coast. He is an able and informed writer and has vast experience in his chosen field. Our Civil Liberties Department will be working to help create similar openings on other metropolitan papers."

The Elks Civil Liberties has made tremendous strides in helping create openings in hitherto closed avenues of employment for Negro workers.

CAMP BECKONS THE LUCKY—Above are four lucky youngsters who enjoyed the Camp Fire Girls' summer camp last year. Hundreds of community children want to go this year—but can't afford it. A special "Kids to Camp" committee is trying to help.

Clubs Asked to Help Send Kids to Camps

Hundreds of kids who need a week or so in a summer camp this year will not be able to get there, because of economic reasons, unless some group "picks up the check" for them.

For the first time, 48 youth serving agencies are uniting their efforts to get boys and girls in "less chance" areas off the streets during vacation and into healthful, constructive activities. Currently, according to a survey made by the research department of the Welfare Council of Metropolitan Los Angeles, only six of every 100 youngsters have a chance to go to camp.

An appeal is being made to service clubs, women's clubs, and other organized groups to send at least one child to camp for a week, using treasury funds for the purpose. No general appeal will be made to the public.

It costs $20 per week per child for a "camperahip."

Backing the movement is a special Citizens Committee of which John E. Fishburn, Jr., vice president of Bank of America, is chairman. Serving with him are Walter W. Candy, Jr., Harrison Chandler, E. Koje Fiasco Spurs Plea for Lt. Gilbert

NEW YORK—Citing the mild penalties imposed upon Generals Francis T. Dodd and Charles F. Colson for their roles in the Koje Island prisoner-of-war camp fiasco, and upon the "stay down" strikers in the U. S. Air Force, Thurgood Marshall, NAACP special counsel, this week renewed his request for immediate freedom for Lieutenant Leon A. Gilbert, now serving a 20-year term on conviction of "misbehavior before the enemy" in Korea.

In a letter to Major General Harry H. Vaughn, military aide to the President, Mr. Marshall challenged the general's attempt to draw a fine line of distinction between the offense commited by Lieutenant Gilbert and that of the "staydown" strikers. Vaughn had written to Marshall that as volunteers, the Air Force men, had merely "refused to do something which no man is forced to do." On the other hand, he asserted, Lieutenant Gilbert "was guilty of misbehaviour before the enemy, one of the most serious offenses possible for a military man. He does not seem to have been overcome by psychological inability to act as he was ordered, but rather to have reasoned that the dangerous situation which he was ordered to enter might leave Mrs. Gilbert a widow."

Although officers in the Air Corps are volunteers, Marshall in his reply asked: "Is it not true that once they volunteer and enter the Air Corps, they have the same responsibility to carry out orders as any other military men . . . are they not subject to the same discipline as anyone else in the service?"

The NAACP counsel also called to the general's attention that the Board of Review of the Adjutant General's Office had found the record in Lieutenant Gilbert's case insufficient to sustain the conviction but was later overruled by the Judicial Council.

The charge, "misbehavior before the enemy," while longstanding, is seldom used, and has "little connection with being in the physical presence of the enemy," Marshall asserted. "On the other hand," he went on, "in the recent affair on Koje Island, Generals Dodd and Colson certainly misconducted themselves in the physical presence of thousands of the enemy and deliberately gave to the enemy the written statement which has disgraced our government. Their punishment—demotion from brigadier general to colonel." He expressed doubt that Lieutenant Gilbert's action, did "as much harm to the Korean War effort as was done by Generals Dodd and Colson."

Lieutenant Gilbert originally was sentenced to death. However, after intervention by the NAACP and others, President Truman commuted his sentence to 20 years in prison.

Virginians Asks Clemency

Dr. J. M. Tinsley, president of the Virginia State Conference of NAACP branches, whose letter to the White House noted that the severity of the penalty imposed upon the lieutenant greatly exceeded that meted out to white officers guilty of similar offenses, received a reply from Vaughn similar to the one sent to Marshall.

The entire purpose of true education is to make one not only know the truth but live it—to make on enjoy doing right, make one not work in the sunshine and run away in the storm, but work midst clouds of wrong, injustice, envy, hate.—Mary Baker Eddy.

Man Plunges To His Death From Window

A man, officially listed as a transient, last Wednesday either fell or jumped to his death from the window in a San Pedro hotel room.

In falling, he narrowly escaped hitting a pedestrian who happened to be passing by.

The death, which was apparently practically instantaneous, was officially listed by police as accidental.

Louella Davis, proprietor of the hotel at 526 S. Palos Verdes street, reported that she rented a room to John V. Tucker, whose age was given at 35, on the second floor of the hotel.

Shortly after that, she said, she saw him sitting on the window ledge, overlooking the sidewalk in the hall next to his room.

When she asked him what he was doing he said he was "all right."

A few minutes later he plunged to the sidewalk in front of the cafe on the first floor. Tucker was pronounced dead at the scene of the accident.

Dope Suspect Not Convicted

Although over $1,000 worth of marijuana was found next to the door of his apartment, the possession of narcotics case against Williams Charles Henry was dismissed May 29 by Judge Philip H. Richards, presiding in Superior Court, for lack of sufficient evidence.

Attorney Ted Schaffer, of the law firm of Gordon and Schaffer, successfully argued the motion to dismiss the case in spite of testimony of Narcotics Expert R. Lucarelli, L. A. police officer, that he had discovered the dope cache, and had also found a quantity of cigarette papers in Henry's apartment. The officer also stated that Henry admitted the use of narcotics.

Superior Court records revealed that, after argument, the court indicated it was convinced that the district attorney had failed to establish sufficient evidence to connect Henry with the crime.

Raid Lands Eight in Jail For Gambling

By EDDIE LEE KING

Sheriff's deputies raided a gambling den at 1402 East 58th place Saturday night and arrested seven men gamblers and one female lookout.

As the deputies surrounded the location, after being tipped off, Rebecca Langston, 44, 1418 East 58th place, the lookout, blew the horn of the Cadillac limousine in which she was sitting, warning the men inside a tin storage shed of the officers' approach.

When the deputies entered, the men were in the process of grabbing money and trying to hide the dice. Four dice and $11.65 were recovered from the floor.

Sandy, last name unknown, the owner of the garage appeared and said Mrs. Langston could have been blowing the horn to have some one give the deputies service. The light was out so this theory did not seem plausible.

Men Arrested

The men arrested on suspicion of gambling were Elihu McDaniel, 44, 1402 East 58th drive; Nick Bradford, 39, 5307½ Compton avenue; John Hopskins, 28, 5962 South Hooper avenue; James Edward Davis, 35, 1449½ East 53rd street; Ernest Harris, 37, 4611 Compton avenue; Loisteen Williams, 23, 1654 East 27th street, and James Stonehan, 29, 1400 East 58th place.

The men were taken to Firestone Park Sheriff's Sub-station, transported to Los Angeles County Jail and were arraigned Monday in San Antonio Municipal Court.

Movie Stars Spark College Fund Rally

"The Motion Picture association (formerly known as the Hayes' Office) is happy to lend every support to the United College Fund campaign in Los Angeles," McCullah St. Johns told Fay Jackson, UNCF coordinator.

Citing the fact that Eric Johnstone, president of MPA, is a member of the National Council of the United Colleges, St. Johns said he will assist in securing the services of Hollywood's leading film personalities for a big mass meeting at the Forum Theatre, June 20. The public is invited.

Plans of the movie committee headed by Mrs. Adela St. Johns and Miss Louise Beavers of the drive call for a score of pretty young starlets to serve as hostesses at the mass meeting along with members of Delta, AKA and Zeta sorority.

Film Greats

Highlighting the program will be such film greats as Rosalind Russell, Jane Powell, Esther Williams, Ronald Reagan and many others.

Dr. A. W. Dent, president of Dillard University, will be guest speaker.

Music will be provided by a cathedral choir featuring the new "Wonder Boy of Peru," composition by Evelyn Burwell recently recorded by Dennis Day for Victor.

Through the cooperation of Local 767 of the American Federation of Musicians, the concert ensemble of the Municipal Symphony orchestra will play throughout the evening.

Enthusiastic Support

Enthusiastic support of the College Fund campaign is evidenced by a contribution of $200 from the Cavalcade of Jazz concert last week.

Clubs, professional groups and individuals are urged to get donations into the headquarters now so that their names may be read by one of the film stars at the June 20 meeting.

Local executive committee members include: George A. Beavers, Jr., director; Kenneth Morris, chairman; Mrs. William Beck, vice-chairman; Charles M. Thomas, secretary; and a group of 50 community leaders.

Missouri statutes provide death as the maximum penalty for bombings with two years' imprisonment as the minimum punishment.

Other officials including Mayor William E. Kemp, Assistant City Manager Frank H. Backstrom, Police Chief Henry W. Johnson and Joseph F. Porter, Jr., chairman of the Mayor's Commission on Human Relations, joined in condemnation of the outrage.

The block into which disabled Navy veteran Crittenden and his wife moved is not more than two blocks away from other well-to-do homes in virtually all-Negro blocks on the ultra-fashionable Fuses.

Former white owner Oliver C. Campbell, nevertheless, is being sued by 49 homeowners in the neighborhood, members of the Troost Park Property Owners association, for breach of contract in selling to non-Caucasians.

It was revealed by police that a first bombing attempt had been made on the residence on May 2, a day before the Crittendens moved in. A crudely made "molotov cocktail" had been set on the back steps of the house, but had failed to explode, they disclosed.

NAACP president Johnson urged the couple to remain at the home, saying, "If we establish a practice of running when something like this occurs, it will only encourage further use of such tactics."

Assured of full protection, Mr. and Mrs. Crittenden have announced their intention to remain in their home.

Short on Performance

Governor Earl Warren took to the air waves last week to proclaim his support of fair employment practices legislation and to pledge his support to FEPC in event of his nomination and election to the presidency.

The words are familiar. Governor Warren has long protested that he believes in and wants FEPC. Unfortunately, his promises as respects this state have never been fulfilled. Mr. Warren has been governor of this state for ten years. He has had a Republican assembly and a Republican senate during that decade. Even better from the point of view of an FEPC is the fact that the vast majority of Democratic assemblymen and senators favor FEPC and have voted for it whenever it came before the California legislature. All the governor ever had to do was to get a minority of his Republican followers in the state legislature to heed his words and California would have had fair employment legislation. He couldn't do that—or at least he didn't.

Another glance at the record will show that when the FEPC initiative was on the ballot in 1946 Governor Warren held his peace. He either would not or dared not speak out for it, either out of fear that he would lose support of his conservative backers or out of the belief that he had no duty to do so.

As governor of this state, Governor Warren doesn't have to wait for fair employment practices legislation to make appointments of Negroes to state positions. But he hasn't made an important appointment since he named Walter A. Gordon to the state prison board in the very beginning of his long stay in office. Since that time he has ignored Negroes over and over again in appointments to the judiciary and to other important state offices.

Those are the facts. We don't know what answer the governor has for his failures. We doubt very much that he would have any more success in Washington than he has had in Sacramento in getting legislation passed to root out discrimination in employment. We think that dependence on his FEPC promises is not to be recommended. Mr. Warren has many excellent qualities and has been a good public servant in many respects. Understanding of and solutions for civil rights problems are his weakest points.

Raise Their Wages

Los Angeles policemen and firemen are entitled to the pay increases which they are seeking and which have been denied by City Council. They point out that the rise in the cost of living in the past few years has forced their standard of living down and that they can't maintain themselves and their families at their present pay scale.

The claim that both policemen and firemen are adequately paid at the present time won't bear scrutiny. They are forbidden to work at outside occupations and must depend entirely on their salaries for support. Their jobs require special kinds of uniforms for which they must pay. Add it all up and the Los Angeles policeman or fireman doesn't make enough to live on and lay aside savings for a rainy day.

Opponents of the pay increase are prone to admit that some increase ought to be granted but claim that the city cant' bear the cost of he increases hat are sought. This strikes us as penny-wise and pound-foolish kind of economy. The requirements for service in either police or fire department are high and this city can't attract the kind of men it deserves to these departments unless it pays them adequately.

More Trouble Ahead

Kansas City is the latest of a large number of cities in which bombs have been used in an attempt to prevent occupancy by Negroes of homes they have purchased in what other residents regard as "white neighborhoods."

The list includes Atlanta, Miami, Cicero, Cairo, Dallas, Chicago and Los Angeles. Such bombings have been frequent in Chicago which has had more than fifty in the past five years.

As in Los Angeles, there have been no successful prosecutions in such outrages. In fact, there have been only a very few arrests and in those instances convictions have not been secured.

The widespread character of these bombings ought to make law enforcement authorities, federal, state and local pause and take stock of the situation that is developing.

It is apparent that the resort to violence has been on the increase since the United States Supreme Court forbade further pudicial enforcement of race restrictive covenants. Those who believe in residential segregation have evidently decided that they will enforce Jim Crow by violence. No doubt they have been encouraged by the constant stream of propaganda poured out by Realty Boards, Chambers of Commerce and Neighborhood Associations and directed toward discouraging Negro residence in so-called white neighborhoods.

The hoodlums who set off the bombs know full well that they have the tacit approval of many of their neighbors even when disapproval is voiced by law enforcement officials.

It is fairly plain, too, that many police officials, high and low, share the popular prejudices against Negro home occupancy. The evidence would seem to indicate that in all too many instances police work has been perfunctory, or worse.

We think that the Realty Boards, Chambers of Commerce and Neighborhood Associations might as well accept the fact that Negroes intend to exercise their constitutional right to live where they please. They aren't going to be talked out of that right.

Nor are Negroes going to be bluffed out of their right to choose their residences by bomb throwing or vandalism.

Negroes hope, and expect, that law enforcement officials are going to protect the rights which they intend to exercise. Failure to do so will only sow the seeds of further trouble.

Bigger Muddle Than Ever

Defeat of the housing proposal at Tuesday's elections leaves Los Angeles in a worse muddle than it was before the vote was taken.

The state supreme court has said that the city cannot back out of its contract with the federal government to construct the ten thousand low cost units. Goodness knows the city needs them and we aren't too much impressed with the fact that the vote was unfavorable in light of the thousands of dollars and the stream of propaganda poured out by the opposition.

It is our opinion that the Housing Authority should proceed to build the houses we need so badly. The alternative is to turn the assembled land over to private contractors who, if the past is any guide, will at once build houses far out of reach of those who nee dthem. Those houses will be closed to all but white occupancy. In addition the taxpayers will be saddled with a thirteen million dollar debt for expenses already incurred by the government and with millions of dollars in lawsuits who sold their houses to the Authority on the promise that their land was to be used for public purposes.

Ask World to Pray for Peace

Millions of men and women of every race and creed in all lands will voice a world prayer next Sunday, June 8, according to Lay Servers Group, invoking divine will to guide people everywhere in this time of crisis. The group announced this World Invocation Day would mark the most widespread use in history of a single prayer on a single day by people of all faiths.

"The Great Invocation" is being used by religious and educational institutions and organizations in 60 countries, in 48 languages.

The group invites all people of goodwill to join in this World Invocation.

A PRAYER FOR PEACE

From the point of Light within the Mind of God
Let light stream forth into the minds of men.
Let Light descend on Earth.

From the point of Love within the Heart of God
Let love stream forth into the hearts of men.
May Christ return to Earth.

From the center where the Will of God is known
Let purpose guide the little wills of men—
The purpose which the Master knows and Serves.
From the center which we call the race of men
Let the Plan of Love and Light work out.
And may it seal the door where evil dwells
Let Light and Love and Power restore the Plan on Earth.

Sounding Off

By WENDELL GREEN

This corner of the editorial page will be dedicated to the proposition that there are a lot of situations and conditions in out community that require the base knuckle treatment. Not that the more erudite and philosophical approach on the left is not effective, but some things call for whooping and hollering and raising hell, and this corner intends to do just that.

One of the most disgraceful situations in our community is its complete lack of political organization. Young people, those under forty, seem content to sit back and let the so-called political leaders, who have been carpetbagging in every election for the last 15 years, continue their chiseling and grafting ways.

To compound this, with the influx of brethren from behind the sun, came some "politicians" with them. With more energy than political savvy, a good ability to "Tom" into graces of white people born from long practice, some of them have moved into the political scene and taken over.

All the out-worn, sleasy, political carpetbagging and chiseling tricks that should have gone out with the demise of "Pop" Saunders, are again in full swing.

The unfortunate fact is that there has been a political vacuum in the community since the election of Gus Hawkins to the legislature as an aftermath of the EPIC movement. No new political leadership has been developed, and those in power, actively connived at seeing to it that the vacuum remained constant.

Only in the labor movement has young leadership been developed. This is not only the result of those in power chopping down every threat to their reign, but to the general indifference of the younger generation that have become adults in the last 15 years. Raised and nurtured on the bitter dregs of the Hoover depression, their primary drive was for security. Civil service was the promised land and the fire department, police department and post office was Mecca. College trained young men and women retreated into the shell of civil service, instead of taking their rightful place in the cultural and economic stream of the city and community.

This made it easy pickings for men of the stripe of Baron Lawson, Walter Lawson and the many others who "worked" at politics during the notorious Shaw regime.

With the reform movement that gave us Bowron, civil service became the institution it was intended to be, instead of a political football, and with more jobs available countless well trained minds were swallowed up in its stifling morass.

Then came the war. Inflation came with peace, and is still growing like Topsy. Civil service is not the promised land it once was. Dissatisfaction has set in all over the place.

It is my opinion, that the time is ripe for a great political upheaval. It took the depression to sow the seeds of the EPIC movement that vaulted into power Gus Hawkins, Loren Miller, Baron Lawson, Gilbert Lindsey, Leon Washington, Amos Black, Fay Allen and a host of other active politicos, knocking out the old guard of J. B. Bass, Pop Saunders, Fred Roberts, Henderson, L. G. Robinson and their followers.

The complete political disorganization of the community is glaringly apparent when candidates decide to run for office on their own whim, or some other individual's idea. There is no consultation with recognized leaders or organizations, because there are none. The candidate files, and when it is an accomplished fact, then the community has to swallow him hoof and horns on a race basis, giving the Uncle Toms and open field to practice their art.

All is not lost. A large number of bright, ambitious young people have migrated to Los Angeles. We have a growing, alert young professional set of lawyers and doctors who have a social consciousness and realize that their livelihood depends on the well-being of the community.

Service in the military has awakened a lot of young minds. The honeymoon after the war is over. As one person put it, "We are the next generation to die and we're still acting like kids. It's time we faced up to our responsibilities."

An explosive situation exists that needs only a fuse to blow the entire political setup sky high. More on this next week.

Protest Navy Jim Crow Order

WASHINGTON — The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People this week protested "backward steps in the direction of a return to segregation" on the part of the Navy Department, as evidenced by segregation on Navy installations in Norfolk, Virginia, and Charleston, South Carolina.

In a letter to Secretary of the Navy Dan A. Kimball, NAACP Secretary Walter White expressed alarm that Rear Admiral W. McL. Hague, chief of the Office of Industrial Relations, announced that segregation would prevail at naval stations which were "subject to the laws of the community," or where "segregated facilities are the form in the community."

"We ask that you order the end of all racial segregation in the yards at Charleston and Norfolk," Mr. White wrote. "We also ask that there be substituted for it a policy of no racial segregation in facilities and services at any naval establishments."

Help!

Atlanta Negroes Battle City Plan

Negro leaders struck hard in the second round of what is turning out to be a modern "battle of Atlanta." The Metropolitan Planning Commission of this city has proposed that Auburn avenue business (owned by Negroes principally) be shifted away from the downtown area and relocated on the west side of the city and that six or seven plots, termed "Negro expansion areas" be reserved on the fringes of the Atlanta of the future. The Negro community is firmly opposed to these proposals.

On April 23, just after the planning commission had made public its plans in a publication entitled "Up Ahead," Negro civic leaders denounced the jim crow features of the plan at a city-side luncheon staged by the Phi Beta Sigma fraternity. This was the first round of the battle.

Second Round

The second round came this week when the planning commission opened public hearings at the city auditorium.

Dr. Lawrence D. Reddick, of Atlanta University, led the attack. Scheduled to appear also during the 10-day hearings are Editor C. A. Scott of the Atlanta World; J. H. Calhoun, business man; Attorney A. T. Walden, veteran political leader; Dr. B. E. Mays, President of Morehouse College; Dr. R. O. Johnson, educator; L. D. Milton, President of the Citizens Trust Company; C. R. Yates, business man; E. M. Martin, head of the Atlanta Life Insurance Company and others.

Dr. Reddick praised the Commission for its good work but criticized it sharply for not (1) having any Negro members on it; (2) not consulting Negro business leaders in planning for the expansion of the downtown business district; (3) not providing bomb shelters and other defense protections in case of an attack by a foreign foe; (4) for planning Jim-crow residential areas.

If the plans for the future of Atlanta are not revised, Negroes will probably vote against any bond issues that may be offered to raise funds for carrying out the recommendations of the Commission. This will be the third, and most likely the final round of the battle.

Appeal Guam Murder Case

WASHINGTON — Attorneys for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People this week carried the case of Robert W. Burns and Herman P. Dennis, sentenced to death by military court martial for the rape-murder of a civilian worker on Guam in 1948, to the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia.

After completing four years of appellate procedure provided in the military establishment, the NAACP filed petitions for habeas corpus in the U.S. District Court, seeking the release of the men. The men alleged in their petitions that their convictions were the result of coerced confessions, suppression of vital evidence and the use of perjured testimony. They also claimed that the trials on Guam were held in an atmosphere of hysteria and violence, and asserted that their constitutional rights to a fair and impartial trial were violated by military authorities.

The government filed a motion to dismiss the case on the grounds that military proceedings were not subject to review by civil courts except for the limited purpose of determining whether the military tribunal had jurisdiction of the person and the authority to issue the sentence imposed. The District Court granted the motion to dismiss and it is from this judgment that the present appeal is being taken.

Attorneys representing the association are Robert L. Carter of the national office in New York and Frank D. Reeves of Washington.

Jo Baker Society to Hold Mass Meeting

The Josephine Baker World Cultural Society will hold its first gigantic membership drive and mass meeting at the People's Independent Church of Christ, 1025 E. 18th Street on Thursday night, June 10th at 7:00 o'clock.

The main feature of this meeting will be to introduce to the public the aims and purpose of the Josephine Baker World Culture Society as set fourth by Josephine Baker and approved by the board of directors headed by Laura Slayton, president of the society.

This society has gained momentum with such rapitity and impact as to astound and attract not only Negro population and other groups throughout this country but on foreign soil as well. The combined efforts of some 200 representatives of social and Charity Clubs have banded together to aid the organizations in its determination to exchange culture of the American Negro's origin with other nations throughout the world.

The Josephine Baker World Cultural Society plans its first convention in Paris, in 1953 where it will meet with like organizations and societies from other countries.

Josephine Baker en-route to Rio de Janerio will preside over the June 10th Mass Meeting.

The meeting is open to all, admission free.

BUNCHE, TOBIAS WILL APPEAR BEFORE GROUP

A statement on racial segregation and a report by the committee to select a headquarters for the National Council of Churches will be the two important issues to come before the General Board of the National Council at its next session, June 11 at Chicago.

Dr. Henry P. Van Dusen, president of Union Theological Seminary, New York City, will be the main speaker at the week-long session of the National Conference of the Association of Conference Secretaries, June 16 to 21 at Conference Point, Lake Geneva, Wis.

Dr. Ralph J. Bunche and Dr. Channing Tobias will be among the principal speakers at the North American Assembly on African Affairs at Wittenberg College, Springfield, Ohio, June 16 to 25.

How to learn a foreign language and how to stay healthy in a strange climate along with a briefing on Communism, nationalism and racial tensions will be highlighted for 125 new missionaries at the annual Outgoing Missionary Conference, Kennedy School of Missions, Hartford, Conn., June 9 to 14.

Church workers in the field of race relations and social action might be more effective if they cut down on their sermonizing and devoted more energy to group discussions.

This was one of the recommendations set forth by the annual Race Relations Retreat sponsored by the National Council of Churches at Seabury House, Conn., last week.

The group suggested an increased use of such activities as "role-playing" and "psychodrama" in race relations work. They also urged foreign mission boards to actively recruit Negroes for missionary posts abroad, contending that the "colored people" of the world were more receptive to an evangelistic message not presented exclusively by whites.

National Church Council Tackles Race Problems

SPORTS

By WENDELL GREEN

I'm taking a guest shot in Abie's Corner, because I'd like to pay tribute to some really grand guys who were among the finest athletes in the country. Memorial Day has passed, but these fellows live on in my memory.

The class of 43H at Tuskegee Army Air Base was the largest to hit the base for flight training. It started out with 85 cadets, and 17 finished to win the wings and bars.

Alton Ballard, Willard Woods, Roger Romine and yours truly were the Californians that graduated with the class. Ballard, who now teaches in the L. A. school system, was an excellent basketball player. Willard Woods, now a practicing attorney here, was an outstanding musician. Roger Romine was an outstanding athlete, scholar and artist.

A transplanted Californian from New York was Leon Purchase, who was an outstanding dash man at San Jose State, when he entered the service.

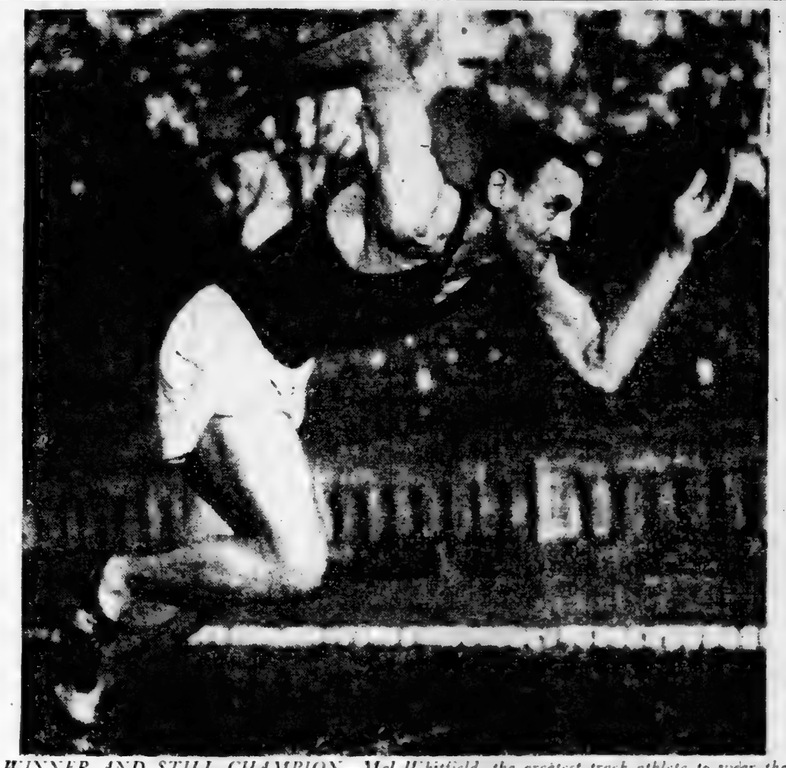
This column is primarily dedicated to Roger Romine, and also to all the men of 43H and Tuskegee who "went down in flames."

Roger was born in Oakland where he attended the public schools and was developing into a top-flight high jumper. He attended San Mateo J. C. where he continued his track exploits.

In 1942, Romine volunteered for service in the Air Corps. We were roommates and inseperable buddies. Tall over six foot Roger, was built like a Greek Adonis. He had the same physique that Woodrow Strode was blessed with.

Roger developed into one of the best flyers trained at Tuskegee, which meant that he was tops in the field, because brother, when you finished Tuskegee, you were good.

Roger had a zest for living and enough of the daredevil in his temperament to make an excellent fighter pilot. He was a poet and arttist who wrote beautiful prose in letters, and sketched out things better than words could say.



Romine went overseas and flew the required number of missions with the 332nd Fighter Group, but promotions were rather slow under Col. B. O. Davis, Jr., so Roger elected to stay and fly a few more missions until someone would see the light and promote him to the captaincy he deserved.

Roger was killed on a hummer. His engine conked out on take-off and he sat in his P51 at the end of the runway, watching the other pilots take off, seconds apart. Another planes' engine conked out and as the pilot sat in the plane on the runway, he ran into a herd of sheep an Italian herder was driving across the runway. In an attempt to avoid the sheep, the pilot rammed Romine's ship. It instantly burst into flames.

I can hear Roger saying now, "You know, Green, the beautiful thing about flying is that you never get hurt."

Roger was cut down in the prime of life. A fine athlete, wonderful personality, and a good citizen. The same was true of Sidat-Singh, Henry Toppins, Harry Daniels, Bill Hill, Sam Jefferson, Leon Purchase and the countless other pilots who proved real champions on the field of combat.

Roger Romine and all the Air Corps men who now live in our memories, fought for a better everyday world. Let us try to live every day, so we'll be worthy of their sacrifice.

WINNER AND STILL CHAMPION—Mal Whitfield, the greatest track athlete to wear the green and gold of old Jefferson High, added the '52 Compton Invitational Half Mile crown to his large list of "hardware" last night, in near record breaking time. Holding or sharing every record from 500 yards to 800 meters, Mal is eying his second Olympics trip . . . where he will participate in the 400 and 800 meter runs.

Top Talent In Olympic Finals Meet

Thousands of Southern California sportsfans on June 27 and 28 will have an opportunity to witness the greatest array of track and field talent since the Olympic Games in Los Angeles in 1932.

The occasion is the finals to select our great American athletes who will meet the challenge of Olympians from other nations of the world. These finals will be held Friday and Saturday afternoon, June 27 and 27, at the Los Angeles Coliseum.

Tickets for the swift paced two-day trackfest go on sale at local ticket agencies on June 9. Reserved seats for the two days aer available at $5.00, while reserved seats on a single day basis are priced at $3.00. Special $1.00 tickets are available for high school students through their schools, while college students can attend for $1.50.

Net proceeds from the finals will go to send the team to Helsinki, Finland, whe ertheGames get under way on July 19.

Those entered will be athletes who have merited the honors by winning their positions at any one of three meets—the Inter-Service Meet at Long Beach, June 7-8; the N.C.A.A. at Berkeley on June 13-14, and the A.A.U. meet at Long Beach, June 20-21.

The N.C.A.A.'s first six men in each event qualify for the finals, as do those competing in the A.A.U. In the Military meet, though, officials have the right to accept or reject according to the standard of performance. However, many of the U. S.'s greatest athletes are now wearing Uncle Sam's military garb.

No more than 16, nor less than 12, athletes, will compete in each event of the two-day finals.

Heavyweight Championship On TV Tonight

Boxing fans will see the first coast-to-coast telecast of a heavyweight championship bout when NBC-TV covers the Jersey Joe Walcott-Ezzard Charles 15-round fight in Municipal Stadium, Philadelphia, on Thursday, June 5. (NBC-TV and KNBH, 7:00 p.m. PDT; 9:00 p.m. CDT), as a presentation of the Gillette "Cavalcade of Sports."

Noted sportscaster Jimmy Powers will provide the commentary from the ringside as Charles attempts to be the first man in ring history to win back the heavyweight title. Charles lost the championship to Walcott last July.

The Gillette Safety Razor Company will sponsor the transcontinental telecast on all 52 NBC inter-connected stations. The telecast of the fight will cancel "Martin Kane, Private Eye" on this date.

Jeff-Jordan Grid Tilt Set for Fall

Jefferson football coach, Mike Marienthal, announced today that his 1951 city football champions would meet the Jordan Bulldogs in a resumption of what used to be an annual contest.

Marienthal stated that the big Jordan game will be played on October 10th on the Jeffs' home field. There is a slight chance, if there is enough community interest in the game, that the site may be changed to Wrigley Field for a night event. A night game, such as this would result in a larger crowd and consequently give more support to the teams and schools.

The Democrats will open their season with a scrimmage against Marshall and a night game October 3rd with San Pedro at Daniel Field in San Pedro. The Jefferson student body has also made arangements with Roosevelt High School to have their home game played this year on the Roosevelt field. The student council in making this decision thought that that more people would be able to attend a night contest. So as it stands now, Jeff will have three night games at their opponents fields, San Pedro, Garfield, and Roosevelt. The tentative schedule for 1952 is as follows:

October 3rd—San Pedro at San Pedro
October 10th—Jordan at Jefferson
October 17th—Milk Bowl at Coliseum
October 24th—Manual Arts at Jefferson
October 31—Garfield at Garfield
November 7th—Washington at Washington
November 14th—Fremont at Jefferson
November 21st—Roosevelt at Roosevelt
December 5th, 12th and 19th—City Play-offs

HOLLYWOOD PARK—A little coal-black Texas lassie named Haunted, with quick, silver slippers, tiptoed into the hall of fame by winning the Cinderella Stakes last Saturday at Hollywood Park and preserving her undefeated record of four wins in a row. The first win was at Santa Anita; two at Golden Gate and this was her fourth. Restrained by Jockey Bobby Baird as the amazingly quick So Regards broke into the lead and reeled the first quarter in 21 4/5. When Jockey Baird asked Haunted for her head, the Texas lassie overhauled the leaders and was going away at the finish. As third choice in the betting she paid $10.60 and earned $17,050 for her owner, Robert J. Kleberg, of the King Ranch.

RAMSEY

The mighty Kentucky Calumet's A Gleam and Two Lea made a show of their field in the feature event when they ran one-two. Backed by the public as a sure thing, they paid in the mutuels $3.50 straight for a two dollar ticket. Under a perfectly timed ride by Pete Moreno, A Gleam ran down the pacemaking Special Touch midway off the turn and just coasted home three lengths ahead of her stablemate, Two Lea. The time was 1:21 3/5.

Two big attractions will be the gala program for this Saturday. Classy sophomores will parade to the post in the Hollywood Oaks, which carries an added value of $25,000. Secondary will be the Haggin Stakes, with an added value of $20,000. In the Oaks at a mile and one sixteenth, the best fillies in California will go postward for this rich three-year-old classic. The Haggin Stakes is for colts and geldings at five furlongs.

CALIENTE in Old Mexico—Veteran Trainer J. J. Dolan saddled three winners at Caliente last Sunday. This was the first time in many months that one trainer has sent three winners to the post in one afternoon.

His first was Ringing Bells in the first race and rewarded her her backers 010. Sing a Song in the fifth was his second; she paid $6.00. Skeeter Mac in the eighth was his third winner and paid $13.60.

Drake Mallard came from off the hot pace set by Bright Angel and Bossy Reigh to capture the main attraction before more than 6000 lovers of the sport of kings. Well backed by those who knew the speed that Drake Mallard showed while racing in California, he paid $7.20 and ran the six furlongs in 1:11 2/5.

HOLLYWOOD PARK

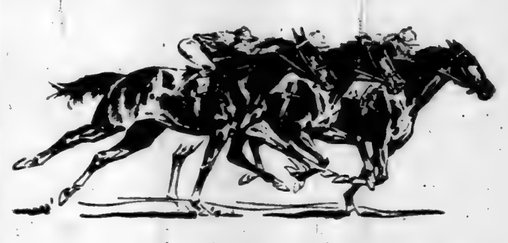
Jeff Ball Players Win Six Games

Concluding one of the most successful baseball seasons in recent years the Wheba coached Jefferson varsity trounced their last two opponents to finish second in the league with a 6 win, 4 lost record. After losing the first four games of the season, three of them by shut outs the mighty Jeff hard-ballers led by mighty Earl (the Pearl) Wilson won their last six games to enjoy a very inspiring season. They now go into the Dorsey city touranment with hopes of bringing more glory to Jefferson High School.



SAPPERSTEIN SAYS ST. LOUIS BROWNS WILL FINISH 5TH OR HIGHER

NEW YORK (CNS) — Though you might say Abe Sapperstein is a little prejudiced since he owns a part of the St. Louis Browns along with Bill Veeck, still the president of the Harlem Globetrotters has picked the Brownies to finish fifth, at least in the American League race. In the cellar last year, the new management expects different things from the club this new year what with Roger Hornsby as the new manager, some new players added and the surprisingly still effective Satchell Paige around. Both Veeck and Sapperstein are of course looking for some Negro players.

DALLAS—Dave Hoskins, the Texas League's first Negro player, got off to a good start last week when he pitched the Dallas Eagles to an easy 9 to 1 win over the Forth Worth Cats. He gave up nine scattered hits.

Always look out for the sunlight the Lord sends into your days.—Hope Campbell.

MIRIAM CHRISTIAN, Society Editor

AFTER THE WEDDING—Members of the Greene-Powers wedding party pose in the June sunshine after impressive ceremonies in the University Methodist Church on USC campus. From left to right are matron of honor Audrey Locke, bridesmaids Alpha Fulkner, Ruth Meyers, Alice Estes, Frances Moore, Alore Anderson, maid of honor Mildred Blackburn, the lovely bride Lorraine Green Powers, the groom Willard Powers, best man Leo Meyers, ushers Erthana Jacquet, James Collins, Robert Ravard, Thomas Greene, Lawrence Greene Jr. and Don Hamilton. To the left are the flower girls Andrea Green and Gil Smith. In the center are ring bearers Damarius Dennis and Tyrone Thompson.

KISS THAT BINDS—Timidly, Ruby Lee Baker, the new bride, kisses her husband, Joseph V. Baker after they have been pronounced man and wife by Rev. Brown. The radiant young bride is a graduate of University of Southern California and specialist in social group work.

RING AROUND HER FINGER—In the double ring ceremony, Baker places a brilliant platinum ring on his young bride's finger. His ring was splendorous white gold. The wedding took place in bride's parents home, Mr. and Mrs. Luther King. More than 325 prominent names graced the guest list.

Greene-Powers Wedding Rites Unite Two Pioneer Families

An overflow crowd of top strata Los Angeles society thronged the fashionable University Methodist church on the University of Southern California campus Sunday afternoon at four o'clock to witness Willa Lorraine Greene, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence C. Greene, take the solemn vows that united her in matrimony to Willard Judson Powers. The Rev. Dr. E. W. Rakestraw performed the ceremony that joined two pioneer Los Angeles families.

The bride was exquisitely gowned in taffeta and net with accordion pleats in front with lace insertions. She wore a Juliette cap of lace bordered with lilies of the valley and lace. A finger tip veil, yards of train, earrings that have been in the family over a hundred years, and the groom's gift, a gold cross worn around the neck on a very small locket chain, completed the breath-taking ensemble.

She carrier orchids and lilies of the valley on a white wedding bible.

All-White Effect

The gowns of her attendants all repeated the all-white effect. They wore white embroidered organdy dresses with embroidered white braided organdy halos. White pearl necklaces completed the accessories. Maid of honor Mildred Blackburn and matron of honor Audrey Locke carried American Beauty roses.

The bridesmaids were Alore Anderson, Frances Moore, Alice Estes, Ruth Meyers, and Alpha Fulkner.

The two tiny flower girls were dressed in miniature replicas of the maid and matron of honor. Their baskets were filled with sweetheart rose petals. The two tiny ring bearers for the double ring ceremony, were the exact duplicate of the bride and groom.

The high, vaulted ceiling emphasized the massive candelabra glowing in the background of stalk flowers and gardenias that decorated the altar. The same flower motif was carried out elsewhere in the church.

Formal Attire

Groomsmen, wearing formal afternoon attire, were Leo Meyers as best man, Erthana Jacquet, James Collins, Robert Ravard, Thomas Greene, Lawrence Greene Jr., and Don Hamilton as ushers.

Soloists were Marguerite Chapman and Buell Thomas, with Frank Bates at the organ.

Other members of the wedding party were Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence C. Greene, parents of the bride, Mrs. Azalea Blakeney, godmother of the bride, Mrs. T. A. Greene, grandmother of the bride, Mrs. Judson Powers, mother of the groom and Howard Ford, godfather of the groom.

The mother of the bride, Mrs. Lawrence C. Green, was gowned in aqua shantung taffeta, with pink accessories and pink orchids. The groom's mother was gowned in pink faille, with white accessories and pink orchids.

Hostesses

On the door to greet the guests at the reception which followed at the beautiful Wilfandel Club was Mrs. Floyd Covington. Mrs. Leule Bryant escorted them to the wedding party. Mrs. Satchell Morris III, Mrs. T. A. Greene Jr., and Mrs. Oscar Wickham received the gifts. Mrs. Alphonso Murdock showed the guests around the solarium where the gifts were on display. Mrs. Prince Greene, Mrs. Margarete Chapman and Mrs. Cortez Strange served the guests refreshments.

Following the reception, Don Hamilton entertained the bridal party. This was followed by a nuptial party at the home of the parents of the bride.

Sunday night, after the festivities, the happy couple flew to Catalina Island for their honeymoon.

WEDDING TRADITION—Mr. and Mrs. Willard Judson Powers slice the wedding cake together in keeping with an age-old tradition, at the brilliant wedding reception held at the Wilfandel Club Sunday afternoon.

PROUD FATHER—Proud father Lawrence C. Greene prepares to enter the church to give away his most precious possession, Willa Lorraine, to the man of her choice.

Daffodils Install Officers

In a simple but formal ceremony recently, the Daffodil Social Club installed its newly elected officers. The ceremony was conducted by Mrs. Adolph Bone, a member of Zeta Phi Beta Sorority and student at L.A. State College. She is also dean of pledges for her sorority.

The officers installed were: president, Mrs. Gladys Wallace; vice-president, Miss Gladys Angelety; recording, Mrs. Claudia Clark; financial secretary, Mrs. Milton Goins; correspondent secretary, Mrs. Roosevelt Massie; treasurer, Miss Minnie Beatty; business manager, Mrs. David Fisher; reporter, Mrs. Foarker Whiting; critic, Mrs. Preston Heath; sergeant at arms, Miss Elria Wallkeen; and social hostess, Mrs. Lillie Von Holloway.

During the ceremony, the club's color scheme of green and yellow was carried out. Departing president Mrs. James T. Mrs. Beatrice Miller presented Mrs. Ivis with a gold cup from the club as an appreciation for her four years of excellent service.

Bright-eyed Lisa Smith Armstrong served as flower girl.

Pasadena Home Provides Setting of King-Baker Vows

By MIRIAM CHRISTIAN

Her parents' Pasadena home, exquisitely decorated as a chapel, provided the elegant setting of Ruby Lee King's marriage to Joseph V. Baker Memorial Day. Delicate sweet peas, lacy ferns and tall candles surrounded the altar upon which the young couple was united in holy wedlock.

Officiating was Rev. J. M. Brown, for many years a prominent minister in the persuasion of African Methodist Episcopalism. In soft tones, the beloved cleric pronounced the vows that made the young couple one.

The radiant bride was gowned in heavy white satin with a double net overskirt of ballerina length flounced out. It was a chantilly laced strapless design, topped by a chantilly laced bolero jacket. On her feet were Cinderella satin slippers.

Lace Cap

A tulle 24-inch veil flowed from a snug-fitting lace cap. The ensemble was patterned for afternoon formal weddings.

She carried a bouquet of Eucharias lilies. Stephanotis and net were woven in a semi-nosegay by Whitford's of Pasadena.

Her seventeen-year-old sister, Betty Louise King, was resplendent in pink satin and net of ballerina design. Her nosegay was of pink sweet peas and roses. Her headdress was made of net and modeled in Dutch-cap fashion. Huge roses spotted her skirt.

Bright-Eyed

Alert, bright-eyed Lisa Smith Armstrong served as flower girl. She wore white taffeta and nylon lace and carried a tiny replica of bridesmaid Betty's nosegay.

Mrs. Luther (Deloris) King selected a tasteful pink crepe and lace gown. A hat of tulle and pink flowers formed a halo above her face. Rhinestone earrings and necklace were worn. A huge corsage of pink roses completed the attire.

MRS. JOSEPH V. BAKER

Mack Moreland, best man, the groom and Luther King wore appropriate afternoon formal suits consisting of black jackets, gray and black striped pants gray vests. Groom wore a stephanotis boutonniere; all others wore carnations.

Bridal Music

Merlene Chandler contributed piano bridal music. Melvina Hunter sang "At Dawning" and "Lord's Prayer" as part of the wedding ceremony.

Candle girls lit candles to the music of "Ave Maria." They were Barbara George and Clotile Kelly. Both wore pastel semi-formals and carried nosegays of pink sweet peas and roses.

Hostesses were Mmes. Lorraine Bailey, Juanita Wade, Johnetta Armstrong, Robert Armstrong, Hattie Gaines, a friend of bride's.

New York's Alta and Aaron Douglass and Wilminton's (Del.) Dr. and Mrs. Walter Goens are talking and planning a trip out this way in mid-summer. If they do come across the Rockies they will do so via highway and leisurely. Probably in July.

All of which will be cause celebre for much social to-do up and down this coast for hardly does there breathe a more or less interesting soul in such circles who at some time or other has net on trips east partaken of either the famed Douglass hospitality or of the equally known graciousness of the Goenses of Delaware.

No prouder nor more delighted grandmother in town than perennially wonderful looking Beulah Arnaud. Her lissome, East Indian looking daughter Muriel has a new daughter, some few weeks old.

But then these Arnauds here are a mighty fine looking family group as it is, you well agree. Beulah philosophizes her children and grandchildren keep her young and fit and on the go.

Note on a piece of scratch paper: Surely must somehow track down Tommy Long's whereabouts next time I wander off upstate around the Bay area. Since the Long family quit town I've not seen nor heard directly of the ole rascal in a long age. Someone did hazard a guess Tommy lives in Berkeley seems to me.

Recent item here anent ex-Angeleno Cliff Bennett and his wife due here in three weeks gave local chums of his a bit of a start for they did not know suave Cliff was married!

Yep, he has been now for some three years. Wife Yvonne (from Philadelphia) is thrilled over prospect of her first trip to California. They will check in the Watkins on the twenty-eighth.

Carmen De Lavallade and Jimmy Truitte with the rest of the Dance Theater group out Melrose way are all set for a transcontinental tour which will take them into N. Y. Jimmy, tickled no end to be getting back to Big Town and some ole pals from his earlier Billy Rose days.

Billye Oliver (Sy's wife) who visited Verna and Paul Hickman here some few weeks and more ago (her son Taylor was with her) on a leg of a leisure junket about the land is still enjoying transcontinental travel. Billye remains one of the most refreshing women I know. And is a stimulating hostess as well.

Did you know that building at Jefferson and Sixth now houses Grant Venerable's thriving table pad and blackboard eraser business? Eye-widening venture, no less, and definitely set for success. It used to be miles away in remote Montebello. This is the venture which numbers among its original investors the DePaur Infantry Chorus.

Changing their house address: Dr. and Mrs. Charles S. Morris III. Sallie Wood visiting N. Y., much entertained. The youngest person and the first to be made a bishop at the AME Zion conference Rev. Herbert Shaw is the cousin of Caterina Jarboro.

At times things seems a little dull around here now that tempestuous and ever predictable diva Caterina lives here no more. You could at least sort've depend on statuesque Caterina to sweep in on you and upset things ever now and then. I for one miss her.

Lives-in-Chi-now ex-Angeleno Corrine Adams reports Mrs. Frederick Jordan of L. A. was a stand-out among the more interesting, traveled and well dressed bishops' wives at the recent 34th General Conference of the AME Church in Chi.

At the district reception Mrs. Jordan wore one of the Paris gowns she acquired last summer while on the continent. She's well known in the mid-west where she formerly lived and attended school.

Also in evidence was Angeleno Mrs. Jerry Carter who was on the tea program. Bobbee Black Borders and her medico mate Ted of Ft. Wayne, Ind. were among the Americans recently who attended the champagne party given in Port-au-Prince by Haiti's doctors and the Public Health department. The elegant Club l'Amicale was the scene.

Bobee's husband participated in a recent medical session in Puerto Rico; later they went touring through the Carribean. Former Angeleno Bobbee will have much to tell local friends on her next trip here.

Maxcine Howard Tours Europe

Still enthused about her eight-week tour of Europe is Marcine Howard whose picture was snapped by the Eagle photographer at International airport last week.

Miss Howard, prominent Los Angeles business woman and member of the local social set, sailed on the Queen Mary to England. From there she traveled by air, water and land to more than ten other continental countries.

Italy and the city of Rome were favorites of the young explorer, who found the people there very religious and neighborly. She said she was most surprised to find a race track there also. "The fanfare is not as impressive as ours, but betting is very much the same."

The places of interest that kept her occupied were museums and art exhibits. Miss Howard was enthralled by the grandeur of the collector's items.

It was the visitor's belief that Paris was most expensive of all international sign posts. While visiting there, she remained with Ranie Stark of New Jersey who is studying costume designing.

Miss Howard found good food in all countries for tourists. "Your wish is your command if you can back it up with money," she emphasized vigorously.

Her return voyage was made on the Queen Elizabeth where she met Bill Tate, of Chicago and Rock Island, Ill.'s Sherman Overaton who had been touring Europe for Chicago Tribune's Golden Gloves exhibition.

The threesome enjoyed conveniences of the luxury liner and developed a strong friendship. While passing through Chicago, Maxine stopped to pick up her beautiful seven-months nephew, Xavier Ray, son of Mr. and Mrs. Antoni Ray. The little fellow will return alone sometime during July.

People and Places

Dorothea Towles, the new and exotic Parisian model is just about the biggest topic locally, since Jackie Robinson. In fashion circles they hate like 'ell to admit she tops in her field, but will admit that a fashion show without her headlining it is just another flop. So, with icy stare and green, green eyes of envy they welcome her. In the swimming pool set they smother her with invitations because her presence ups their Hooper rating. In the dope set the boys say she is the coolest number since they discovered Mexico. In the Central Avenoo set they can't figure out how a certain Dentist missed the boat in letting her get away. In the Beauty Shop set they give her the most sincere compliment of all; she's got ability and using it.

Just Because

Because a certain milk-man, boyfriend of one of the Pen Scrollers was placed at the ticket window. Because there was a slight shortage in the tickets after the Dorothea Towles show. Because the very next day he came up with a new convertible Cadillac is no reason to suspect him of wrong-doings with the loot. At any rate the belles, all four, didn't make what they expected.

Toyo Means Lucy

Lucy Battles, one of L.A.'s most clever little brownskin dancers a few days ago, is lending her charms and talent to a groovy Western Avenoo spot called Toyo. Lucy calls the shot in this crazy little spot that will soon be the mecca for show people. Lucy is well liked by all big names in show business and you can bet they will certainly give her spot a play. She is a member of that real popular B.V.A. group.

Jet's Jollie

Vera Francis, the brownskin model who graced the face of Jet, is labeled as Hollywood material. Awful misleading; the chick won't see the day when she will make as beautiful a sight as Lena Torrance. The Torrance gal is our great natural beauty, tip to stern.

The Piano

Lorenzo Flournoy, the gifted, slender musician, is holding forth at the Club Alabam nightly. Flournoy broke in at the Central Avenoo house many years ago. He has since become one of the nation's outstanding pianists and band leaders. Although he has played in the top spots in the country he enjoys his Club Alabam engagement most and his music indicates that.

Interesting Romance

A certain Central Avenoo big wheel and a Kenwood Street society matron are finding each other's company very interesting. We don't think it is serious although the gent in question has the class and cash to make with easy living.

Sight Items

Chuck Jackson, former Jefferson High track ace, is easily rated as one of the best bartenders on the coast.

MARELENE GOWER TAYLOR AND BLEECE SMITH, a couple of clever girls with hot irons working in a East Vernon avenoo beauty studio. They do wonders with milady's wig.

Libby Clark and Jerry Jackson hitting the highways for points East to bring Mother dear back to the coast. A nice pair to hitchhike a ride with.

Faye Nelson, former show-girl watching her attractive daughter go through rehearsal on the same Club Alabam stage where she made a name and living for her five kids.

Ofc. Walter Goodlow beaming and hoping that his man is selected for the Paker job. Goodlow is over-due for a break in the department. His outstanding job with the Newton Daps is bearing good fruit. He had a hand in Jefferson football, track and basketball development. He is a well-known figure in the boxing world. His civic work in the community plus his police job has given him a keen sense of understanding and makes his future look bright as leadership material.

VANO HASSAN SPENCER and hubby planning ocean voyage that will include Paris. Antionette (Tony) Atkinson, the wife of likeable Eddie, and Eloise Davis are London and Paris bound also.

That new paint job in the 4300 block on S. Central is announcing the reopening of the New Keno Cafe, opening soon, but I hope, not closing sooner.

The reason why the buzzing crowd and horse race fans are flocking to Stuff Crouch's Turban Room in the afternoon is to ease their jumping nerves. SIDNEY WHITE is serving up the best mixed drinks in town plus giving you a winner in every race.

The Epsilon Gramercy street affair was a stiff one. That is the spirits were poured freely to the delight of the members who were sizing up the bodies as future business.

FRANK GARRETT, the big motel man carried on a brezzy chat with two attractive females parked in their '52 deville across from the Eagle office the other afternoon.

LLOYD LA BEACH, McKesson and Robbins lush salesman, was one of wheels in raising funds for the Olympics among the Negroes. He campaigned among the brothers and got them to send in contributions. He did an outstanding job for a good cause.

We will be on hand June 8th; it's Herman Hill's farewell party. Hill, a top-ranking newsman is giving up L. A. for S. F. where

Record Reviews

From Bop to Bach

By J. T. GIPSON

"MAD ABOUT THE BOY"
Mercury—Dinah Washington

During her last visit to the coast, Dinah Washington told chorine Donna Jean Jones and other dancing dolls that "I don't like 'Gip' 'cause he wrote something bad about my singing." Well, we'll now give Miss Washington opportunity not to like us twice as much, as there is nothing favorable we can say about this disc. It isn't even unbreakable! We just don't think she can sing!! Period.

"KISS OF FIRE"
MGM—Billy Eckstine

Billy Eckstine's style of toying with a ballad is easy on the ears. This should prove an easy nickel-grabber. It's by far the best of his current crop of MGMagnificent recordings.

"EAST STREET"
Capitol—Billy May Ork.

A new musical twist to an old favorite, the B. May ork dip their instruments in rhythm and walk away with all honors. Tune should click solidly across the nation in the gin mill juke-boxes. Terrif!

"I DON'T KNOW ETC."
Decca—Buddy Johnson's Ork.

Title of this tune is "I Don't Know What's Troubling Your Mind," a BJ original with an Ella Johnson vocal. She's one of the few dolls in the singing dodge who doesn't have to resort to trick tonsillin' to put her thrushing across. Rate it A-plus.

"COLD, COLD FEELING"
Aladdin—T-Bone Walker

We beckon Joe Turner, Ray Brown and other "greats" of the "Blues-singdom" to dig this disc to hear how the blues should be swung! There is only one T-Bone!!

"LOVER"
Decca—Peggy Lee

Either Peggy Lee didn't sleep a wink the night before this record was made, or she was just too tired to give a darn. At any rate, it's one of the sloppiest of the Lee offerings. N.S.G.

"DEEP PURPLE"
Mercury—Charlie Barnet Ork.

We were prayerfully hoping someone would revive this old fave, and mighty glad it was someone like C. B. It's from the new Barnet Album, "Barnet Plays Barnet," although "Purple" was written by another guy! An instrumental, tune should click all over again!

A wise man will hear, and will increase learning; and a man of understanding shall attain unto wise counsels.—Proverbs.

T-Bone Walker To Oasis Club

My predilection and reverence for blues-singers disappeared with the passing of Bessie Smith. Occasionally, however, I still come upon a blues-singer who merits attention. T-Bone Walker, for example.

Walker, a handsome, bespeckled little entertainer, enjoys the distinction of being America's top exponent of the blues. He is a guitarist of rare ability (i.e., he doesn't play 'bop'), and he sings the blues just like any other singer—only better!!

A top showman with terrific knowledge on how to put a song across, T-Bone Walker (whose surname is Aaron) will display his versitility starting June 16, when he opens a limited engagement at the Oasis Club on South Western Avenue.

"As for other blues-singers, I hereby make a clean sweep of the board, and then deftly place T-Bone in the center of the vacant space! —JTG

Wardell Gray Has New Swing Combo

Rated one of the top tenor-tooters in the Kingdom of Swing, personable Wardell Gray, former star hornman of the Benny Goodman, Count Basie bands, has organized his own swing combo featuring some of the top talent of the Angel City's cradle of swing.

Gray, who recently returned from a highly successful series of concerts and one nite dance engagements in the eastern states, is rehearsing his men diligently in an effort to iron out flaws in one of the most expensive and high regarded music librarys in the business. All of the band's music arrangements are from the pens of noted music masters.

With some of the top music men included in the lineup, Gray will introduce his band to local music lovers in the not-too-distant future.

An occasion well worth waiting for!

Stage Play Set For Big Opening

Featuring a star-studded cast with elaborate costumes, the new stage play, "Chris Columbus Brown," with Horace "Nick O'Demus" Stewart in the starring role, opens here at the Las Palmas theatre on June 18. This will mark the first time an all-Negro stage presentation has played Hollywood since the popular stage hit, "Sugar Hill," closed its doors a couple of years ago following a successful run.

In addition to Stewart, who is known to many in the show world, the cast will boast such stellar names as Bill Walker, Juanita Moore, who starred here in the femme lead in the Negro Art Theatre groups "Golden Boy," Jack Williams, internationally famous dancer, Jay Loft Lynn, well-known and beloved actor, Jay Brooks, Emmett Smith, Sonny Woods, Jeanne Thompson, the fabulous Dorothy Morrow, Ted Crumm, Graham Johnson and many others.

Directing the singers is Charles Gross with Gloria Roberts at the Steinway. Pianist Charles Lawrence is in charge of orchestrations.

'Clash By Night' at RKO Hillstreet

The picture opens Friday, June 6th at the RKO Hill Street and Pantages Theatres.

Joining the three established stars in her first starring portrayal is Marilyn Monroe, one of the most exciting feminine personalities since Jean Harlow. Carroll Naish and Silvio Minciotti round out a top-flight cast.

Good Morning Judge

Calvin Jennings, 1357 E. 55Sth drive, was standing at a bar at 3514 S. Central drinking beer when he felt something. He looked and saw Helen Anderson, 4153½ Hooper, with her hand in his pocket, and she wasn't playing pool. When she came out with some dead presidents stuck to her fingers, and wouldn't give them up on request, he blew the whistle on her for a free ride to Newton.

Mabel B. Scott, 128 E. 46th street, the brown bombshell of song, was putting her all into her act at the new Club Alabam. In the meantime some dirty crook was transferring her all from her pocketbook in the dressing room to other places. La Scott was the loser to the tune of 25 bucks.

Charles Harris, 1209 E. 33rd street, was at 5500 Long Beach in a joint. As he went through the swinging door to the latrine (real French this week) he knocked a bottle of whiskey from a man's hand. He apologized, but all the man could see was whiskey on the floor. When Harris declined to replace it, he received a nice incision in the chest.

Alfred Martin, 1432 E. 62nd street, met Johnnie May Williams, 1427 Griffith avenue, at 12th and Central. Being a real gallant, Al asked to escort her home. She readily agreed and even invited him in and introduced him to her brother, Albert Saunders. Al gave Saunders ten dollars to get some juice to make the party real lively. Saunders was gone so long that Al went to sleep. While copping a nod, someone copped 18 bucks from his pocket. Johnny Mae and her brother are now in durance vile.

Edward Davis, Jr., 1946 E. 112th street, is a "way out" musician. He was putting down some mad riffs at the Club Alabam, and the customers were really being "sent." What Eddie didn't know was that while he was sending the jazzophiles, he was being "sent out" to the tune of his little clarinet, which someone politely tipped out with.

Lucreter Jones didn't like the way her husband was drinking and carrying on so. She told him about it and he replied by hitting her over the head with a poker, pot and knife.

Berry Smith took a two by four and made like his wife was a horse and he was trying to win the Santa Anita handicap. She says he beat her because he was mad because he had to support their two children.

Travis Lincoln, 2720 Raymond avenue, was visiting at 715 E. Adams. He got in a drunken quarrel with Alsom Thompson, who hit him in the mouth and head with a bottle. Empty, no doubt.

Nellie Robinson, 901 E. 27th street, and hubby Howard had a friendly drinking bout. It soon developed into the real thing with Howard beating her with his fist, kicking her, and then applying a broom handle to her torso.

Homer Ervin, 2244 W. Adams, went to the home of Leonard Cox, 1357½ E. 21st street, to discuss some money matters. Ervin didn't get the money, but he carried away a souvenir that he will carry to his grave. It was put on his neck by a straight razor.

The Judge strolled away from the bench thinking of tomorrow and more blood, bones and skull fractures.

The well-known lawyer flew down to Los Angeles May 3 to attend to some legal matters. He had been ill before leaving Oakland and was so sick on arrival that he immediately went to bed. He was admitted to Temple hospital May 14, and died a week later.

Doctors did not know the cause of death, and a post mortem examination was conducted. This revealed metallic poisoning, with the possibility being entertained that death was due to arsenic, presumably taken in small doses.

The body was removed from Angelus Funeral Home to the county morgue, where an autopsy was performed, and was released on Monday and shipped to Oakland.

Industrialists Form Urban League Group

Twenty-six top representatives of management, headed by Winthrop Rockefeller as chairman, have joined forces as members of the Commerce and Industry Council of the National Urban League, 1133 Broadway. The council is dedicated to the belief that there should be equality of opportunity for all Americans, and that there should be full utilization of the vast Negro manpower potential.

The council works to strengthen and extend the industrial relations and vocational guidance program of the League, the nation's oldest interracial voluntary service agency which strives to promote equal economic opportunity for Negroes in all fields of endeavor.

Ralph L. Mason, of Standard Oil Company (New Jersey), is co-chairman. They comprise the executive committee with Hoyt Ammidon, of The Hanover Bank; Benjamin F. Vander Poel, of Union Carbide & Carbon Corporation; and Joseph R. Bransford, of Western Electric company.

Two League projects in which Council members have been active are "pilot" placement of qualified Negroes in highly technical, skilled and administrative positions, and career conferences held in leading Negro colleges and universities, with Council members serving as or securing consultants.

Nine top-flight industrialists have just accepted membership on the Council.

Henry W. Pope, of the National Urban League's industrial relations department, serves the Council as field secretary.

McAllister, approved of the marriage.

School opinion was divided, but the majority championed the plans of the couple.

Earlham college, founded by the Quakers, has been widely heralded as a shining example of the teaching and practice of racial tolerance ever since the days of slavery. But marriage seemed to be going a bit too far.

Dean David Henley, in a letter rejecting protests against the school's action, called the engagement a "planned and willful violation of a long-standing rule against steady, interracial dating, looking toward marriage."

Quakers at Ithaca took a different view, and sponsored the wedding of the "audacious" couple.

'Bomber' Tells Plan for New Liquor Firm

NEW YORK—Former heavyweight king Joe Louis, this week announced establishment of the Joe Louis Distilling Company, producers of a sour mash, straight four-year old Kentucky Bourbon, to be called Joe Louis Straight Bourbon.

Louis immediately sent out letters to thousands of friends, telling of his two-year search for the business with which he is now a busy and active member. Louis went further to state that he is and will continue to be an active member of the company's board of management.

Sought Security

"I was seeking," stated Louis, "not only a secure future for myself—an aim which every professional boxer understandably sets for himself—but a means of extending my friendly acquaintanceship to include more and more of you."

Joe, in his usual concern for the youngsters was quick to add: "Let me re-state what I have said many times—: Alcoholic beverages, regardless of the name or quality of the product, are not for children! Also, I feel that my product and any other alcoholic beverage should be avoided by athletes in training. Liquor and participation in sports don't mix."

Louis appealed specifically to the average adult who drinks in moderation. "I would like to thank you for your future support," he wrote. "I promise you many hours of top enjoyment with Joe Louis Kentucky Straight Bourbon because you can't buy a better whiskey in all this world."

JIM CROW'S FATE UP TO SUPREME COURT

Separate But Equal Rule to be Tested

WASHINGTON, D. C.—A showdown test on the Jim Crow system is slated for next Oct. 6, when the Supreme Court will hear arguments on the legality of separate grade schools in South Carolina and Kansas. Federal district courts in both states held that grade school segregation is permissible under the old separate, but equal doctrine of 1896.

The South Carolina decision was handed down on June 21, with Judge Waties Waring entering a strong dissent on the constitutional question. The court found that school facilities for Negroes were in fact unequal but gave the state six months to abolish the inequalities. On Dec. 21, 1951, South Carolina filed a report showing what steps had been taken but the plaintiffs had appealed to the Supreme Court before that order was received.

Lost in Lower Court

When the case came up for hearing in January in the Supreme Court, seven of the justices, with Black and Douglas disagreeing, sent the case back to the South Carolina court with an order for it to determine the effect of the report made by the state. The South Carolina court found in March that the state had made every reasonable effort to equalize school facilities and held that all schools would be equal by Sept., 1952. Monday the Supreme Court set Oct. 6 for hearing on the appeal filed by the NAACP from that order.

Basis of the appeal in both the South Carolina and Kansas cases is that segregation of grade school children violates the equal protection clause of the Fourteenth amendment and that even where equal facilities exist, Negro children are discriminated against by being forced to attend Jim Crow schools.

In making its decision in August, 1951, the Kansas federal court held that "segregation of white and colored children in public schools has a detrimental effect on colored children." However, the judges held that under old Supreme Court decisions they were powerless to end the discrimination.

Decided in 1896

The separate but equal rule under which the states claim the right to segregate so long as equal facilities are provided for both races was established in 1896 in a case involving the right of Louisiana to require separate railway accommodations for the races. The Supreme Court held that the state had such power and there followed a long series of decisions in which the right was extended to other public facilities.

In both cases the NAACP produced a long list of distinguished educators and sociologists who agreed that segregation was harmful to Negro children and voiced opinions to the effect that Jim Crow schools prevented them from getting educations equal to those of whites.

While other aspects of the Jim Crow system will not be under attack next fall a ruling that segregation is impermissable in grade schools would shatter the whole segregation system and southern states are girding for an all-out battle.

South Carolina, Alabama and Georgia have already passed laws under which public schools would be abandoned in event that segregation was ordered discontinued. The fight is led by Governors James Byrnes and Herman Talmadge.

Considerable speculation was voiced here as to what attitude the attorney general of the Unit-

EISENHOWER OPPOSES FEPC IN BID FOR DIXIECRAT VOTE

Ike Airs Views on Policies

By Jay Downs

WASHINGTON, D. C.—General of the Armies Dwight Eisenhower, candidate for the Republican nomination for president, bared his stand on some of the issues of prime importance to Negro voters in a series of press conferences last week and these facts emerged:

1. He is opposed to a federal fair employment practices act and has grave doubts of the workability of such a law. He would let the states might their own solutions.

2. He doesn't know that school segregation lays an added burden on taxpayers and "will study the matter."

3. He won't intervene to help compel change in Senate rules which permit filibusters to stymie all civil rights legislation.

4. He has no plans for inclusion of Negroes in his cabinet but he thinks Dr. Ralph Bunche is a fine man.

5. He is opposed to a general federal aid to education bill.

The picture that emerged of the general as a Republican candi-

WHAT IKE SAID

Here are direct questions to General Eisenhower and his answers to them on issues of primary importance to Negro voters.

ON FEDERAL FEPC

Q—Do you favor a compulsory FEPC?

A—The FEPC—when you use those initials, you are proposing, as I see it, a sort of shotgun question, because there are many things involved in it. I have no objection whatsoever to stating my unchangeable, my unalterable support of fairness and equality among all types of American citizens and I believe that insofar as the Federal government has any influence or any constitutional authority in this field, all of its means, all of its expenditures, all of its policies should adhere firmly and without any kind of equivocation to that principle.

I do not believe that we can cure all of the evils in men's hearts by law and when you get to compulsory action in certain specific phases of this thing I really believe we can do more by leadership and getting states to do it than make it a Federal compulsory thing.

This I say with the utmost sympathy for anyone who feels himself to be a member of a group that has been de-

Negro Vote Shows Distinctive Trend

By WENDELL GREEN

A tabulation of the votes in the predominantly Negro 62nd Assembly District which is represented by Augustus Hawkins in the Assembly and Sam Yorty in Congress, and Leonard Roach in the County, revealed some very interesting results. The general area from Eighth street to Slauson. Alameda to Main with a part jutting west between Vernon and Santa Barbara to Figueroa, is wholly or predominantly Negro populated. This area represents 236 precincts out of the 302 that make up the 62nd Assembly district.

The 236 precincts cover about six square miles and contain slightly over 100,000 residents.

A comparison between the white populated precincts and the Negro precincts showed the Negro vote having several distinct characteristics, while the white vote generally followed the entire electorate in the city.

About 50% of those eligible to vote, took the time to cast their ballots in the election. Edmund G. "Pat" Brown beat Kefauver by the slim margin of 4½%. Out of 10593 votes cast for the Democratic delegation, Brown got 429 more votes than Kefauver. This was in distinct contrast with the rest of the city where Kefauver led Brown better than two to one.

Television proved its worth as Werdel, who is anti- all civil rights legislation, ran three to two behind Warren. Warren

Mother of Three Wins Freedom In Murder Case

Emma Willis, 32-year-old mother of three, 1102 E. 113th street, was acquitted of the murder of J. W. Henry, 38, her common-law husband, last Friday in Department 42 of the Superior Court after her attorney, Earl C. Broady, convinced the judge the killing was in self defense.

Mrs. Willis was accused of stabbing Henry to death with a scissors blade on Sunday, April 6, in the heat of an argument in front of a beer parlor at Santa Barbara avenue and San Pedro street.

On the witness stand, Mrs. Willis told of beatings and abuse over a period of two years by the dead man, and how, on the day

PE Car Brings Gruesome End To Boy's Life

Rayfield Hudderson, 11, 1602 E. 22nd street, was decapitated by a Pacific Electric train Saturday afternoon as he ran across the tracks at 23rd street and Long Beach avenue.

James R. Hunt of 1717 E. Gage avenue, and Ronald Killion of 810 E. 101th street, stated that the three of them got off of the Watts local train at 23rd and Long Beach and Hudderson started across the tracks, when he saw the Long Beach Limited coming from Long Beach he started to run.

The operator, C. R. Shields of 1842 Stearlee, Long Beach, said he was going about 20 to 25 miles per hour and Hudderson was 15 feet away from the train when he saw him. He applied the brakes but could not avoid striking him and killing the victim.

The body was taken to the Los Angeles County coroner's office by ambulance as Hudderson was dead on the arrival of the police.

Hudderson's parents are Benjamin and Majoresta Riley, 1602 E. 22nd street, stepfather and mother.

Insanity Plea for Mother Who Cut Throats of Tots

Maintaining the terrible calm that has characterized her since she surrendered herself for the murder of her three babies last May 7, Mrs. Ruth Edwards pleaded not guilty by reason of insanity in Department 42 of the Superior Court here Friday.

Mrs. Edwards, 31, has previously told the gruesome details of the murder of the three tots as they lay on their beds in the Aliso Village home where she lived alone with them. She described the "neat, quick" way in which she slit the tiny throats with a single knife-stroke for each.

Bothered Her—She Shot Him

By EDDIE LEE KING

"I killed him because he has been bothering and threatening me long enough."

This was the statement of Lillie Pogue, 42, 1335½ East Adams boulevard, after she shot Lee Davenport, 46, 1337 East Adams boulevard, three times Sunday night with a .38 Colt Detective Special revolver.

Miss Jimmie Lee Collins, 17, 1724 East 41st street, told an Eagle reporter that her aunt, Mrs. Pogue, and Davenport were planning on getting married and had bought property at 1337 East Adams. Mrs. Pogue lived in one of the houses, while Davenport built an attachment to the large house in front and lived there.

Mrs. Pogue stated that Davenport had been threatening and beating her for the past three weeks. Sunday about ten a.m., he followed her from the car to her house, cursed her and threatened to cut her throat, she said.

Call Police

Mrs. Pogue called the police to keep the peace and officers answered and advised Davenport to cease his actions. He again threatened her and she left, she said.

Miss Collins said that Mrs. Pogue went to her house and stayed from about 1:30 p.m. to around 6:15 p.m. and that the two of them left to go to Mrs. Pogue's home as she was going to stay all night with her aunt.

Miss Collins stated that when

Alexander Honored by Golden State

One of Los Angeles' venerable citizens, 82-year-old Titus N. Alexander of 3740 LaSalle Street, was honored last week when Golden State Mutual Life Insurance Company formally announced the establishment in its library of the Titus Alexander Collection of Negro Life and History.

The announcement was made in a quiet ceremony at the Alexander home as Norman O. Houston, president of the insurance firm, presented Alexander with a reproduction of the bookplate to be placed in the volume of the collection.

Only six persons joined Alexander and his wife to participate in the presentation because of his ill health which has caused him to be confined to his home for five months. Present were: Miss Miriam Matthews, librarian at Vermont Square Branch; Gregg Layne, chairman of the executive committee of the Southern California Historical Society and editor of its quarterly; and from Golden State Mutual, Norman O. Houston, president; George A. Beavers Jr., chairman of the board-treasurer; Mrs. Verna A. Hickman, head of the company's public relations activities, and Mrs. Mamie Spencer, librarian.

Cicero Officials Convicted

CHICAGO—A jury in Federal District Court last week returned verdicts of guilty against Police Chief Erwin Konovsky, Town Attorney Nicholas Berkos, Police Sergeant Roland Brani and Patrolman Frank A. Lange on the charge of violating the civil rights of Harvey E. Clark, Jr., whose property they failed to protect when he attempted to move into an apartment in the lily-white Cicero last summer. Charges were dismissed against two of the original seven de-

No More Police To Guard Bailey Home

By VIOLET MOTEN BROWN

With last Wednesday's removal of police guards from his once-bombed Dunsmuir avenue residence, William Bailey again suffers great anxiety for the safety of his wife, children and home.

Still unanswered a week later was a telegram sent by the local branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People urgently requesting replacement of the protective detail.

Lack of sufficient personnel is the reason cited by Wilshire Police District for withdrawal of the constant watch which has been maintained at the Bailey home, 2130 Dunsmuir avenue, since it and a neighboring residence were bombed March 16 in a murderous attempt to blast Negroes from the area.

Wilshire police, who have been conducting the investigation into the bombing and supplying officers for the stake-out detail there, assured NAACP officials that there is a "strong suspicion" who the culprit is.

In view of this, the officers told NAACP branch President Dr. E. I. Robinson and Field Secretary Lester P. Bailey, they believe it unlikely that the suspect will make another attempt on the Bailey home.

Unpersuaded, victim Bailey, head of the science department at Carver Junior high school, has continued to request return of the detail. The NAACP's Bailey and Dr. Robinson have continued their urgings that this be done,

Tries Suicide After Attempt To Kill Wife

Cleveland Smith, 44, 1803 E. Elder, Duarte, was arrested early Monday morning for assault with intent to kill his wife, Nellie Geneva, and attempted suicide.

Mrs. Smith, 36, reported that he locked her in the bedroom of their house and after quarreling, he slashed her several times with a knife.

Mrs. Smith said that she was finally able to escape through a window and staggered to 1807 E. Elder, where she was admitted by Mrs. Mary Cesena. Mrs. Smith said she had been arguing with Smith regarding his undesired attentions towards her daughter by a former marriage, Mary Ellen Robinson, 16.

Foaming at Mouth

Smith was lying face down on the divan in the living room with foam and liquid coming from the mouth when deputy sheriffs ef-

Appeals Court Will Hear Race Restriction Suit

Three neighbors who want to collect damages from another neighbor for the sale of a race restricted home on W. 60th street to a Negro will carry their fight to the District Court of Appeals next Wednesday morning, June 18. Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Barrows, Richard Pikaar and M. M. O'Gara lost their fight to collect $11,600 from Mrs. Leola Jackson before Superior Court Daniel Stevens and Justices Clement Shinn, Paul Vallee and Parker Wood will hear their appeal from that decision.

Mrs. Jackson and her neighbors signed a race restriction agreement in 1944 but in Feb. 1950 and after the United States Supreme Court held that state court enforcement of such agreements was unconstitutional she sold the property to Mr. and Mrs. Pearnell Smalley who are Negroes. The Smalleys moved into the home on Sept. 14, 1950 and the law suit ensued. Mrs. Jackson will be represented on the appeal by Attorneys James Sims, Maurice Walbert and Loren Miller.

Barrows and the other neighbors base their claim for damages on the charge that Negro occupancy lowered the values of their own property but Judge Stevens held that the effect of the Supreme decision was to eliminate all suits for damages because of violation of racial agreements. Oklahoma and Missouri have held that damage suits are permissible but Michigan and the District of Columbia have

Here is the complete tabulation of the votes in the June 3 primary in 236 out of the 302 precincts which make up the 62nd Assembly district. This district is roughly bound by Alameda, Figueroa, 8th and Florence. 65 of the precincts are almost wholly populated by whites. The 236 tabulated below are almost wholly Negro populated. Next week we will bring you the vote in the heavily Negro populated precincts in Watts and the Westside.

Ike Airs Views On Vital Questions

date is that of a man less liberal in many respects than even Senator Robert P. Taft and far less informed on civil rights issues than any of his rivals for the GOP nomination.

His first statement on FEPC was made at Abilene where he told reporters that "I do not believe we can cure all of the evils in men's hearts by law and when you get to compulsory action in certain specific phases of this thing I really believe we can do more by leadership and getting States to do it than make it a compulsory federal thing."

After this statement had been hailed by all newspapers and commentators as a bid for southern political support, Eisenhower repeated it in Washington in slightly different form. There he said that "I am unwilling to believe that a punitive federal law itself, particularly if it penetrates into that area that have been reserved to the states" will not be effective. "I am very much afraid that it will intensify rather than ameliorate the problem." Later he added that he wished to "repeat again and again my fear that in law itself we do not find the answer."

Cabinet Members

The general countered a question at Abilene as to inclusion of Negroes in his cabinet, particularly Dr. Ralph Bunche, with the statement that the question was crossing bridges that hadn't been reached and that he hadn't even considered appointments. "Whether it would be best to use Dr. Bunche I don't know. However when I was president of Columbia we called him up and gave him an honorary degree."

Queried about use of his influence to change senate rules to halt filibusters, Eisenhower said that the question again presented the matter of crossing bridges before they were reached and added that the Senate and House have been making their own rules for a century and three quarters.

"Education is a local function," he said in response to the first inquiry about federal aid to education and then added that he opposed any bill that he thought would just "be supporting another bureaucrat in Washington and cutting something off before you send it back to the various states that are providing the money." Newsmen returned to the question in the Washington conference by asking the general to make a statement on the "costly practice of segregating schools in the South where Negroes and whites attend separate schools at terrific cost to the states and the federal government." His answer that "you brought up a feature of this thing that I have not even thought about. I did not know that there was an additional cost involved" brought a gasp of astonishment to his listeners.

Lacks Program

The general feeling after these first two interviews is that General Eisenhower lost tremendous ground as far as Negro voters are concerned and that his utter lack of information and program on civil rights matters is a major defect in his campaign.

Eisenhower's Negro supporters appear a little dismayed while supporters of other candidates were quick to leap into the breach with claims that he has lost whatever chance he ever had to get a respectable vote in Negro populated areas of large industrial states. They also pointed out that if a million Negro voters go to the polls in the South this fall Eisenhower's bid for the southern states may be lost through a combination of the Negro vote and other voters who cast their votes for the Democratic party out of habit and custom.

Undoubtedly there will be attempts to repair the damage that has been done by Eisenhower's initial comments as soon as some of his more liberal and more seasoned northern political advisors can get to him but most of his statements, particularly that on FEPC, were voiced in such positive language that little change can be made without direct repudiation.

Postal Alliance Upholds Carter

WASHINGTON—The conduct of President Ashby B. Carter of the National Alliance of Postal Employees was given full and complete endorsement in Cleveland last week by the official convention of District Six of the NAPE, comprising Ohio, Indiana, Michigan and Western Pennsylvania.

The endorsement was the district's answer to charges of "waste and extravagance" hurled at Mr. Carter recently by a group Southern postal workers, most of whom are retired and not now extremely active in the NAPE.

HISTORY MAKING—Receiving presentation of a bookplate to be used in volumes of the Alexander collection established in his honor at the Golden State Mutual Life Insurance company library is 82-year-old Titus N. Alexander. Norman O. Houston, president, is shown handing the bookplate reproduction to Mr. Alexander as his wife sits to the side. Others shown are Miss Miriam Matthews, city librarian; Mrs. Mamie Spencer, Golden State librarian; Gregg Layne, chairman of the executive committee of the So. Calif. Historical Society; Mrs. Verna A. Hickman, head of the company's public relations activities, and George A. Beavers Jr., chairman of the board.

FACE LIFTING—Eastside Settlement House, 1219 East Adams boulevard, is getting redecorated inside and out, thanks to generous cooperation of community. Shown here, in foreground, is Ted Christenson, realtor, who is donating a paint job for the outside of the building. With him in rear is J. M. Edwards, husband of one of the founders, and Mrs. Betty Johnson, Settlement president, a Red Feather service. The children are just some of the hundreds of youngsters who come to the Settlement for fun and instruction in many useful skills.

Court Ruling On School Bias

ed States will take in the case. In several recent cases, particularly in the race restriction and dining car cases, the government has lined up with the NAACP and in one of its briefs it said that "separate but equal is as much a fiction as black but white." If it sticks to that view it will probably file a brief on behalf of the NAACP and may request time to be heard in the argument.

The Supreme Court in two decisions announced in June, 1950, banned segregation as then practiced at the Texas and Oklahoma State universities. Basis of the decisions was that the two universities did not provide equal opportunities to Negroes.

Chief Justice Vinson declared in the university cases that the Constitution's 14th Amendment "precludes differences in treatment by the State based upon race."

It is estimated that there will be 243,000 children in the Los Angeles City elementary schools in 1957, an increase of 34,000 over 1951.

fected entry through an open window from the front porch after being unable to arouse him and finding all doors of the house locked.

"You'll Be Dead!"

The moulding on the bedroom was broken partially off, where Mary Ellen broke in upon being awakened by her mother's screams, but found her mother had left through the window.

She saw her stepfather stooped over near the closet drinking from a bottle containing unknown liquid, she said.

Mary Ellen said that her mother had called the sheriff about four days before and that deputies had responded after which he made the threat to Mrs. Smith that "You'll be dead by next Friday."

Both in Critical Condition

Mrs. Smith was transported to Temple City Emergency and then taken to General Hospital with severe lacerations about the face and body, the major wound being a six inch one on the left side of her abdomen.

Smith was taken to the Emergency hospital and then to the jail ward of General Hospital where his stomach was pumped. The condition of both was considered gravely critical.

Their children, Mary Ellen, Frit Ella, Robinson, and three smaller children were left with a married daughter, Mrs. Ida Rae Green, 1612 N. Flower street, Duarte.

Hahn to Speak at Fremont Graduation

Councilman Kenneth Hahn will be the graduation speaker of Fremont evening high school on Thursday, June 19.

Hahn, who graduated from Fremont in the class of '38 and was president of the Hi-Y and treasurer of the Boys' League, is also a member of the cabinet of the Fremont Alumni association and active in alumni affairs.

The councilman will speak on "Opportunities and Challenges That the Graduates of 1952 Face."

Beating + a Shooting Equals Family Night

Twice within one night the family of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Posey, 1313 E. 99th street, was involved in two apparently unconnected violent incidents.

Posey complained to sheriff's deputies that Albert Laverne Wilson, 19, 430 Parmalee; Richard Brooks, 17, 4906 S. Budlong; and Allen Binion, 18, 5122 S. Hooper avenue, friends of his daughters, Lillian, 17, and Muriel, 16, attacked and beat him very severely Sunday night when he ordered them to leave his house.

When a half dozen shots were heard in the vicinity just after midnight Monday morning, Mrs. Mary Posey called and asked sheriffs to make an investigation.

They found John MacBrown, 33, 1961 E. 97th street, standing in front of the Posey house holding his left arm where he had been shot by Robert Boyce Thompson, 33, 1528 E. 101st street, in a fracas at 9911 Success avenue.

First Fracas

In the first incident, Posey reported that the three youths came to his house to visit Muriel and he heard her tell them to leave the house.

He went outside and observed them to be highly intoxicated and asked them to leave.

The boys became quite belligerent. Posey told them, "Leave here or I'll call the police!"

The trio began to strike Posey with their fists, knocking him to the ground, striking him with their fists and kicking him with their feet as he lay there.

Tale of Shooting

Details of the shooting as recounted by MacBrown were that there had been a crap game in the garage of the Success address. He listed players as Waddel, owner of the garage; Woody Woods, Ollie Wilson, Benny Surl, 37, and Pete Daniel, 35, addresses unknown. He said that during the proceedings Thompson started arguing with him over money.

MacBrown and Woods left to obtain the money to repay Thompson and as they reached the street he ran after them with an automatic revolver. When they were about eight feet apart he fired, after accusing MacBrown of being a bandit. As MacBrown ran, he said that Thompson fired four or five more shots, all missing their mark.

After sending MacBrown to the Tweedy Industrial Hospital deputy sheriffs went to Thompson's home address. A search of the premises, the back door of which was open, revealed six small children sleeping in various rooms. No one else was present. At 2:30 a.m. Thompson went into the station and gave himself up.

Eastside Home Gets Face Lift

Eastside Settlement House, a neighborhood rallying place at 1219 East Adams Boulevard, is fast taking on a "new look," thanks to the work of a special Clean-Up Committee, headed by Mrs. Ethel Holt, and fine community cooperation.

Latest gift is a paint job for the entire outside of the building, donated by Ted Christenson, realtor. Club Coterie is donating a paint job for the big conference room, and Kunin's Furniture Store has provided floor covering.

A new roof and plaster repairs have been made possible by an allotment from the Building Repair Fund of the Community Chest, which also supplies $8812 for the cost of operating the Settlement.

Other needs still unmet, and for which the Clean-Up Committee asks assistance are: Screens for the entire building; drapes for the conference room; floor covering for two rooms; paint job for eight rooms; kitchen utensils; folding chairs and tables, and any kind of sewing machines for two active sewing classes.

Serving on the Clean-Up Committee with Mrs. Holt are Mmes. Malinda M. Garland, Minnie B. Fareira, Katie Thomas, Luetisha Pennix, Myrtle Broach, Constance K. Tyler, Della M. Bell, Edith Williams, Sara Thompson, Eleanor McKinney, Messrs. Archie Herbert, Ted Christenson, Rev. J. C. Hawkins and Lonzie Jones.

she and Mrs. Pogue got to the house the door wouldn't open and that her aunt was probably using the wrong key.

While they were trying to get the door open Davenport came out of the house, next door with a bottle in his hand said, "I told you next time you called the cops I was going to kill you!"

Mrs. Pogue stated that when they arrived at her house Davenport started after her again and she told him, "I'm not going to run from you no more," and that she went into the bedroom and got the gun from the trunk.

When she came back on the porch and Davenport hit her with a two by four board and again threatened to cut her, she said.

She had the gun hidden behind her and he asked, "What are you hiding, a knife."

"You better not or I'll get my boy's gun and shoot your head off," Davenport answered.

At this point he advanced toword her in a threatening manner and his son, Huey Al Davenport, 20, 507 Rep. C, Camp Roberts, told him to leave her alone and attempted to hold him back.

Three Shots

Mrs. Pogue, the mother of two adult daughters, Mrs. Bernice Spells, Mrs. Dasie Adams, and one son, George, age 8, and a daughter, Ressie B. 11, stated that Davenport, the father of four sons, Ford, Charles, now in Korea; Galaway, 18, and Huey—was standing on the porch.

She said she pushed him back from her and fired several times hitting him in the left shoulder blade, back of left ear and in the left stomach.

Many buildings in the Los Angeles City schools constructed during an emergency building program for half-day sessions now are to be made permanent.

"How can small firms hold their own with a big company like you?"

Men who run small businesses have said such things as: "Some people think we're being frozen out. I'm doing well, but what about others? How can small firms hold their own with a big company like you?"

You can see the answer for yourself when you get a clear picture of the way business firms depend upon one another. Even a big, integrated company can't stand alone.

Our company is a number of parts that fit together like pieces of a jigsaw puzzle. At the center of things, we're refiners. Then to be sure of a supply of crude oil, we drill wells of our own. And to keep up the flow into our refineries and out again, we provide tankers, pipelines and trucks, and distributing organizations. But the territory is broad, the needs many.

Suppliers, competitors and customers—most of them small firms—are needed all around us. Other producers supply over 40% of the crude we need. And we buy thousands of other things, from pipe to paper clips—last year, more than $110,000,000 worth of goods and services from some 10,000 suppliers in the West alone.

There are many small refiners competing with us. In every field, there are distributors selling either our products for us or competitive lines. For example, here in the West—independent service stations selling our gasoline outnumber Company-owned stations about six to one . . . and stations selling other brands outnumber our own about 29 to one.

These small firms "hold their own" very well indeed; and through serving well, many of them will grow big. Standard goes right on working to gain new business—competing for your patronage by increasing efficiency of operation, improving products, keeping prices down. But it's clear that a vast number of small firms, too, always will be needed to complete the picture.

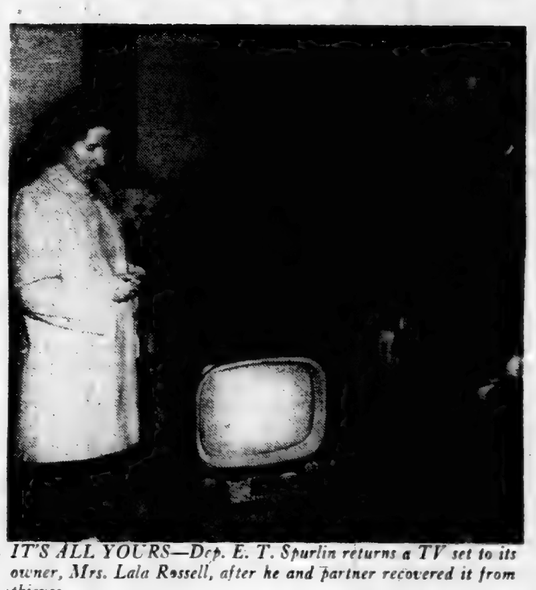
Dep. Sheriffs Foil Theft of Television Set

Want of the newest American near-necessity, a television set, brought Ignacio Flores, 23, of 1000 Firestone boulevard, to the receiving end of a bullet from the expertly aimed gun of Deputy Sheriff E. A. Raby early this week.



After four warning shots, the deputy halted the fleeing youth with a shot in the thigh.

Deputy Sheriff E. T. Spurlin accompanied Dep. Raby in the chase which began when Mrs. Lela Rossell of 1146 E. 87th street called to inform the sheriff's office that, after an evening absence from home, she returned to find that her door had been jimmied and the TV set stolen.

Stake-out Pays Off

Deps Spurlin and Raby searched the area and found the missing set in a nearby weed-covered lot and hid themselves there, certain that the thief or thieves would return for their loot.

It turned out to be "thieves," for Flores came back in about 30 minutes with a still unidentified companion who put on more speed than his buddy in the escape race and made it. He is still at large.

IT'S ALL YOURS—Dep. E. T. Spurlin returns a TV set to its owner, Mrs. Lala Rossell, after he and partner recovered it from thieves.

Adult School to Present Diplomas of the killing, he had asked her to go for a ride with him. She told of this being the first time he had asked her to go with him for a ride, and of her fear that she was going to be beaten and abused, or suffer some violent injury at the hands of Henry. Having this in mind, she pinned a scissors blade inside her coat and went with Henry and a friend, whom she called "Roscoe." They drove around from bar to bar, and at the last place they stopped, Henry threw her out of the door, and began beating her. As he drew back his fist to strike her again, she seized the scissors blade and thrust it forward.

The 13-year-old son of Mrs. Willis testified that he had seen Henry beat his mother many times with his hands and once with a stick.

—— Salute To The Youth Of Los Angeles ——

Graduation Day is one of the major milestones in life. It is the culmination of many hours, days, years of study and work. It means that a whole phase of effort has been successfully concluded—the end of one vitally important period of growth and most certainly, the beginning of a new one.

In the years to come, the students who are receiving their diplomas this summer of 1952 will look back upon this event as marking a day of achievement. Pictures of the graduating classes will be looked at frequently with pride. The photographs will recall a flood of memories of classmates, of friends and of school activities.

PROUD COMMUNITY REPRESENTATION

The Los Angeles community is proud of the accomplishments of the youth, as signified by Graduation Day. The CALIFORNIA EAGLE reflects that pride and heartily welcomes an opportunity to present the pictures of the graduation classes.

BROADWAY FEDERAL SAVINGS & LOAN ASSN.

This has been made possible through the wholehearted cooperation of the BROADWAY FEDERAL SAVINGS & LOAN ASSOCIATION of Los Angeles, 4329 S. Broadway, one of the most outstanding home-financing institutions in America's most rapidly advancing city; which proudly sponsors these pages, dedicated to the youth of our community.

HIGHLY SIGNIFICANT DEDICATION

It is only fitting and proper that such a dedication should be made by the BROADWAY FEDERAL SAVINGS & LOAN ASSOCIATION of Los Angeles; its proficient president, Dr. H. Claude Hudson, and its energetic manager, Richard R. Wright III.

Dr. Hudson continued: "We realize the importance to the community of these highly deserving young ladies and gentlemen. We wish to give them every assistance in their becoming responsible members of the city in which they live; taking pride in their honesty and integrity, their surroundings, churches, government and most certainly, developing the enivable habit of thrift and etsablishing themselves as respected home owners."

Bishop Jordan at Confab About African Missions

Bishop Frederick D. Jordan, recently elected from the pastorate of Ward African Methodist Episcopal church at W. 25th and Magnolia streets of Los Angeles, left the city Sunday night of this week to attend an interdenominational missionary study conference on problems in the African mission field.

The conference will be held on the campus of Wittenburg University at Springfield, Ohio. It will bring together executives, missionaries, and a number of African peoples; and will explore theological, social, political, and economic aspects of the Christian penetration of African culture.

Other interests which will claim the attention of Bishop Jordan while he is out of the city include the commencement exercises at Wilberforce University; a meeting of the Bishops in Council at Cincinnati; the meeting, under the chairmanship of Bishop D. Ormonde Walker, of the compilation committee from the recent general conference to frame the new legislation for inclusion in the discipline of the church.

In New York City, Bishop Jordan will confer with the secretary of the Home and Foreign Missionary Society of the church, Dr. L. L. Berry, and approve the plans for his passage to South Africa early in September. He will also witness the departure of the South African delegation to the general conference as they sail for home.

Upon his return to the city at the end of the month, Bishop Jordan will resume his supervision of Ward Church until the annual conference when Bishop Walker will assign a new pastor. This Sunday morning, Rev. J. A. Greene will deliver the sermon.

All Peoples Center Plans Huge Carnival

All Peoples Community Center Annual Carnival is to be held Saturday, June 7 from 3 p.m. to 12 midnight.

The center has the largest inter-racial program of its kind in Los Angeles. Located in a quadrille-4 area, it does not have the support of any particular service organizations and must depend on voluntary community help.

The carnival is important in that it will help to send youngsters to summer camp, help maintain the playground, repair audio-visual equipment, purchase supplies and sport equipment and train leaders for the coming year. Youngsters help themselves by raising funds at this carnival for their activities. Equally as important is the fact that this is a most effective way of bringing together in one great cooperative effort all community supporters to focus attention on this great work of brotherhood.

In the past six years the center has gained the support of such organizations as the Elks Foundation, the Pico-Robertson Lions Club, AFL and CIO unions and such business establishments as Ralph's, Olson's, Helms, Van de Kamps, Arden Farms and Thrifties.

Spiritualists to Meet in Chicago

CHICAGO—One thousand delegates, represent 100 churches in ten states and the British West Indies, will gather to attend sessions of the 27th Congress of the Metropolitan Spiritual Churches of Christ, it was announced by Metropolitan's national president, the Rev. Clarence H. Cobbs. The Congress will convene from July 22 through July 25 at the First Church of Deliverance, 4315 S. Wabash avenue, of which Rev. Cobbs is pastor.

Leaders feel that a large segment of the public tends to scorn the spiritual church; to feel that it deals in witchcraft, ghosts, and the sale of charms. The Congress will take steps to acquaint the public with the spiritual church.

Undies to caress your body, enticingly fashioned—oh yes—FORMFIT BRAS the loveliest built-up on the market.

Southern Calif. Congressmen Records Rated by NAACP

By WENDELL GREEN, Political Editor

Two Southern California congressmen who face major party opposition at the polls this fall have three bad votes and one has a perfect record on the same three test issues, a survey made by the Washington bureau of the NAACP shows.

Those with three bad votes are Thomas F. Werdel of Bakersfield, and Ernest Bramlett of Santa Barbara, both Republicans, and the one with a perfect vote is Cecil King, Democrat, of the 17th District.

The three test issues chosen by the NAACP are votes on FEPC, aid to backward areas under the Point Four program, and the Rankin-backed proposals for a Jim Crow veterans hospital. Bramblett and Werdel voted against FEPC, against the Point Four aid and for the Jim Crow hospital. King voted in a directly opposite fashion.

Patrick Hillings, Republican, of the 12th District, voted against segregation in the hospital but was not in Congress when the other votes were taken. He will be opposed by Woodrow Wilson Sayre in November. Harry Sheppard, Democrat, of the 21st District, was for FEPC, was absent on the Point Four vote, and voted against the segregated hospital.

Donald Jackson, Republican, of the 16th District, which includes the beach areas, got a bad mark for opposition to the FEPC but voted right on Point Four and hospital segregation. He will be opposed by Jerry Harter, an attorney, in the fall election.

Laud Granger Social Workers

CHICAGO—When the 79th annual meeting of the National Conference of Social Work ended its sessions here May 30, with nearly 8,000 delegates in attendance, the organization not only set a record with the second largest conference in its history, but also had a very fruitful year under the presidency of Lester B. Granger, executive director of the National Urban League.

Traditionally, the president of the Conference serves only one year, but Granger rendered service in the post for nearly two years. Most of 1950, as first vice-president, he was acting president in the absence of Dr. Martha Eliot, president, who was then on a mission in Europe. He became president in his own right for the 1951 term, the first Negro elected to head what is probably the largest professional organization of its kind in the world, and representing hundreds of social agencies and more than 100,000 social workers.

The meeting also set a record for attendance and participation of Negroes in the conference. Approximately 300 came from all sections of the country and were active in all sessions. Just 30 years ago only a handful of Negroes were in the social work profession, and most of them with the Urban League movement throughout the country.

Brown Urges Police to Protect Civil Rights

Racial tensions and racial riots can be reduced by intelligent, preventive measures on the part of peace officers, Atty. Gen. Edmund G. Brown declared in a booklet, "Guide to Race Relations for Peace Officers," released this week.

Brown stated that racial tensions were on the increase in California. This is mainly due, he declared, to the increase in California of minority populations.

"Job opportunities," he wrote, "for members of our minority groups, bring about keen competition among their members for the necessities of life, such as housing, transportation, consumer goods, and recreational facilities. This competition can easily lead to unpleasant antagonisms between racial, national and religious groups."

Most urgently required, according to the attorney general, is strict neutrality on the part of peace officers when dealing with racial tensions.

"The peace officer," wrote Brown, "must show by his own conduct, that he intends to protect the civil rights of every citizen. The peace officer must not only understand the basic legal principles which constitute our civil rights, but he should thoroughly believe in them, and thereby assure strict impartiality in applying these principles to police functions.

"Preventive action," he stated, "should take the form of police officers studying in advance, antagonisms existing in specific localities within their jurisdiction —then correcting such causes of these tensions before the outbreaks occur.

"In the field of prevention," Brown stated, "liaison should be maintained with the housing, welfare, fire, health, and building departments of the community, as well as with the entire city and county administration."

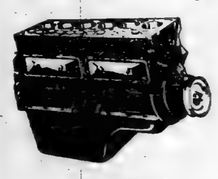
Top 880 Field For AAU Meet

The greatest 800-meter field in American history yesterday was assured for the National A.A.U. Track Championships, set Friday night, June 20, and Saturday afternoon, June 21, in Long Beach Veterans' Stadium.



Mal Whitfield, John Barnes, Don Gehrmann, Roscoe Browne, Stacey Siders, Henry Cryer and Bob Chambers will be in the field, Chairman A. Milton Fish said.

Olympic champion and co-holder of the world record, Marvelous Mal Whitfield will be gunning for his fourth straight National AAU title. He'll be the favorite, too, having run a sensational 1m. 49.6s. 880 in the Compton Invitational without benefit of much competition.

Barnes, lean Occidental star, has a brilliant 1m. 48.2s. 800-meter relay lap to his credit. He had America's best half mile of 1951—a sizzling 1m. 50.1s.

Browne was runner-up to Whitfield for the National AAU title in 1951 and has a 1m. 49.3s. 800 time.

Last Thursday night we walked around the corner to Chester Parks' house for a little visit. It just happened to be around seven o'clock and it just happened that Chester had a televisiaon set and it just happened that the Walcott-Charles fight was just coming on. All mere coincidence, you know, but that is how we managed to see the big frame.

When the referee climbed into the ring, we thought the machine had gone bad or dust had collected on the screen, but a swipe of the dust cloth didn't change the image that the set was giving off. Yes, it was a Negro referee, and he was refereeing a world's heavyweight championship bout, and when he was introduced as Zack Clayton our memery was jogged and a closer look revealed him to be a former Globetrotter.

Thus with a cup of tea, we settled back to watch double history in the making as Charles would win back his title, and Clayton would be the third man in the ring.

After one minute of the first round, we began to wish that so much history wasn't being made that night. Clayton not only refereed like a character out of Amos and Andy (he sounded just like Kingfish), but was so obviously biased against Charles that if Walcott had been a grey boy and Clayton a "cauc" kid, we would have hauled out the trusty six-shooter and shot a hole in the televiison.

Old pro Parks and your corner's expert agreed that Charles won the fight going away. When the television blinked out at the crucial moment, we didnt' bother to turn on the radio as we were certain of the results. We felt that Charles had the distinct advantage despite the referee's harrassing tactics and stopping Charles from fighting inside. Charles didn't put up much of a fight, and was way overly cautious, but Walcott did less in our book.

When the decision was announced we were astounded. We just knew that the television was cut off because there were riots all over the place due to the raw decision.

"How can they pull a thing like that before millions of televiewers?" Chester and I exclaimed simultaneously. Then the picture suddenly cleared up for me.

The last six world championship fights have been between Negroes. Walcott is an IBC man while Charles is considered a no-color champ. All Walcott had to do was stay on his feet for 15 rounds, with the able help of Clayton, and the decision was his. Clayton was nothing but window dressing, and he overdid the act.

I happened to remember that Philadelphia is the most corrupt city in America. Fourth largest city in America behind Los Angeles, the city is so corrupt that they don't have decent sewage disposal. What's a smelly fight among all that stink? Mortgage the home and bet it all on Marciano, if you can find a sucker.

Jimmy "Champ" Nelson, owner of the Dunbar hotel put it right when pinned on his wall after the Salas-Carter fight the remark, "Joe Louis made it possible for Negro fighters not to have to throw fights. He's gone and they're all back in business again." Sad, but apparently true.

Help Wanted

There is a little girl in our midst, who deserves a lot of credit and needs a lot of help. Her name is Marguerite Phillips Edwards, and she is really something to see on a track. She has aspirations to catch the boat for Helsinki this summer, and despite tremendous handicaps, she is making a determined try.

She is an excellent sprinter, and with a little coaching, she could pick up the marbles in all the sprints, come Olympic time. At present she is working eight a day, and coming home to train in an alley in back of her house. No diet, no coaching or anything. She went up to the AAU meet at Stockton a couple of weeks ago and took second in the 50, 100, and 200 meters and a second in the baseball throw. Last Saturday in the Southern California AAU meet, running on an injured leg she hurt by stepping on a stone in the alley behind her house trying to get in shape, she won the 50 meter and took a second in the 100 and 200 meters.

Genial Bill Lacefield of Ross Snyder playground has agreed to take her training in hand.

She wants to compete in the AAU finals in Waterbury, Conn., and the Olympic trials in the east on July 4. All she needs is her fare.

She was discovered and developed by the Newton Daps counselors and naturally the boys at Newton are anxious to see her get a chance at the blue chips.

Say, "Black Dot" McGee, Claude Fergerson, Rainey Shaw, Sonny Howard, "Honey" Murphy, Tricky Davis and the other "sportsmen" in town, how about showing your sporting blood and putting something in the pot so this former Jeff high student can get the chance of a lifetime? Just mail all donations to Abie's Corner and we'll duly publish the same.

ON THE TURF

By GEORGE RAMSEY

HOLLYWOOD PARK — Little Request, the son of requested-Little Wichita, just breezed home in the $20,000 added stakes last Saturday and proved to be one of the best two-year-olds seen in these parts in many years. On May 22nd, the chestnut colt set a new track record of 57 1/5 for the five furlongs and could have broken the world's record if he had been pushed. In winning the Haggain Stakes he ran the same distance in 58 seconds flat. Winning by three lengths and paying the shortest price of the season, $2.30, 2.10 .210 across the board.

Calumet Farms A Gleam captured the $25,000 Hollywood Oaks at one mile and a sixteenth, besting Louis B. Mayer's $100,000 beauty Princess Lygia and Tonga, recent winner of the Sea Breeze Stakes. Time of the winner was 1:42 3/5. Her margin of victory was two lengths. She paid $5.20.

Two stakes are slated for this Saturday, June 14th. The major event will be the Debonair Stakes in which sophomores will go seven furlongs. This will lead up to the Cinema Handicap at one mile and a sixteenth, and the $50,000 Westerner at one mile and a quarter. Secondary on Saturday's program will be the Vanity Handicap for fillies and mares.

At one mile and a sixteenth, it carries an added value of $25,000 added. Such horses as Haltafire, Horsetrader-Ed, Stranglehold and Dixie Lad, who have shown excellent advantage this summer, are expected to start in the Debonair Stakes. Calumet Farms holds a strong hand in the Vanity; they can draw from A Gleam, Two Lea and Wistful. The latter has shown vast improvement in her hummer campaign.

OLYMPIC TIMBER—Timber-topping Billie Anderson leads the nation's top high hurdlers to the tap in the Compton relays in the fast time of 13.9. Anderson served notice on the most brilliant hurdle field in history that he intends to catch the boat for Helsinki. Anderson, who is in the army, will be seen next in the National AAU Track Championships to be held June 20 and 21 in the Long Beach Veteran's Stadium.

TWO BIG HAMS—Television actors Jersy Joe Walcott and referee Zach Clayton pose for the cameras after putting on one of the greatest acts in the history of television. Clayton stole the show from Walcott with the constant refrain, "keep 'em up." Walcott got even by stealing the fight with the aid of Clayton and some Philadelphia politicians.

LOCAL GIRL HAS EYES SET ON OLYMPIC GAMES

Marguerite Phillips Edwards is one gal who has her mind set on a trip to Helsinki come Olympic Games time, and come 'ell or high water, she intends to be on the boat when it sails.

Determined Mrs. Edwards took a trip to Stockton last week to compete in the Women's West Coast finals of the AAU at College of the Pacific. She ran second in the 50, second in the 100, and second in the 220. She also took second in the baseball throw, and anchored the winning relay team.

Mrs. Edwards first discovered she could run while participating in a DAP track meet. While a student at Jefferson high, she ran in the Coliseum Relays in 1949 and 1950, placing third in the 100 meters.

Upon graduation from high school, she joined the Air Forces and recently completed 18 months of service.

"I went up to Stockton on my own because I wanted to compete, I don't have any place to train, nor anyone to coach me, but I'm determined to participate in as many meets as I can."

Mrs. Edwards, who lives at 4060 Long Beach avenue, has a civil service job with the Federal government.

"I want to participate in the Nationals in Waterbury, Conn., June 27 and 28. I've arranged for a two week leave from my job; now all I need is a sponsor," laughed Mrs. Edwards. She also plans to compete in the Olympic Finals in Harrisburg, Penn., July 4.

it's DAD'S Day

Thousands will pay tribute to a holiday which leaped into popularity only a few years ago! Joining in the celebration, the Eagle is honoring a group of men who have recently been of news value in various sections of the newspaper. The holiday is Father's Day and the men are dear old dads.

Each of the eight men pictured is an illustrious citizen of the community. All have children they love, care and for whom they provide. The group is a representative one, covering fathers in many occupations and professions.

All are familiar for their public interest in child welfare and their personal interest in their own offsprings.

So, let's remember all the things that Dad can be in 1952. He can be a just-out-of-college man . . . he can be a retired businessman . . . he can be an Air Force captain, and many other things.

MAKE IT a wonderful day for Dad! Offer gifts of finery, an extra special Father's Day dinner, and all the attention we can give him, let's show him how much he means to us . . . because we love the way he says "no" when he means maybe . . . says "maybe" when he means yes . . . because he always has the solution to our problems no matter how hopeless they seem to us . . . and because . . . well, he's OUR DAD.

Architect and Wife Announce Norma Williams' Engagement

Two huge heart-shaped cakes entwined by rings informed 50 guests of the engagement of Norma Lucille Williams to Frank Harvey at an elaborate luncheon last Saturday.

The announcement was made in the modern home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul R. Williams, 1690 Victoria road, parents of the bride-to-be. Williams is the nationally famous architect.

White tropical flowers and exquisite china, resplendent in gold etchings created the ornate decorations.

Novel Cake

The surprise occurred when the novel cakes were served as dessert. Individual ice cream molds formed in engagement rings added a delectable touch to the featured serving.

Lovely Norma is a senior at University of Southern California where she is majoring in architecture. She has achieved distinction as an interior decorator and color consultant in many of the swank homes and hotels of Los Angeles, Hollywood and Palm Springs. Miss Williams is widely traveled, having visited many European countries recently in the furtherance of her interest in classic architecture.

Little Linda is the daughter of Sergeant and Mrs. Earl Griffin Jr. of 1234 Hilford avenue, Compton. Her father is serving in Korea and she is under the care of her mother, Barbara.

The tiny hostess was as lovely as a picture wearing imported hand embroidered white organdy on a baby blue organdy dress. Blue satin bow topped her shiny curls and white baby doll slippers completed the ensemble.

HAL MILLER and KERRY JACKSON

As final exams are coming to a close, the set found little time to come from under the dark study blanket and make with some jollies. Over the past weekend some crept away and found refuge in some of the whails.

These we noticed, 'cause neither of us had any business out of the books.

The big affair, beyond any doubt, was that one given by and in honor of Tony Sheen, who leaves this week for Unc Sam's Army. It can be truthfully said that the set showed up in full force to see the master of good times of fto his newly acquired occupation.

Sipping cocktails mixed by Billy Benefield, famous barman, was considered quite De Lux by such persons as Marvelle Finks, Jimmy Dougherty, Pete O'Garro, Thomas Greene, Willy Collins, Louise Ateman, Jean Bugg and Jackie Price.

Shooting a losing stick at ten cushion billiards was most popular among such pool sharks as Howard Morehead, Kenny Hill, Ted Schaffer, Wardell Moss and Reggie Boyd. Winding up behind the eight ball (flat broke) were yours trulys, Bob O'Reilly, Lorenzo Wallace, Steve Duncan and Don Hamilton.

Not wishing to miss one moment away from their precious female companions Walt Smith, Buster Brannon and Bud Conner shyed away from the poolery to the delight of Dot Cain, Sandra Shields and Joan Arnold, respectively.

Everybody partied; much goofing was done by the married faction (we dare not say just who). Of course we must make the exception of a few, namely, "Toreup" Frank Braxton (SERIOUS NOSE) and spouse Betty. Hurrah for the ungoofables.

Weighing the probabilities of being carried home or not even getting there were Dave Reed, Walt Norwood, Shirley Spencer and Dion Marrow, who lightened up on the bitter vetches.

They're Talking About . . .

The Red Hut waitress who was shown the way of the open road by a well known playboy who's past master (wife) is suing for divorce. Percy McIntyre and Al Glover, who've been seen out more than once in past weeks.

The invitation that Zoe Wise didn't receive to the Arthur Lewis and Maxine Kennedy rites (and they parted on good terms). . . . Joan Moore occupying the strategic seat between Bob Williams and the sox-line . . .

A certain Miss Priss, who got turned on (or out) by a well known jelly lipper. He, the cat with the bad pad, is currently looking for a more worldly wise Miss who won't crack up under the strain of modern happenings.

We're all for her, but we don't think it's right that she kiss and tell. (After all, it might ruin his reputation of being a conventional lover.) Ha! Ha! . . .

Hear Ye, Hear Ye . . .

Local lip grippers and thigh spies are invited to attend the annual Scrollers Carnival and Dance at the Kappa Kastle, on the twenty-eighth of June.

On the other hand . . .

We have fingers—that point to the Loretta Lee-Bill Miller affair. The Ace javalin hurler is throwing much talk in the general direction of this lovely deb.

Charlie Parker blew to the delight of Peggy Terry and Bruce Walker while green-eyed Bill Thayer eyed PST from behind a bar stool.

Beverly Winston is as happy as a lark since she received the news that Doc Bill Beck is arriving from Meharry this week.

Well, it finally happened to George and Beverly Gopaul (nee Bev Crump). They were married June 8th in Phoenix. Here's hoping the best to the popular young couple who plan to reside here in L.A.

Marvelle McDow and George Bernhart aren't long for this world (as far as marriage is concerned). They plan it for some time this fall.

Wonder what to call this; a sneak, creep or what? Tony Sheen took Mary Vandango to her graduation and later out to dinner???

This is just about goodby to Leroy Matthews, who is making the rounds telling his harem that it won't be long 'fore he joins ranks with the servicemen.

Three cheers to the Keiser family who add one more to roll call as of last week. Mr. and Mrs. Lou Keiser (Bonnie Maxwell) are the proud parents of an eight pound baby girl.

Seems as though Joan Southerns' abrupt change from G. B. to B. E. is popular conversation right about now. People can't figure out just why. We still note the coolness of things between the terrible G. B. and herself. And also that major plans are still in operation.

We weren't surprised to learn that Herald Garrison and Janice Elliot had tied the knot. This seems to be quite the appropriate thing to do (this month). Louise Ateman, who has been maid of honor at more than her share of weddings, backed the lovely bride at the quiet ceremony.

Joe Rouzon is back in town on leave from the USAF and can be seen in the vicinity of Hazel's Hot Dog stand any time. We can't tell whether it's Hazel or some of those delicious burgers or dogs he's after. Either one is all right, but those burgers are pretty nice.

Look out, the Hounds are around.

BILL SMALLWOOD

The senior Edward Atkinsons used the Wilfandel facilities Sunday-at-six to assemble friends of theirs and the junior Atkinsons thus underscoring the approaching departure for Europe of the latter. Sharing the underscoring were Dr. and Mrs. Walter Davis, also Europe bound.

They had to be there by the morning of the 13th. Townsfolk there in quite a social tizzy with anticipation since many DeeCee coast to coast travelers have shared at some time or other Williams hospitality while here.

Joe Makel took a Chicago plane Sunday noon. He goes then to N'Orleans. En route home the long way: The motoring Stafford Lotts, back east.

Due next month for a visit: The Edwin Coateses (Helena Harper and their teen age son. The Herbert Ducketts (Leola) of St. Loo are moving to town n July, did you know?

Billy Lane off on another business punket on the 1st. While unfounded as rumors usually are we nevertheless hear tell hardy perennial Dr. John Robinson just may make it back again to the altar. In town last week from SF: Alec Forbes who as an officer attended the musicians confab in Santa Barbara.

That was former Angeleno Decarol Slaughter Chism and her GI husband in town last week for a hot minute. He's off to Spain on army assignment and she is en route to join him there for three years, temperament and all. They took a new car along.

Eastbound this summer: Lenore Winkler, to DeeCee. First time in ten years, she says. The Homer Smiths and their youngest son got off home to Detroit after an enjoyable fling here.

Charm Asset— How to Use It

By Lou Swart

One of the most talked of charm assets is clothes, but some women just don't seem to understand when to wear what and what to wear when. So let's think about it a little:

Begin lounging at home in your free-flowing duster, lounging pajamas or robe, or just plain dress. Retire after that delightful bath and toilet care, in your pajamas—not the lounging ones, but your sleeping ones of nylon or soft silk, or the gown of your choice.

Morning finds you ready for breakfast or ready to prepare it in that simple house dress or hoover apron, something easy to slip into following the proper bath chores.

Off to the job—which usually calls for business attire (unless you are in the theatrical field)—simple tailored, semi-tailored dress, suit or skirt and blouse with few accessories, comfortable, sensible-looking shoes. Your hair should be sensibly styled, and be sure your hair, clothes, shoes and stockings are always clean. As to nail polish, use your own good judgment. The same goes for make-up and polish, use your own good judgment. The same goes for make-up and perfume. Avoid being overdressed.

Perhaps your job calls for social activities of some sort. In that case, your mode of dress need not be quite so conservative. You could enjoy dresses, suits, skirts and blouses that are a little "dressy" but study yourself to see what you can wear best.

If you are required to wear uniforms on your job, keep enough of them so that you may look clean and fresh at all times.

LILLIAN FENTRESS ATTENDED CONFAB

Mrs. Lillian J. Fentress attended the YWCA national convention which convened in Chicago as voting delegate of the Los Angeles YWCA. Other Woodlawn delegates also attending were Mmes. Bernice Nance, young adult committee chairman; Anastasia Brooks, resident secretary.

Singers, Dancers, Entertainers Are Urged to Take Part in Big YWCA Benefit at Philharmonic

If you can sing, dance, play an instrument, do acrobatics, recite, or otherwise entertain in any fashion, you will want to be part of the biggest show of local talent ever to be staged in Los Angeles. The panorama of talent will be under the direction of Mrs. A. C. Harris Bilbrew as a YWCA benefit.

The charm, ability and skill of the director, Mrs. Bilbrew, is well known from coast to coast. Using these assets, she plans that this presentation will equal if not surpass the "Dawning of a New Day" staged at the Academy of Music, which was so highly acclaimed and graciously received in Philadelphia from where she recently hails.

Mrs. Bilbrew is thus offering an opportunity for discovering local talent and is giving the women of Los Angeles a chance to develop and display there talent and charm.

It is her desire that this affair will cut across all barriers of race, color, creeds and religion; that it will provide opportunities for fellowship together and at the same time make people work together in support of a worthy cause. It was therefore very natural that such a benefit should be put on in the name of the YWCA.

The date for the show has been set for early February to allow for sufficient preparation and the Philharmonic Auditorium has been selected for the place of presentation.

Auditions are beginning now at South Park Recreation center, 51st and San Pedro. The first will be held on Friday, June 13, from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. Mrs. Bilbrew and her associates will be on hand to greet you.

Mrs. Bernice Flennoy and Mrs. Estella Williams, hostesses, saw to it that every one had a wonderful time. The evening was spent dancing to the very latest records and sipping cocktails. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Edna Bowdy, 8032 Hooper ave.

Leisure Into Lives

California's orange juice canners squeezed 1,800 years of leisure into the lives of American homemakers last year.

The savings represent the difference in time required in the home to prepare for serving canned orange juice, both frozen concentrated and regular strength, and for juicing fresh oranges.

The American Can Company, supplier of containers, which started it all in the 1920s by developing the first successful method for canning California orange juice, recently ran an experiment on time-saving in its home economics kitchen.

The experiment revealed that on the average it takes about one and three quarters minutes to open a six-ounce can of frozen juice, add water and mix it well. It takes about 10 minutes with a hand reamer to juice the nine oranges that produce an equivalent amounto f juice.

Brush Up Yourself

NEW YORK, (GLOBAL)—How many brushes do you own? You actually need eight, if you're to be absolutely proficient in the daily care of your clothes and body.

A woman is positively lost in her daily bath without a bath brush—a long-handled one to reach those out-of-the-way regions of her back. The cleanliness and constant grooming of the back is important in these days of low cut gowns and bathing suits. Little need be said about the all-important hair brush. No woman can be without it.

The ravages of lint and dust upon clothing is too well known. You can save your clothes (and money too) by giving your apparel a brisk once-over with your clothes brush before and after putting them in the closet. The entire effect of a chic or expensive outfit can be marred by dull-looking, unshined shoes. Don't you be guilty—use your shoe brush.

Unless you can afford a manicurist every day, do take a few moments to put your nail brush to use. Needless to say, your tooth brush is the most important of them all. A woman with beautiful teeth has half the battle won.

For that smooth, natural look about the eyes, do select a mascara brush especially suited to you as to size and stiffness. Take an extra minute and be sure you apply your mascara evenly and sparingly. Whether you press or paint your lipstick on, you should employ a lipstick brush to want to kiss those lips if they have that natural look.

Mabel Ginns Hosts Sisters

The Twelve Big Sisters were the guests of Mrs. Mabel Ginn, director of the Big Sisters League, for their May meeting.

Mrs. Mary Hunt, supervisor of the Court of Domestic Relations, met with the groups and acquainted the League with some of the work done and being done by the Twelve Big Sisters.

In addition to other business, Mrs. Thelma Hardwick presented a report on the "Day in Hawaii" breakfast and dinner to be given Sunday, June 22, at the Wilfandel Club House. Reservations are now being taken for this event which promises to offer a gay time for all. Reservations are $1.25 for either breakfast or dinner. Service will start at 9 a.m. and last throughout the day. For reservations call either REpublic 3-1295, REpublic 2-2291 or LOrraine 9-7836.

Women's Auxiliary Has Spectacular Pageant, "America the Melting Pot"

By JANICE EDWARDS

The Women's Auxiliary to the Medical, Dental, and Pharmaceutical Association of Southern California gave a spectacular pageant and fashionette recently in the beautifully decorated Elks' auditorium.

Carrying out the theme, "America, the Melting Pot," the dazzling pageant began with the presentation of Dr. C. B. Sanford, portraying the Big Indian Chief! This was the surprise all of Los Angeles was waiting for.

The pageant told this story:

Over 330 years ago, our America was virgin wilderness, peopled only by the savage Indians who had not advanced beyond primative argiculture. In that setting Indian Chief, his Indian maidens, played by Maggie Rawls and Georgia Hardiman, with their tribesmen were living peaceably until this land was discovered and people ventured from the old world to the new America.

Nationalities

Those who came and represented various nationalities and countries were: Gloria Mitchell, the lady from Spain; Ruth Estwick, Chinese girl; Janice Edwards, Egyptian princess; Zerelda Sealey, portraying the English (a Pilgrim); Edith Bailey, French dancer; Dr. Gabriel Ukeagbec, whose home is Nigeria, Africa, wore authenic costume; Dr. E. E. Wyndon, Arabic sheik; Sylvia Crompton, wearing Japanese kimono sent to her by her sister and brother-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. Ronald Williams, now in Japan; Thelma Tinker, Hawaiian hula dancer; Evelyn Griffin from romantic Italy; from Mexico came Marie Jenkins; Adora Ulasi wearing authentic African costume; Eva Mack, an American but representing Arabia; and Mary Alice Johnson, representing the Statue of Liberty.

Play Togs

Part two of the show featured bathing suits, play togs, patio dresses, spectator sports, suits and street dresses, after 5 dresses and evening gowns.

It was a feast for the eyes of the hundreds attending the fabulous fashionetta as these models paraded the styles: Richmona Dunn, Gloria Jean Taylor, Janice Shelby, Sandra Shields, Joan Arnold, Jayda Garland, Hattie Johnson, Katherine Jamison and daughter, Laurella, Lucille Berryman, Dr. Lucille Fisk, Zerelda Sealey, Mary Alice Johnson, Sylvia Crompton, Thelma Houston, Ruth Smith, Vernice Spann and Juanita Marshall.

Thelma Henley modeled the most unique hats designed by Beulah Johnson. Rosa Glenn, clever designer and promising entertainer who has modeled for the Auxiliary's fashion show for several years, again modeled many of her smart creations.

Knit Garments

Louise Nicholson, noted for her beautifully hand knit garments, put on a view of several dresses and suits.

Words are inadequate to describe the exquisiteness of mink capes and coats displayed through the courtesy of Kaufman's Fur salon on Wilshire blvd.

Lydia McCain, chairman of refreshments, was assisted by Laura Smitherman, Margaret Moore and Gevena Wallace.

Red and white gladiolus, blue dephiniums, tall palms and moss lawns transformed the auditorium into a lovely garden. These beautiful decorations were by Cookie the florist; lighting effect, James Brown, and music by the Smith Brothers.

Bettye Howard was mistress of ceremonies for the gala affair.

Fashion show committees were Dr. Geraldine Woods, president of organization; who could not attend because of illness; Mrs. Authur Mitchell, Ways and Means chairman; Mrs. Calvin Edwards, publicity chairman; and Mrs. William Cockrell, program chairman and producer-director of Fashionetta.

Committees

The following Mesdames worked on Mrs. Cockrell's Committee: Lois Carr, Zerelda Sealey, Maggie Rawls, Paula Giddings, Lydia McCain, Delores Johnson, Emily Portwig, Lillian Sanford, Gloria Mitchell, Dr. Lucille Fisk, Rosetta Cooper, Marie Frederick, and Janice Edwards.

This project enables the Auxiliary to fulfill its charitable obligations and pledges to the Braille Institute of America, Y.W.C.A., Red Cross, Community Chest, Sister Kenny Fund, and the United Negro College Fund.

Mothers Honored by Symphony Chapter

Something excitingly different was given by Symphony Chapter Number 43, O.E.S., Mable Prince, Worthy Matron.

The General Won't Do

In the two press conferences that he has held, General Eisenhower has revealed himself as either a man who is remarkably ill informed about, or wholly impervious to, the problems involving race relations in the nation. In either event he hardly sizes up as the man to occupy the White House at this critical time in history when race relations play so large a part in both domestic and foreign affairs.

Asked about FEPC in Abilene, he said that he did "not believe that we can cure all of the evils in men's hearts by law" and that he thinks "we can do more by leadership and getting the States to do it than to make it a compulsory federal thing." At Washington he said that he thought a compulsory FEPC "will intensify rather than ameliorate the problem" and again voiced a plea against penetration of federal government into "areas that have been reserved to the states and to the people."

A reporter later asked what he would do to influence the states to take action on fair employment, and he said vaguely that he would "emphasize any such thought in the state that doesn't have such laws" and then put strings on that answer by saying that he wanted to "repeat again and again my fear that in law itself we do not find the answer always . . . I really believe that each state should get this thing on its books in such a way so that each of its citizens may understand exactly where it is—where he is."

The harsh truth about that hodgepodge of comment on FEPC is that it is unintelligible and that about all the general has revealed is that he wants to shunt the problem back to the states where he must know that no action will be taken in southern and border states and that he doubts that law can solve the problem—a doubt that has long since been removed by the workability of the legislation in New York and New Jersey, to take two examples.

At Abilene, the general indicated that he was opposed to federal aid to education except in the limited instance in which a state could not support its own system. That, he said, was because of the cost. By the time he had got to Washington a reporter asked him what he thought about the waste involved in segregated school systems, and he made the remarkable statement that he "did not even know there was an additional cost involved." That from a man who had been president of Columbia University is a remarkable statement and reflects the fact that Eisenhower hasn't paid any attention at all to the Jim Crow system.

Asked about the inclusion of a Negro in his cabinet, possibly Dr. Ralph Bunche, he gave the usual political answer about the best man for the best place and patronized Dr. Bunche by saying that Columbia had given him a degree under the Eisenhower regime.

He was asked about his views on a cloture rule to limit debate in the Senate and thus prevent filibusters that have always buried civil rights bills. His answer was the naive one that he didn't know what he would do and that he thought the Senate had done a good job of making its own rules for a century and three-quarters. That answer indicates that Eisenhower wouldn't be of much help in that quarter.

The picture that the general has provided of himself is that of a man who has no positive attitude on civil rights and who is willing to go along with the states righters out of the hopes of getting Dixie votes. That is about par for him, however, because he was just as full of weaseling words when he was asked about racial segregation in the armed forces during a Senate inquiry several years ago.

It is plain enough that Negro voters had better shop elsewhere. General Eisenhower, Republican candidate for President, has much less to offer them than even Senator Robert Taft and much less than Gov. Earl Warren.

No Election Gains

Negro voters didn't make any significant gains as a result of last Tuesday's primary elections. Assemblyman Augustus F. Hawkins was returned to the state legislature but other major political party office seekers lost their races for nomination.

Kenny Washington ran a bad third in the race for supervisor in the second district despite its large number of Negro voters. Rayfield Lundy lost both the Democratic and Republican nominations in the 55th assembly district where Negroes could have, and should have nominated him. Frederick M. Roberts got only a smattering of votes in his congressional race in the 26th district.

There is no single reason for any of these results. Washington lacked funds to wage a full-scale campaign and was never successful in bringing home the fact to Negro voters that he was the same Kenny Washington they had known as an athlete. Lundy had the misfortune to run as a Republican in an overwhelmingly Democratic district and his opponent, Vernon Kilpatrick, had the advantage of being listed as the incumbent. Too many losses over the past decade have robbed Roberts of any real appeal to the voters.

These failures do not detract from the necessity for Negro representation in government. As we have said many times, it is impossible for a Negro to win nomination and election to political office in a California district in which Negroes are not in the majority or near majority. That being so, Negroes should exert their power and nominate Negro office seekers where they hold power.

As matters now stand, Negroes can, and should, elect Negroes to office in the 55th and 63rd assembly districts, in the second supervisorial district and in the seventh, eighth, and tenth councilmanic districts. None of those ends can be attained unless there is long-range planning and pooling of resources. Haphazard, last-minute campaigns almost always end in defeat.

The battle for representation can't be won either if we insist on perfection in every Negro candidate. There are few perfect individuals anywhere and a casual inspection of those who do hold office will reveal that many of them fall far short of that ideal. We do need good and competent candidates but we can't find the unity we need unless all of us are willing to make some practical compromises both as to party and as to qualifications.

Federal Action Needed

Conviction of Cicero officials in federal court for their part in last summer's housing riots points up the reason for the eprsistent insistence on federal action in the sphere of civil rights. State law enforcement officials permitted these culprits to get off without any punishment whatsoever.

The Cicero convictions indicate that where there is a will to seek out and punish law violators there is a way. In light of the fiasco in the local Dunsmuir bombing case it might be well for the Los Angeles branch of the NAACP to look around and see whether or not United States Dist. Atty. Binns can't be interested in the case. It is plain now that if we depend on our own state officers nothing will be done.

Lester B. Granger's

Battle Axe & Bread

CHICAGO, Ill.—Alan Valentine, president of the Committee for a Free Asia, was one of the keynote speakers at the opening session of the 79th meeting of the National Conference of Social Work which came together in Chicago for the first time since 1893. His was a brilliant address, full of poetic warmth mixed with cold, unassailable logic, that offered dramatic evidence of the fact that in the sense of international understanding America is at least attaining maturity.

In the 59 years that have elapsed since the National Conference last met in this city on the shores of Lake Michigan, much has happened in the way of interracial and international understanding. During the interval Chicago has had one bloody race riot that is still shiveringly remembered, and has narrowly escaped several others. Its Negro population has grown and multiplied until it is larger than the total populations of all but a handful of American cities. Negroes have moved from domestic and common labor jobs into skilled and technical operations of the city's biggest industries. Housing problems have become unbearably intense. Corrupt politics has moved in on "the race question," and made it more confused than ever. Racial problems have appeared in nearly every phase of city life; and sometimes seem to become more insoluble as more and more people attack them.

In America 59 years ago, there was no "Asiatic problem" in this country. On the contrary, the United States presented a problem to Asia. Orientals here were generally disregarded—except to be remembered as queer-looking people who were handy on the West Coast for farming and rough labor or domestic purposes, and in eastern cities as laundrymen and house servants. We callously instituted anti-Oriental provisions in our immigration laws; we looked with indifference upon shameless exploitation of the Chinese people in their own land by imperialist nations and business combines. We watched the Japanese invasion of China with pity but with no feeling of national responsibility. Even after the war we took it for granted that China would either "get smart" and adopt the United States brand of "democracy" or take the consequences and go back to being exploited all over again. It never occurred to the great majority of us—liberals or conservatives, whites or Negroes, rich or poor—that within five years we would be locked in full-scale war with armies of a Communized China.

Dr. Valentine's address hammered these facts home to our belated attention. He drew the connection between a brutal anti-Negro sentiment here and an arrogant, color-conscious imperialism abroad. He made it clear that if China is to be redeemed it will be because the American people are ready and anxious to be partners with a free Asia—and willing to pay the initial costs of such a partnership.

It was not so much his address, brilliant as it was, that emphasized our emerging national maturity as it was the reception it got from the several thousand social workers who listened to him. For social work is peculiarly a domestic operation, with its attention concentrated on people here at home in their everyday needs and activities. It was impressive that the Valentine speech, coming at the end of a long program, held the audience in its seats until the last word had been uttered. And then produced a prolonged ovation!

It was this audience reaction, and the serious discussion that lasted until the small hours of the morning, that emphasized how far we have come in our national thinking on race. Not that the social work profession, or the American nation as a whole, is wholly "converted" on the subject; but rather that the gravity of our national situation and its international connection have at last been impressed upon the people's consciousness. The majority of our people no longer ask, "Must we change our racial mores?" Instead they argue about how we shall best change them. That's the beginning of national maturity. Except for the psychotically-inclined, we have gotten over our childishness and are beginning to see our way through adolescence. Adulthood and the end of racism as a national institution may yet be reached in our children's time.

Roy Wilkins'

The Watch Tower

In all this discussion of candidates for political office it is a pleasure to note one among the friends of Negro Americans who has a solid record on matters of vital concern to our section of the population. He is W. Stuart Symington, candidate for United States Senator from Missouri.

At election time all sorts of "friends" of the Negro come to light, telling him how much they think of him, and how they believe in justice and equality. Most of these people know nothing about the Negro and his real problems. Most of them learn a few catch phrases to use in their speeches to colored voters. Most of them when pinned down to actual accomplishment have done little or nothing that directly or indirectly benefits Negroes.

W. Stuart Symington happens to be one of the rare ones who can let his deeds speak for him. First of all, when he was Secretary of the Air Force he promptly and completely carried out the President's order for equal opportunity for all persons in the armed services.

There was no foolishness about the way the Air Force instituted the new policy under Mr. Symington. Segregation and discrimination were abolished at one swoop. There is no necessity for preaching a sermon on this. All anyone has to do is look at the Air Force and he will see that there is no segregation by race and color. Or one can talk to Negro men in the Air Force or to parents of these men. Symington's record is there for all to see. It is a solid thing, not composed of fancy phrases, but of actual deeds. Moreover, it deals with a sore point—segregation of fighting men — which has been hurting Negro Americans for years.

Now, the Navy has a no-segregation policy, but it is moving slowly with it. The Army very cautiously and very, very slowly is trying out no-segregation in spots. But Symington put a whole new policy into effect at once and in his order to the Air Force are these significant sentences: "Commanding officers are hereby charged with the responsibility for implementation of the above policy. Commanders of all echelons of the Air Force will insure that all personnel in their command are indoctrinated thoroughly with the necessity for the unreserved acceptance of the provisions of this policy."

Note the word "unreserved." Symington did not mean that his commanders and his men should have a policy on paper, or up to a certain point, or according to the personal feelings of some officer here and there.

But the Air Force action is not the only proof of the Symington attitude. Back in the days when he was head of the Emerson Manufacturing Company in St. Louis, when the wartime FEPC was getting started, President Symington gave full cooperation and ordered his personnel men at Emerson to open up all opportunities at the plant for Negro workers on an equal basis with whites. Many manufacturers fought FEPC. Many gave it only lip service. But Symington was "with it" from the beginning.

The man is consistent. As chairman of the National Security Resources Board and as Administrator of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, Mr. Symington continued to be color blind as a public servant. George L. P. Weaver was added to his staff and used not as a race relations adviser, but as a negotiator on several missions to buy tin in Bolivia, Malaya, Thailand, and Indonesia. The credit facilities of RFC were made available to all, regardless of color.

We have been hearing millions of weasel words from candidates all over the country. We will hear millions more between now and the November election. There will be very little straight talk like the Symington record. Negroes throughout the nation need another good senator from Missouri to replace Senator Kem, who has voted against every single bill that would benefit them. We will be hoping that Negroes in Missouri have the good sense to help nominate and elect a man like Stuart Symington.

Delaware Hits School Ruling

WILMINGTON, Delaware—The Supreme Court of the State of Delaware this week received two appeals from the lower court decision which opened the way for admission of Negro children to formerly all-white public elementary and high schools in a Wilmington suburb. The appeals will be argued on June 25.

The State of Delaware filed a brief appealing the decision of Chancellor Collins J. Seitz of the Court of Chancery, who on April 1 found that schools available to Negro children were far inferior to those for white children and agreed to issue an injunction restraining school authorities from denying admission to Negro children.

"Don't Need 'Em"

Sounding Off

By WENDELL GREEN

The complete political bankruptcy of the community's civic and political leadership was clearly defined by the recent campaign put on for the re-election of Supervisor Leonard Roach.

Paul Williams, in repayment for some fat architectural fees thrown his way by Roach, partially financed the "operation blackbelt" for Roach.

Alphonse Mills, a transplanted Texan and self-styled "political expert," was the mastermind behind the campaign. Mills, with one hand grasping Roach's lapel, and the other in his pocket, put on an all-star, carpet-bagging show, the likes of which has not been seen in the community since the demise of Baron Lawson.

Following the traditional pattern with which Negro political hacksters have been fooling dumb white politicians for years, an all-star committee was formed boasting such community leaders (?) as Dr. Claude Hudson, Dr. E. I. Robinson, Wesley Brazier, Rev. George Coefield, Rev. M. Frederick Mitchell, Paul Williams, L. G. Robinson and others.

As one of the ministers who worked in the Roach campaign is wont to say, "I never bake a pie I can't take a slice out of," everything was set for Mills and a couple of his cohorts to cut up a nice litle pie when an explosion hit the camp in the form of Kenny Washington's filing against Roach.

L. G. Robinson, Paul Williams, Dr. Claude Hudson, like faithful lackeys, trooped over to Washington's house to show him the error of his ways in having the temerity to run against the great and good white father Roach.

When, despite the pleas and blandishments of the three distinguished gentlemen, Washington indicated that he was like the tree planted by the water, this was right up the alley of the political prostitutes, who used the threat of Washington to up the cost of the black vote, which naturally increased the Possible take.

Then the show began. While Mills and company did not quite put on a production with the pomp and circumstance and razzle dazzle of a Pop Saunders, Pete Ross, Charles Austin, Rev. William Carter, Walter Lawson, Baron Lawson show, it must be remembered that those men were past masters at carpet-bagging techniques and fooling white politicians. Mills, Coefield, Mitchell et al must be given credit for putting on a first-rate show.

A harmony dinner was held in the swank Penthouse where all was sweetness and light. The "leaders" present got up and testified how they loved Roach second only to God and Mether, and then Mills explained how the newspapers and everyone working was to get a "taste" of the funds to be spent, and he was very truthful as only a "taste" was passed around.

With a hundred dollar bill as a calling card, Roach was spotlighted and introduced at every event of any importance and attendance in the community, while Kenny Washington and Councilman Kenny Hahn, who conducted "broke" campaigns, were insulted and ignored.

The Second Supervisorial district contains the three densely populated Negro communities. Over 200,000 Negroes live in the district and comprise almost 40% of the population. This is the Negro vote in Los Angeles.

Roach was sold a bill of goods as slick and enticing as any bunco artist's line. He had the big names in the community on his campaign. He had a fast-talking political expert from the wards of Houston masterminding his campaign.

What Roach didn't know, and what the election proved was that he had generals without armies, leaders without followers, organizers with paper organizations, and an expert who couldn't reach the vote.

Washington running on Race, and Hahn running on his record, both broke compared to the over a hundred thousand dollars Roach is estimated to have spent, ran three to one over him in the Negro communities.

The bankruptcy of the political leadership of such men as L. G. Robinson, Dr. Claude Hudson, and Paul Williams is clearly indicated by the vote. The bankruptcy of civic leadership is apparent when Dr. E. I. Robinson, president of the local branch of the NAACP and Wesley Brazier, executive secretary of the Urban League, lend their names and prestige to such partisan political shenanigans. The bankruptcy of some of our spiritual leaders is indicated by their willingness to exercise their spiritual influence in temporal matters for self aggrandizement.

Out of five Negro weeklies in the community, three endorsed Washington, one endorsed Hahn, and one declined to endorse anyone. Maybe that should have been a tipoff to Roach.

Next week we will discuss preachers and civic leaders in politics.

Record Reviews

From Bop to Bach

By J. T. GIPSON

"CHLOE" (Mercury), The Ravens. Nice jump tune with a delightful Jimmy Ricks bass vocal. Should prove a top nickle-grabber on the record machines across the nation.

"MAYHEM" (Capitol), Billy May Ork. I haven't heard a bad Billy May disc to date. And this one is no exception. If we must have big, brassy bands, the Billy May crew is how they should sound. Wish this band was twice its size, so I could love 'em twice as much as I do. Rate this instrumental A-plus.

"BIRTH OF THE BLUES" (Capitol), Nellie Lutcher. One of the most underrated (yet most refreshing) voices in the swing kingdom is Nellie Lutcher. She sings with depth of soul. A very wonderful disc with a very wonderful Billy May orchestral background.

"GOODY, GOODY" (Decca), Ella Fitzgerald. Goody, Goody! Ella romps through this one like a bat out of Hollywood. The result is three minutes of listening pleasure.

"DON'T WORRY 'BOUT ME" (Discovery), Margie Schaffer. Miss Schaffer had to go to the recording studio to cut this disc. She should-a stood in bed. She has made some wonderful discs. This isn't one of them.

Band Figure to Open Clothing Store In City

Dick Williams, well known in theatrical circles and former road manager for a score of the nation's leading dance orchestras, is readying plans to open an exclusive men's shop in Los Angeles.

A popular New Yorker, Williams is now living here. He was formerly associated with the Lucky Millinder, Teddy Cole and the late Fats Waller orchestras.

He doesn't plan to forsake show business altogether. "Just tired of those one-nighters," he told reporters. He plans to devote a portion of his time to managing "maybe a couple" of artists. Otherwise he'll devote most of his time to operating his clothing store, which he plans to open on or about September 1.

"DOUBLE" TAKE

The entertaining Treniers are identical twins. The similarity of their two kissers is amazing. The Claude and Cliff twinship is more confusing than an income tax report. Eagle Theatrical Editor "Gip" can never tell 'em apart. He once wrote a story on Claude. "How about a picture to illustrate the interview?" he asked. "I haven't any," replied Claude. "Why should I waste my money getting pictures taken? I use Cliff's!"

People and Places

FATHER'S DAY

The post office mob down the "Annex Way" are claiming the father of the year award for a certain member of the Postal Pals. It seemed this brother, who is already the father of three, planned a "productive" romance with a certain married chick. Now that the blessed event has arrived he wants out from wife with the three to take up residence with the other gal. The other gal must be putting pressure on the brother for he hauled his wife into court charging her with all sorts of things, including an attempt on his life. Wife is just the opposite.

CIGARS, PLEASE

That soon-to-be-father on Country Club drive is prouder than the father of the world famous Fultz quads, when his ofay wife informed him of the coming event. Also very, very concerned about the big event is a certain big-time realist. We wonder why?

NUDIST NUMBER

Aside to J. T. Gipson's item on Bessie Mae Goodman, the nudist wonder and the prize pool hall pin-up gal. Her four nude photos are still hanging. Won't help by taking 'em down as copies of the same plus others are flowing around the city like political leaflets. Her only comment is: "White girls do the same thing." We might add: "Yes, but they get paid."

SHOW BIZ

Remember the Hot Shots? William "Sneeks" Downs and Ameil "Ame" Brown. The internationally famous dance team is getting terrific support in its latest dancing routine. The Hot Shots just closed at the Apollo Theater and are set for the big time again. JIMMY (MISTER BLUES) WITHERSPOON is waxing for the Modern Record Co. Did the change-over last week. Joe Lutcher's latest tune titled "Willow Weep for Me" and backed by "Why Not Tell Me Now" is featuring Iona Wade, newest singing star. Part of the royalties from the records are being donated to the Crippled Children's Society. These are a coupla tunes worth adding to your collection. DOROTHEA TOWLES, the Parisian model, is about to join the 4-Step Brothers. That is, she is eyeing the altar with handsome Al Williams.

GOING PLACES

ELIHU (BLACK DOT) McGEE, packing his bags for a N.Y. trip, mixing business and pleasure for five days. Avis Battle, the North Cambridge lass, is heading for Los Angeles at the end of the month. The Nicholas brothers are down Mexico way, while Dorothy Dandridge is getting rave notices in the East. Sister Vivian is about to launch her career as a single with hubby as manager. Herman Hill leaving for San Francisco to launch a newspaper.

GLORIA THOMPSON, five foot bundle of brownskin and a very cute package, is clerking at the Senter's Liquor Store, and very much married. CHARLES (Raincoat) JONES, big Oakland gambling wheel, is slated for pleading on gambling charges in an Oakland court this week. A certain swimming pool set society dame was very much embarrassed out at Bullock's Westwood the other eve. The saleslady had told her that they couldn't accept her personal check for a few bucks. It seems that they keep bouncing, unknowing to her, hubby had pulled all the money out of the bank. And brother, she was boiling mad. A certain big-time Westside sportsman had better check the age of that certain highschool gal he has been keeping out nights. I understand the mother is much disturbed and is going to report incidents to nabs if it happens again.

SO SORRY

William (Red Hut) Davis, popular Western Avernoo eatery is undergoing a face lifting and expansion job. The closed sign is out for another week due to building trouble and the workers can't finish the job as scheduled. Stopped in and caught the JOE ADAMS SHOW, really clever guy behind the mike. We like the cool, smooth style this Adams fellow displays to his thousands of listeners. LEONARD VAN is the name of that classy chassis who is moving about our fair city. She is visiting from Kansas City, and Florence Hunt is introducing her to the right people to insure a pleasurable stay.

hello'ng friends. Very nize fellow!

Paul Braford's heart has lost its mind. Over a Doll named Judy Something-or-other.

Loretha Bryant, the Willowbrook Doll, doesn't know what to do with her time since she's been vacationin'. So she's spending it answering love notes from a colyumnist. The lucky guy!

Glamma gal Sue Brooks sauntering into the Milomo the other sundown wearing a gown cut so low, Melrose reports, "you had to look under the table to see what she was wearing!"

Marguerite Marsh, of the Amusettes social club, looked like an angel on a furlough from the heavens at the club formal Satday nite last. So'd the other dolls in the group!

Quick, who won the Academy Award this yr?

I have only one criterion for judging women: how many are there without whom I could not possibly have lived until now?

Betty Allston, the col'm's right arm, is one of them!

Toledo 'Red" Kelley came to California to see the sights and Jeanne Wilkes.

Jackie Lewis, no relation to the Westside telephone number of the same name, is up to her heart in love with a Brown named Sonny.

Next time they hand out promotions in the LAPD, hope I'm around to see likeable John Lehman, "Dippy" Williams and Kenneth Shipp receive theirs. A definite credit to the dep't!

Pardon me for pointing, but isn't that luscious Irene Armstrong cruising down the stem in her classy convertible?

Don't look now, but Wynonie Harris is slated to go on the air as a disc-jockey. If he goes on the air I'll stop breathing it!

Betty says it's easy to tell whether or not you're a success on Central Avenoo. Your friends begin patting you on the back with a knife in each hand!

The Caissons Go Rolling along, but J. T. Gipson is still resting his nerves at Box 115, Olive View, California.

Class Dismissed.

I call it a column.

You can call it whatever you like!

More About Cicero

fendants. Another was acquitted by the jury.

In his telegram to Mr. Tierney, Thurgood Marshall, NAACP attorney gave assurance that "this Association and all true Americans will most certainly appreciate your courageous and forthright prosecution of this case. These convictions will go far to convince not only governmental officials in Illinois but in other states" that they will "have to answer before the bar of justice" for their failure to administer the law without discrimination.

These convictions, he asserted, when contrasted with the failure of the state courts to take affirmative action, "once again demonstrate the need for vigorous enforcement of our federal civil rights statutes by our government."

International Incident

The rioting which broke out last July 11 when Clark attempted to move into an apartment in Cicero focused international attention upon that town. The mob, which destroyed the 20-apartment building in which Mr. Clark had rented a dwelling, was finally quelled by state militia ordered in by Governor Adlai Stevenson.

In the first legal action following the riot, the Cook County grand jury, on September 18, returned indictments again George Leighton, NAACP attorney were later dismissed.

WHAT IKE SAID

pressed or unfairly treated, and I will say this: so far as my own personal influence can extend in this country, I shall never cease to fight for it.

Q—General, getting back to your answer of winning allies or getting allies, as you know, you were asked this question about FEPC (Fair Employment Practices Commission) in Kansas. You said that it was a matter for the states to act on. Thirty-seven states have not acted on it. I am just wondering if we are not playing into the hands of the Kremlin propagandists in Asia and other places if there is not Federal legislation barring discrimination. A—I don't quarrel with this idea, that every error we make in our form of government and in our Republic when we fall away from perfection in attaining the ideals that our fathers set for us, that gives propaganda fuel to the potential enemy. There is no question about that. My problem becomes this: This is a Republic. I believe the Constitution says that all rights and authority not herein given to the Federal Government are reserved to the states respectively and to the people. So when we come with all our hearts and all our minds to eliminate discrimination between citizens of America because of race and color—and I will remark parenthetically as long as we are doing that, so far as I believe the Constitution and the proper functioning of our Government, and of me as an individual, wherever I am permitted—I will be in that fight with you. I am unwilling to believe that a punitive Federal law itself, particularly if it penetrates into areas that have been reserved to the states and to the people, I am unwilling to believe that that is the very best way. I am afraid very much it will intensify rather than ameliorate the problem. I do believe that it should be the aspiration of every American to do his part in helping solve this problem.

Q—On the basis of the statement that you have just made does this mean that you are in support of, or would you as President, establish a commission by executive order to help push FEPC in the states? (Rest of question inaudible). A—It is a very long and involved question, but I understand the gist of it to be that in those states that do not have certain laws governing in the FEPC field, would I get busy and try to get them to pass laws? Whatever influence devolved upon me by reason of my personal standing with any single individual of the United States, or by reason of any official position I might hold, I would never cease to try at least in this struggle to get legal, economic and political equality for all our citizens. I will, of course, emphasize any such thought in the state that doesn't have laws. But I do repeat again and again my fear that in law itself we do not find the answer always. There are too many things that this United States has got without resorting to law to give us any great faith just in law. However, I really believe that each state should get this thing on its books in such a way so that each of its citizens may understand exactly where it is—where he is.

ON NEGROES IN CABINET

Q—General Eisenhower, if you are elected President, would you be willing to appoint to your Cabinet some Negro of competence, such as Dr. Bunche?

A—Well, first, you are jumping about two bridges to get to a particular spot. But accepting your question I should say this: By no manner of means have I even given thought to the possibility of the people I should appoint to major positions.

If I were confronted with such responsibility, I can only say that in all of the tasks I have held for and on behalf of our government in the past, I searched for the best I could find. Whether or not it would be the best to use Dr. Bunche, I don't know. But I tell you this: Not only do I admire Dr. Bunche very much, but when I was president of Columbia we called him up and gave him an honorary degree—and we don't give out too many degrees there because we think a great deal of our honorary degrees at Columbia University.

ON SENATE FILIBUSTER

Q—My publisher won't sleep tonight unless I get the answer to one or two questions that I have here. (1) If elected President would you use the power of your office to amend Senate Rule 22 to secure cloture office by majority vote? A—Ladies and gentlemen, as I remarked the other day when someone gave me a question prefaced by that kind of condition, I said, "You are leaping at least two bridges that I know of to get to the spot where you want me to make an answer." I don't know what I would do, particularly about that point, because we have a United States Senate and House that have been making their own rules for a good many years, a century and three-quarters. I have most faith in the good sense of the mass of the American people rather than in the sheer wisdom and genius of one man.

Q—Do you favor changing the rule, General? A—I don't know whether I do or not.

"Two," the inquirer began but was interrupted by Eisenhower, who said, "I will listen to someone else now."

ON SCHOOL SEGREGATION

Q—General, you stated your position on Federal aid to education and pointed out some of the cost of education to the country. Would you state now your position on the costly practice of segregating schools in the South, where Negroes and whites attend separate schools at terrific cost to the states and Federal Government?

A—You brought up a feature of this thing that I have not even thought about. I did not know there was an additional cost involved. Frankly, I will have to look at that particular point before I would add anything to it. I should say this: It is necessary for all of us to use our resources economically and frugally. We shouldn't forget the good old American thrift that has also helped to bring the United States where we are today. Therefore, needless expense and duplication as a generality, should be condemned.

THIS MAN'S "CRAZY"

If you're up on slang phrases, you're hep to "crazy" as the perfection of one's ability to click. So when you hear tell "Wild Bill" Davis is crazy—you should know what we mean. That goes for his trio too (Davis, Jim Jennings and Christopher Colums. From Club Birdland in N.Y.C., to the Apollo Theatre to Pep's Musical Bar, Philadelphia, Pa. Who doesn't mind being that crazy?

Milan Qualls Wins Cosmo Golf Meet

Muscular Milan Qualls kept perfect control of his long game to win the Cosmo June Sweepstakes affair last Sunday at Rio Hondo, nosing out veteran Oscar Clisby in the play-off for low gross honors after each had fired 73s to tie for first. Anderson Howard nosed out tournament chairman Theopholis Smith for low net honors with Smith taking the runner-up cup.

Bob Williams, out of the army and back at UCLA, fired a 76 to win low net honors in class B with John Dunn grabbing the second spot cup. Lawrence Jones won class C while Orbie Harris nosed out Cullen Fentress in a play-off for runner-up.

This marked the first tournament this year that either Cliscy or Albert McDaniel had been returned the victor including three Cosmo Sweepstakes plus the YMCA and Phoenix tourneys.

Many of the local divot diggers will play in the city championships to be held at Griffith Park this month, then swing up north to the annual tourney held by the Bay Area club, scheduled June 28-29 at the Burlingame course.

Next month will find all western top-notch amateurs competing in the Cosmopolitan Invitational event which has been set for thirty-six holes on the Fox-Baldwin courses, July 12-13.

'Evening Out' Ends in Rape, Woman Claims

Sharon Lynn Paulos, 25, 4123 Naomi avenue, told police Friday that Robert M. Hunter, 32, employed at 3512 Crenshaw, came to her house last Thursday evening to take her out and wound up by attacking her.

She said they went to a cafe on Broadway, had some drinks and dinner there, and then went to a liquor store and bought a pint of bourbon and a pint of Scotch, then drove to San Pedro.

On their return she charged he took her to his residence where he attempted to make improper advances.

"I repulsed his advances," Mrs. Paulos said, "and a short scuffle ensued, with me being knocked to the floor and injuring my left elbow.

"We then left the house and he said he was going to drive me home, but instead he drove around the city in the hilly, wooded and residential sections.

"He finally parked at a location somewhere on 138th street and attacked me," she said.

More About Negro Votes

never was popular with Negro Republicans, and Werdel's television paid off by reaching the Negro community which has a 60% concentration of the television sets in the city.

McKinnon, who started campaigning late, and did not particularly try to reach the Negro voters, paid for it by losing on the Democratic ticket almost two to one, and on the Republican ticket five to one.

In the bitterly contested Supervisor race, Kenneth Hahn was a surprise winner, getting almost as many votes as the incumbent Leonard Roach and Kenneth Washington. Washington got almost 8% more votes than Roach, topping him by 667 votes. The fall of Roach was a surprise upset of the campaign. Roach spent thousands of dollars in the Negro community, and Hahn got all the votes. If Washington had not been in the race, Hahn would have won in the primary. This vote again was sharply divergent from the white precincts in the 62nd district. Almost without an exception, Roach and Hahn ran close, with Hahn a close second, and Washington a poor third.

The ten thousand vote margin by which Hahn beat Roach in the entire second district, was undoubtedly picked up in the Negro precincts.

The controversial housing vote on Proposition B was also sharply different than the vote in the rest of the city. The yes vote topped the no vote almost two to one, while the rest of the city rejected it almost as strongly. In the white precincts, the no vote led, but by only a four to three margin, indicating that the voters were influenced by their economic status.

An overall analysis of the vote revealed that whoever worked for the vote, or had served the community, got the Negro vote. Kefauver worked at it and had the endorsement of two local papers, while the Brown delegation twiddled their thumbs, and Kefauver made a surprising showing in a supposedly Brown stronghold.

Knowland worked and had only token opposition, and carried both tickets in the district. Roach spent a lot of money and had a high powered campaign committee, but the fighting record of Hahn in the City Council stood him in good stead, while the drive for representation in government enabled Washington to edge out Roach.

Next week we will examine Watts and the Westside votes.

and Bailey will give a full public report of developments at a mass meeting scheduled for 3:30 Sunday afternoon at New Hope Baptist church, Paloma near 16th street.

Full text of the unanswered NAACP telegram sent to the chief of police Thursday, June 5, follows:

"We have learned that the stationary guard assigned to the Bailey home on Dunsmuir has been withdrawn because the Wilshire Police District does not have an adequate number to continue the detail.

"We are informed that squad cars will continue to operate in the area periodically. We feel sure that you can well understand the concern of the Baileys inasmuch as there have been no arrests made thus far. We hereby respectfully request that your office make available to the Wilshire Police District any additional personnel they may need in order to continue effective and visible protection of this family. We further request that this assistance be made available to the Wilshire Police District beginning tonight."

There are 39,737 more children in the Los Angeles City elementary schools today than there were in 1946.

Fifty-three new elementary schools have been built in the Los Angeles City School System since 1946.

With haste the Judge made his way from his chamber to the bench for it was one minute past the hour and the bailiff was all a-tremble.

"First time I've been late in ten years. Guess I'd better stop celebrating Father's Night before Father's Day," chuckled the Judge.

MISSED THE BOAT

From 35 San Diego street, Long Beach, came Leon Coffman, 46, to wait for his wife, Mary, 32, who is separated from him, in her house at 1173½ E. 45th street.

When she came in from work he asked her to kiss him. She flatly refused to have him slobbering on her.

Coffman remembered when she used to be glad to have him buss her on the lips.

He became quite infuriated; threw a glass of beer on her, grabbed her jacket and tore it.

She by-passed him, went in and changed her clothes.

"Where are you going?" he questioned, and grabbed her and dragged her toward the bed.

Now he has the right idea, smiled the Judge.

He pulled a knife from under the pillow.

Marguerite Ann Garrett, daughter of Mrs. Coffman, ran from the house because she did not want to see her mother's blood flood the place.

Coffman, thinking the girl was going for help, released her mother and Mrs. Coffman stopped for nothing before reaching the outside world.

He followed, grabbed her again and took her purse.

"You can't do that to me!" She yelled, snatched the purse back and left.

TWO OUT OF FOUR

Lavada Benson, 43, 1425 Paloma, was sleeping peacefully when her husband, Bennie Lee, 44, jumped on her like a hay maker and beat the tar out of her, striking her about the face and body, scratching her neck and arms.

She complained to agents of the law that Benson has been beating her for the past month because people told him that the two oldest of their four children are not his. And knowing her like he does, it could be true.

Why should he get all fired up! the Judge wondered. At least he has two out of four, or has he?

RADIO BLUES

"My brother-in-law is the type that always argues and wants to start a fight." Oree Jones, 27, 2931½ S. Walton, reported to the wagon boys about Adam Scott, 42, 2931 S. Walton.

Morris Green, Jr., Jones' stepson, was playing the radio at night and Scott came in and said it was annoying him and insulted Morris.

Scott returned the next morning and started to talk about the night before.

"He was sore and angry about things like that," Jones stated, "I told him to get out and he refused. I opened the door, but he would not leave.

"Then he started to strike me in my right eye and cheek which is swollen as you can see.

"He scratched my neck, pushed me and I fell against a chair and hurt the left side of my back."

Never give your uncle the radio blues or your father will be on the receiving end of his raged outburst that may leave him in a swollen and battered-up condition every time.

LOVE KNOTS

Victren Stigall, 21, 1678 Palm Lane, was picked up from work by her estranged husband of 2½ months, Elmo Westly Stigall, 25, 151 E. 49th street, and forced into his car at knife point.

After promising to drive her home, he took her to his house, dragged her inside, slapped her face several times and choked her until she fainted.

Stigall pulled his knife and indicated that Mrs. Stigall's last days upon the earth were at hand.

On second thought, being a truck driver, he drove her into the bedroom, held the knife to her throat.

He tied her left leg to the bed and her right leg to his with neckties which made love knots that kept Mrs. Stigall anchored to him.

He stated that he loved his wife and that was why he did it.

"Rugged love," mused the Judge.

BLOOD TESTED FOR FISH

Lenton D. Callaway, 27, 1434 E. 51st street, and his wife, Lillie, 38, became engaged in an argument at 51st and Ascot at midnight after having already argued all day while on a fishing trip.

On their way home they went to a cafe. She stayed outside while he went in.

About 15 minutes later he came outside to see where she was and found her arguing with another man.

He got between her and the man. During the scuffle she pulled out her blood tester and sliced him to see where all the fish went to.

Being a logical man, he reasoned that she wanted to stop him from hurting the other man.

"He should have left her up the creek with the fish," pondered the Judge. "A man should never interfere when his wife is having a spat with the other man, because, whether it's for fish or not, she will test his blood every time."

Backing up the damage seeking property owners are 12 neighborhood associations who secured former California Supreme Court Justice, John W. Preston, to file a brief in their behalf. John C. Miles and Wallace McKnight represent the property owners who are suing.

"Safety for the concern of the wives and daughters and . . . anxiety of parents that their children will grow up to marry, or worse, with a neighbor playmate of a different race" are assigned in the brief as some of the reasons why damages should be assessed against whites who sell race restricted property to Negroes. Neighborhoods in which Negroes move are called "afflicted neighborhoods."

Attorneys for Mrs. Jackson claim that damages cannot be assessed because of both federal and state constitutional provisions. The hearing is set for 10 o'clock. No claim is made for damages against the Smalleys and they will have a right to continue to live in the home regardless of the outcome of the suit.

The Los Angeles City Board of Education is considering structural strength, fire hazard, and obsolescence in its rehabilitation program of old buildings.

Rev. Branham 'Explains'

"HOW I GOT SHOT"

MRS. HAZEL SIMPSON

PIOUS STATEMENT TO PRESS NOT VERY MUCH LIKE POLICE REPORT

By VIOLET MOTEN BROWN

In a statement to the press, released through his attorney four days after he was shot and critically wounded while visiting a red-headed bookie, Rev. John H. Branham gave a version of the shooting which differed sharply from the story he told police when he was questioned by them shortly after the shooting.

In a page-long document in which the clergyman casts himself in the role of a hero, Mr. Branham explains how he endangered his own life to save the much-arrested Hazel Simpson, reputed to be the biggest bookmaker and numbers backer on the Westside.

The statement, which follows, was issued by white Phillip Davis, attorney for the church, just a hair's breadth before press time for most local weeklies. The solemn-faced barrister, who kept reporters cooling their heels in a waiting room for a half hour past the time he had set for the interview, asserted that the whole truth is told in the statement and seemed confident that Hazel Simpson will confirm Branham's story.

The Statement

Branham's statement begins. "Mrs. Simpson, while conferring with me in my professional character as pastor of the St. Paul Baptist Church, became emotionally upset and hysterical."

(The subject under discussion between the two was not disclosed since, Davis explained, this would be a violation of confidence by a pastor who was ministering to "one of his flock.")

"She ran to a closet, snatched a pistol and turned toward me saying something about suicide."

(In his original report to police, Branham had stated that his assailant screamed, "I'm going to shoot you!" and immediately began firing.)

"I tried to calm her and at the same time slowly stretched out my hand for the pistol. Before I reached it, the gun went off and a bullet pierced my left arm. I then tried to wrench the pistol from her and in the scuffle, the pistol went off a gain, the bullet piercing my stomach. (Police

CAL. DEMOS BACK TRUMAN ON CIVIL RIGHTS STAND

President Tells His Program

WASHINGTON, D. C.—In a bold speech in which he took direct issue with those who would leave civil rights to the states or to individual action, President Truman Friday demanded swift adoption of an all out civil rights program by the federal government. He was applauded vigorously by the commencement day audience of Howard University to whom the speech was delivered.

"I am not one of those who feel that we can leave these matters up to the States alone, or that we can rely solely on the efforts of men of goodwill.

"Our Federal government must live up to the ideals professed in our Declaration of Independence and the duties imposed upon it by our Constitution.

"The full force and power of the Federal government must stand behind the protection of rights guaranteed by our Federal Constitution.'

Program Told

Specifically, Truman called for adoption of the full civil rights program he laid before Congress in 1948—including a Fair Employment Practices Commission with power to enforce its decrees against job discrimination based on race, creed or color.

Gen. Eisenhower, seeking the Republican Presidential nomination, at Abilene, Kans., last week stated his "unalterable support

(This is the full text of the resolution on civil rights passed by the California delegation to the Democratic National Convention in the first meeting of the full delegation in Fresno last Sunday.)

RESOLUTION

WHEREAS, it is the firm belief of this delegation that full civil rights for all our citizens should be one of the highest aims of the Democratic party; and

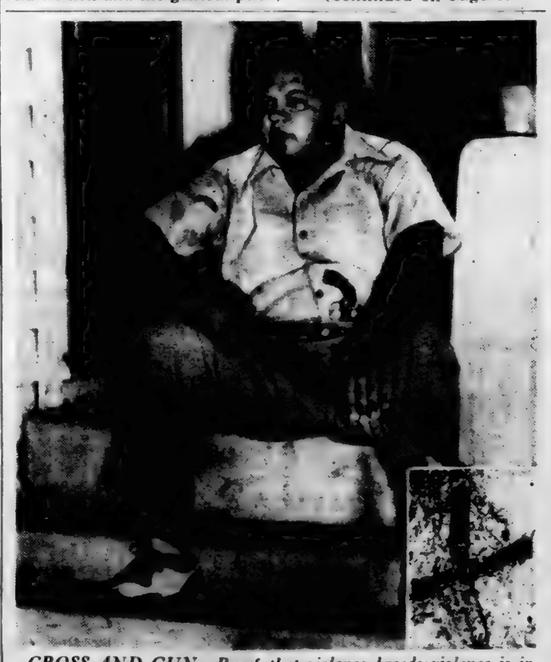
WHEREAS, it is also the firm belief of this delegation that the 1952 Democratic party platform should and must contain a plank advocating full civil rights for all people, including compulsory FEPC; and

WHEREAS, this delegation sincerely hopes that the 1952 Democratic party platform will be just as strong as the one in 1948, and stronger if possible.

BE IT THEREFORE RESOLVED that the California delegation to the Democratic Convention of 1952 go on record as favoring and supporting a full civil rights plank in the Democratic party platform, said plank to include compulsory FEPC.

College Fund Meet At Forum Theater

Standing room only for late-comers is the prediction of the United College Fund executive committee sponsoring the big city-wide rally Friday night at the Forum Theatre, 4050 West Pico blvd. There is no admission charge.



"We've spared no pains to make this public attraction one of the most glamorous events our community has ever had," George A. Beavers, general chairman, said today.

Three thousand announcements went out this week to churches, clubs, college alumni, business and professional men and women and the general public, the UNCF committee stated.

Dr. Albert Dent, president, Dillard University, and one of the country's leading educators, will deliver the main address on "Can we have national unity without equal educational opportunities."

CROSS AND GUN—Proof that violence breeds violence is in this picture. The charred cross (inset) symbol of Christianity, used as a symbol of hate—as a threat of death—causes home-owner Angus Bates to sit in wait with two weapons of defense. (Note revolver in his belt.) Bates, his wife and 3-year-old daughter are, according to an understated note, "not wanted" in the neighborhood of his home at 1749 W. 42 street. The cross and new plantings were burned Sunday morning on the beautifully-kept lawn of the Bates home.

Strong Plank Urged

The California delegation to the Democratic National Convention, committed to the nomination of Sen. Estes Kefauver, backed up President Truman's uncompromising stand on civil rights expressed in his speech at Howard University last Friday, by passing a strong civil rights resolution at the convention of the delegation in Fresno over the weekend.

The resolution committed the delegation to fight for a strong civil rights plank in the Democratic platform, including a compulsory FEPC.

This is the first time in the history of California politics that a delegation to either major political party has made such a forthright and uncompromising stand on civil rights prior to the national convention.

Meetting for the first time as an entire body since the Kefauver slate defeated the Edmund G. "Pat" Brown ticket in the primaries June 3, the delegates convened in the Hotel Californian in Fresno Saturday and Sunday for the important business of electing national officers and alternates and hammering out matters of policy.

Participating in the important meeting were Attorney Charles

Rumors Are Flying Branhams Dying

"He's dead! He's dying! He shot her! She shot him! His wife shot him! He shot his wife!

"He wouldn't leave his wife and marry HER! She was jealous of him and her husband!

"She wouldn't give him a bigger cut in her bookmaking racket.

He demanded it, so she shot him."

"His wife knew about it! She didn't know about it! Her Chicago trip (underway when the shooting occurred) was a definite separation. It was not!

"A rival minister had him shot because he was taking members away from another leading Baptist church.

"He tried to get her to give up active membership in his church because of recent EBONY publicity which labeled her one of vicedom's queens."

What Have You Heard?

These and an unintelligible mess of other conflicting speculations have taken the town since the Rev. John Branham was shot by a female church member, Hazel Simpson, Saturday.

His refusal to discuss circumstances surrounding the shooting which landed him in the hospital with two bullet wounds left Rev. Branham at the mercy of rumor mongers who have come up with endless variations on the finance-romance theme.

The spectacular pastor of St. Paul Baptist church, a newly-built, half million dollar edifice at 49th and Main streets, has admitted to police that he was shot by the "very passionate" Hazel Simpson, characterized as a "red-headed bookie."

Reports late Tuesday night have it that he will not charge Mrs. Simpson of 2075 W. 29th place, where the shooting occurred, with any assault. In-

Branham, Simpson Both Called 'Rich'

Both principals in the Branham-Simpson scandal are reportedly "loaded with loot."

According to available records, Hazel Simpson is owner or co-owner of numerous pieces of valuable Westside property. Her holdings are said to include a $40,000 six-flat building at 36th street and Western avenue. She bought this site at an estimat-d $40,000 in recent years and after tearing down the old buildings there, had the new edifice erected.

Two stores are part of the property. On W. Jefferson a new eight-flat building, worth $50,000, is listed as hers. Three pool halls also are credited to her. The apartment house in which she lives at 2075 W. 29th place recently was remodeled at an approximate cost of $4,000 or $5,000.

Unconfirmed is the figure of $2,000,000 given as an estimate of the amount that Rev. Branham has received in offerings and donations from his congregation and other people during his career as a preacher. His recently acquired W. Adams boulevard home is in the luxury property class as are his two automobiles, one a 1951 Chrysler Windsor four-door sedan; the other a 1951 Chevrolet.

The diamond ring he wears is said to be worth $5,000. He reputedly buys 12 suits each year from Jerry Rothschild's where prices begin at $150.

The magnetic minister is said also to collect an undetermined large sum weekly through "love offerings" sent by listeners to his 10:30 Sunday evening radio program, "Echoes of Eden."

Walter White Program on Station KFWB

A new series of programs featuring Walter White, Executive Director of the NAACP is scheduled over KFWB Sunday. The program is heard at 10 p.m. and was initiated Sunday.

The programs will include interviews with national prominent figures including Senator Hubert Humphrey, Eleanor Roosevelt, Senator Richard Russell, Senator Estes Kefauver, Averell Harriman and Channing Tobias. The first program presented Senator Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota.

Guest Claims Party Host Stabbed Him

Thomas Smith, of 1367 East 109th street, host to a party of friends in his home last week, wound up on June 11, a defendant in an assault with a deadly weapon court trial. The case was ordered continued until this week.

Smith was arrested when one of his guests complained that he had been stabbed with a knife during an altercation with the host at the height of a party given in Smith's home.

Atty. H. Leonard Richardson, who represented Smith in both preliminary court appearances, said his client has a good case of self defense. Smith was released after posting bail.

Onlooker Kills Attacker of Drinking Pal

By EDDIE LEE KING

"I hit him with the spade." Elzie Harris, Sr., of 149 West 39th street, reported to police Saturday about Edwin Rasberry, 28, when he was bashing in Sam Willard McLemore, 31, 750 East 52nd street, with a hatchet. Rasberry died in General Hospital jail ward Tuesday.

Rasberry and McLemore had been drinking together at the Cotton Club Cafe at Temple and Benton Way when they started arguing at the bar.

Both men returned to the 39th street address in front of the house and were joking when Rasberry said, "You said something I didn't like."

He picked up the hatchet from the railing of the porch and struck McLemore twice across the face. The victim fell and Rasberry hit him again in the back.

Banged in Head With Spade

Harris stated, "I was spading the garden in front of the house when I looked around and saw Rasberry strike McLemore with that ax. When McLemore fell to the ground and Rasberry started to strike him again, I hit him

BAILEYS SEEK DAMAGES, ASKS GRAND JURY PROBE

Double barreled action in the unsolved March 16 bombing of the William Bailey home, on Dunsmuir avenue was taken this week when the Baileys filed a claim for damages against the city for $100,000 and the local branch of the NAACP demanded a full scale investigation by the grand jury.

The claim for damages was filed following a series of meetings of the NAACP Legal Redress Committee during which Field Secretary Lester P. Bailey reported his findings in the Dunsmuir case. Mrs. Bailey (no relation to the Field Secretary) is filing the claim for personal injuries and her husband's claim lists damage to the property and home furnishings.

The claim stated in part that "said injuries (and damage) were received without any fault on my part, and through the callousness of said City of Los Angeles, and others in that the Police Department of said City of Los Angeles, having due notice of intention of said mob and rioutous persons immediately

Pickets Ask Market Jobs

Business at Best Buy Market, 1526 E. Florence Avenue, took a sharp drop as hundreds of shoppers respected the picket line 65 people strong which marched last Saturday to back up the demands that Best Buy hire Negroes in front store jobs.

According to these spokesmen for the pickets the demonstration was organized because the owners of Best Buy would not hire Negroes in any front store capacity such as cashiers and butchers and would not discuss the issue of their discrimination with a community delegation including ministers and union leaders.

Harriman Asks Jim Crow End

Discrimination of any kind prevents democracy from doing a ful job for the free peoples of the world, Averell Harriman, candidate for the Democratic Presidential nomination, told Walter White, executive serretary of the NAACP in a special radio broadcast delivered over Station KFWB Monday.

Harriman, who is director of the Mutual Security Agency, pointed out that, "Discrimination against minorities in this country turns the free peoples we are trying to help against us. I think," he said, "one of the important things in carrying out our leadership in a democracy is to eliminate discrimination of all kinds from our life."

Here is a complete tabulation of the votes in the June 3 primary in the Watts-Willowbrook area, and the Westside. The Westside area is roughly bounded by Vermont, Crenshaw, Exposition and Washington. 79 precincts almost wholly populated by Negroes were tabulated, representing a population of approximately 40,000.

Trends by Areas Seen Within Distinctive Character of Vote

By WENDELL GREEN

Political pundits in our community will go to great lengths to prove that there is a great difference in the Negro vote in various sections of the city. Figures prove them wrong.

Generally the vote in Watts, on the Eastside and Westside had the same broad general trends. Brown nosed out Kefauver. Warren beat Werdel. Knowland ran over McKinnon on both tickets and Roach ran two to one behind the combined vote of Hahn and Washington. Proposition B carried a Yes vote.

This general trend is a direct contradiction of the general vote of the electorate in Los Angeles, and shows that the Negro vote has distinctive characteristics.

However, there are some sharp distinctions within the general trend of the votes. The Westside vote represents one extreme, the Watts area the other extreme, with the Eastside in a middle position.

The Watts area is strongly Democratic, almost three to one, while the Westside voted a bare Democratic majority. Both districts voted about one-half of the persons eligible to vote.

Out of the total number of votes cast in the election, almost twice as many voters cast a ballot in the Supervisor election on the Westside as in Watts. Both areas voted about the same number of people.

Roach beat Washington by 21 votes in Watts, with Hahn about 200 votes behind. Washington beat Hahn by almost 400 votes on the Westside while Roach trailed over 600 votes behind Washington.

Beside the large Republican vote, the next great difference in the Westside vote was the close vote on housing. The Yes vote carried by less than a one-third majority while in Watts the vote was better than two to one.

Watts Elks Plan to Lead Blood Donors

With the entire membership in accord, the Joe B. Bass Lodge, No. 1004 I.B.P. O. Elks of the World, adopted plans to lead a drive to enlist blood donors of the South Los Angeles Watts-Willowbrook area as a means of aiding the war effort and saving the lives of thousands of our nation's fighting men.

Sammy Warren, chairman of the blood drive committee, said he expected fifty percent of the lodge membership to line up on June 25 as donors. He appealed for blood donors of all ages and groups to join the lineup at the mobile blood bank which will be parked all day in front of the lodge building at 102nd and Beach street.

Fair Hiring Body Scored

WASHINGTON—After six months of operation, the President's Committee on Government Contract Compliance has taken no "concrete action on discrimination in employment," Clarence Mitchell, director of the Washington Bureau of the NAACP, charged at a hearing before the committee.

The NAACP official cited the failure of the committee to act on a complaint filed against the Washington Telephone Company, warned against pitfalls in the administration of the president's executive order and submitted recommendations for implementing the order.

Appearing before the committee last week Mr. Mitchell said: "One if the first jobs facing the Committee is taking a clear-cut stand against segregation.

Colored women should know about this. There is a man at 1212 W. Jefferson with more jobs for women than he can fill. The pay is excellent and experience and references not too important.

TRUMAN ON CIVIL RIGHTS

of fairness and equality among al types of American citizens" and added: "I really believe we can do more by leadership in getting the States to do it than to make it a Federal compulsory thing."

In the Democratic party W. Averell Harriman, Director for Mutual Security, is the only candidate who has endorsed all elements of the President's civil rights program. Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee is opposed to a compulsory F. E. P. C., but would accept it if it was demanded in the party's platform. Senator Richard B. Russell of Georgia favors a commission that would exact normal suasion but that would be without punitive power.

On the Republican side, Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio has taken a position similar to Senator Russell's.

In discussing steps to integrate white and Negro troops in the armed forces, Truman commented that "some of our greatest generals have said that our forces had to have segregated units. But our experience has proved that this was nonsense."

Eisenhower Testimony

Truman named no names in this connection, but on April 3, 1948, testifying to a Senate Committee on Universal Military Training, Eisenhower said, "I personally have always stood since that time (1944, when Negro platoons were formed from volunteers for line service) for organizing the Negro down to include units no larger than platoons."

Platoons are made up of two or more squads and number 40 to 50 men.

"If you make a complete amalgamation," Eisenhower went on, "what you are going to have is, in every company, the Negro is going to be relegated to the minor jobs, and he is never going to get his promotion to such grades as technical sergeant, master sergeant, and so on because the competition is too tough. . . . I believe he is entitled to the chance to show his wares."

Eisenhower also said he believed that in time there will be no problem, that "it will disappear through education, through mutual respect, and so on."

Truman, in further discussion of military integration of Negroes and whites, noted approvingly that "in the Far East, when Gen. Ridgeway too kcommand, he ordered the progressive integration of all the troops in his command." Ridgway succeeded Gen. MacArthur when Truman fired MacArthur from his Far East command.

Truman observed, too, that an order similar to Ridgeway's was issued recently by the European command at the direction of the Secretary of the Army.

Wells Heads Watts Civilian Defense

Arkansas Univ. Graduates First Negro Doctor

LITTLE ROCK, Ark.—The first Negro to graduate from a formerly all-white Southern medical school—24-year-old Mrs. Edith Irby Jones—got her diploma from the University of Arkansas School of Medicine recently.

Mrs. Jones will set another precedent becoming the first Negro to intern at the University Hospital here.

Mrs. Jones was admitted to the school—without segregation—in September, 1948, by placing twenty-eighth in a group of 230 Arkansas residents who took preentrance examinations.

ways to be a friendly telephone neighbor

If yours is a party-line, your telephone neighbors will consider you a real friend if you'll keep these simple points in mind: Try not to tie up the line with lengthy conversations. That way you won't miss important incoming calls. Ask the youngsters to be considerate, too. When they remember that others may be waiting to use the line they're being good party-line neighbors. Always be sure you hang up properly after calling. These simple suggestions mean still better service . . . because they give every one a better chance to receive and make calls.

emergency calls may arise while you're on the line. If a telephone neighbor breaks in and explains the emergency, it's always thoughtful to hang up and complete your call later.

HISTORIC CIVIL RIGHTS RESOLUTION — Newly elected members of the platform committee of the Democratic National Convention and interested members of the California delegation carefully go over the resolution putting the delegation, which is committed to Estes Kefauver, on record for a full civil rights plank including a compulsory FEPC. Seated from left to right are Helen Shrank and Attorney Lyle Cook, members of the platform committee, and Attorney Charles E. Wilson of San Francisco. Standing, S. Wendell Green, Eagle editor, points out salient facts to the group while Senator George Miller Jr., chairman of the California delegation, Dave Foutz and Attorney Hugh McBeth look on.

E. Wilson of San Francisco, Attorney Hugh E. McBeth and Almena Lomax, editor of the L. A. Tribune. Mrs. Lomax was elected honorary secretary of the delegation, S. Wendell Green, Eagle editor, was elected as alternate. Lucius Lomaxa nd Gilbert Lindsey were elected second alternates.

Following the traditional rule of dividing offices between the north and south, John Anson Ford was elected national committeeman, Clara Shirpser, national committeewoman. Senator George Miller Jr., of Alameda county was elected chairman of the delegation.

While the Negro delegates were in a huddle trying to map out some kind of strategy after a behind the scenes move to have Almena Lomax placed in nomination for membership on the important platform committee failed, the civil rights issue boiled up on the floor with surprising suddenness.

Helen Shrank had been recommended by the nominating committee as the member for the platform committee from the south, and Attorney Lyle Cook as the member from the north. Nettie Riherd was nominated in opposition to Helen Shrank and what started out as a rather ordinary floor battle for an office, suddenly developed into the question of a civil rights plank in the party platform.

Delegate after delegate hit the floor, each stating that he was for a full civil rights plank including a compulsory FEPC, and demanded to know how the candidates for the platform committee stood on the question.

Helen Shrank and Lyle Cook stated their full support of a strong civil rights platform including a compulsory FEPC, and indicated that that was one of the big fights they were prepared to make. Nettie Rieherd declared that she would follow Senator Kefauver in the matter.

The contested election was between Helen Shrank and Nettie Riherd. Mrs. Shrank was overwhelmingly elected while Cook was elected unanimously. Then the chairman granted special permission to Attorney Wilson to introduce a civil rights resolution, which was adopted with only two dissenting votes. It was the only resolution adopted by the convention, and puts the California delegation on record for a strong civil rights plank in the party's platform.

The delegation will convene again in Chicago July 21, with the Democratic National Convention, where Democratic candidate for president will be selected.

Most of the callers were frantic members of his congregation who wanted reports on his condition.

Home Owner Arms Self to Guard Family

Declaring that he will not be frightened out of his new home by written threats or last Saturday night's cross burning on his rear lawn, Anges Bates, 1749 W. 42nd street, answered second demonstration of opposition to his living in the Leimert Park area with a two-gun watch for intruders. Bates armed himself to protect his wife and three year-old daughter after the NAACP appealed to the police, the District Attorney and Mayor Fletcher Bowron without success.

Telegrams and personal calls by the NAACP and the Bates failed to bring a stationary police guard detail to the target home which has been the object of racist attacks twice since the family moved in April 1.

Note Left

A note left at the home April 15 warned the Bates family that "You must realize you have moved into a purely white neighborhood, and they intend to take action unless you move within a reasonable period of time."

NAACP officials and friends sat up with the Bates' Sunday night after police failed to post guard at the home. Many friends and interested persons have volunteered to "sit up" with the family until the police act.

Acording to Dr. E. I. Robinson, NAACP president and Lester P. Bailey, field Secretary, their organization had complained to Chief Parker after the stationary police detail was removed from the scene of the Dunsmuir bombings the day following the primary elections.

Mrs. Bates discovered a charred, cotton padded, kerosene-soaked cross on her rear lawn Sunday afternoon. The cross was found lying a few feet from the incinerator and had obviously been thrown over the rear wall behind which there runs an alley-way.

Seek Funds To Improve Sanitorium

The Outdoor Life and Health Association announces its plans for its current fund drive, to raise money to meet an extended renovation and improvement program for the comfort and safety of the fifty patients at the Duarte Rest Home. The goal is $6000 in the immediate future.

Improvements to be made are installation of a fire alarm system, modern safety heating system, plumbing and electrical installations and painting inside and out.

Because of the rigid requirements by State and County building and health commissioners, food costs, medical, maintenance and other service have increased sharply, and it is necessary that the management consistently ask the public to give financial assistance. This is imperative in order to continue the program to help conquer and control the dread disease, tuberculosis.

During the calendar year 1951 the Outdoor Life and Health Association housed and treated one hundred and twelve tuberculosis patients and the general expenditures were approximately $52,000.

Your contribution now will help SAVE A LIFE. Mail contributions to 806 E. Jefferson Blvd., or call AD. 3-5114 and a representative will call on you.

Hahn also is responsible for the new signal at 90th street and Wadsworth avenue.

Refused Hospital Trip in Ambulance

When officers arrived, McLemore was sitting on the porch steps and bleeding from facial wounds. Rasberry was lying in the driveway a short distance from McLemore.

The ambulance crew arrived and gave field medical treatment to both men. McLemore was taken to Georgia Street Receiving Hospital and treated for fractured maxella of the right side, laceration deep severe nose, upper lip laceration and one-half inch gash in the right lower back. He was treated by D. Bellew.

Rasberry refused to be taken to the hospital and signed a refusal statement at the scene and was transported to Georgia Street Receiving Hospital by police officers.

Upon arrival at the receiving hospital, Rasberry complained of paralysis of the right side and leg.

After McLemore signed the complaint Rasberry was booked at the main jail on suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon.

and prior to the outbreak of the action complained of herein, did not itself protect my home, furnishings and person from said conduct."

The NAACP sent a request this week to Los Angeles County Grand Jury foreman Dr. Raymond C. Compton for action. The communication, signed by NAACP president Dr. E. I. Robinson, stated:

"The Los Angeles branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, as a matter of policy, has maintained a strong interest in the progress in the investigation of the March 16 bombings of two homes on Dunsmuir Avenue. We have learned through our various contacts with the Wilshire District Police and officers of that Detective Agency that they have narrowed the list of suspects down to not more than ten persons; one or more of whom, they believe, are implicated in the actual bombings.

That the police admittedly possess a list of suspects and have made no arrests during the three months since the bombing, raises a serious public issue which can best be decided by the proper body, the Los Angeles County Grand Jury.

We therefore request, as citizens and as officers of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, that the Los Angeles County Grand Jury initiate an investigation of the Dunsmuir Avenue bombings."

Miss Diane Dickerson...

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl B. Dickerson of Chicago, Illinois, prepares to enter exclusive Mills College, Oakland, California.

Theory, Practice and Result

● THIS IS THE THEORY that has guided the lives of Mr. Earl B. Dickerson and the other officers of the Supreme Liberty Life Insurance Company—that insurance is the key to thrift and economy. They have carried this message to groups and gatherings of all kinds, on all occasions.

THIS IS WHAT HAPPENED IN ACTUAL PRACTICE. Mr. Dickerson backed up his belief in the value of insurance seventeen years ago, when he and Mrs. Dickerson took out an educational endowment policy with Supreme Liberty Life Insurance Company for his daughter, Diane—to mature when she became 18.

THIS WAS THE RESULT. On May 28, 1952, this educational policy matured. Immediately, a check for $1,000.00 was given to Miss Dickerson. This fall Miss Dickerson will enter the famous Mills College in Oakland, California. The foresight of her parents has borne fruit.

Truly, this is an example of THEORY, PRACTICE AND RESULT.

Editorial

Farewell to Jim Crow

The Supreme Court has finally decided to determine the issue of whether or not separate grade schools deprive Negro children of equal protection of the laws as guaranteed by the Fourteenth Amendment.

In a sociological sense that issue has already been decided. There is not a single educator or sociologist of any repute in America who does not know that Jim Crow twists and warps the lives of Negro children, that it frustrates them and makes them feel insecure and unwanted. The effects vary from individual to individual but even the strongest and healthiest Negro child suffers from being set apart from other children solely because of race.

Even if the ideal of separate but equal could be attained segregation would still be psychologically unhealthy for those who are subjected to it. But, of course, there can never be equality in schools for the shunted-aside group; it must always get the short end of the stick in curtailed curriculums, inferior buildings, in undesirable locations for school buildings. The proof is plain wherever school segregation exists, as was shown by a recent study in Washington, D. C., where every attempt has been made to keep facilities for the racial groups in balance. Even there Negro schools were found to be inferior.

These facts will not necessarily determine what the Supreme Court will do. American jurisprudence rests on precedents; courts tend to base current decisions on past holdings and our law is cluttered with state and federal decisions to the effect that the separate but equal rule can be squared with the guarantees of the Fourteenth Amendment.

The time has come to break with those precedents. Segregation has created problems instead of solving them. It is demonstratably true that race relations are the worst where segregation is greatest. Granted that a decision outlawing school segregation would cause some resentment, and even worse, it is plain enough that an end must be put to segregation some time or another and that delaying that day will not solve the problem.

The framers of the Fourteenth Amendment hoped, and believed, that they had fashioned a constitutional article that would wipe out racial distinctions and discriminations. Their hopes and beliefs were thwarted by a series of reactionary decisions that gave the states the right to classify citizens on the basis of race and thus subject them to discrimination and segregation.

Necessarily, too, the Supreme Court must weight its decision on the scales of the present-day international situation. A decision upholding the Jim Crow system would inevitably feed the fires of Red propaganda in Asia, in Africa, and throughout the world. It would give our foes new ammunition to fire at the democratic system.

Scientific facts, common sense and the spirit of the constitution combine to require that the Supreme Court wipe out the old and dangerous separate but equal rule and remove the prime obstacle to first-class citizenship for Negroes. We hope the Court lives up to the responsibility that belongs to it and hands down a decision holding that the Constitution is color blind and does not countenance school segregation based on the irrelevant fact of race or color.

Harry S. Truman, Statesman

President Truman's forthright reaffirmation of and demand for the extension of his civil rights program is in refreshing contrast to the weaseling of Dwight Eisenhower, Republican presidential aspirant, who wants to leave the matter to the states.

The President knows what Ike hasn't had a chance to learn during his long service in the Army and that is the simple fact that these issues cannot be left to the states and that the federal government must intervene to protect the rights of its citizens.

We hope that Mr. Truman's vigorous stand will give courage to the platform committee of the Democratic party and lead them to stand on the 1948 civil rights planks.

Quite aside from the fact that the Democrats' hopes and chances for success lie in standing firm on the civil rights issue they should have the good sense to see that responsibility to the nation and the future of our international relations demand that they follow the President's lead.

We remarked when Mr. Truman announced his decision to retire from the presidency this year that historians will record his fight for civil rights as his most significant contribution to the national welfare. He took the issue out of the hands of do-gooders, sociologists, social workers, and professional race relations "experts" and made it the central political question of our times.

No office seeker can evade the civil rights issue now. He must stand up and be counted. It crops up in every political discussion. And that hue and cry over it is a healthy sign because democracies solve problems through open discussion, through debate, and finally through legislative enactments. Solution is in sight and no single individual will have contributed as much to that solution as Harry S. Truman.

A Bad Vote, Don

Councilman Don Allen's vote against the salary increase sought by the city's policemen and firemen defies understanding. Mr. Allen must know that these very important public servants are underpaid at the moment. He must know that they can't rear their families and pay their bills on what they're getting now. He must know that civil service rules that prevent them from getting outside employment doom them to a precarious existence.

We don't believe that Mr. Allen subscribes to the penny-wise and pound foolish policy of underpaying city employes. Surely he can see that such a policy is suicidal in the long run.

As a councilman who has many of these employes in his district we hope that Mr. Allen will reconsider his vote and finally decide to cast it in favor of decent wages for those on whose shoulders rests such a heavy responsibility for the safety, security, and welfare of the citizens of this city.

In the Rubbish Heap

The "Freedom of Choice" initiative which would have repealed the state's civil rights laws, forbade fair employment practices legislation and opened the gates for enforcement of race restrictive covenants won't appear on the November ballot.

Its supporters didn't get enough signatures to qualify it and it is a dead letter for at least another two years. California is the gainer by that failure and we hope its collapse marks the end of a crackpot proposal to turn the clock back in this state.

Lester B. Granger's

Battle Axe & Bread

Most of our race relations programs—even those led by well-intentioned, sincere persons—are apt to suffer from a near-fatal error. They are apt to depend upon old-fashioned, worn-out approaches to racial problems that change shape and content practically every day.

It is therefore encouraging to note the approving comment which Negro newspapers have generally made regarding the first year's operations of the National Urban League's Commerce and Industry Council. This Council consists of 26 top leaders in business and industry who help further the Urban League's objectives of equal economic opportunity, regardless of race. They advise on program, help establish key contacts, raise money for League support and many contribute generously themselves.

It is amusing, however, to note the poorly concealed surprise with which some observers have recognized this development. They ask: How can Big Business help with a Liberal program? That question in itself exposes the "old-fashioned, worn-out approaches" referred to in the opening paragraph.

The Ford Motor Company is an example of how unrealistic it is to suppose that a big industrial corporation is automatically opposed to all "liberal ideas." Sometimes they are opposed; sometimes they provide powerful support for liberal impulses, it all depends upon how intelligent corporation leadership is. An industrial corporation is first of all a profit-making enterprise. When its leaders realize that its profits are best assured in a community that is stable, progressive and well-adjusted, and when connection between the profit motive and a liberal program is shown, the corporation may be as "liberal" as the next party.

The Ford Motor Company has been a generous contributor to the National Urban League for a half dozen years. Last year, the company provided two-thirds of the cost of running the National Urban League's Southern Field operations. The League's southern activities, under Nelson C. Jackson, produced some remarkable gains in economic progress for southern Negroes. Here are only a few of the successes chalked up by the League and made possible by Ford support:

In Jacksonville, Fla., and Memphis, Tenn., white and Negro business and civic leaders have joined in setting up industrial relations programs and providing better jobs for Negro workers. While skeptics insist that "this can't be done in the South," it is being done—modestly at the start, but with encouraging gains already recorded.

Urban League operatives have literally haunted the Atomic Energy project in South Carolina's Savannah River area during the past year. As a result, 5,000 Negroes are now employed in all types of jobs—1,000 of these are in skilled capacities such as carpenters, masons, machinists, and even a few clerical positions.

In New Orleans, La., the Urban League held a Full Manpower Use conference with 40 white employers taking part. Immediately thereafter, one big plant upgraded over 50 Negroes to skilled and semi-skilled jobs for the first time in plant history. In Oklahoma City, Okla., there is a full company of Negro firemen as a result of Urban League effort. There are improved school and hospital facilities in Atlanta, Ga.; there is a new, privately financed housing project in Fort Worth, Tex.; there are more Negro policemen in Little Rock, Ark., and the race line has been broken for Negro physicians in the hospitals of Miami, Fla.

None of these things did the Ford Motor Company do itself but it was partly responsible for them through the instrumentality of the Urban League which it supported. Ford was impelled by an interest in better economic conditions for Negroes in the South, increased buying power and, down the road, more buyers for Ford cars.

This is the kind of enlightened self-interest which is an important tool for Negroes to use—if only we have the skill to use it. Wt have moved a long distance from automatically classifying corporations as "conservative" merely because they operate on the profit motive. Most of us are looking for profits. The question is how intelligent are we in our search for them, and we are beginning to find that corporations can be intelligent too.

Roy Wilkins'

The Watch Tower

This week Texans are celebrating what they call "Juneteenth" which is the 19th of June each year. June 19th is Emancipation day in Texas and so far as is known, it is the only Emancipation day which is truly celebrated in holiday fashion.

Texans stay away from work, hold picnics and barbecues, parades, meetings and memorials, and generally have themselves a time. In this way they commemorate a great event in the history of their people and also call attention of their white neighbors to themselves and their progress.

Negroes in other sections of the country hold weak and ineffective observances of various Emancipation days. In a section of the Middle West Emancipation day is August 5. In other places they celebrate September 22, the date when Lincoln signed the document. In still other places, including the East, they celebrate January 1, the date when the proclamation went into effect. Most of these celebrations take the dry and uninteresting form of mass meetings with long speeches and music. Sometimes politicians take advantage of them to appear and tell the colored people how much they love them and what they will do for them if elected. The sorriest celebrations are held on the afternoon of January 1 when the weather is usually very bad and when everyone and his brother is recovering from some kind of celebration of New Year the night before. The result is that no crowd appears for these meetings and no outstanding speakers can be secured because they know in advance what kind of meeting will be held.

Texans are wiser. Their day of celebration comes in June when the weather is suitable for good time. They can combine picnics and mass meetings. They can jump into their cars and go far from the sidewalks of everyday life. They can dance. They can have outdoor pageants. They can have fun.

Our whole race needs a national day of celebration. Every people here in America has some such day except us. The Irish take over on St. Patrick's day. The Poles, the Rumanians, Greeks, Norwegians, Swedes, and Italians all have their days. The Chinese make a big celebration of their New Year. The Spanish-Americans have their fiestas. Only the Negro has no national day to commemorate. And of all the peoples, he needs one most. It could become a powerful instrument for understanding and good will.

Why could not all the rest of the Negro Americans take over the Texans' Juneteenth and make it a national holiday? What better holiday to celebrate than that marking emancipation? With the Jews their emancipation day is a religious observance, the Passover, but it is one of their greatest days.

We Negroes desperately need a unifying activity for our own benefit. We need anchor points to give us a sense of our heritage. We need inspiration for our children. We need observances, as a whole group, to instill pride and enable us to stand before our fellow Americans with our heads up. Purely as a propaganda weapon amongst the 140 million other Americans we need a national day on which to mark our progress and call attention to our contributions to our nation. Here's to a national Juneteenth!

ON THE BOOKSHELF

Here are some recent and readable books that will add to your enjoyment of music this summer.

THE PLEASURES OF MUSIC ed. by Jacques Barzun

This delightful and witty book is a compilation of great writing about music and musicians from the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries to our own time. Presented are several great composers in the less familiar role of essayists and comentators.

THE CONCERT COMPANION by Robert Bagar and Louis Biancolli

This is an excellent guide to a wide and catholic field of concert music. Intended for the layman, the book presents sound and simple thematic analyses, with notes that are brief and to the point: Considerable space is given to biographical material and anaecdotes.

TWENTIETH CENTURY MUSIC by Marion Bauer

Have you ever wondered what modern music is all about—the extreme kind, that is to say? Believe it or not, there is method in the apparent madness of many of the modernist composers and their music begins to sound different once you have grasped what they are trying to do. This simple guide gives an excellent introduction to the new music of our times.

ORCHESTRAL MUSIC by Laurence Gilman

This "armchair guide" covers the standard concert repertoire with perhaps just a little too much emphasis on Wagner, an especial favorite of the author. Here are musical essays that will particularly enthrall you by the fine style and rich humanity of the writing.

THE SATURDAY REVIEW BOOK OF RECORDED MUSIC AND SOUND REPRODUCTION ed. by Edward Tatnall Canby

Music at our command, a privilege once accorded only to kings, is now becoming the pleasure of any man with the money and the desire to start a record collection. As a matter of fact, many of today's monarchs seem to outstrip their ancient counterparts in their demands for standards that will give them music as they want to hear it. Now, for this growing band, three experts have written on the technical background of recording, the assembling of home reproduction equipment, and the values to listen for in recorded music.

THE DECEIVERS by John Masters

India of the 19th century was terrified by the Thugs, whose dread cult of Kali, the Destroyer, glorified murder and robbery. The author unfolds the story, based on fact, of a newly married Britisher, who jeopardizes his life in joining a band of Thugs in an effort to break up their loathsome religion. The dark ritual and savage superstition of the ungodly sect lends distinction to this period novel.

THE LONG MEMORY by Howard Clewes

Philip Davidson who had served sentence for a murder he did not commit, emerges from prison obsessed by a desire for revenge against the two who had borne witness against him, but as he confronts his enemy, he finds release, without violence, from the hangover of hate. The wasteland waterfront of England lends a shadowed montage to the narrative which is handled with a clean precision.

THE TENTMAKER by Julius Berstl

The first volume in a proposed two-volume fictionalized treatment of the life of Saint Paul, this one is confined to his youth. From sparse available facts, the author has evolved an engrossing reconstruction of the period—the pageants, the thrilling ceremonies at the Jersalem Temple, the panorama of peoples and cultures—all giving a feeling of authenticity. An unusual protrait of the devout young Jew who become one of the founders of the Christian Church.

Hot Copy!

Copy for this week's "Sounding Off" was so hot that it was lost, stolen or strayed, while en route from the Eagle office to the print shop.

The loss was discovered too late to replace. The copy will be escorted over to the print shop by special police in an asbestos case next week. The subject will again be, "Preachers and Politics."

Resolution Would Ban Segregation

CHICAGO, June 12. — The National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U.S.A. went on record here as unalterably opposed to segregation and vigorously urged the churches to strive for a "non-segregated church and a non-segregated society."

Its general board in a statement adopted after ninety minutes of debate declared that segregation was "unnecessary and undesirable" and stood as a direct violation "of the gospel of love and human brotherhood."

Of the 29 Protestant and Eastern Orthodox churches constituting the National Council, only one abstained from voting on the segregation issues. This was the Presbyterian Church, U.S., whose representatives said they regarded the statement as ill-considered and likely to cause more harm than good.

Other highlights of the General Board's bi-monthly session here included a decision to make New York City the temporary headquarters of the National Council; plans for an intensive summer program of evangelism at Yellowstone Park; and a number of key staff appointments in both Chicago and New York.

Defeat Substitute

On the segregation issue, the two representatives of the Presbyterian Church, U.S., Dr. John Land, pastor of the St. Charles Avenue Presbyterian church, New Orleans, and Dr. Benjamin A. Lacey, president of Union Theological Seminary, Richmond, Va., introduced a substitute statemen which was overwhelmingly defeated.

The statement offered by the two church officials described segregation as an evil similar in nature to "war, slums, economic injustice, political corruption, divorce and other unchristian conditions."

In offering the substitute statement, Dr. Land said the statement drawn up by the National Council's Department of Christian Life and Work, advocated "sweeping changes which could only be brought about gradually, mainly through education and quiet understanding."

The majority of church leaders spoke out in favor of the document they adopted. Dr. Luther A. Weigle, dean emeritus of Yale's Divinity School, New Haven, Conn., said that "nothing that ca ever come before this body of such momentous importance as the principle contained in this document. This is a test of whether or not the churches dare to live up to their principles."

The statement adopted by the General Board without any vocal "nos" charged that the churches were as much to blame for the approved method of segregation as any of the so-called secular institutions.

The statement called on the churches to eliminate segregation in their institutions, facilities, theological seminaries, places of worship and conferences. It also stressed the need for the churches to press for fair and non-discrimination practices in employment, housing, education, health and leisure-time activities.

Zion Church Backs Truman

Bishop W. J. Walls, senior bishop, A. M. E. Zion church, said at the close of the 34th quadrennial session of the general conference that the Board of Bishops unanimously endorsed President Truman's Civil Rights Program.

The prelate spoke for the board and was forceful in his praise. "The interest that President Truman has shown in the Negroes and all minorities is full evidence that he is worthy of all the praise and support that can be given him. He is determined that this nation, under God, shall forever remain indivisable."

The church is known to have been one of the militant forces in America and Bishop Walls' declaration bears out this tradition. It was founded on liberty and the courage to bolt prejudices and it has been its policy to speak out against injustices since its founding.

This is the first statement made by the Board of Bishops since the close of the general conference. It is expected to continue its crusade for right and justice in the matters of state just as it is fighting to bring men to God.

HOLLYWOOD PARK—Calumet Farm's famed racing stable grabbed everything in sight at Hollywood Park last Saturday including both ends of the double-header stakes program. In a spectacular display of teamwork, Red Silks of this famous stable finished one-two-three in the $25,000 added Vanity Stakes. Two Lea, Wistful and Jennie Lee, running in that order. It was just a gallop for a gleam in the Debonair Stakes. The stable's Crack Little 3-year-old filly, scored a brilliant victor over the best fillies n the country.

Funds Needed To Send Girl To Track Meet

A fund raising campaign to enable Marguerite Phillips Edwards to travel east to compete in the National AAU and Olympic finals for women, was started this week.

Mrs. Edwards, who is one of the top sprinters in California, has been working out very evening at Ross Snyder playground under the careful tutelage of William Lacefield, former Olympic team member.

In two AAU meets held in California, Mrs. Edwards has won the 50 meter dash, and placed second in the 100 meter, 200 meter dashes, second in the baseball throw, and anchored a winning relay team.

Interested persons are urged to send in this week contributions to the fund, as the National AAU meet will be held in Waterbury, Conn., the 27 and 28 of June while the Olympic finals will be held July 4, in Harrisburg, Penn.

Funds can be sent to Olympic Fund, California Eagle, 1050 E. 43rd place, L. A. 11.

ABIE'S CORNER

The completion of the United States Open golf tournament in Dallas this week reminded us of the fight Negro golfers have been waging against the PGA for the right to earn their living at a profession of their own choosing. We read over the entry list very carefully, but couldn't find a Spiller, Reed, Louis, or any other brother listed.

This corner, and the Eagle disagreed violently with the position taken by Joe Louis when he agreed to play in the San Diego tourney as an amateur, while Bill Spiller, a pro, was barred.

Supporters of Louis claimed that it was impossible for the "Champ" to play 18 holes with Horton Smith, and not make him see the light.

If Smith saw the light, it was a bare peep, as after Joe's "historic" round with Smith the boys played a couple of tournaments in Arizona, and the love feast was over.

Louis and Reed went for the Okie Doke. They accepted the appeasing offer of the right to play in any tournament to which Negro golfers might be invited; to set up a jim-crow committee of Negro golfers to "screen" golfers who might want to play in PGA tournaments; and then proclaimed to the world that they had cracked golf's color line!

Smith's concession that lads of dark complexion might play in tournaments in which they were invited to play, is just like Eisenhower and Taft saying they're for the states to decide on FEPC. Their acceptance of the responsibility of screening Negro golfers for play in PGA tourneys, is just like the Negro who fights for a jim-crow hospital, school, or housing project, so he can be top dog in a segregated pound.

The PGA operates like a closed union. The fight the Negro golfers had was with the PGA and not with sponsoring clubs. The PGA is the ruling body, and when they accept a golfer, he is eligible to play in any tournament that they sponsor, if he can qualify.

One of the few good features of the Taft-Hartley law, is that a closed union and a closed shop cannot exist to prevent outsiders either joining the union, or working in the shop. The PGA is a closed union and operates a closed shop. They set up a jim-crow auxiliary for Louis and company.

The same thing happened in California in the Boilermakers union during the war. Barred from the Union and shop, unscrupulous Negroes set up a jim-crow auxiliary, and reaped the benefits of jim-crow. The California Supreme court outlawed such a set-up, and a Negro was free to join the union and work, or if excluded from the union, could work in the shop.

That was the principle involved in the fight on the PGA in California. In New York the fight was to be on the basis of the FEPC law. The steam is gone from the battle as it has been publicized that jim-crow is gone from golf.

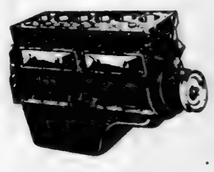
A person who compromises on principle, is lower than a man who has no principles. Langston Hughes said it very clearly in his autobiography, The Big Sea.

"I felt bad, confused, puzzled. I had never thought much before about the nature of compromise. For bread, how much of the spirit must one give away?

I began to think of Nat Turner, Harriet Tubman, Sojourner Truth, John Brown, Fred Douglass—folks who left no buildings behind them—only a wine of words fanning the bright flame of the spirit down the dark lanes of time.

"The old grad has his buildings just as Booker T. Washington had Tuskegee.

"Yet how heavily the bricks of compromise settle into place!"



Just substitute a golf tournament for the buildings, and you can see the enormority of the crime Joe Louis and his advisor Leonard Reed committed. As the saying goes, "If you don't know, ask somebody, but be sure he knows."

Our righteous indignation boiled over into a rather "heavy" corner this week, but before we close would like to acknowledge a contribution to the Phillips fund sent in by Warren Steinberg, a teacher at Jordan high. He read about Mrs. Phillips, and sent in a buck to start the fund rolling. We duly acknowledge with heartfelt thanks, and feverently hope that this dollar will multiply like the amoeba, who really has a split personality.

CLARENCE HENRY

Sound guidance and a little encouragement were apparently all that Clarence Henry, the new Negro heavyweight powderkeg, needed to lift himself out of the class of work-a-day fighters and become a national headliner, says Lester Bromberg in Sport Magazine.

PHOENIX DEBUTANTE MARRIES POPULAR LOCAL FRATERNITY MAN

IT'S TIME—For many out of town guests who attended the impressive wedding ceremony to receive their memoir in form of cake. Serving first slice in usual manner are Mrs. and Mrs. George A. Gopaul who were given breakfast following ceremony at Bob Tate's Rose Room. Gopaul is popular member of local Kappas.

OFFICIATED VOWS—Bridegroom's brother, the Rev. Paul A. Gopaul of San Francisco pronounced vows that joined attractive couple. After ceremony Mrs. Thomas A. Crump, Rev. Gopaul and Dr. Thomas A. Crump discussed Rev. Gopaul's plans of continuing his religious studies in Boston. Crumps are prominent members of Los Angeles society as well as Phoenix.

At a formal nuptial mass, read at St. Mary's Church in Phoenix recently, pretty Beverly Ann Crump became the bride of George A. Gopaul of Los Angeles.

She is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Crump of 1329 E. Jefferson street, Phoenix. He is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Mortimer Gopaul.

The bride wore a formal gown of white French chantilly lace and white nylon net over satin, was trimmed with seed pearls. Her headdress was also of chantilly lace and nylon net, accented with seed pearls, catching a finger-tip length veil. She carried a white prayer book with an arrangement of white orchids and stephanotis.

Marlene Crump, who attended her sister as maid of honor, was gowned in a formal dress of lavender with a lace bodice and peplum, and nylon net skirt. She chose a matching hat and carried pink carnations and yellow roses in a fan arrangements.

Other attendants were Wanda Harris of Los Angeles who wore a similar gown of green lace and net and Betty Rideau, whose gown was of pink lace and net. They wore matching hats and carried pink carnations and yellow roses in a fan ararngement.

Little Evelyn Thompson of Tucson was flower girl. She wore a long dress, fashioned of yellow lace and nylon net, a headdress made of yellow carnations and carried a matching basket, containing pink rose petals.

Aqua Lace

The bride's mother, Mrs. Thomas A. Crump, wore a formal gown fashioned of aqua lace, a pink hat and gloves. Her flowers were a corsage of orchids.

Masculine members of the entourage were Charles Walker of San Francisco, best man, and William Crump, brother of the bride, Newton Harris of Los Angeles, Virgil Berry and Duquesne Dickey, ushers.

The bridegroom's brother, the Rev. Paul A. Gopaul of San Francisco officiated at the vows. Serving at the nuptial mass was a cousin of the bride, John Edward Perry of Houston, Texas and Donald Rideau.

Immediately following the ceremony, a breakfast attended by the bridal party, the family and the out-of-town guests, was held at Bob Tate's Rose Room.

Saturday evening, a garden reception at the Crump home honored the newly weds, who have established a home in Los Angeles.

Mrs. Gopaul, who attended St. Mary's High School and Arizona State college, is affiliated with the Ivy Leaf club. She plans to enroll at the University of Southern California in the fall.

Gopaul is attending the University of Southern California and is affiliated with Kappa Alpha Psi fraternity.

Among the out-of-town guests attending were Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Price of Los Angeles, grandparents of the bride; Michael Gopaul and Mrs. Victoria Vincen of San Francisco and Mrs. Pauline Morris of Los Angeles, brother and sisters of the bridegroom; Mrs. A. B. Thompson of Tucson, Mesdames Emily Portwig, Dorothy Houston, Merre Green, C. R. Scott; Mr. and Mrs. Ley Simpson, Barbara Grant, Camille Roane Cannady and Mr. and Mrs. Z. Banks, all of Los Angeles.

LACE, NET, ORCHIDS AND ROSES—Were majestically worn by bridal party who attended Crump-Gopaul marriage held in formal nuptial mass at St. Mary's church, Phoenix, recently. Marlene Crump, sister to bride, served as maid of honor. She wore lavender with a lace bodice and peplum. A bouquet of pink carnations and yellow roses was carried out in fan motif. Wandie Harris, Los Angeles, chose green and Betty Rideau selected pink. Attendants are pictured chatting with bride, second from left.

She, her two adopted kids and her estranged mate's mother visited here last summer. It's pretty safe to guess Thelma once her matrimonial mix-up is straight won't return here to live since the coast's allure dimmed considerably for her long seasons back.

Thoroughly likeable Louise Cooper who spent lengthly time in L. A. then returned to her native Jamaica to build her home will return here before long. She plans a year's visit this time then back again to the BWI where she really lives the life.

Actress Weds in Splendor

One of the brightest stars of stage and screen was united in marriage on last balmy Sunday afternoon beside a pool in which huge water lilies floated. Beautiful Joan Douglas became the wife of James Croomes Jr. on the spacious grounds surrounding the home of Mr. and Mrs. Torrance, 2265 W. 22nd Street.

A score of intimate friends witnessed the ceremony which took place in front of a vine covered trellis upon which big wedding bells were strung. Bubbles of many colors drifted over the lavish altar where the bride and groom repeated vows.

The new Mrs. Croomes became popular in theatrical society when she attracted attention in the movie "Stormy Weather." From there she advanced in motion pictures with "Wabash Avenue," starring Betty Grable. Before that the young entertainer played important musical parts in local stage productions. She is affiliated with the Screen Actors' Guild.

Club's Coffee Huge Success

The Twelve o'Clock High Charity and Social club held their first Spring Coffee, Sunday, June 15. Wilfandel Clubhouse, beautifully decorated with flowers, was turned into a spring garden and old man Sol, very much in accord, made it a perfect day for socializing.

The club members, dressed in the latest in pastel patio dresses, added to the beauty and were ideal hostesses. On hand enjoying the hospitality and looking very charming were Mrs. Charles S. Morris, II, and Mrs. Paul Williams.

Games were played and two beautiful orchids, the club flower, were given away as prizes.

A sheet cake, adorned with individual roses, was donated to the Los Angeles Orphanage, gladdening the hearts of many little boys and girls.

Members of the Twelve o'Clock High would like to express their gratitude to the public for making their coffee a huge success.

OF THEATRICAL IMPORTANCE—As well as social was the splendorous wedding of Joan Douglas to James Croomes Jr., her childhood sweetheart. The bride proudly shows off her diamonds to Larry J. Douglas, groom, best man George Manos, matron of honor Myrtle Manos and vocalist Ruth Given.

West Indian Club Sets New Vogue

Important features stressed in milady's summer and fall creations will set the major fashion trend at a style show presented by the West Indian American club on Sunday, June 29. Scheduled for 3 to 7 p.m., at the Sojourner Truth home, the show will also provide a variety program featuring an array of talents.

Several weeks ago, prominent clothes consultants, as well as fabric manufactors, and a group of Los Angeles leading modstes were consulted for ideas and personal opinions on correct presentation which included style, designs, blending, seasons, and of course, the appropriate hour.

Advanced Styles

Advance styles for every member of the family will be displayed as tots to grandparents are listed among the models. Clothes which reveals no limitations will be one of the key features.

Themed, "Fashions and Tea," the well-publicized affair will be commentated by Rena Marlowe Hughes, popular society leader.

Serving as general chairman is Mrs. Emily Clarke who for many years created styles and taught designing and theory in this city. She is assisted by Mrs. Clara Humphries, fashion corordinator, and Mamie L. Payne, entertainment chairman.

Amusettes Hold Spring Formal

Gaiety and color accented the Amusettes' first annual spring formal, held at the Elks Auditorium Saturday, June 7, where several hundred happy guests danced to the scintillating tunes of Sammy Franklin's band.

The high point of the evening came at midnight when the members of the club, gorgeously gowned in aqua blue taffeta and lace strapless evening dresses, made their appearances upon the stage which had been transformed, florally, into a beautiful spring garden scene. Though gowned in the same color of blue, each girl's dress was individually styled so that no two of them were the same. Silver slippers, pearl necklaces and pearl earrings completed each girl's attire. In contrast, the president appeared in a lovely gown of white tulle, with a bodice of brocaded organdy. Each girl wore upon her shoulder a brilliant red corsage of glorious antheniums.

Frank Patterson, local insurance man, introduced Dr. Henry J. Atkinson, popular Westside physician, who in turn made the formal presentation of the Amusettes to their waiting audience. Stepping onto the stage, lovely and smiling as their names were called were: Bobbye Patterson, benevolent chairman; Zenobia Gillohm, chaplain; Arabella Carr, reporter; Marie Zeurcher, social chairman; Thelma Alexander, business manager; Isabelle Nichols, treasurer; Doris Allen, recording secretary; Marguerite Marsh, corresponding secretary; and Bernice Pierce, president. Another member, Vice-President LaVaughn Watkins, was unable to be present.

Following the dance, the club members, their husband and a select group of friends, including Dr. and Mrs. Henry Atkinson and their party, enjoyed a delicious breakfast at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Patterson, 3681 Fourth avenue.

All of the festivities which are enchanting to children, such as games, prizes, ice cream, kodaking, favors, gifts were enjoyed by Renauld's young guests.

They included Vicki Alviso, Barbara Brown, Minnie Ruth Webb, Donna Jean and Donald Watkins, Cheryl and James Underwood, Cheryl Harland, Carol McClellen and Jeanine, Gary Johnson, Lillian, Dora and Ellen Walker, Sylvia and Jairez Bonia, Donald Ramirez, Lomis, A. Eastern Columbia Showing New Line of Mens's Suits

Something new has been added at Eastern-Columbia . . . and it's a completely restocked men's department. Los Gelles, the man who buys the suits, has made arrangements with one of the country's largest manufacturers to bring his younger customers truly "modern" designed suits . . . the kind of styles that gives a man individuality.

Such features as one-piece backs, low surpressed waistlines and self-covered buttons are only a few of the points of interest in these new suits, and there's practically an unlimited selection of fabrics and colors.

To top it off, Lou says his prices are the lowest anywhere for such quality and styling. "Compare prices," says Lou, "then come on over to E-C and look around. You'll really be surprised."

Eastern-Columbia, Broadway at Ninth, is also noted for the large selection of easy payment terms, suited to fit the individual customer's clothing budget.

Ernie Powell and his lovely wife Eva are leaving soon for Chicago where Ernwaldo will conclude his studies in law school. Good luck to nice people.

Iris Duplantiere and Arthur Anderson continued their relationships by becoming one (getting hitched) last Sunday . . .

Deloras Roberts, who in recent years has been very finicky over the company she keeps finally made up her mind. His name is Al Givins . . .

We hear that Al Elliot is really hung up behind a certain Nancy (not the funny book character). They say he'd walk a thousand miles for one of those smiles.

Kiss O'Fire (or hot lips are more than they used to be)

A pretty miss who has made the rounds of most of males is trying desperately to conquer the heart of a happy-go-lucky broad-jumper. Heard tell she's going to all ends to gain an advantage over her very-much-in-there rival . . .

Have you detected a fiend in our society? In our midst, this boy stands. Look for the cat that always appears on the scene alone. Look for a grin of delight as he stands stationary on the dance floors, closely bound within the crowd of moving dancers. Here are the earmarks of a pervert.

Oh, Sunny Day!

Beach weather is here at last. Preston Johnson, lover extraordinary, gave the common folks a look at the fancy beach wear worn by Joan Arnold. This, of course, presents a problem. We were expecting to see someone on his arm as he strutted down the beach of love.

Caught With Their Faces Uncovered

That certain group of athletically-minded gals have been shocked at the thought that their men (for the season) are soon to be joined by their wives, who are here to watch them perform in the Olympic trials. They say that one of the old gals is already on the scene and is making inquiries as to the identities of the femmes.

A popular young man, whose initials fall between the letters A and Z, fits well into the love trap set by the gal and her lover. She felt the need for monies to pay for the last Grayburn's suit her fellow ordered and to settle the financial crisis they thought it smart to get a lame-brained individual to assist. She has blamed an unfortunate mishap on him and it has already cost him somewhere in the neighborhood of three-hundred dollars to "get rid of it."

Just for the Sake of Good Times

Camille Billips and Mary Vandange thought it fancy to throw a wild shindig. The majority of the folk shin digs . . . we mean, dug skins . . . we mean, dug . . . anyway it was nice. It would not have been in true color without the throng of crash artists hollering "Let us in, let us in." Those with the more perfected hypes were admitted, others were left to die on the doorsteps. Some who managed to cross the moat into the castle of joys were Sam Langford, Curtis Tompson, Elaine Lindo, Jesse Harmon, Dorothy Cain with Bob Williams, Gene Ramos, Billy Benefield, Bob Moore, Uly Griggs, Sherill Luke and Walter Smith. My (but she's greedy). Yvonne La Chapelle, Mary Cantrell, Louise Ateman, Edith Lyons and Alice Fresno all said, "we walk on them too," as their respective partners, Archie Durham, David Reed, Eddie Roberts, Bob O'Reily and Leon McCarty politely excused themselves for dancing all over their feet. Also joining in on the wayward benge were Dion Marrow, Newton Harris, Calvin Lawrence and Jo Anne Leonard.

No Longer Will . . .

Judy Pico sing "Lover Come Back to Me," 'cause he's here now. One guess, yep, no other than Duquesne Dickie who just returned to our fair city, from a college in Arizona.

Gene Ramos feel homesick. He too is in town for the summer vacation. He returns from Xavier University, where he has been enrolled for the past semester.

We fill out unjustifiable absence reports, 'cause school is out.

Skies be cloudy all day. But will be smoggy and gray. Oh! unpleasant day.

Theresa Matthews talk the way she used to about Benny Prescott. They've broken up, and Sneaky Pete himself (Newton Harris) seems to have things back in his corner again.

On the Social Calendar

The Sophisticated Ladies are giving an affair this Saturday night that will more than likely be their greatest success. It'll be thrown at the Alpha Bowling Club.

Not to be overlooked or forgotten is the Scrollers' Carnival and Dance, which is coming sooner than you think, June 28th to be exact.

Ye Olde Phrateries are pushing their way into the starlit-heavens by presenting their "Extravaganza," the 19th of July.

Last but not least are the Ivies who present their much heralded blowout at the Zenda Friday. Everybody's gonna be there. We recommend it as the highlight of the weekend.

Woof, Woof

BANDLEADER JOHNNY OTIS honored postman and former track star, W. T. Hines and Dr. Garner Van Grayson at his Father's Day dance at Elks auditorium last Sunday. Both honorees are proud fathers of twins. A near capacity crowd of 2100 fans attended the dance.

signed by Lolita Johnson and named "Whisper" was worn by the gracious newly-wed. It was made out of 35 yards of nylon tulle with four skirts, giving the ensemble a graceful bouffant appearance. Four square yards of ribbed pleating measuring 10 yards were added to the outer skirt. French roses of pale blue were delicately sewn to the gown.

A draped headpiece created by Bullock's, continued the soft blue scheme. She carried white orchids and bouvardia composed by Mr. and Mrs. Pink of Hollywood.

Blue kid gloves molded her fingers. Around the neck hung a pendant of seed pearls and rhinestones, with tiny pearls adorning the ears.

A soft detachable tulle stole draped her lovely shoulders, cascaded over her right shoulder and tucked neatly into folds over the left forearm.

She was attended by Myrtle Manos who wore a pink creation and carried a bouquet of pink roses. A pink hat trimmed with veiling completed her stunning attire. In the groom's service was best man George Manos, who followed in Croomes' summer light jacket, dark pants and bow tie pattern.

Benevolent Variety Artists served as hostesses. All were gowned in exquisite dresses of brilliant colors. Pre-nuptial bridal music was contributed by Edith Owens. Vocalists Ruth Given, Dr. Mansfield Collins and William Ross were part of the musical program. Rev. J. Wolfred officiated.

Among the many notables were the manager, his family and friends of "Open House," exclusive lounge and restaurant in Hollywood where Croomes is employed. Also attending were several out of towners with a prominent group from Santa Barbara present to witness the splendor of the ceremony.

Following the reception, the wedding party moved on to Rubaiyat Room, Hotel Watkins, and climaxed the merrymaking in the home of Louise Franklin where cocktails were served.

Lydia Bailey To Open at Paramount

One of the most exciting and thrilling motion pictures of the current season, Twentieth Century-Fox's Technicolor production of "Lydia Bailey" comes to the screens of the new Downtown Paramount and Fox Wilshire Theatres starting Friday, June 27th.

Filmed from Kenneth Robert's best-selling novel, "Lydia Bailey" is the pulsating story of youthful American hero who finds love and adventure in Haiti. Anne Francis and Dale Robertson have the leading roles. An outstanding Negro actor from the New York stage, William Marshall, makes an indelible impression in his first screen role as King Dick.

Old songs and chants of Haiti, some with their origins in the Voodeo faith, are sung in "Lydia Bailey." A noted choral group, led by one of the foremost interpreters of Haitian native music, LeRoi Antonie, also act in the picture and provide background music.

The film marks a milestone for Hollywood. For the first time a motion picture has been built around a black county with giant leaders who had the courage to fight for freedom and independence, to sucessfully repulse the superior forces of the great Napoleon.

Play Review

"LONGITUDE 49," at the Folk Theatre, 420 N. Soto Street. By Herb Tank, directed by Maurice Clark, settings by William Smith and Robert Sherwood. Starring Rayford Barnes, Herb Jacobs, Irvin Mosely, Ned Glass, Robert Karnes, Ralph Gerowitz, Byron Morrow, Tom Noel, Fred Graff, Robert Davis and Peter Watson.

There's an extremely well-acted play just opened in town, "Longitude 49," a sea play about the events leading and following the shooting of a Negro seaman by a bigoted white captain's mate. A new, present-day play with an air of salty realism to it, "Longitude 49" stands out for its warm group acting, with an Morrow, Bob Davis, Irvin Mosley, interracial cast headed by Byron and Ned Glass.

Playing to a crowded opening night audience, "Longitude" reached out across the footlights with its drama and brought home again the debt audiences owe to actors.

For here was Bob Davis in a sharp portrayal of a young Trinidad sailor, a lonesome Negro lad not daring to hope his white mates will fight for the rights of a Negro sailor.

And here was Irvin Mosley, still not settled securely into his role of the relaxed, confident, strong leader, "Brooks," but nevertheless coming through with a gutty performance.

Yes—actors—that's the magic of "Longitude," to a great degree. For each of them (with the exception of Ralph Gerowitz) bring their imagination and faces to the drama and the first thing you, the audience knows, you are not sitting in a theater in Boyle Heights but are riding free on a tanker at the port of Aberdeen in Iran, experiencing the reactions and living the climax of the crew's trouble.

"Longitude" is a good evening for those wanting good entertainment. The play provides some democratic meaning to its entertainment and, at 60 cents and a dollar top, whole bunches of folks should make their way to 420 N. Soto street on week-end evenings.—B. E.

Howard U. Actor Signed

Edward Hall, Howard University student who won wide listener plaudits for his outstanding performance in "Outward Bound" on CBS Radio's Sunday, June 1 broadcast of "Philip Morris Playhouse on Broadway," has been signed for professional appearances as a regular member of the Sunday evening program's cast (CBS Radio, 8:30-9:00 p.m., EDT).

Documentary Film On Negro Colleges At Local Theaters

The "Negro In Education," a documentary short feature film on the widening educational opportunities for members of the race, opens on June 29 for seven days at the Bill Robinson theater, and on July 6 at the Deluxe, Largo, Lincoln, Linda, and Savoy theaters.

The first in a series of absorbing motion pictures dealing with Negro America, "Education" spotlights Dr. Frederick Patterson, President of Tuskegee Institute, who is a film report to Claude A. Barnett of the Associated Negro Press, visits the compuses and class rooms of such outstanding educational institutions as North Carolina College, Tuskegee Institute, Bennett College, and Howard University.

At Howard, Dr. Mordecai Johnson reveals the 17 million dollar expansion program already in work at the University.

JOHNNIE RAY

Johnnie Ray, who cried his way to fame and fortune via radio, juke-box, and night club, got his theme song "Cry" from the pen and brain of a Negro night watchman in Pittsburgh, Penn., Churchill Kohlman, says Look Magazine.

People and Places

"Sounding Off," a recent new feature added to the fast growing and popular Eagle editorial pages, had this to say last week. "Next week we will discuss preachers and civic leaders." This week we will take the writer to task for not mentioning the underworld characters who are so closely associated in high places in our churches. We are firm believers in the proverb, "out of evil can come good," but we also might add it may cause scandal and shame to thousands, plus public disgrace. Although the minister hasn't done right by us since we heeded the call of Loren Miller to come join him in putting out a real newspaper for us, and despite the fact the pastor didn't attempt to hurt or help, People & Places editor feels certain he can live down many of the things that are being circulated, following the Saturday night service.

The Room

William Watkins' classy Rubaiyat Room is naturally drawing the usual new opening crowd. The W. Adams cocktail show place is a brilliant piece of architecture in the good manner of Ralph Vaughn. We think before they get the real carriage-trade they will have to darken the lights, much too bright, for the wrong-parties. Better check the waiters—had a few beefs that someone is kiting the checks.

Sight Items

Chicago's top minister, Rev. Cobbs and Rev. Joe Branham rushing to the bedside of Rev. John Branham at the Queen of Angels. Arthur (MGM) Murray making with rapid strides out Sunset Blvd., location of a Hollywood flick, Murray got a healthy part.

STUFFY (BEBOP) BRYANT stopping off long enough to say he is beboping nightly out at Ventura way. Pretty Mary Garcia, sergeant-at-arms of the Gay Fashionettes is enough reason to attend the club's affairs. Brown-skinned and baby voiced Mary McDay is the latest attraction along W. Jefferson. FORANCE H. STEAD, one of our better young licensed painters and contractor Forance's work is considered superior and is worth a call if you want that room brightened up. Reach him at TH 9780. Amsterdam News, Betty Granger writes that the Hot Shots are going great in the east. They spent eight years on the coast before heading east which is home. HOMER'S CAFE, Vernon and Avalon eatery boost some of the neatest waitress this side of heaven. Berkeley's lovely Mary Loving, wife of Capt. Walter H. Loving, who is stationed in Korea, was the pretty picture at the opening of the Rubaiyat Room. Watkins is married to her sister. CAMILLE CANNADY enjoying an out door wedding Sunday. JOHN COLEMAN, Central avenoo medic mourning the death of his good musician friend John Kirby, who died Sunday night. SLENDER, good looking JULIETTE BALL BROWN, and her imported French Poodle making with a classic appearance.

Show Biz

CHARLES TRAMMELL turning out a great job with his DOLPHIN'S OF HOLLYWOOD SHOW. AL HIBBLER, the song stylist who sings with a feeling, is back in town. The Hibbler guy will make a few recordings while in the city. We are predicting that you will go for his "LAUGHING ON THE OUTSIDE." The smooth, haunting, Hibbler style of putting everything in a number is really this one. AL WILLIAMS, dancing master of the 4-Step Brothers, is certainly burned up about his name being linked with model Dorothea Towles. Williams says no truth to the rumors he is very much in love with wifie Marie. DAPPER Barber Browne, cussing, and discusing the guy who borrowed his car for five minutes and didn't get back for five hours. Show people are going for the Chinese food at

HOSPITALIZED PASTOR

records say that "several" shots were fired.)

"I left the house and got in the car. Mrs. Simpson came after me and got in the car, screaming hysterically. The only thing I remember her saying was that she had shot me and that I had better get a doctor.

"I told her I would do so and for her to get out of the car." (Mrs. Simpson eventually got completely out of sight of police who still were seeking her when the Eagle went to press) "which she did after we had driven a short ways.

"Just An Accident"

"The whole thing was just a horrible nightmare and accident for which no one was to blame," declared Branham and piously added, "Certainly it was the Lord's will that my life was spared. In humble appreciation, I re-dedicate my life to His work through the St. Paul Church."

The typewritten statement, dated June 18, 1952, is signed with a rubber-stamped "John L. Branham."

Whether the chlorophyllin content of the explanation is great enough to kill all odorous versions of the story is thought to be largely dependent upon what Mrs. Simpson says when she comes out of hiding.

Branham, 39, 2220 W. Adams boulevard, was still at Queen of Angels Hospital Wednesday morning.

At Eagle press time, Mrs. Simpson still was on the loose with peace officers throughout Los Angeles County in search of her. She disappeared soon after she fired several shots at Rev. Branham, hitting him in the left forearm and in the stomach. She has not been heard from nor seen since—by anyone willing to admit it.

What He Told Police

Rev. Branham told police that he received a telephone call from Mrs. Simpson asking him to come to her house. He arrived there at about 5 p.m. After a lengthy conversation an argument started. The handsome young minister has refused to divulge the subject under discussion.

When he was in the hallway of her house, trying to "walk out" on the quarrel, he alleged that she declared "I'm very passionate," then went into the closet and came out again with a 38-caliber Smith and Wesson revolver.

"I'm Going to Shoot You"

Mrs. Simpson looked at Rev. Branham, he told police, and saying "I'm going to shoot you!" began firing. Out of four shots, two hit their mark.

According to his statement to police, he wrestled with her and took the gun from her. He left, entered his car, and drove home.

No Bullet Holes

Explaining the absence of bullet holes in his clothing, the minister said that he changed clothes while at home. Subsequent investigation, however, revealed no bullet-damaged clothes in his house.

Contrary to earlier reports that he attempted to drive to the hospital it has been recounted that his cousin, Army Sgt. Herbert Davis, chauffered the pastor's automobile. (Davis is attached to the U.S. Air Force and is stationed in San Bernardino.)

At Adams and Budlong, the story continues, Davis hailed a radio police car and asked assistance from the cruising officers who accompanied the pair to Georgia Street Receiving Hospital where the wounded preacher was given first aid.

Rev. Branham, taken to General Hospital from the receiving hospital, refused to give any further statements to the police or the newspapers until late Wednesday.

Filed for Gun Permit

Through records and reports in the police and sheriff departments it was learned that:

Rev. Branham filed for a gun permit in 1945.

Mrs. Simpson has been arrested on four different occasions and under three separate names: as Miss Marie Reese, 29, Dec. 4, 1941, for gambling, she gave her home address as 527 E. 33rd street; Aug. 12, 1942, bookmaking, under her present name. In a later bookmaking arrest, she identified herself as Mrs. Lillian Wilson, 29, 527 E. 33rd street. Feb. 19, 1947, she again was arrested as a "bookie" under her present name.

She was sentenced to 180 days in the County jail, suspended, and paid a fine of $50.

Herbert Simpson, husband of the accused woman, also has been jailed several times.

HAZEL SIMPSON STORY

EAGLE INTERVIEW—Mrs. Hazel Simpson and her husband, Herbert Simpson, give exclusive interview in their sumptuous home to Eagle Managing Editor S. Wendell Green.

TELLS D.A.—Mrs. Simpson gave her version of Branham shooting to district attorney Friday. She was snapped leaving D.A.'s office.

Mrs. Simpson Talks To District Attorney

Probe by Grand Jury Scheduled for July 8

By EDDIE LEE KING

Golden-haired Hazel Simpson, rated queen of the city's bookies, notorious top-flight gambler, owner of extensive properties and expensive automobiles, Friday reportedly told authorities she was attempting suicide because she was "broke," when her gun accidentally went off and seriously wounded Rev. John L. Branham.

Police had hunted for the pistol-wielding bookmaker ever since the shooting June 21 at her magnificently furnished home at 2075 W. 29th place. Mrs. Simpson turned up at the district attorney's office Friday, accompanied by her attorney, Earl C. Broady, and gave her version of the shooting affray in secret to Deputy Dist. Atty. Don Avery.

Stories Jibe

The secret report is to be turned over to the grand jury July 8, when the entire case will be probed.

According to reports which the Eagle believes to be authentic, the 39-year-old Mrs. Simpson backed up the story of the shooting previously told by Rev. Branham.

She said she was bent upon taking her own life because of financial and family troubles. Her brother, she reportedly stated, is in San Quentin; her daughter, Eleanor, had been "kicked out" of two Eastern colleges; she didn't have enough money to keep the girl in school; she was "broke"; and, to top it all, she

Bates Family Receives New Threat Note

Angus Bates, 1749 W. 42nd street, who received a threatening letter and a cross burned in his backyard June 15, received another threatening letter last Friday, according to authorities.

Bates, who vowed to defend his wife, three-year-old daughter and his home with his life if necessary, turned the letter over to postal authorities, who are investigating the case.

Inspector J. Woods, while declining to divulge the exact contents of the note, stated that it was obviously written by a white person to a Negro family. "It's obviously the work of a crank," opined Woods.

Monday morning, Councilman Don Allen, in whose district Bates resides, was visited by Adolphus Clay, director of the Civil Liberties department of the Elks, and S. Wendell Green, editor of the California Eagle, to discuss the Bates' atrocity.

Allen stated that he was in constant touch with Captain McCauley, who was doing his best to apprehend the criminals. Allen also stated that due to the incendiary nature of the cross, he had also contacted the arson squad of the fire department, and they were also conducting a thorough investigation.

"Arson is a felony," said Councilman Allen, "and if we can stick them with an arson rap, someone will go to San Quentin and these acts of vandalism will stop."

Church Flock Seeks to Oust Rev. Brooks

The furor that has embroiled St. John's Baptist church for months burst out into the open last Friday when members of the congregation sought a court order restraining Rev. James Brooks from occupying the pulpit.

Charges brought against the pastor include the sensational allegations that he is dishonest and that he is guilty of moral conduct unbecoming a minister.

Morals Questioned

Fiery arguments continued in court Wednesday, but no final decision had been reached by press time.

According to Atty. Curtis C. Taylor, counsel for some of the leading officials of the church, the indignant members claim that Rev. Brooks has refused to give proof of marriage to the woman with whom he is living and whom he claims is his wife, and additionally gave the church a check for $100 which "bounced," and which he never made good.

The hearing on the injunction came up before Judge Frank G. Swain in Superior Court.

Fights Ouster

Rev. Brooks is fighting the ouster. He claims that it was decided upon by a minority of the church members, and that he has the support of the majority of his flock. He is being represented by Attorney Thomas L. Griffith Jr.

The angered officials claimed that the charges against the pastor were discussed at a meeting

Suspect in Hotel Killing Gives Self Up

Herbert L. Williams, 31, 1209 Sherman avenue, Monrovia, gave himself up to San Diego police Friday for the shooting to death of Percy Sompratt, 37, 333 East 4th street, two days earlier, during the pre-dawn hours.

According to witnesses in testimonies to the coroner's jury during the inquest Monday, on the day of the killing, Sompratt was heard arguing with Williams and Betty Fouche (true name Ruth Marie Tompkin), 36, Williams' white common-law wife, of 333 East 4th street, room 11.

Grand Jury Probes Police Brutality

The grand jury investigation into the second Christmas Day police brutality charge, involving young Elmer Lloyd Kelley, who died 10 weeks later, was continuing as the Eagle went to press.

Kelley died in the Army's Letterman General hospital, San Francisco, March 13, 1951. The report showed death was caused by a cerebral hemorrhage, though Kelley was only 20 years old at the time.

The youth's grandmother has charged that Kelley had never had headaches before the arrest, but that immediately afterwards he began to complain of dizziness and frequent pains in his head. The family charged the death was due to the beating at the hands of Wilshire policemen.

Art Reynolds, 20, who was with Kelley when he was arrested, reportedly claimed that both he and Kelley were severely beaten and kicked by police in the street, and were again brutally handled at Wilshire Police station.

Three of the officers present at the arrest testified Tuesday that Kelley had not been beaten. Others were still to testify.

Roper Survey Shows Negro Vote Power

NEW YORK—The Negro vote is perfectly capable of swinging the 1952 presidential election in either direction, and the position of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People on political matters is held in respect by at least forty-five per cent of Negroes—these were the most noteworthy points stressed by Elmo Roper, noted public opinion analyst, in his regular Sunday afternoon broadcast today over the facilities of the National Broadcasting Company.

"Probably no other group in America is as conscious of a single issue, and votes according to that single issue, as the Negroes do on discrimination and civil rights," Roper stated. Emphasizing that the margin of votes among Negroes in the eight largest states of the North for the pro-civil rights candidate in the last election far exceeded the margin by which he was elected, Roper said: "This means that the Negro vote in the North can, indeed, be a marginal difference between victory and defeat for one party or the other . . . it is a fact and not a myth that the Negro vote can swing it either way."

NAACP Leads Negro Opinion

Of organizations whose opinions hold weight with Negro voters, Roper reported, "far and away the most frequently mentioned organization" is the NAACP. "In fact," he stated, "it is evident . . . that there are more Negroes who think of the NAACP as a source of at least potentially good advice on politics than actually . . . come out to vote on election day."

"If the 45 per cent of the Negroes who named the NAACP can be taken as a rough gauge of the size and extent of the protest movement among our largest minority," Roper said, ". . . the protest sentiment has not yet been fully converted into a protest at the polls. One explanation of this might be that Negroes have never been entirely organized in politics up to now. Another explanation is that in the South there are still a good many psychological barriers against Negro voting. And in the North, where there is a steady stream of arrivals from the South there is a question of residence requirements before Negroes . . . can qualify to vote."

The public opinion analyst concluded by asserting that the Negro community "cannot be ignored by the professional politicians who must take responsibility for engineering victory or defeat" and that "it is almost impossible for a candidate to straddle the civil rights issue."

Local Matron Is A GOP 'First'

Rewarded for several years' diligent work as secretary in Republican general headquarters here is Mrs. Lena Washington, who this week became the first Negro ever appointed assistant secretary on the staff of the National committee's secretary.

Mrs. Washington is the wife of a Los Angeles mail carrier, Clarence Washington, and the mother of a high school daughter, Melva.

Clergy Aroused by Branham Shooting

Last week's sensational shooting escapade of fabulous Rev. John L. Branham, wealthy pastor of the million dollar St. Paul Baptist church, exploded throughout the church fraternity this week.

The dapper Casanova of the pulpit was seriously wounded June 21 by a notorious member of his flock, the red-haired Mrs. Hazel Simpson, reputedly the city's top woman bookie.

Most churchmen shied away from any public protest on the issue as "too hot to handle."

Resigned in Protest

But at least one minister, Rev. C. F. Kyle, resigned from the Interdominational Ministers Alliance because the group refused to "raise its voice" against "actions unbecoming a minister."

Branham's own church members, however, passionately pledged their wholehearted support to their wounded hero, prayed for his speedy recovery, anxiously awaited his return.

Stinging Sermon

Rev. George W. Cofield, Tuesday, preached a stinging allegorical sermon to the Baptist Ministerial Alliance, of which he is president, against ministers who "taught the base arts of seduction" and fell into the "snare" of "hurtful lusts which drown men in destruction and perdition."

Nowhere in the sermon did Rev. Cofield mention the name of his wounded brother, but he started his talk with a statement that he was going to tell the full story of Balaam.

He pronounced "Balaam" in such a way that it sounded singularly like "Branham," and at this point Rev. A. A. Peters, pastor of Victory Baptist church,

Exclusive Interview Reveals Her Side in Branham Shooting

By S. WENDELL GREEN

"It was certainly never my intention to hurt anyone. Rev. Branham is my pastor and close personal friend. He is the last person I would want to hurt." Hazel Simpson paused as she closed her eyes and passed her hand across her forehead as if to wipe out an ugly scene..

Suddenly she blurted out, "Unless you have experienced a mental depression that has made life seem hopeless; unless you have felt that you were at the bottom of a pool of hopeless despair; unless you have actually reached the point that life no longer seemed important and the only thing you wanted was an escape from the many problems that surround you, engulf you and seem to have you trapped; unless you have actually reached the state of mind where"—she paused for a second, then said slowly and softly—"death seems more important than life, then you cannot understand, and I cannot explain to you what happened.

Ill Health

"Ever since I went to the Mayo Clinic in the spring of 1951 for major surgery, I have been ill. I haven't felt well for almost two years. I have been under the constant care of a physician for the past two years. Five months ago I underwent surgery again. Since I left the hospital I just haven't been the same. I've lost over 25 pounds and I've felt like I was slowly dying.

"My illness and apparent lack of recovery has been preying on my mind. A whole conglomeration of things have caused me to feel extremely depressed.

Business Problems

"Perhaps the beginning was my long and hard fight while running the Linen Supply Company. I had an extremely hard three years of overwork. The

Saint Paul's Officers Back Rev. Branham

The following resolution was adopted June 24, in a special official meeting by the officers and members of the St. Paul Baptist church.

"We do not question God's permissive providence, as to why this incident occurred, because He said in His word: "All things work together for good to them that love the Lord."

"But we pray that our Pastor will be sustained and strengthened by an unfaltering trust, while passing through this test; that God's purpose may be fulfilled in Him. We sincerely pray for his faithful and loyal wife who stands firm by his side. We pray for all who are disturbed and depressed by this incident, for we know behind the darkest clouds the sun still shines.

"Therefore, be it resolved that we, the officers and members—with faith in God and faith in the wise leadership of our pastor knowing his ambition through Jesus Christ our Saviour and King to put over a program in St. Paul Church—we assure you that our unfailing confidence has not been shaken or diminished.

"We repeat—For we know all things work together for good for those who love the Lord."

The resolution, submitted to the press, was signed by: Howard Hill, Chairman Deacon Board; Storms G. Harmon, Chairman Trustee Board; and Ethel McKinney, Church Clerk.

Simpsons Live In Luxurious Surroundings

As we drove up and parked in front of 2075 W. 29th place, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Simpson, the neat appearance of the gray stucco and frame home, with a winding walk, and neatly clipped lawn and hedges were in keeping with the sleek, long 1952 black Cadillac parked in the driveway. Parked behind the Cadillac was a 1948 Ford coupe.

A note on the door stated that she would be back in five minutes. While we pondered how to kill a few minutes, Mr. and Mrs. Simpson drove up in a 1951 black Mercury.

A Coiled Spring

As Hazel Simpson walked up to the porch, one got the impression of a bundle of nervous energy under control of a strong will. She seemed like a coiled spring.

She was dressed in a golden-colored house dress that matched her hair. Between her two large, attractive eyes were creases that indicated the terrific strain and nervous exhaustion she was under.

A slim, well-built woman, it was easy to see that she had really been a "looker" when she was a member of the chorus line of the old Apex club, Club Alabam and Sebastian's Cotton club.

Luxurious Home

As one enters the living room, he is immediately struck with an atmosphere of quiet, luxurious living. Indirect lighting, cool pastel colors, wall-to-wall carpeting and period furniture were featured in the living room and dining room. The entire west wall was mirrored, centered by a black marble fireplace.

In a step-down alcove to the left was a grand piano with a golden harp on each side. Mrs. Simpson explained that her daughter played the harp.

Picture of Branham

In the living room, a large picture of Herbert Simpson faces the door. To the right is the dining room with all straight-backed chairs around the dining table. To the right of the entrance to the hallway on a mirrored settee is a handsome picture of Rev. John Branham.

Two rose-colored swivel chairs,

Rev. Branham To Recover

Rev. John L. Branham, pastor of St. Paul's Baptist church, was reported in excellent condition at Queen of the Angels hospital Tuesday.

His physician, Dr. Welles E. A. Forde, stated that he is expected to recover, but that it is too soon to state when he will leave the hospital.

South Africa's Disinherited Start 'Disobedience' Fight

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — Under the stirring slogan "death is better than serfdom," this tense country's millions of non-whites—the disinherited—prepared to launch a mighty, united mass civil disobedience program Thursday.

The government was determined to crush the widespread movement by force, if necessary. Heavily armed and reinforced police were patrolling the streets of Johannesburg, Capetown, and Port Elizabeth, main centers of the resistance movement, days before the announced opening of the campaign.

First Joint Action

Negroes, Indians, and people of mixed blood have joined together for the first time in the history of the country for Thursday's powerful demonstration of their combined strength. Together, they outnumber whites about four to one.

They have decided to ignore all Jim Crow laws which, ever since the coming of the white man 300 years ago, have rigidly separated this country along race lines.

On Sunday, Negro churchmen throughout the land called upon God for help in the organized defiance of the government's cruelly repressive race laws.

Public Prayers

Hundreds of thousands of the oppressed offered up public prayers for the success of their demand for equality.

The non-whites know that thousands will be arrested until all jails are filled. Then more thousands will continue to defy the ignominious "apartheid," or segregation regulations.

Leaders of the resistance movement have rejected the use of violence, but it is feared here that bloodshed is inevitable, with white companies were determined to put me out of business. I worked 18 hours a day for three years, and I'm sure I took 20 years off my life. Almost everything imaginable happened. My trucks were stolen, laundry was stolen. Finally I could stand the pressure and overwork no longer and sold the company in the latter part of 1950. Shortly afterward I had to go to the Mayo Clinic for a major operation.

"On top of my health and business problems, my aunt has been very sick. She has been very close to me, and I regard her as my mother. She had a stroke and has been in the hospital for over four months. I had to stand by helplessly while she suffered stroke after stroke, robbing her of her speech and use of limbs.

"She was just about ready to leave the hospital, and the problem of taking care of her and her ill health was preying on my mind.

Called Branham

"Suddenly all seemed so hopeless. Life seemed hardly worth while. I felt lower than I've felt in my life. I decided to call Rev. Branham for spiritual guidance as all seemed hopeless and I was ready to give up.

"He came right over. I told him my troubles and the great state of mental depression I was in. He counseled me and suggested prayer and faith as the path to peace of mind. God knows I have prayed and prayed as much as I know how. In the last year and a half I just couldn't see any progress. I guess I just didn't have enough faith.

"He urged me to hold on and have faith. When he turned to leave it seemed like all hope was gone. I felt like I was standing alone sinking slowly into a bottomless pit of black despair.

Heard a Shot

"None of what happened next is too vivid. The next thing I know I heard a shot. He was wrestling with me trying to take the gun from me. Another shot went off before he managed to take the gun.

"I suddenly saw the blood and realized he was wounded. I was suddenly afraid for his life and wanted to help him to a doctor. We went out of the house together and I got in the car with him. I rode part of the way with him. I got out of the car when he assured me that he was going to get medical attention. He told me to go home.

"I came back to the house and stayed home for five or ten minutes. Then I called a friend of mine to take me to Georgia Street Hospital as I assumed that was where he was going.

Became Hysterical

"My friend, whom I won't name as I don't want to involve her in this, saw that I was hysterical and extremely nervous. She took me with her and put me to sleep with some sedatives.

"I wasn't in contact with anyone, nor did I know it was a police case until I called my husband Thursday night and he told me. My friend had called a doctor and I was under his care until I called my husband Thursday night.

"My husband informed me that I was wanted for questioning. We made arrangements to meet the following morning.

Surrenders to D.A.

"We went down to the District Attorney's office Friday afternoon where I gave a statement of what had happened. They gave me a subpoena to meet the Grand Jury on July 8.

"I certainly do know that there was never any intention to hurt anyone, especially my pastor and my friend.

New Outlook

"It really gives one a wonderful outlook on life when someone else will risk their life to save yours. I now have something to hold onto. I'm beginning to feel better despite all of the malicious gossip and lies that have been floating around and appeared in print. I was really astounded by the vicious lies and lurid tales that were circulated while I was convalescent."

Exhausted from re-living the tragic events of that fateful Saturday evening, Mrs. Simpson stretched out on the divan, covered her eyes with her hands, and attempted to relax, nervous strain and tension refusing to permit her to do so.

Leonard Grimes Awarded Degree

April 30, and that subsequently, on May 28, a vote was taken ousting Rev. Brooks.

He refused to accept this decision, they claimed, and they therefore sought the restraining order to prevent him from continuing to occupy the pulpit of the church, located at 1319 E. 22nd street.

Atty. Griffith, on behalf of the minister, asserts, however, that the ouster meeting was attended by only 24 members of the church, and that at a later meeting attended by close to 100 members, the subject was again discussed, and that approximately 85 voted to have him continue. He claims further that the ouster decision was not arrived at in accordance with church rules.

23 Propositions on Ballot in November

With primary elections well out of the way, political attention is focused upon the November elections.

In California, Secretary of State Jordan has assigned 23 propositions to positions on the ballot.

Of principal interest to Negro voters are propositions 2, 3, 5, 6, 7, 10, 11 and 13. In subsequent articles, the Eagle will discuss the various proposals and give its recommendations for a "yes" or "no" vote.

Proposition 2 is an initiative measure, sponsored by the California Teachers Association, which seeks to raise the State school subsidy.

No. 3 is the controversial referendum proposal to repeal property tax exemptions for private and parochial schools.

Nos. 5 and 6 deal with loyalty matters, the former a constitutional amendment proposed by the Legislature which would bar from the State election ballot any person or group which has been labeled "subversive." The companion measure would require all constitutional officers of the State to take a loyalty oath.

Salaries Raised By Willowbrook School Board

For the third time this year, significant pay raises were given to employees of the Willowbrook School District last week. This was an across-the-board hike for all personnel. The new salary schedule bringing increases ranging form $40 to $60.

Salaries for three new positions to be created, namely, superintendent of buildings and grounds, administrative assistant and business manager or assistant superintendent, were tabled until further notice. Joseph R. Terry, president, who did not run for re-election, was mentioned at the last meeting as having the inside track to appointment as superintendent of buildings and grounds.

The new pay schedule submitted b ythe district superintendent was unanimously approved after some discussion and a motion by Attorney Rayfield Lundy, junior board member.

The increases will put Willowbrook "right in line" with other comparable school districts, although the tax rate in this district is one of the lowest in the county. Increases will become effective July 1.

Sewer Planned for Willowbrook District

Preparation of plans for a $9800 sanitary sewer project in the Willowbrook district was ordered today by the board of supervisors.

Property involved is located within an area bounded by Imperial Hwy., Central Ave., Compton Creek and 119th St.

was being shunned by her acquaintances and fellow church members following printed stories that she is the city's top woman racketeer.

Confused

Branham, she allegedly said, was taking the gun away from her when it went off. She didn't know if it was in her hands or his when the shots were fired.

She had asked Rev. Branham to come to her house, she reportedly stated, to write a letter to the parole board to try to get her brother released from prison.

She emphasized that her daughter had been "kicked out" of school, not because she was "bad," but because she didn't have enough money to continue.

Went to Malibu

Mrs. Simpson is said to have told the district attorney that after the shooting she went to Malibu to rest from the ordeal. She also reportedly asserted that she didn't remember everything, that she was so upset after the gun went off that she forgot what she had planned, even her intention to commit suicide.

One of the factors that weighed heavily upon her, she claimed, was public reaction to a story in a national magazine, printed in June, which described her as the top woman racketeer in Los Angeles. This was hurting her grievously. People everywhere were talking about it, wouldn't speak to her. Members of her church sneered at her.

She decided that death was preferable to living.

A check of the beautiful 29th place home where Mrs. Simpson lives reveals that her ownership is clear, unincumbered by mortgages or other liens.

a green-flowered divan, and a mirrored circular cocktail table that turned like a lazy Susan was the only furniture in the living room.

Mrs. Simpson seated us, and then retired to the rear of the house. She returned in a few moments with a cup of coffee and a cigarette in an attractive holder, and settled on the divan next to Irvin Smith, Eagle photographer.

She gesticulated with her hands, cigarette holder and eyes while talking, sometimes with short, nervous bursts of speech, and other times in a tired, thin voice.

While she talked, her husband nervously paced the floor, supplying her with dates of business affairs, and answering the phone that seemed to ring every three minutes.

The strin of the past few days and the interview was clearly visible on Mrs. Simpson as she stretched out on the divan in an attempt to relax at the conclusion of the interview.

Pueblo Del Rio Residents Seek Door Screens

Residents of the Pueblo del Rio housing project, 55th and Long Beach, this week petitioned the Housing Authority for screens for their front doors, but were told there are no appropriations for such facilities.

The request, however, is being considered, and a reply was promised for Friday.

The petition was signed by 206 residents of the project, and was presented to H. L. Sunshine, management supervisor of the Housing Authority, Monday by a committee of three. Chairman of the committee was James C. York, other members being Mrs. Margaret Jones and Mrs. Frankie McDaniels.

Sunshine, York told the Eagle, advised the committee that since there was no appropriation for screens, the matter would be referred to the Housing Authority. He reportedly indicated that residents would probably have to pay for the screens and their installation, but that the authority would take care of upkeep.

Sunshine confirmed to the Eagle that there is no budgetary provision for front door screens, but added that on the basis of a survey four years ago using U. S. health standards, there is adequate ventilation in the homes.

Clergy Split Over Branham hastily left the gathering. He was outside the church where the meeting was held, however, after the sermon, and seemed curious as to what had taken place.

No Action

Rev. Cofield told the Eagle that the Baptist Alliance was taking no action in the Branham case at the present time, that the alliance would wait until the court had made a decision and would accept any proof of guilt or innocence which the court might adduce.

The interdominational group, however, rose to support its brother of the cloth.

The Branham affair was raised at its meeting Monday morning, with 15 to 20 ministers present, the Rev. J. S. Bagnerise Jr., vice president, presiding.

"Get Well"

A motion was brought in to send Rev. Branham a "get well" card, but three of those present stated their unreadiness.

After one member had praised the wounded member, Rev. Kyle, member of the Missionary Department of the All Nations (Missionary) Baptist church, told the Eagle that he rose in protest.

"Such actions," he reportedly told the group, referring to the Branham shooting, "hurt us because we haven't raised our voice in protest."

Harsh Words

He criticized Branham for allowing himself to "get into such a situation," condemned him because he "as one of our leading ministers, allowed himself to be mixed up with a woman of such a character as reported."

But his words did not meet general favor. Rev. R. M. Davis made a motion to table the matter under discussion, but the motion failed. Then the original motion to extend sympathy to Rev. Branham and send him a card wishing his speedy recovery was passed.

Rev. Kyle offered his resignation in protest. The resigation was forthwith accepted.

'Mixed Love' May Quake Quaker Meet

Antagonism toward the recent Quaker repudiation of an interracial marriage between two of its own Earlham (Ind.) college students is expected to arouse intense local interest in attitudes expressed at the "Friends" Institute of International Relations at Whittier College from June 29 through July 6.

It will be recalled that white Robert McAllester was banished to his Ithaca, N. Y. home when he and his fellow-graduate, Grace Cunningham of Berkeley, announced their impending June 4 wedding.

They were wed, with approval of both sets of parents, despite college president Thomas E. Jones' labeling of the marriage as "impetuous."

During the institute sessions, James Farmer, a founder of the Congress on Racial Equality, will serve as a member of the faculty, which includes 13 so-called experts on world affairs.

The institute will open Sunday evening with a discussion on "Roads to Agreement—the Expedient and the Moral" and questions from the audience.

The daily program will include a 9:30 a.m. talk, discussion groups working with faculty and other resource persons, faculty round-table discussions in the afternoon and other daytime programming planned by attenders on subjects they particularly want.

The evening meetings will be held at the Whittier Women's Club (North Friend and East Bailey) at 8 p.m., Monday, June 30; Tuesday, July 1; Wednesday, July 2; Thursday, July 3; Friday, July 4; (A special meeting at 4:15 p.m. will discuss "Americanism, the U.N., UNESCO and Our Schools"); Saturday, July 5.

Sunday, July 6: Film Premiere at 7 p.m., "A Time for Greatness" based on the Quaker report on foreign policy. At 8 p.m., "Your Responsibility for Peace," by James Bristol.

While the Institute will be led by a faculty of experts on world affairs, special emphasis will be put on individual participation. "If people are to find the Institute a worthwhile experience, they must have an opportunity, not only to listen, but to express their own opinions, ask questions that will lead to fuller understanding and explore ways, with the faculty, in which they can help make a better world," said Robert S. Vogel, Institute Director. "It isn't enough to be lectured at. We want the Institute to be a grass-roots expression of public opinion—a modern day 'town meeting.'"

A special section for college students will be headed by Walt Raitt, AFSC College Program Secretary.

Programs and additional information may be obtained from Robert S. Vogel, Institute Director, Quakers, Box 966-M, Pasadena 20.

JAMES FARMER

DuBois Keynoter of Progressive Party

Dr. W. E. B. DuBois, grand old man of Negro letters and history and one of the founders of the NAACP, will deliver the keynote speech at the nominating convention of the Progressive Party in Chicago, July 4.

West coast attorney Vincent Hallinan is to be nominated for president, while Charlotta A. Bass, for many years a Los Angeles newspaper publisher, will be given the vice-presidential nomination.

Civil Rights Fight Expected at GOP, Demo Conventions

NEW YORK—The vital civil rights issue is to be placed squarely before both GOP and Democratic national convention delegates in Chicago next month.

A fight to get both major political parties to carry a strong civil rights plank in their 1952 platforms is being spearheaded by the NAACP.

The association is setting up special headquarters at Roosevelt College, has designated four of its top leaders to carry on the struggle, and has invited cooperation from the 52 labor, religious and liberal organizations which participated in the 1952 civil rights conference.

Delegates Queried

In addition, every delegate to both conventions is being queried as to his stand on FEPC, cloture, segregation and all other issues of prime importance to Negroes.

NAACP leaders who will be stationed in Chicago during the hectic July days will be Walter White, executive secretary; Roy Wilkins, administrator; Clarence Mitchell, director of the Washington Bureau; and Henry Lee Moon, director of public relations.

In addition to the questionnaire, leaflets stating the political objectives of Negroes will be distributed to all delegates.

Basic Issue

The association is making clear to all that any candidate who is not explicit and uncompromising on the basic issue of civil rights will be actively opposed.

This is no idle threat, for, as every politician knows, in a close election, the strong Negro vote holds the balance of power in several key states. In 1948, the votes of minority groups swung the three pivotal states of Illinois, California and Ohio.

Moreover, NAACP views on politics are taken as a guide by a sizeable slice of the country's entire Negro population.

County Lets Drinkers Play Golf—Can They?

The sale of liquor at county-owned golf courses, which are a part of the County park system, was approved by the Board of Supervisors in a 3 to 2 vote.

Supervisors Leonard J. Roach, Roger Jessup and Herbert C. Legg voted to allow liquor to be sold at County-owned golf courses.

Because these golf courses are so close to community playgrounds where children in great numbers enjoy recreational activvities, Supervisors John Anson Ford and Raymond V. Darby voted against allowing liquor to be sold at golf courses owned by the Los Angeles County.

Moore, who, with his wife, was bombed to death in Mims, Florida, will receive posthumously the Spingarn award, highest honor granted by the association.

His mother, Mrs. Rosa B. Moore, 83, will accept the award.

Many Los Angeles residents are attending the convention which ends Sunday, June 29. Among them are Dr. E. I. Robinson, local branch president; Mrs. Lillie Montgomery, Special Activities Committee chairman; Lester Bailey, field representative; Dr. H. Claude Hudson and Atty. Thomas G. Newson, executive board members.

Three members of the Youth Council, Juanita Carwell, Sally Thompson and Sylvia Haywood were among those who qualified for a free journey to the convention by selling more than $100 worth of memberships here. David Wilson is one of several adults who won the trip for bringing in more than 100 members.

Holman Sends 3 Delegates To Convention

Leaving Los Angeles on June 16, local delegates registered at the Methodist Conference at Redlands University on June 16. Officially representing the Holman Methodist church, Rev. L. L. White had as the lay representative Mrs. Mildred Denton who serves for four years following election by the local church. Alternate lay delegate is Mrs. Marjorie Bready.

Bishop James C. Baker read appointments for 350 ministers.

Holman church had a share in this campaign and according to Holman's church treasurer, the amount reported at Redlands as raised for the Advance was $1400.

Dinner to Spark Civil Rights Fight

CHICAGO—Leading spokesmen for both major political parties will participate in a dinner to be given July 2 at the Hotel Sherman, by the Chicago branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, to spearhead the drive for strong civil rights planks in the Democratic and Republican political platforms.

Governor G. Mennen Williams of Michigan will represent the Democratic party; Albert B. Herman, vice chairman of the Republican National Committee, will represent the Republican party; and Walter White, executive secretary of the NAACP, will represent the people. The moderator will be Elmer Henderson, director of the American Council on Human Rights. Radio and television outlets will cover the proceedings.

College President

Editorial

An Intelligent Vote

Most Negro voters weren't taken in by the hysterical campaign against public housing.

Our tabulation of 388 precincts, all of them wholly populated by Negro voters, shows that 24,184 "yes" ballots were cast and that 13,284 "no" votes were put in the ballot box.

This very substantial majority for the continuation of the city's low-cost housing plan looms up larger when it is recalled that the vote in the city at large was directly contrary.

A further analysis of the Negro vote on housing shows that the so-called Central Avenue and Watts areas were in favor of public housing by almost two to one but that the Westside voters preferred the program by only five to four. That difference undoubtedly reflects the fact that residents of the Watts and Central Avenue areas are much more conscious of the acute need for homes and of the difficulty that besets the Negro home seeker.

Basic to the Negro voter's support of the housing program is the fact that the City Housing Authority pursues a non-discriminatory and non-segregatory policy and that housing is desperately needed by Negroes. When that knowledge is combined with the awareness of the fact that private contractors and builders almost universally pursue a discriminatory policy the Negro voter is shown up as a man who takes an intelligently selfish view of the problem that confronts him.

The Negro cannot look to public housing for the solution of his housing problems and he must find some way of getting access to private housing markets on terms of equality with all other Americans. But there is a field in which public housing is needed and the knowledge that in Los Angeles he can share those dwellings on the basis of his need and eligibility is a sound reason for the Negroes' vote in the June 3 primary.

Danger Signs Loom

The pictures that cropped up in last week's papers of a Negro home owner standing guard at his home after the burning of a cross in his yard is a grim warning of things to come unless law enforcement officials find a way to curb outbreaks of lawlessness against persons who exercise their constitutional rights.

The sensational bombing of William Bailey's home on Dunsmuir avenue is more than three months old now. There have been no arrests in that case. More than that, the police guards have been withdrawn.

Law enforcement officials say that the guards have been withdrawn because in their opinion the possibility of further violence does not exist.

Mr. Bailey can be pardoned if he has some doubts and reservations on that score and last week's cross-burning isn't calculated to allay his fears. The Klan-minded apparently harbor no fears of our police department that has been so inefficient in this sphere of law enforcement.

These failures of the police are certain to breed cynicism and disrespect among Negroes. They are sure to lead to the suspicion that the police aren't too much concerned about what has happened or about what may happen to Negro home owners. Citizens in that frame of mind are liable to fall back on the belief that if they're to be protected they must do the job themselves.

It takes only a spark in that kind of situation to set off a conflict that may well end in violence of the kind that has taken place in other cities.

Worst Possible Choice

We're generally able to follow, and ordinarily we agree with, our columnist Lester B. Granger, who expresses his views on this page. But he's got the better of us this week with his hope that General Eisenhower will win the Republican nomination so he won't have to make a choice between some of the other hopefuls.

We agree that there have been some pretty shoddy performances by some of the other candidates but we don't think that any of them has put on a worse performance than the five-star general.

Eisenhower's stand on civil rights isn't shoddy; its' just simply non-existent. We are sure that he doesn't understand the issue at all and that he has never done any serious thinking about it.

A former college president who confesses that he didn't know that separate school systems put a double burden on taxpayers, a presidential candidate who thinks that the FEPC problem is best left to the states and a general who fears integration in the Army on the ground that Negro officers won't be able to stand up in competition against white aspirants presents a sorry spectacle. The general has made all of those statements. Our own notion of being presented with the worst possible choice is that between Russell and Eisenhower.

Help NAACP Help You

We hope that the NAACP has good luck in its announced plan to get both major parties to adopt strong FEPC planks. We're not sure that it will.

Eisenhower and Taft, principal GOP contenders, are both committed to the outworn state's rights doctrine and their influence will probably prove decisive at the Republican convention.

The Democrats will meet after the Republicans and if the GOP plank is weak there will be a tendency for the Bourbons to follow suit out of the belief that Negro voters will remain with them rather than chase after Republican promises.

While those will be the surface considerations the issue rests to a large extent on what Negro voters do to let the parties know what they want. Neither party is going to do much unless there is a strong pressure from voters.

In the final analysis the NAACP can't exert that pressure unless it has support from the rank and file—the people who will do the voting. That support is best shown by active membership and active participation in the local branch of the NAACP. Have you paid your membership yet?

Give Students a Chance

The Negro College Fund drive in Los Angeles should have a far greater measure of support than it has had.

All important Southern colleges share in these funds and none of us can doubt that there is a great need for the kind of services that these colleges offer.

The objection that support of the fund countenances segregation in education isn't well founded. Things being what they are at the moment the continued existence of these colleges is imperative if Negro students in the South are to have access to college education.

Support of the College Fund drive does not detract from the effort to break down segregation in the South. That fight will go on.

We're sure, too, that many of the Southern colleges and universities will continue to exist after all segregation is ended. They're excellent educational institutions.

We know, too, that there are many persons who can't give very much but if everybody will contribute to the best of his ability the drive will reach its goal without too much sacrifice on anybody's part.

Lester B. Granger's

Battle Axe & Bread

As long as Governor Adlai Stevenson remains outside the presidential nomination picture it is hard to see where the Negro voter has the slightest chance of making a satisfying selection from among the candidates offered. Averell Harriman of New York has much to recommend him in the way of personal character and liberal impulses. Certainly his record on racial issues is impressive, far more than that of any other public figure currently being discussed for the Presidency. It was Harriman who, without fanfare, broke up racial segregation at the Washington, D. C. Airport by quietly exercising his powers as Secretary of Commerce.

It is interesting that Mr. Harriman did this after his predecessor, Henry Wallace, had claimed to be without authority to act. It is even more interesting—and significant—that Averell Harriman had forgotten about the incident until it was called to his attention a few weeks ago. It was the decent thing to do, so he did it—and then forgot it. Similarly, the Harriman record of employing Negro staff representatives with the Mutual Security Administration shines in contrast with that of the rest of the defense program.

In spite of all this, it is hard to consider Averall Harriman realistically as any more than a "favorite son" candidate. In other words, his hold on the New York delegation's votes at the Democratic Convention, and his chances of picking up any others along the way, depend entirely upon bargaining possibilities. It would really be a political miracle if he should be nominated by a Democratic Party controlled from the political machines of big cities, catering to the racial neuroses of the Democratically Solid South and "liberal" only in a coldly calculating way of a professional politician. It is only realistic to believe that the Harriman votes are held in escrow for some other candidate with a better chance to win, and pay off. Cross out Harriman and who've we got? Humphrey of Minnesota is another with an excellent record, but his chances are even less than those of Harriman. The Democratic Party is not going to nominate anyone who cannot hold the South practically intact, and Humphrey certainly wouldn't do that—more credit to him. Kefauver could win, strange as it may seem to anyone who is remotely acquainted with the gentleman and who compares his qualifications with our national needs. But there is certainly no prospect that should please the Negro voter in the possible nomination of a man who had to secure the advice of public relations advisors to frame his position of FEPC. (And what a position that turned out to be!)

On the Republican side, Taft would seem to be completely impossible for consideration by the Negro voter, no matter whether he wins the nomination or not. This is not simply because of his cynically dishonest position on civil rights, but because the Ohio Senator appears to be equally cynical and dishonest on so many other issues. Anything to win a vote, seems to be his political philosophy and the more votes he gains the more dangerous his philosophy becomes. Many Negroes are saying with increasing vehemence that if they had to choose between Senator Russell and Senator Taft, they would take Russell. And I think they are right.

This is the main basis of my personal hope that General Eisenhower will win the GOP nomination. To me it is unthinkable that I should be asked to choose, for instance, between a Taft and a Kefauver or Russell. And even if Governor Stevenson should be drafted by the Democratic Convention and should accept the draft, I feel that it would be bad for the voters to have to choose between two such widely disparate alternatives. The shoddier the competition offered by the Republicans, the sloppier becomes the performance of the Democrats. This has been proven in three successive Democratic Administrations. It is time for a change—but a change in the quality of the candidates even more than in the party in office.

Roy Wilkins'

The' Watch Tower

In all the bad news about the treatment of natives in South Africa we have had only the political philosophy and actions of the white supremacy Government of Prime Minister Daniel Malan. Although it is well known to students of the South African situation, the spiritual ideology of the Afrikaners got little attention in the press until last week. The Afrikaners believe deeply not only in white supremacy but in Afrikaner supremacy over other white people. This is merely another announcement of Hitlerism. The unmourned German leader believed in Nazis over all.

The Afrikaners do not believe in equality. They think they are God's chosen people and that their mission in the world is to fight the theory of equality and secure themselves as the highest group on the heap of the world's humanity.

Dr. D. N. Diederichs, a former university professor and one of the leading philosophers of the Malan Nationalist movement, describes the Afrikaner in this manner:

"He saw himself as part of the Creation, but separate from the rest of the created world in that he carried with him a divine element. We who are Afrikaners are, in the first place, a people because that we belong together, because we as a people, have been called to fulfill a God-given calling."

Having outlined the special spark of divinity in Afrikaners, the learned doctor then proceeds to attack the theory of equality. "A world," he says, "that loses all sense of the absolute must . . . finally do away with all differences, discriminations and dividing lines, which lead to equality, leveling, the destruction of that which distinguishes one from another." He goes on:

"The Trekker (Dutch pioneer) observed and maintained differences and lines of division. The divisions of day and night, summer and winter, rain and drought, black and white. But the world today does not want that. The world of today is the world of the masses, of the average. In the mass everything is alike."

Dr. Diederichs is unhappy because of the trend toward equality. He says the Afrikaners are the "only real people in Southern Africa" thus sweeping aside not only all natives, but all Englishmen. He goes further and states that the Afrikaners are "the only white people in the whole of Africa," although statistics show there are 4 to 5 million whites in all of Africa. The thing that disturbs the doctor most, however, is the fact that some of the Afrikaners appear to be losing the faith. "That is the greatest danger we have to face," he says, "that we may lose faith in ourselves."

Dr. Diederichs may well be sad in an intellectual way. It is true that the Malan white supremacy political party is in power and can make rules and regulations in line with Afrikaner beliefs. But these must pass. The natives in South Africa outnumber the whites five to one, and within the white group there is deep political division between the Afrikaners and English. While they do not differ fundamentally on the race question, the English, naturally, do not subscribe to the Afrikaner belief that they are superior to the British and other whites. In the bitter struggle the English unquestionably will use the native question against the Afrikaners without openly taking up the cudgels for the blacks. In such a situation the natives should improve their position considerably.

As for the Afrikaner belief in their God-given calling to rule mankind and stem the tide toward equality, they appear to be a little late. For a moment in the world's history they may check human progress in their little corner of the earth, but man will not be denied. Nor will God. Christianity, if it means anything, has nothing in common with the Afrikaners.

Written in a humorous style with a complete disregard for most of the sacred cows of music, this is an invitation to the record collector to get the most out of his hobby.

We predict that if the record collecting bug has not bit you yet, Mr. Hallstrom will soon have you pricing that record player and looking through record catalogs—that's how contagious his enthusiasm is!

MUSICAL COMEDY IN AMERICA by Cecil Smith

Broadway, in all its fabulous history from the "Black Crook" to "South Pacific," is celebrated in this pleasantly anecdotal history of the popular musical stage. Anecdotes of famous performances of past and present should bring back many memories of the various eras in our country's life so amusingly reflected in its musical comedy.

Third Man in the Ring

Sounding Off

By WENDELL GREEN

Whenever a group of politicos get together to map out strategy for a campaign, invariably the statement is always made, "We've got to get the preachers lined up."

This in itself is not necessarily a bad thing. In fact, a great deal of social good could come of such respect for men of the cloth, but unfortunately the person making the statement generally means, "We've got to pay off the preachers if we don't want them fighting us."

In our considered opinion, a man who will sell his influence has less principles than a pimp. A minister of the gospel, whose livelihood comes from the spiritual guidance of his flock who will sell his influence over his congregation to the highest bidder, makes a pimp look like an angel.

We don't mean to say, or even imply that preachers shouldn't have political opinions, and let their congregations know where they stand on important issues. The Sermon on the Mount is one of the world's greatest social documents. We are not taking issue with the minister who gives his honest convictions to his parishioners, but we are bitterly complaining about the preacher who advocates a cause or candidate because someone has slipped him 25 bucks.

Unfortunately, the history of the preacher in politics in Los Angeles is very unsavory. The first organized movement among the clergy in Los Angeles for a candidate was during the John C. Porter campaign against Mayor George Cryer in 1929. Porter was a great influence in religious circles, and the ministers joined in the reform movement to "kick the rascals out." This is just about the only beneficial political campaign that the organized ministers have participated in.

Then the notorious Shaw machine was swept into power in 1933 with a solid line-up of preachers, civic leaders and the underworld.

The entire community should be ashamed of the political history of the Shaw regime, and the part our leaders and ministers played in perpetuating it.

Led by the Revs. J. E. Pyus, G. Albert Miller, Grant Harris, W. R. Carter and M. Frederick Mitchell, almost every minister in town was part of a solid phalanx with such underworld characters and their backers as George Henderson, Rich Baker, "Small Black" Dennis, Rainey Shaw, Ollie Loftion, Lucius Lomax Sr., Clarence Moore, Dumas Johnson, Jimmy Nelson and Nole Murray, to give the city one of the most corrupt regimes in its history.

Things got so bad that white ministers all over the city rose in righteous indignation and generated a movement spearheaded by Clifford Clinton to rid the city of the cesspool of organized vice and corruption.

The ministers appealed to the Negro preachers of the community and civic leaders to help in the campaign. They got an absolute cold shoulder as almost every minister and civic leader in town was owned lock, stock and barrel by the Shaw machine. Noted exceptions o this disgraceful sell-out were Rev. S. M. Bean, T. M. Griffith and Gregg.

The only civic leaders who dared oppose the Shaw machine were Mrs. Jessie Terry, Loren Miller, Baron Lawson, and Lawrence LaMarr Sr. and Jr.

We noticed in the literature announcing supporters of Roach that the ministers listed were George Cofield, Frederick Mitchell,, T. M. Chambers, Bernard O. Byrd, C. W. Arnold, G. W. Reed, and Clayton D. Russell.

We don't even intend to imply that any of the listed gentlemen "sold" their influence to Roach. If they believed in him and thought he was the best candidate, all well and good, but if they also received a check from Roach funds which they put in their pockets for "believing in and supporting Roach," we think that is a matter for their own conscience, but we have definite opinions as to their moral and ethical standards.

Next week we will discuss civic leaders, their history in Los Angeles, and expand on an apology we owe to Wesley Brazier of the Urban League, who was not a part of the Roach campaign as we reported last week.

Robinson TKO

and visibly.

Robinson failed to answer the bell — more from heat prostration than from any beating administered by Maxim in what turned out to be a rather dull fight.

Reeling to his corner in sheer exhaustion after the 13th round, Robinson's bid for ring immortality as a triple champion ended on his stool in his own corner, a technical knockout victim in what was the first time in the brilliant 137-bout career of Robinson, that the Harlem dandy has been stopped.

The temperature in Yankee Stadium was a sweat-soaked 92 degrees, and under the brilliant arcs in the ring, the thermometer registered 103 degress.

Referee Ruby Goldstein was the first victim in the ring when he became ill in the 10th round, and Ray Miller substituted for him.

Robinson started out the fight at a fast pace. Darting in and out, throwing combinations, lefts and rights, he boxed Maxim Apparently trying for an early knockout, Robby rocked Maxim with rights and lefts.

At the end of the third round, both of Maxim's eyes were puffed, and it looked as if Sugar Ray would win as he pleased.

The pace began to tell in the sixth and Robinson began to slow down. In the seventh, Robinson had Maxim in serious trouble, and was tearing into him as the bell rang.

In the tenth, both fighters appeared tired, but Maxim seemed stronger and began to fight.

At the end of the round, Referee Ruby Goldstein walked over to Dr. Alexander Schiff and told him he was ill and couldn't see. Schiff then asked Ray Miller, who had officiated the earlier bouts, to come into the ring and take over. This is believed to be unprecedented in ring history.

Robinson seemed to collapse all of a sudden in the beginning of the thirteenth. Maxim hit him with a left, and he reeled into the ropes. Maxim went after him. Ray threw a right, missed and fell to the floor. He was backing from Maxim when the bell rang.

As Robinson didnt' answer the bell for the 14th round, the fight was officially scored as a 13-round TKO.

Whitfield, Dillard, Stanfield, Pearman, Brown and Miller Win Natl. AAU Titles

WINNING IN A BREEZE—Andy Stanfield, formerly of Seaton Hall, running under the colors of the Grand Street Boys' Association, handily wins the 200 meter dash running into a stiff breeze. Ollie Matson couldn't cope with the speeding Stanfield, and had to be content with a second. The time for the race, around one curve, was 21.1, rather fast considering the strong headwind the runners had to finish into. The chips are down this Friday and Saturday when winners of the NCAA, All-Service meet and the National AAU meet in the Coliseum this Friday for a coveted place on the U.S. Olympic team.

Stars Set for Olympic Finals This Weekend

Two Olympic champions, Mal Whitfield and Harrison Dillard, proved to be the class of the AAU finals held in Long Beach Veterans' Memorial Staduim last Friday and Saturday. Whitfield won the 400 meters in a thrilling duel with George Rhoden, world record holder in the event, and Dillard captured the 110 meters high hurdles from the classiest field ever assembled.

Andy Stanfield, another "old pro," was an easy winner in the 200 meters, beating Ollie Matson by four yards. George Brown stertched his winning streak to 42 in the broad jump. Regie Pearman won the 800 meters and Bill Miller was victor in the javelin throw.

The great duel between Whitfield and Rhoden proved to be all that track fans expected. Due to gross mismanagement on the part of the committee running the meet, the 400 meter dash did not come off until after midnight. Saturday morning. Rhoden and Whitfield had easily won their respective heats, and were set for the finals. Whitfield drew lane three while Rhoden was in theoutside lane.

Running an exceptionally fast 220, Whitfield roared off the final turn three yards in front of the great Rhoden, and fought off Rhoden's final rush, to win going away. The time was 46.4.

Friday afternoon, the race of the day was the 110 emter hurdles, with Davis, Dixon, Dillard and Anderson, four of the greatest hurdlers in the world. Attlesey, who holds the world's record, could not compete because of a foot injury.

Davis, Dillard, Anderson won their heats. Dillard nosed Davis in the semi-finals, and Dixon beat out Anderson.

In the finals, the nervous and anxious runners jumped the gun four times. Each time Dillard stayed in his blocks, his experience and coolness paying off. The fifth start, Dillard rolled out of his holes with the gun. He didn't come out of his starting crouch until he took the third hurdle. Leading by three yards, he displayed perfect form that was too much for the fast finishing Davis. Dixon and Anderson finished third and fourth in a photo finish.

Dillard's time of 13.7 was one-tenth off the world record. The three Ds and two As figure to put on a great fight to "catch the boat" for Helsinki in the Olympic finals Friday and Saturday in the Coliseum.

LaVerne Smith and O. W. Rhodes of Jefferson high school competed in the high jump and pole vault, but neither qualified.

A special four-man 880 relay race between Boise high school, four outstanding high school runners from all over the country, and Jefferson high school was scheduled, but Jefferson had graduation exercises Friday. Wisely, the boys didn't show up.

CHAMPIONSHIP FIGHT PICTURES
SUGAR RAY ROBINSON versus
JOEY MAXIM

Starting Friday the new Downtown Paramount theatre is presenting an exclusive Los Angeles showing of the Sugar Ray Robinson vs. Joey Maxim fight pictures of the thrilling fight at Yankee Stadium last night. The pictures present every blow, round-by-round of this great championship fight and will not be shown on TV. The films will be on view during the first week of the engagement of "Lydia Bailey" at the Paramount.

I was standing in front of the Dunbar Hotel holding up the building and watching the beautiful sights as they passed by, when Thomas "Red" Davis, the athletic policeman, thought I was a vagrant and stopped to investigate.

When I established myself as a long-standing member in the Ross Snyder Block Fours (making it the hard way) club, Red relented and the conversation drifted around to handball, Davis' favorite topic.

Red is a very good player. In the seven years they have held the L. A. Police championships, Davis won three times and has been runner-up four times. If he was a horse, he'd be rich. He also has been on the winning doubles team several times. One time he teamed up with Lt. Roscoe "Rocky" Washington to win the doubles crown.

Invited to Play

Davis, and smoke eaters Wince King and Joe Walker, were invited to participate in the Southern California Amateur Athletic Association championships, held this week at the Hollywood Athletic club.

The AAA is a split from the AAU. Seems that while not too many lads of color take after the hard, black, ball sport, many Jewish lads do, and the discriminatory practices of the AAU were deeply resented.

The AAA was formed and now is the recognized national organization. This organization heard about the local boys who dauble at the game, and invited them to play.

Davis, a power player, went to the semi-finals where he went down to defeat 12-21, 21-20, 21-20. "I won the first game, and got to 20 before he did in the other two, but my legs just wouldn't hold up," smiled Red.

Davis said that he is the only policeman now actively playing handball. The game had quite an interest when Kenny Washington and Rocky Washington were playing, but that interest has died down.

Handball Courts

With the firemen, it's different. Fourteenth Street Station and 34th Street Station have excellent courts, and the boys play a lot of handball. Davis thinks the most promising ones are Wince King, Joe Walker, Arnet Hartsfield and Fritz Banks. "They've got youth and natural ability. In a few years they should come right along.

Red Davis has met some of the best Negro players in the country and bested them. He considers Dr. Homer Harris, former football star at Iowa, as the best of the lot. Davis met and defeated him while on vacation in Chicago. He also played Sgt. Al Harness and Bob Adams of the Chicago police department.

One of the reasons that the local lads have not taken much interest in handball is because there have been no courts nearby, and tournaments were not open to them. Davis thinks that with two first-class four-wall courts on the Avenue, and the newly organized AAA actively seeking Negro members, interest in the sport should take a spurt in the community. Harold Lloyd is one of the backers of the organization, and they have already served notice on the local clubs that their tournaments and membership are open to all, and if they don't like it, no tournaments will be scheduled at the discriminating clubs.

Drop by the station some day and give the firemen a workout. They welcome the competition.

For Old-Timers

Old-timers around Los Angeles will remember Ted Shaw, son of Duncan Shaw, 1010 E. 43rd place. Old man Shaw dropped in the office the other day with a clipping from a Hawaii paper about the exploits of his son Ted.

Ted is now umpiring and running a pitching school in Hawaii. Shaw first visited the Islands in 1931 with the Philadelphia Royal Giants. He went back to join the All-Hawaiians who toured the Orient in 1932. He's been in Hawaii ever since.

Shaw, a lefty, had a tricky move in throwing to first base which caught many runners flat-footed. His motion to first was so tricky that rival managers would come storming out of the dugouts screaming "balk." Umpires were at a loss what to rule, and many a rhubarb turned into something more violent.

In his 15 years of assisting Father Kenneth Bray at Iolani, Shaw produced many prize pitchers, outstanding were lefties Matsuo Higuchi and Douglas Matsuoka.

Shaw retired in 1945 and has confined his activities to "schooling" pitchers, and umping.

Incidentally, Ted's dad, Duncan Shaw, has lived in Los Angeles for 75 years.

GEORGE RAMSEY

HOLLYWOOD PARK — Intent, the powerful son of War Relic-Liz F, who leads all American horses in money won this year, ran one of his best races to capture the Lakes and Flowers Handicap. It was the inaugural running of this event. Intent, making his return to Hollywood races, earned for his owners, the Brookfield Farms, $13.25.

RAMSEY

30-year-old Jockey Euclid Le Blanc, who is riding his first season in California, let Intent drop back to last place in the field of five, but only for a few moments did he remain there. Leaning into the home stretch turn, he began a move on the outside that ended in a crushing display of superiority as Intent's chestnut coat surged by the pacemaking Admiral Drake. Intent has now earned for the year $217,100.

The Calumet Farm's brilliant filly, A Gleam, captured her fourth straight stake victory by winning the co-feature, the Cinema Handicap. Made the choice by the 42,004 lovers of the sport of kings at 3 to 5, the daughter of Blenheim 2nd-Twilight Tear, just breezed home by two lengths, running the mile and a sixteenth in 1:42 4-5. A Gleam seems certain to be the favorite in Westerner Stakes (Hollypark's Derby). Intent for the Hollywood Gold Cup.

A SAILIN' WE WILL GO—Is the song being sung by Europe-bound Mmes. Eddie Atkinson Jr. and Walter Davis who were lavishly feted by Mmes. Jefferson Fowler and Loren Miller last Saturday. Admiring a replica of a luxury liner made of flowers and designed by Gladys Smith are Mmes. Lorenzo Spencer, Phil Jones, Davis, Atkinson, Howard Allen, Miller, John Coleman and Fowler.

CREOLE CUTIES—That's what these gracious Sigma wives were mistaken for Saturday evening when they dished out gigantic Louisiana creole dinners in the home of Alfretta Zetar, 2057 S. Hobart. Guests were told of the socially active group's coming fall cocktail sip and dansante. Draped in authentic costumes of creole dresses, red checkered aprons and big earrings are, at lower left, Nellie Spencer, Lela Walsh and Arlene Holt. Seated, upper, Mae Oliver, Sydney Jackson, Cloretha Gland, Josephine Davis, Alfretta Zetar and Alice Long.

By CORINNE ADAMS SIMMONS

CHICAGO (Special)—To borrow the advertising line of one of the well-known beverage concerns—"I've been to Los Angeles, so I ought to know." The subject in this case being the ceramic artistry of Tony Hill, who is now currently showing his custom-made models at the Palmer House in the annual national Lamp Show.

How does the Angeleno fare when he matches his wares against the top lamp people in the country? He's just terrific, to put it mildly. We went by to pay our respects to our friend of college days, and his display rooms were so packed with buyers that we took a walk through the corridors where others in the industry had their displays. When we went back to the Tony Hill display we were struck with the unusualness of it. The others had their lamps and wares setting on stands, just so, like soldiers lined up for inspection. So true to the tradition that whatever anyone else does, California does so much better, Tony had scored with his presentation.

His artist friend, Roger Wilson, had some of his modernistic works hung to lend color and decor to the unusual ceramic creations that only Tony can dream up and execute. His lamps, odd pieces, wall plaques, ash trays, bowls and other samples were on the floor, grouped on low tables, perched on high tables, so that one could walk through this world of the modernistic.

The buyers were most enthusiastic and gave many orders. Others merely looked and praised and uttered to themselves, "If only the people in my little home-town were ready for such creations." It made you feel very proud to see how Tony handled the buyers and twice as proud of his original work presented in such an unusual and effective manner.

To a transplanted Angeleno, it really "took you back" to Tony's studio out on Jefferson, the birthplace of all of the creations now on display here in Chicago for lamp buyers from everywhere to see and place orders for their stores all over the country. Tony now rushes back to the city of the Angels for another show, to get started on the orders given at the Chicago show and to get ready for his presentation in August in New York City.

Only recently returned from a flying trip to Chicago, Mrs. Hicks also brought word from the national office that Los Angeles should prepare for a delegation of 5,000 women, who will descend on the city August 1 from as far away as Canada, Australia, and the Hawaiian Islands.

Leading the early comers will be Mrs. Ella P. Stewart, national president from Toledo, Ohio and Mary McCleod Bethune, past national president and currently chairman of the National Headquarters board, who will be coming from Dayton Beach, Florida.

Berkeley—What better hosts in any gem city in this Bay area than coruscant fun-loving Connie and Hugh Beaty?

To me somehow a fascinating segment of Berkeley life moves about them and their livable home; so much so that other footloose wanderers from without over this land usually beat a similiar path to their door to share in the goose-hangs-high merriment from season to season. And love it.

Schoolmarm Connie and pharmaceutical company worker Hugh Live the Life and pooh-pooh any chums who droop around like self-pitying half-dead last season's violets. Legendary, by golly, both of them, yep.

From their rustic rumpus room, then, these cuff-notes: To S.F for the past weekend: Atty. Leo Branton for a testimonial banquet. Friends of Diane Dickerson's folks (Earl and Kathryn) anticipating Diane's forthcoming adaptation of Bay area life when she arrives to enter Mills College in the fall.

She as you may have heard had a coming-out tea last week. Tony Hill, in Chi for a one-man show of his own, was among tea-cup-holders at the assembly.

Esterline Powell, returning home to LA from Alaska in September, will visit this section. Due home from Canada: Rosetta Cooper.

The Richard Stantons (Adrienne) are off to K.C. for two weeks. Regret of regrets: Missing Yvonne and Cliff Bennett who reach LA Saturday morning from the east.

The Ernie Weavers (Adele) and Ramelle Bagnerise and others are among those who will spread a festive board and break a few bonded seals for the Bennetts. They check in the Watkins.

To Germany via Montreal: LACC student Barbara Rakestraw.. Anita Turner in town?

Ivan Harold Browning's sister Margaret Ann coming along wonderfully well after recent hospitalization.

Much asked after in Berkeley: Ruth Towles and her cousin Mildred Johnson. Ruth is expecting Texas schoolmarm Lewis Moore as her LA summer house guests. They as a rule fly north for a visit with the Rickmonds of Richmond.

Mrs. Rickmond (Lorraine) is among Bay area hostesses who expect to entertain for the many visiting Links due out for next month's confab. Juanita Miller listed among Angeleno members who have decided to make the trip up for the to-do.

Add regrets: Missing Dorothy and Ivan Johnson's twenty-fifth

VOGUE ARTERS—Sara Collier and Emily Troy Jackson, members of eminent Vogue Art club, met last week to discuss latest developments for the club's 5th annual exhibit and cocktail party. Some of the things they happily mentioned were that members will present art and handicraft in beautiful setting of floral arrangements and fauna. The elaborate exhibits will be chosen for their diversity. Also that distinguished guests are scheduled to contribute their works of art. And certainly, last but most important of all, the date is Sunday, June 29, 5 to 10 p.m. and place 1919 S. Harvard.

Leon Johnsons Treat Pacific Waiters' Head

The spacious back yard of the Leon Johnsons', 7637 S. Dalton avenue, was the scene of much merriment on Sunday afternoon when Arthur Reed of Omaha, Nebraska, was the honored guest.

Reed, who is the general chairman of all the districts of the Union Pacific Railroad Waiters' union, greeted many of the husbands and wives of Local 465, the Ladies' Auxiliary and visiting guests.

After many discussions on all issues so vital to the minority groups of today, Mrs. Johnson served a delicious ham dinner. Reed left shortly afterwards for Oakland, looking forward to another visit to Los Angeles where as he says are the most hospitable people in the world.

Ruby Hilliards Hosts "Belles"

The regular meeting of the Southern Belles Social club was held June 15 at the home of Mrs. Ruby Hilliard, 710 E. 93rd street, president Estelle Bogan presided.

The members welcomed Janye Watson who has been on the sick list. After a brief but interesting meeting the club was adjourned with Mrs. Inez Hunt next hostess, June 29.

Playground Plans Summer Program

Central Playground plans a very well balanced Summer program for people of all ages. There will be activities galore. To start the ball to rolling, Friday there will be a trip to the afternoon performance of the Shrine Circus, free for the first 50 children, age fifteen and under.

Saturday the pool opens free from 10 to 12 a.m. Open at 1:00 p.m. at regular prices.

There will be day camping weekly on Friday (a joint session with Ross Snyder at Ross Snyder), Mrs. Lightner, and Mrs. Dabney in charge.

PLAN CABARET PARTY—Members of the planning committee of Six Pointers club go over final plans for their Cabaret dance this Friday night at the Club Alabam. The newly organized club, which is composed of deputy sheriffs in Los Angeles county, is going all-out to make its first public dance a huge success. Members of the committee pictured above from left to right are Chester Redmond, Karl Edgenton, James Goodlow, Donald B. Sleet, Curtis Howard and Samuel W. Brooks.

Seventy-nine Los Angeles girls were picked from Y-Teen Clubs in YWCA Branches throughout the city for the conference. Selection was based on leadership qualities displayed by the girls in club activities.

Delegates attending from Woodlawn are:

Wanda Ross, Goldie Fulcher, Frances Battle, Gracie Fitzgerald. They will leave on Wednesday and return Sunday. Expenses for the trip are made possible through club donations and funds raised during the recent YWCA "Orchid Days" sale.

wedding anniversary assembly on the books at the Golden State auditorium over this weekend. A pair of wonderful folks, both of them, that which of course you well know!

To N.Y. for ten weeks and longer: Eddie Beal and protegee. That's C. G. Price's sister Mabel in town from Texas for two weeks. T. S.F. for golf and stuff and things: Cal Bailey for a fortnight, tubes, canvases, paint brushes and all. Plus a wellfilled address book.

Ready next month: Pacific Town Club's snazzy pool.

July calendar: Haroldine Brewington birthday's on the 8th, Luvercha Bray on the 16th, the Dr. Tom Griffins have an anniversary on the 14th, Edna McCormick's birthday's on the 23rd, the Leon Smiths (Bernice) ditto on the 16th.

Due for a LA visit this summer: Omaha's Dr. and Mrs. MacMillan. Carolyn Bryant and mother asked after in SF. Home in LA after a month's trip east: Central YWCA's Ethel (Tee) Thomas, bravely facing collective raised brows of all those chums to whom she did NOT send card one.

Ever charming, ever hospitable Zola and Earl Adams (Oakland) ever their serene likeable selves. Their beauty of a daughter Joan is married to former USF football ace John Finney.

Add gay Oakland hosts: Recently wed Herman Williams who with little or no effort can whip up a Monday afternoon hoedown and feel no pain.

In LA: Rev. Clarence Cobbs at the Dunbar. He returns to Chi in time for a conference on the books for July 22. The Orson Guichards back in SF after a quick trip to LA.

Choice descriptives from them over the remarkable likeness of Beulah Woodard's sculptured head of Maudelle Bass which they viewed at the Festival of Arts exhib at First Unitarian Church.

Maudelle lives now in midtown Manhattan; she used to shuttle vigorously back and forth between Mexico City and LA.

Asked after in SF: The Allen Woodards. Ditto Della McDonald. Highly dependable to add to Berkeley's collection of peaches-and-cream beauties: Cut Ann Roberson, she with the radiant smile and personality to match.

Red-haired Mabel Chenault shopping at City of Paris asks if Jim and Arthur Doram are coming to the coast from Chi; she had vague idea in the next breath Malcolm Wells will be on the coast this summer from NY.

If he comes in August he will miss his LA favorite, perennial "Jo" Cooper. She will be in NY en route to Atlantic City for the Labor Day party of Dr. and Mrs. Walter Jerrick at their shore house. The Jerricks observe their first anniversary next month.

Byron Rumford and his hail-fellow-well-met style and handshake, still the "tops" person in and around Berkeley as of olde.

Atty Tom Berkley's law offices are across the street from the former. Add asked-after combinations: Wendell Greene-Able Robinson who surely must have been a busy pair when they were razz-ma-tazzin' it over, across and under these far-flung Bay bridges!

Note on the wall: Must track down Sam Morgan and Bill Crain over Fillmore way. And hope against hope too Flo Allen is in town.

Agnes Moreland Receives B. S. Degree at Redlands

Agnes Louise Moreland was among the 197 graduates to receive degrees in commencement exercises at the University of Redlands Sunday, June 8. Graduating Cum laude in English, Miss Moreland received the bachelor of arts degree.

A straight "A" 1948 graduate from Jefferson high school, Miss Moreland entered Redlands on a scholarship won in an oratorical contest sponsored by the Daily News. Last month she was named one of fifty-six appointees to Danforth Fellowships for graduate study, thus continuing the recognition for outstanding academic achievement.

Guiding the social activities of her junior class was her responsibility as vice-president. In this capacity she chairmanned the 1951 Junior-Senior Prom in addition to planning class meetings, banquets and other activities.

As a senior, Miss dMorelan served as vice-president of WEBS, senior women's honorary limited to fifteen members. WEBS is organized with the purpose of affiliating with national mortar board.

Throughout the four years Miss Moreland worked to supplement college resources. She has been telephone girl in her dormitories, served as waitress in the dining hall, worked as reader for the sociology and English departments and for one and one-half years worked as much news reporter for the public relations office of the university.

The parents of Miss Moreland are Mr. and Mrs. N. E. Moreland of 910 East 50th Street, Los Angeles. Agnes is a member of the Pilgrim Baptist church of Los Angeles, Rev. B. W. Wade, pastor. Her sorority is Upsilon chapter of Delta Sigma Theta, Inc.

COLLEGE BOUND—Attractive Diane Watson, a recent winner of Wilfandel Scholarship contest, is wished good luck by Ethel January and her uncle, Edward Turly, before she entrains for an eastern university. More than 20 Wilfandel members, headed by Mrs. Pearl Williams, gave gifts of lingerie and money to make sure Diane's trip would be a pleasant one. Saying goodbye also were Pauline Slater, aunt; Ruth Ann Giles, aunt, and Dorothy Watson, mother.

Lavish Costumes Smart Routines Spark Interest

The second annual dance recital will be offered by the Betty Martina Studio of Dance, featuring outstanding pupils on Sunday, July 6 from 3 to 5 p.m. Lavish costumes and smartly routined dance numbers, has sparked the interest of club and other social minded groups to the extent that each are reminding the people of the area to rally to the support of the affair.

Leaders in the area have already accepted the school headed by Miss Martina, at 10302 Graham avenue, as one of the cultural centers of the Watts-Willowbrook section of the city. The recital given for the first time in 1951 was hailed for its lavish cultural display manifested in the fine talent evidenced by children of that area.

This year's presentation of talented youngsters from the Betty Martina school, looms superior in numerous ways to last years beginner recital. It will again be staged in the auditorium of Will Rogers Memorial park, at 103rd and Success avenue. The date is Sunday, July 6 from 3 to 5 p.m.

12 Fillies Have Summer Circus

Plans are being made for a "Summer Circus" to be held in July by the 12 Fillies. Ideas were tossed about at the home of Irma Allen, reporter.

Guests will be notified of the date by members. Ivy Tedford is president and Georgia Jones serves as secretary.

SHOWING OFF—Their Alpha Phi Alpha credentials as wives are six neophytes who were welcomed into fraternity at a cocktail and tea party last Sunday in Ciro's nitery. Polio Victim Is Former Athlete

A tragic case indeed is the story of how the dreaded disease of polio crippled a once robust young man and former star athlete. It is the story of William Hall who, since he was stricken with the disease in 1949, has been confined to the hospital and home.

Hall attended Nevin Avenue Grammar school, William McKinley junior high, and graduated from Thomas Jefferson high school in the Zenithian Class of Summer '40. He was the senior class vice president.

He loved all kinds of sports; at Jefferson High, he played left end on the football team in which they ended up being the champions of 1939.

In 1948 he became an insurance agent for the Golden State Mutual Insurance Co. under District Manager Joel Price, supervisor Lonzie Jones. He worked in the First Division until he became stricken with Polio on August 1, 1949. Since then has been under care of the National Foundation and has to take the physical therapy treatments in order for him to recuperate. He is now residing at his home at 1329 E. 48th St.

The Recondites Entre Nous Social club is giving a benefit dance on July 12 in honor of him. It will be called the "Willie Hall Polio Fund Dance" and will be held in the great Auditorium Hall at 2308 S. Hoover St.

Tickets may be purchased from club members or the dance agent Miss Edythe Mae Carr at 1031 E. 49th St. Call AD 43284 for information regarding affair. Let's see our friend Willie walk again, support polio.

Hairstylists Eat Turkey

Hairstylist Guild members Harriet Branham, Laurine Howard and Eugene Swayne hosted the guild at their last meeting at the beautiful El Pico located at Pico and St. Andrews Place.

Wade and Green Students Offer Two Recitals

Wade and Green Music studio will present their students in two recitals: one, Friday, June 27 at 8 p.m., and Sunday, June 29, at 4 p.m. Both recitals are being presented at the Lincoln Memorial Congregational church, Vernon and Hooper streets, of which the Rev. Lloyd Galloway is minister.

The public is cordially invited to attend these recitals. Mrs. B. L. Wade and her son, Andre Green, are the instructors. General admission is free.

POLIO VICTIM—Onetime Jefferson High football star Willie Hall has been crippled by polio for almost three years now. Confined to his home, he is shown here with his wife, Anna, and five-year-old son, Willie, Jr. A benefit dance to raise funds for his medical care is to be given by the Recondites Entre Nous Social Club at Auditorium Hall on July 12.

HAL MILLER and KERRY JACKSON

Of all the mighty fine affairs we've been to in the past month of Sundays, the Ivies Invitational Dance at the Zenda Ballroom rates well above highest. With such beauties as Carol Blackwell, Camille Billops, Donzella Coulter, Jo Ann Leonard and Gloria Forrester present in the form of attractive scenery how could it be possible for Herb Wood, Leroy Williams, Calvie Lawrence or Jonathan Leonard not to go away with the utmost of jollies absorbed. Among others present we found Billy Harman and Yvonne Watson; Dion Marrow and Glennette Blackwell; Ted Schaeffer and Ruth Tompson; Barbara Freeman and Ken Spencer; Johnny Moore and Mary Vandange; Joan Arnold and Preston Johnson; Al Crum and Wanda Harris; and Mary Cantrell and Pete O'Garro all joining in the whails. One of the highlights of the evening occurred when Phy Taylor borrowed a tenor sax and blew much farfetched tunes to the delight of Thomas Greene, Gwen Taylor, Chas Brussard, Percy McIntyre and Lorenzo Wallace and all others.

Satorially resplendent persons of all ages are highly appreciative of the unlimited selection of imported and domestic fabrics and a battery of skilled craftsmen whose every desire is to display invincible attire.

Fashionable and Economical

Something new has been added at Eastern-Columbia . . . and it's a completely restocked men's department. Athletic in Appearance

Such features as one-piece backs, low suppressed waistlines and self-covered buttons are only a few of the points of interest in these new suits, and there's practically an unlimited selection of fabrics and colors.

To top it off, Lou says his prices are the lowest anywhere for such quality and styling. "Compare prices," says Lou, "then come on over to E-C and look around. You'll really be surprised."

South Africa

the government's police force armed to the teeth and the non-whites responding with tremendous fervor to the struggle.

Protest meetings, turbulent demands for the resignation of Prime Minister Daniel F. Malan have been erupting here for months.

Voice Pledge

On April 6, the 300th anniversary of white settlement in South Africa, huge protest meetings were held in all important cities. At the Johannesburg rally thousands chanted in unison the pledge that:

"We, the oppressed peoples of South Africa, do hereby solemnly pledge to carry on our relentless struggle for the repeal of the unjust laws. . . . We shall go on to the uttermost limits of our endurance and sacrifice to carry out the African National Congress plan to defy the unjust laws which subject our people to political slavery, economic misery and social degradation.

"From this day on we vow to act as free men and women and to dedicate ourselves to the struggle for freedom and fundamental rights."

Later, June 26 was set as the date for the official launching of the resistance campaign.

Took Away Rights

The high-handed acts of Prime Minister Malan came to a head when the Supreme Court declared invalid a law taking away the voting rights of "coloreds," or those of mixed parentage. Malan immediately had introduced in parliament a bill nullifying the power of the high court, and making parliament itself the highest tribunal in the land. Malan's Nationalist (Dutch) party has a slim majority in parliament.

This arbitrary move was vigorously opposed by the British United party. Malan's action also served to galvanize the disinherited non-whites into joint, nation-wide protest.

United in the movement are the African National Congress, composed of Negroes; the South African Indian Congress, and the Colored People's Franchise Action Council.

PATROLLIN' THE BRONZEVILLE BEAT: The eye-arresting lovelies of Gold's Dept. store, noon-hr. strollin' down the stem. They stop more traffic than the corner cop.

J. B. Brown, the gambler who ran a fortune into a shoestring, says money doesn't always bring happiness. He's referring, of course, to Confederate money!

Name of the new tuberculosis drug is Pyricidin. You can get it at the corner drug store via a doctor's prescription.

Speaking of pianist Eddie Heywood, who is a notorious lens louse, Lee Young (the drummer) said: "He won't permit his photograph to be taken unless there's a photographer around!"

OVERHEARD: "That's been had by all!"

Opal Clinton, the model, and bassist "Red" Callender are closer than two coats of paint.

Billy Eckstine just sent me one of those pens that'll write under water, in milk, in whisky, on the tablecloth — everywhere but on paper!

"Boots" Moreno, a patient at Olive View, says "I'm going in town next week to see my doctor —he isn't feeling very well!"

Scatman Crothers, the neat-wit, one left a dull affair with this flip-wordage: "If this is a party, so is the Republican!"

No more free publicity here for Bessie Mae Goodman, the pretty little model, until she demands that her nude pics be removed from the walls of Sunny's Pool Hall on Central Ave. (So long, it's been nice to know ya'll)

Yvonne Shelton, the lovely ball bondswoman, became a year older last week—but looks more like a high school girl than most of those who go there. She birthday party'd far into the yawn.

Upon his arrival here, the admitting nurse at Olive View asked Manual Navarez: "In case of death who d'ya want us to notify?" He snapped: "The morgue!"

My pretty niece, Betty Jean Arthur, with those eyebrows she lifts so eloquently, nicely slit the throat of an annoying female acquaintance one night as she was leaving a party. Turning to the pest, she inquired: "Can I drop you somewhere? Off the Santa Monica Pier, for instance?"

Following a heated discussion, Melrose Browning, our gal Friday (all through the week) snapped: "There are three sides to every story: your side, my side — and to hell with it!"

Have yez heard Johnny Ray's recording of "Broken Hearted"? Terrif! Watching him in person he always looks like he's on a runaway horse!

A fella was taking our gal pal (shapely "Frantic" Fay Thomas), the pianist, home one morning and said: "You have wonderful potentialities." "Hush, you fool!" Fay said, "the cab driver will hear you!"

My, how tempus doth fugit! Ruth Janelle Jackson will become a wife in August. She was Reve's babysitter!

Doris Bradley, the seditty sassiety gal who walks as though balancing the family tree on her nose, says she's turned 21. She sure has. She's turned it every way but loose!

The health department oughta make some of those Eastside restaurants "clean up or close up"! Lipstick-stained glasses, unsanitary silverware, etc!

Blonde Julia Saxton, the Eastside looker(has dyed her hair blacker than a yard up a stovepipe.

Doctors say the BEST cure for tuberculosis is—peace of mind. G'wan, how can you have peace of mind when you have tuberculosis???

Betty Allston, our right arm, reviewed a show for the column the other evening and wired this report: "No comment. Joy, caught it under bad circumstances—the curtain was up!"

Janet Barber, the stenog, and Paul Baker, the dancer, are on the verge of a merge.

THE WEAKLY NEWSREAL: "Dear John," passionately writes Vera Ellis on a penny postcard all the way from Watts, "who writes that gossip column (People 'n Places) for your paper- I can keep a secret." (So can I!).

Political Note: I believe wholeheartedly and unqualifiedly in the two party system: One on Saturday and one on Sunday.

Love Letter of the Week: "Dear Joy, heard you were ill. Got your address from the Eagle. Do take care of yourself. We all miss you. Will be out to see you before my return to Paris—love, your admirer, Dorothea Towles" (and we love you damn near to death, too!)

Melrose says the sweater girl is going out. Sure is—and every night, too!!

Re: the "suicide" angle in the Rev. John L. Branham case, as a result of an attempt to commit suicide, Hazel Simpson could be committed to a state hospital (by court order) for a three-month "observation" period! It's a state law!!

Anna Mae Winburn, luscious leader of the all-doll orch, will set up headquarters in Hollywood.

Note from Jay Brooks: ". . . everyone's flocking to the beaches. I was teaching a young lady to swim, when a lousy lifeguard came along and made us get in the water!

Mrs. Dynamite Jackson (Lulu Bendy) counted her birthday candles Friday last. Don't you, too, think she's one of the nicest things God ever built?

If Ted Hughes, the realtor, stops discussing the secret sins of persons he doesn't even know, we'll stop goosing him in our column.

Dick Williams, the popular sportsman, will open his haberdashery on the Westside of town, because that's where most of the filthy, stinking, wonderful money is.

Patients at Olive View amuse themselves with this new word game. F'instance: "I wouldn't mind being a pancake—if Lana was my Turner." or "I wouldn't mind being an ocean—if Veronic was my lake." or: "I'd have my suits altered if Elizabeteh was my Taylor." or: (oh, fevensakes, Gipson—SHADDUP!!)

The Main-Stemmers hear that a well-known sportsman is in for a very bad time if the husband of his current girl friend ever finds out!

Overheard' "The trouble with a platonic friendship is, the girl always gets pregnant.

Dorothy Dandridge and Phil Moore are closer than the skin on a cue ball.

Linda Edwards, the little 3-year-old heartbreaker of the diaper set, is a bundle of angelic loveliness. She's the doll-face daughter of Gladys and Bill Edwards, of Los Angeles society.

Sudden Thawt: If you have two friends in Los Angeles, consider yourself a success!

The Song Is Ended: It was two years and six months ago that God caught the eye of Ivie Anderson and called her to heaven. "The Queen of Song" is gone, but her memory is etched on the hearts of millions who knew and loved her.

To hear the wolves argue it, Virginia McMorris, of Commonwealth's 47th and Central Ave. branch, is the prettiest girl in Los Angeles. And wotta pair of legs!

Finger Snap! Experience is what you get when you're looking for something else.

Jack Benny says Phil Harris' band could play 5 numbers and still stump the "What's My Line" experts!

Toting a Torch? Hear Cecil "Count" Carter's latest lullabye, "It's So Hard To Laugh So Easy To Cry." Nat "King" Cole delightfully disced it. It'll make yer eyes bleed water.

Elihu "Black Dot" McGee, one of the nicer guys, who donates to charity without fanfare or publicity.

By popular request they will also include "Southern Landscape," by Gretchaninoff, "Little China Figure," by Saint-Saens, "Ronde Capriccioso," "Harlot's House" and "Cinderella," favorite ballets from previous seasons.

Felix Alarcon, Josephine Baker's Mexican manager, will attend the July 11 premiere at the Assistance League Playhouse, as negotiations are under way to present the troupe in Mexico City in November.

JORDAN'S THRUSH—Elaine Robinson, winsome widow of the late Bill Robinson, is currently enhancing Louis Jordan's Tympany Five with her singing and dancing. She is now a featured performer with the Jordan group.

T-BONE WALKER SOLIDLY SENDS AT OASIS NITERY

By J. T. GIPSON
Theatrical Editor

One of the pleasanter things heard around Los Angeles lately is Aaron "T-Bone" Walker, his guitar and the Jim Wynn orchestra, currently appearing at the Oasis Club on So. Western Ave.

Having, prior to our illness, acted in the capacity as road manager for the little "Guitarrific King of the Blues," these two guys in the second row might suspect we're a bit prejudiced in shouting his praises, so we'll give you a re-print from our friend (bystander: "I knew it!) the Rounder's column, which appeared in the Los Angeles Daily Mirror under date of June 19, 1952.

He writes: "For many years now Tito Guizar has been roaming the American continent almost without competition as the romantic entertainer of the guitar. But no more, not after Monday night's demonstration of electronic sex as demonstrated by T-Bone Walker, who came back to town for a Club Oasis opening.

"With his big electric guitar Walker edges close to a ringside table, bends over and plucks a sharp string in a way I've never quite seen done before.

"And when T-Bone swung his guitar behind his back and slowly did a gymnastic split, all the time strumming his guitar to the tune of his own "T-BONE SHUFFLE," the gals loved it!"

Given my choice of being stranded on a desert island with Lena Horne or spending an evening listening to T-Bone Walker play his guitar and sing the blues, I'd settle for Walker's entertaining!

Baby Davis Soaring to Top!

Baby Davis, a tiny little doll no bigger than a soft whisper, is fast rising to the top as one of swingdom's top singers.

AGVA Rules 'Free' Dis-Jock Shots Out for Members

The American Guild of Variety Artists (AGVA), the nightclub entertainers' union, ruled this week that no member of the union can made a free "guest" appearance on a disc-jockey program in niteclubs or restaurants.

The purpose, so claim AGVA, is to keep performers from giving their talents away free, in competition with other performers working for pay.

The ruling went into effect Monday, June 23.

No Color Line In Beverly Hills Dancing School

Hal Styles School of Radio and Television, located in Beverly Hills at the corner of Wilshire and Robertson boulevards, has just added a ballroom dancing department which will be open to everyone, according to an announcement by Gene Martineau, general manager, this week.

"Our radio and television departments," said Martineau, have always been open to anyone in the past, however, in converting the school's large auditorium into a beautiflu ballroom done in blue and gold, with a profusion of mirrors, everyone can now learn to dance in the high-class atmosphere of the stars.

Expert teachers will give lessons in rhumba, tango, samba, wambo, and swing, as well as the waltz and foxtrot. Dancing parties will be held twice weekly, and anyone may bring their own partner if desired. All enrollees will become members of the exclusive "Crescent Club" entitling them to special privileges. The ballroom will be available for parties, meetings, social groups or special occasions.

TALENT HUNT—Johnny Otis, popular band leader who is currently packing them in the Club Alabam, announced that he will audition singers in a special talent search Sunday afternoon in the Club Alabam. The entire band will be on hand to accompany singers. Talent scouts from major recording companies will also be on hand.

People and Places

The big "shot" that caused the year's most sensational story is loaded with dynamite. One thing is certain, if you are a reader of the Eagle you are lucky, for two fellows who sign their paychecks at the 1050 address got the inside dope; Abie Robinson is one of the keepers of the secret who knows what happened that Saturday evening at the 2075 W. 29th place address.

They're gonna tell you about the bruises on Hazel Simpson's face, and the near suicide following the shooting. Hazel was thinking seriously of doing away with herself at the home of her friends. They're gonna tell you about a San Francisco trip by the two and what police officer drove them there. They're gonna tell you what Dr. J. Pius Barbour said when he was on the coast two years ago. He's the editor of the National Baptist Voice. They're gonna tell you about Branham's San Diego debut and they are going to bring you up to date with Hazel Simpson whose dancing feet carried her into the money bracket far above the average chorus gal other than Virginia Hill, of the notorious Bugsy Siegle clan who was a red head, known for thousand dollar parties out Beverly Hills way.

Tour No. 3

Ted Hogan, former City College high-hurdle champ is getting more than a work out these days. Hogan is in charge of the rugged tour No. 3 which dispatches the mail out at the "annex" before midnight. The guys and gals on this shift are saying that the former westside flyer is gonna wind up with ulcers if he doesn't play it cool. LEROY BEAMON, president of Postal 32, should have his head examined and its members as well. Only recently the newspapers in which they will have their mugs played up referred to the postal clerks as a bunch of tramps for the wonderful job they had done for the Palsy Fund. We, like fools, thought that paper's item on the clerks and carriers was an insult and the following week carried a front page story and editorial, "Nothing Sure But Death, Taxes and the Postman's Ring." Postmaster Michael D. Fanning penned us a mighty nice letter for coming to the aid of the lowly clerks and carriers. The Postal No. 32 group gave a social and what paper was asked to cover it? Not the Eagle, but the one that kicked them around. How nice can you be?

A Tricky Fellow

Walter Lawson, remember him? Well, he is plying his trade up Alaska way and still operating in the same manner that got him rushed out of Los Angeles and San Francisco. It appears that he will be leaving there soon if he doesn't straighten out a little $150 dollar care deal. Attractive Bernice Brownlee is about our fair city spending a few days with mother. She clerks at the Naval Supply Depot in Anchorage, Alaska, to be close to hubby who is stationed there.

She Is Hooked

Lysbeth Roger, popular Red Hut Broiler waitress (when it is open) is sporting the right kind of rings on the fourth finger of her lfet hand. Lysbeth and tall, good loking Benjamin Mitchell motored to Oakland two weeks ago and said "I Do." CONGRATS —to Bill Watkins who told likker dealers no lush will be sold in the Rubaiyat Room unless the company employes Negroes. We might add: we hope he stocks the joint with a coupla local beers like Jack Fortune's Brew 102 and John L. Brady Lucky Lager.

Watts' Boy Wonder

Rev. F. D. Ferrell, whose neon sign announce to motorists fleeting by the 114th and Central, his Tabernacle, denied that his wife slapped an ofay chick because she was supposed to have been much too nice to preacher husband. We put in a call to Ferrell who said it was a vicious rumor and he just finished speaking to his wife. We call wife after speaking to the Rev., but got no answer.

Picking Pockets

A certain young barrister who was noted for his light-fingered art while attending grade school just can't get out of the habit. It seems that he managed to find himself and his Monterey parked in front of a well-known gal's house early Saturday morning. She let him in to sober up, he thanked her for being so nice and when he left in a few hours missing from the gal's purse was in the hallway.

Hotel Manager Milton Robinson testified that Sompratt was taking Betty to his room and that Williams told her she had better stay away from the other man.

Williams took her to their own room, 11, and Sompratt went into room 27. About an hour later, Williams left and Betty went into Sompratt's room, according to her statement. When Williams returned to find the woman in his rival's room he became upset hotel residents said. Sompratt refused to let Williams enter, they recalled.

Drives 24 Miles for Gun

He went to the cafe on Fifth street prior to the altercation, Williams said, to eat and returned only to find Betty in Sompratt's room. He asked her to come out, but Sompratt would not let her, saying, "Go away! This woman can sleep with whoever she wants to as long as she gets paid."

He then drove to Monrovia to the house of one Grady I. Byrd and got a gun from Mrs. Byrd, with the intention, he told the Eagle reporter, to give it to Byrd who was in Los Angeles and had told him to pick it up for him.

Shot Through Door

Back in L. A. Williams once more tried to get his common-law wife from the room of Sompratt who came to the door with a long French knife, according to Betty, who was in the room.

Williams drew his gun and pounded on the door. At this point, Hotel Manager Robinson approached and tried to quiet the man, but Williams turned and faced him with the gun and told him to stay out of it. Robinson retreated down the hallway.

Sompratt partly opened the door and was greeted by the bullet which killed him. The Fouche-Tompkin woman fled with the killer in his car.

One set of women's possessions found in Sompratt's room belonged to Betty and the other to June Sompratt, 27, Sompratt's white common-law wife.

Betty, June, Williams and Sompratt have previous long police records.

Williams was ordered held to answer by the corpner's jury, the preliminary hearing was set for June 30 in Division 4 of Municipal Court.

Ran Out on Her Man

June testified at the inquest that she had left Sompratt the day before he was killed and gone to Stockton. She ran out on her man and he had no woman to take care of him, she surmised, and that was why he wanted Betty.

Brought Back Alive

Betty, a southern belle from Texarkana, Texas-Arkansas, said, "Percy said he wanted to find out what kind of a woman I was and was going to get me a job the next day. He said it didn't make any difference if I was white, young and attractive, he had to give me a test."

Out To Get Revenge

When attractive, blonde, Mrs. Sompratt decided to come back to her man and found out that he was dead because of a brunette, she went knife totin' for Betty.

Small Mind

That Grape Street school teacher who made scholastic honors while attending Bishop University is certainly not putting it to any good use at the school. How can she, when she admits that she doesn't read Negro newspapers? We stopped looking for leadership from many of our school-teachers because they fail to keep abreast of the problems that confront their students' parents because their only interest is drawing down that paycheck. However, this Grape street school mom almost was late getting to her class last Thursday because she wanted to have her copy of the Eagle which carried the "Branham-Simpson" shocking affair. How small our minds can be!

AWARD FOR MARTYR—Mrs. Rosa B. Moore, 84-year-old mother of Harry T. Moore, receives the Spingarn medal posthumously for her martyred son, at the NAACP convention in Oklahoma City. Congressman Clifford P. Case (N.J.) made the award.

Convicted Of Selling Narcotics

Fannie Sue Jones, 29, 982½ E. Vernon avenue, popular Eastside businesswoman and social figure, was convicted by a jury in federal court last Thursday on four counts of violation of federal narcotic laws.

Convicted along with Mrs. Jones was ex-convict Willie B. Pipkins, 38, 227½ W. 54th street.

Judge James M. Carter set July 21, 2 p.m., for time of sentencing. Pipkins was remanded to custody. Mrs. Jones is free on $2,500 bail.

Mrs. Jones and Pipkins were indicted by the Federal Grand Jury for selling 144 grains of heroin to a Federal narcotics agent on January 23, and for completing another sale of 122 grains of the narcotic to the same agent on January 28. With each count of selling was added the charge of receiving, concealing and facilitating the transfer of narcotics in violation of Federal law.

Mrs. Jones was arrested at her home on March 17. Pipkins was arrested at his residence March 20.

The widow of the late Jack R. Jones, well-known sportsman and man-about-town, Mrs. Jones first broke into the news over a year ago when she and her husband became ill from tetanous infection. "Big Jack" died from the illness. While Mrs. Jones was still on the critical list, a threatening telegram was delivered to her home indicating that she was to be the next victim.

Federal narcotics agents were of the opinon that Jones, who had completed a short prison term for narcotics violation, was the victim of dope traffic warfare, as there was indication that the infection was caused by "poisoned" narcotics.

Last April, Mrs. Jones again broke into the news when she

Pastor at Home; Faces Grand Jury Quiz on July 15th

By WENDELL GREEN

Sources close to the Grand Jury indicated this week that several startling leads have been uncovered by investigators for the Grand Jury into the sensational shooting of Rev. John L. Branham, June 14, by his church member, Hazel Simpson, reputed to be the gambling queen of the Westside.

Rev. Branham was removed from the Queen of Angels Hospital to his palatial home at 2220 W. Adams boulevard Saturday evening, and Dr. Wells E. A. Forde, his personal physician, stated that Branham is well on his way to recovery.

However, when investigators for the Grand Jury attempted to question him, they were refused admission to his bedroom on the grounds that he is too ill to see them.

The Grand Jury hearing scheduled for July 8 will be held without the testimony or presence of Rev. Branham. His attorney informed the investigators that he will make a statement on July 9, the day after the first hearing, and will be able to meet with the Grand Jury on July 15.

Indicating that a sweeping investigation of the shooting is being made, several dozen persons have been interrogated by investigators, and approximately a dozen subpoenas have been issued for the hearing Tuesday.

Wrong Man Shot in Fight Over Shotgun

By Eddie Lee King

While Henry C. Virgil, 24, 1662 East 48th place and Roosevelt Brown, 40, 1662 East 48th place were scuffling over Brown's shotgun, it went off and shot Jimmie Brown in the left foot.

According to Robert Brown, Virgil went in the bedroom where his small children were sleeping and stretched out across the bed, following a drinking party Sunday night.

Mrs. Brown told Virgil to get out and he began threatening her. Roosevelt intervened and told him to get out. Virgil struck Roosevelt Brown on the nose, knocking him down, then got his wife's butcher knife from the kitchen and started to decapitate Roosevelt when he changed his mind and went out front.

Gets Shotgun

"I'm going to get my shotgun and shoot you," Roosevelt said, and immediately obtained his shotgun from the bedroom and went gunning for Virgil.

Virgil grabbed Foosevelt as he came around the side of the house and they began struggling over the gun. The gun went off and shot Jimmie Brown in the left foot.

May Lose Foot

Virgil and Roosevelt weer arrested and Jimmie received medical treatment at Georgia Street Receiving Hospital. According to the doctor, Jimmie may lose his left foot.

The 12-guage shotgun and the large butcher knife were booked as evidence.

Virgil said, "I never did have any butcher knife. Jimmie got shot trying to keep Roosevelt Brown from shootin gme.'"

Child, Struck by Car, Badly Hurt

Four-year-old Frank E. Roberson, of 1702½ Palm Lane, Willowbrook, was seriously injured Saturday when he was struck by a car in front of his home.

He was rushed to Physicians and Surgeons Hospital in Compton with a fractured jaw, lacerations and possible skull fracture. He was later transferred to the County Hospital.

At press time, he was reported to be improving, and was expected to pull through.

Jessie C. Winfield, of 918 East 116th street, told deputies the youngster darted from the curb in front of his car. Winfield was not held.

NAACP Convention Pledges Stiff Fight

Dares Dixiecrats To 'Take a Walk'

OKLAHOMA CITY — Telling the Dixiecrats to go "take a walk," the 43rd annual convention of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People called upon both Democrats and Republicans to include in their programs an "unequivocal civil rights plank."

The power of the Negro vote and its single-mindedness on this issue was pointed to not as a threat but as a cold political fact.

As to the Dixiecrats, Walter White, executive secretary, told the convention:

"Stop Shivering"

"Let 'em walk! Where can they go? Nowhere—except to political oblivion. It is about time for Northern politicians to stop shivering in their boots whenever a Dixiecrat screams 'bolt.'

"Whatever else southern politicians may be they are realistic about political patronage and the lucrative rewards which go with being the majority party.

"Whatever happens, political realists like Russell of Georgia, Kerr of Oklahoma and Lister Hill of Alabama are not going to give up the prestige and power they now enjoy. They know that Republicans like Taft would give the South only the crumbs from the patronage table."

Call for Boycott

The convention, attended by 750 delegates from 37 states, also called for a boycott of all sporting events, theaters and other places of entertainment which insist upon segregation. Said the resolution wisely: "The withdrawal of financial support from the perpetuation of segregation is one of the most effective means of combatting it."

Another resolution spelled out opposition to Federal aid to education unless provisions governing the grants expressly forbid segregation.

The convention also called for a comprehensive system of health insurance, and on the touchy loyalty question called upon President Truman to restrict the loyalty program "to the security sensitive agencies of the government," including the State and Defense Departments, the FBI and the Atomic Energy Commission.

Spingarn Award

A highlight of the convention was the awarding of the coveted Spingarn medal posthumously to Harry T. Moore, martyred Florida leader who was bombed to death in his home last Christmas night. The award was given to the hero's courageous 84-year-old mother, Mrs. Rosa B. Moore.

In accepting the award, Mrs. Moore said quietly that she did

President Truman Renews Stand for Strong Civil Rights

OKLAHOMA CITY — President Truman in a telegram of greeting to the 43rd annual convention of the NAACP, assured delegates that "the 10-point program I sent to Congress in 1948 is still my civil rights program for the American people."

He further stated that America is a "stronger and better and more united" country because of the civil rights program.

West Coast Out in Front At Okla. City

The West Coast contingent (region 1) of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People did itself proud at the 43rd national convention in Oklahoma City last week.

In size of delegation, honors and activity, the West Coast was well out among the leaders.

Dr. E. I. Robinson, president of the Los Angeles branch, was elected to the important national nominating committee.

Dr. H. Claude Hudson, member of the association's Board of Directors, made the presentation speech giving the Noah Griffith award for outstanding accomplishment in activity and in the membership drive to the Vallejo, Cal. branch.

In his talk, he made the point that California aims at establishing the largest and most effective NAACP branches in the country.

John Dial, southern area president, presided over the convention on Labor Night, at which Walter Reuther, president of the United Automobile Workers CIO, was principal speaker.

In size, with 86 voting delegates, the West Coast was topped only by Texas. Nearly every branch in California was represented.

Heart Attack Kills Man Driving Car

Apparently suffering a heart attack while driving his car, L. C. Bell, 50, of 2056 E. 126th street, died last Thursday as his car smashed into an auto parked on Olympic blvd. near Velasco st.

Police said Bell died from a heart attack and not injuries sustained in the wreck. The parked car belonged to Joe Cikel, 3117 Carlin ave., Lynwood.

Wife, Children Beneficiaries of Blodgett Estate

The will of the Late Charles S. Blodgett, one of Los Angeles' most honored pioneers, was filed for probate Tuesday, and revealed assets "in excess of $10,000."

Named as beneficiaries in the document which was drawn June 8, 1944, were Blodgett's wife, Mrs. Mary L. Blodgett, of 2171 West 29th street, and his sons and daughters.

The precise amount of the estate was not known but it was believed to be of considerable size, and to include valuable residential and income property in addition to cash holdings.

Blodgett was 80 when he died. His long-time friend, Atty. Curtis C. Taylor, was chosen by the family to act in the estate matters.

In addition to Mrs. Blodgett, others specifically named in the will were: Mrs. Mary S. Watkins, daughter, 29351 Louis avenue, Maynard, Calif.; Harry Blodgeett, son, 1867 West Jefferson boulevard; Charles S. Blodgett, Jr., son; Wesley C. Blodgett, 1310 North Arroyo boulevard, Pasadena.

L. Blodgett, surviving brother of the deceased, is the president of the Liberty Building and Loan association, located in the Blodgett building.

Pall of Jim Crow Clouds Convention

OKLAHOMA CITY — The pall of Jim Crow hung heavily over the convention of the NAACP held here June 22 to 29.

The city gave no sign of trying to put on even a "show" of democracy as did Atlanta last year, although the convention was welcomed by Mayor Allan Street.

Everywhere segregation held sway, with the officials merely looking the other way at fraternization of Negroes and whites among the delegates and their friends.

In hotels, restaurants and all public places, segregation was the rule. Delegates were housed either with private individuals or in the city's Negro hotels. Meals also had to be obtained in accordance with rigid race restrictions.

There were no incidents, no flurries during the week of the meetings. Instead, there was the dampening, depressing scourge of jim crow everywhere.

Officials 'Satisfied' In Dunsmuir Case

Fear of a full-blown race riot in Los Angeles was heightened this week following failure of the County Grand Jury to take effective action to bring to book perpetrators of the Dunsmuir avenue bombings.

"There's nothing we can do about it," was, in substance, the pat attitude of the jury's Criminal Complaints committee, following consideration of the matter Tuesday. As far as the committee is concerned, everything is proceeding "satisfactorily."

Official Indifference

But the Negro community thinks differently. Learning of their action—or rather refusal to act—Lester Bailey, field secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, declared vehemently:

"The indifference of official Los Angeles to the serious lack of police protection for Negroes moving into 'new' areas in the city is a problem that may well explode into a race riot next time an act of violence is visited upon a Negro family."

The Grand Jury probe was requested by the NAACP two weeks ago, following removal of police protection from the Dunsmuir avenue home of William Bailey, which was blasted by bombs last March 16.

Still Investigating

More than three months—110 days to be exact—has elapsed since the outrage. No arrests have been made. The Wilshire detectives, the district attorney's office, the F.B.I. are "still investigating," still trying to "narrow down" the list of suspects, still attempting to point the finger at the actual culprit.

It was because of the failure of the authorities to make any progress in solving the crime and thereby give some measure of assurance to Negroes that they will not be bombed out of their homes that the NAACP appealed to the Grand Jury.

Now that body's special committee has reviewed the case. A

Petition Circulated Against Angus Bates

Mr. and Mrs. Angus Bates remain embattled in their home at 1749 W. 42nd street despite the open animosity of several of their neighbors, and the seeming inactivity of the police department in the case.

Latest outrage perpetrated on the Bates by some of their neighbors is a petition that is circulating in the neighborhood.

Mrs. Bates said that she was informed of the petition by one of the friendly neighbors, but other than the fact it is directed against them, she has been unable to find out its contents.

Bates received a threatening note and a cross was burned in his back yard June 15. June 20, the Bates family received another threatening letter and a card.

Last Sunday the family learned of the petition that was being circulated by a neighbor across the street from the Bates residence.

Mrs. Bates seemed particularly bitter toward the police department. She stated that the day after the cross burning incident, one of the boys in the neighborhood turned up with a bandaged arm. He then disappeared from the neighborhood for two weeks.

Two of her neighbors have been openly hostile to her, yet have not been investigated by police officers, nor to her knowledge have they investigated how the youngster in the neighborhood injured his arm.

White Points Up Strength Of Negroes' Voting Power

OKLAHOMA CITY—Determination to carry forward the fight for civil rights with strength and militancy was the outstanding characteristic of the NAACP convention here last week.

Indicating the intention of striking from strength instead of from weakness, Executive Secretary Walter White pointed up the importance of the Negro vote in the forthcoming presidential elections.

He warned that repudiation of the civil rights program by either of the two major parties will "bring down the wrath of millions of independent voters."

Important among these independents, he declared, and "determined" on this issue is the "Negro vote now nearing 2,000,000 strong in the South and holding the potential balance of power in no less than 17 northern states with 281 votes in the electoral college.

"I say this not as a threat, White continued, "only as a simple, easily verifiable statement of fact. The Negro vote in Ohio, Illinois and California decided the 1948 presidential election."

so "with the sincere hope and belief that continuous and conscientious efforts of our present-day leaders, with the help of God, will gradually result in a nation which is free of prejudice and discrimination."

The convention, scoring the failure of law enforcement officers to capture the murderers who killed Moore and his wife, Mrs. Harriet Moore, noted the world-wide reputation of the Department of Justice and the FBI in successfully capturing and prosecuting the cleverest criminals in history, and added:

"We find ourselves unable to understand why such agencies invariably are unable to cope with violent criminal action by bigoted, prejudiced Americans against Negro Americans."

Highlight

Another convention highlight was receipt of a telegram from President Truman reaffirming his strong civil rights stand of 1948.

Others who sent greetings were presidential hopefuls W. Averill Harriman and Sen. Estes Kefauver; Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt; Mrs. Mary McLeod Bethune; AFL's William Green; CIO's Philip Murray; Sleeping Car Porters' president A. Philip Randolph; Masonic leader Amos T. Hall; Restaurant Employees' president Hugo Ernst.

Among the notables who addressed the convention was Edward R. Dudley, American Ambassador to the West African Republic of Liberia. Roy Wilkins gave the keynote address.

Politics to be Studied by New Breakfast Club

A new political club, the "Sunday Morning Breakfast Club," was formed here last Thursday evening for the purpose of studying civic developments and keeping its members supplied with up-to-the-minute information regarding the records of city, state and national political figures.

So ripe is the community for such activity, that already more than 50 women have joined up.

The group was founded by Mrs. Theresa Lindsay. Plans for initial steps were made at Thursday's meeting.

First scheduled get-together of the new club will be the third Sunday in July at the Clark hotel, arrangements for which are being made by Mrs. Lindsay and Mrs. A. C. Bilbrew. The club plans to meet once a month on Sunday mornings.

Miss Ethel January was appointed secretary, to serve until officers are regularly elected.

'Investigation' On Dunsmuir spokesman of the committee told the Eagle that they had heard reports from the investigating officers and they are "satisfied that progress is being made."

"All Is Well"

Asked if the Grand Jury was contemplating any further action,. the spokesman queried: "What action can we take until we have someone to proceed against?"

Questioned further, he replied that the committee would receive "progress" reports weekly from the law "enforcement" officers.

NAACP Secretary Bailey, elaborating his fears regarding possible violent outbreaks, continued:

"I have noted this lack of concern from the mayor down to the chief of police.

"Even the Grand Jury has seemingly been convinced by police reports that "all is well" on Dunsmuir.

"Since the first of the year, there have been two bombings, two cross burnings and numerous threatening letters reported in Los Angeles.

"The failure to apprehend one single suspect in any instance gives the 'go' signal to the bigots and lets minority group persons know beyond a shadow of a doubt just what to expect in the way of protection and effective investigation on the part of the various law enforcement agencies of the city, state and federal government."

Police Draw Fines for Part In Cicero Riot

CHICAGO—Cicero's police chief and two of the lily-white suburb's policemen got off with fines for their infamous part in last July's race riot.

Chief Erwin Konovsky drew a fine of $2,000 and costs, following conviction in Federal district court. Police Sgt. Roland Brani and Patrolman Frank A. Lange were fined $250 each.

Cicero town attorney Nicholas Berkos was still to be sentenced.

The sentences followed trials in Federal court, after the local grand jury had refused to indict the officers for failure to protect the civil rights of Harvey Clark, Jr., when he attempted to move into an apartment in Cicero last July.

Thugs and mobsters rioted, wrecked and looted the apartment, burned the Clarks' furniture in an eerie bonfire, while police stood by.

The riot was put down only after state troopers were sent in by Gov. Adlai Stevenson.

Two Colleges Confer Degrees on Minister

Two honorary degrees were conferred upon Rev. Charles H. Hampton, pastor of Bethel Baptist church, San Diego, last Sunday, climaxing his 18th anniversary celebration. Central Mississippi college, Kisciuske, Mississippi, conferred upon him the Degree of Doctor of Divinity and Natchez College, Natchez, Mississippi, conferred upon him the Degree of Doctor of Laws. Doctor Hampton's father was a member of the first graduating class of Natchez College.

Dr. Hampton had been invited to these institutions to give their commencement addresses and receive the honors upon their campuses; because of his inability to get there, Rev. R. B. Gayden, assistant secretary of the Educational Board of the National Baptist Convention, Inc., was delegated by the presidents and trustees of these institutions to confer the degrees at the anniversary celebration.

Rev. Gayden presided over the special services and Rev. Therion E. Cobbe, pastor of Bethel A.M.E. church of San Diego, was the speaker. Elizabeth Hampton Robinson, Child Welfare supervisor, Los Angeles county, and sister of the honoree, presented the degrees. Rev. R. B. Gayden read the citations.

Dr. Charles H. Hampton is a product of the college and theological departments of Bishop college, Marshall, Texas. Before coming to Bethel in San Diego, he served as pastor of Second Baptist church, El Centro.

Under his administration the church structure at 29th and Clay was constructed in 1936. An educational unit of the church was completed in 1950 and the original building was enlarged at a total cost of $200,000.

Dr. Hampton served for 10 years as president of the Western Baptist State Convention. Under his administration the convention was again made solvent and the work in its departments of Missions and Education was reestablished. Many churches that had either been inactive or had left the fellowship of the Convention were brought back and reactivated.

It was through the aggressive and creative leadership of Dr. Hampton that the Western Baptist State Convention was given recognition and standing in the National Baptist Convention, Inc.

Raullerson Assigned College Fund Position

The appointment of Calvin H. Raullerson, New York, as assistant to W. J. Trent, Jr., executive director of the United Negro College fund, was announced last week at fund headquarters.

Previous to his association with the fund in February, 1952, Raullerson served as associate editor and project director of "Who's Who in the United Nations," published in 1951, and as instructor of Political Science at Brooklyn college, Brooklyn, N. Y. He is a graduate of Lincoln university, Penn., one of the member institutions of the fund.

Local GOPs Begin Trek To Chicago

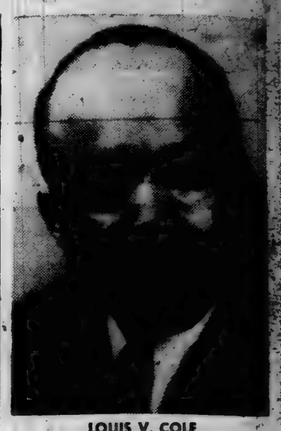
Angelenos this week joined the long, hot trek that will culminate in Chicago next week in the hard-slugging, bitterly contested fight for the Republican presidential nomination.

On hand and pitching in the round-the-clock talk-fests will be Mrs. Catherine G. A. Mitchem, delegate to the convention, and Alternate Louis V. Cole, who have been designated to be in charge of FEPC (Fair Employment Practice) matters for the Republicans; and Delegate Paul R. Williams.

Also there, and probably too busy to do much talking, will be Leon M. Giles, assistant sergeant-at-arms; and Mrs. Lena Washington, assistant secretary.

The Los Angeles contingent was to leave here Wednesday evening, July 2, stop over for luncheon with Gov. Earl Warren in Sacramento, and arrive in the windy city Saturday. This will give them two days to do the town or scramble around button-holing delegates and out-shouting the shouters before the grand slam opens on Monday.

That's when the fireworks begin.



Out here, everyone will be watching on television or listening on the radio—especially to see and hear what the Republicans do with regard to the key question for Negroes—FEPC and civil rights.

PUBLIC NOTICE

A Warning to Streetcar and Bus Passengers

The proposed 2 cents charge for a transfer might be the first step in a plan to eliminate transfers entirely, which would double and on many trips treble public transportation fares.

Write to Governor Warren and demand new Public Utilities Commissioners for the coming hearings on additional fare increases and the proposed 2 cent transfer charge.

New commissioners could challenge the competence of the present management and have other new ideas that would be beneficial to the passengers, and the City of Los Angeles.

Civil Rights Called Essential to Peace

"We cannot separate civil rights from the issues of peace in this age of revolution," was the theme of an address last Wednesday by James B. Carey, secretary-treasurer of the CIO.

Speaking at a banquet marking the close of the eighth Biennial Convention of the United Transport Service Employees, in Cincinnati, Carey told the delegates that the coming election was of paramount importance to all of them.

"We do not demand the same quality and caliber of service from our governmental officers as we demand of our union officers," Carey said. "Until we close this gap, we will continue to find ourselves engaged in the type of defensive political action that has characterized our efforts over the last several years."

Reviewing the history of the union, Carey continued:

"It was in the spring of 1937, in response to thousands of leaflets which your president, Willard Townsend, had circulated, that your organization came into being.

"Out of that small meeting in Chicago in 1937 has grown the United Transport Service Employees of America—expanded to cover not only red caps and station porters, but dining car employees, train porters, pullman laundry workers, tobacco and fertilizer workers, and employees of American Airlines.

"Let us pause for a moment for inventory. In October, 1938, after a long and costly struggle to secure recognition as employees of the railroads, you were finally placed on the payroll of these paragons of free enterprise—the nation's railroads—at the magnificent sum of 25c an hour. Those bygone days are probably forgotten by many of your members, because as a result of your ceaseless efforts, your wages have today increased to a base pay of more than $1.25 an hour, with a high percentage of your members receiving wages in excess of this figure."

Commenting on unrest in foreign lands Carey said, "The unrest in the world is economic, political and ideological. It is a revolution against misery, poverty, and foreign domination."

Carey pointed out that it is impossible for this country to lend support to out-dated colonialism and at the same time hope to win loyalties and friendships of people in other parts of the world.

Couples Set for Child Adoption

Children for childless Negro couples were brought closer this week by a decision of county adoption officials to consider homes in which both parents are working.

"Fine parents for children is what we are looking for," stated Walter Heath, administrator of the County Adoption bureau, "and both partners find it necessary to work in many fine families.

"Favorable consideration," he went on to say, "will be given to working couples who can arrange good supervision for the child in the absence of the mother."

More than fifty Negro couples have completed their families with an adopted child within the last two years, according to Heath, and numbers of additional homes are now being studied by the County Bureau.

Erroneous ideas of rigidly high requirements were struck at by the administrator, who emphatically stated that there are no requirements for any specified amount of savings or income and that couples are not required to own a home.

"Well-adjusted, happy parents with a place in their hearts for a child is what some awfully nice kids are looking for. Couples who can live on their income, even though it is small, may qualify for either an infant or an older child," said Heath.

Prizefighter Whips Friend With Pistol

Prizefighter Paul Pargo, 28, 2812 South Western avenue, was shot in the neck by his stablemate, Leonard "Shiek" Thompson, 30, 1830 west Jefferson boulevard, Saturday night while Thompson was giving Pargo a working over with a revolver because he refused to lay down during a prize fight.

Thompson stated that on June 22, he and Pargo had an argument at the gym downtown on Grand avenue and Pargo cut him and he wanted to get even by beating Pargo over the head with his gun.

Pargo stated that the whole thing started because Thompson lost a lot of money on his recent fight of which Pargo was supposed to throw. Saturday night, while Pargo was home with his common-law wife, Katherine Brown, Thompson went to see him about his losses.

Got Gun in Robbery

Det. Lieutenants W. H. Brennan and N. E. Tullock of the Wilshire Detective Bureau, who are handling the case, reported that on Thursday, June 26, Thompson took the gun during a robbery he and a confederate pulled on Summerset drive. They took a car, $1600 in cash and $4000 in jewelry and silverware.

Ex-Cons on Parole

Lts. Brennan and Tullock reported that Pargo and Thompson are both ex-convicts from San Quentin now on parole. Thompson is being held at Wilshire Police Station charged with assault with a deadly weapon, robbery and grand theft.

Woman Hurt In Car Wreck

(See Picture)

Mrs. Jean Banks, attractive social worker, was seriously injured last Thursday evening when the car she was driving was hit by a bus, crushed and dragged for half a block.

The bruised and bleeding young woman, suffering from a deep cut over her eye, an injured arm and multiple body fractures, was given first aid treatment, then rushed to Georgia Receiving Hospital. She was later removed to Queen of the Angeles hospital, where she was recovering at press time.

The crash jolted and caused minor injuries to a dozen passengers in the bus, who were also treated at Georgia street.

Dr. William Beck, Jr., son of the well-known doctor of the same name, was passing by when the accident occurred. A new graduate from Meharry Medical college, young Beck gave first aid assistance to Mrs. Banks while awaiting arrival of the ambulance. Young Dr. Beck, incidentally, started his internship at County hospital Tuesday of this week.

The accident occurred at the corner of Adams and Grammercy, near Mrs. Banks' home, 3920½ W. Adams boulevard. Mrs. Banks was making a left turn when the bus reportedly pulled out from behind another bus and crashed into her, demolishing the entire front of the automobile.

signed to the case, stated that they inquired in the neighborhood about the petition, learned that one was being circulated, but were unable to get ahold of it or find out its exact contents.

Captain Kenneth J. McCauley, commanding officer of University station, didn't know about the petition, but said that he had a police car cruising the general neighborhood, but they had not found anything unusual.

Members of the Inspector's office of the Post Office, indicated that their investigation of the notes received through the mail, will take at least another week.

Scare Tactics in Housing Fight Flare in Eastern U.S.

PHILADELPHIA—Newest outbreak of the wave of terror designed to frighten Negroes from moving into "white" neighborhoods occurred Sunday night on an all-white street of Elmwood, Pa.

Reports that a house there had been sold to Negroes touched off a wild, half-hour, Southern-style demonstration. Eight men, wearing white hoods and carrying torches and flaming crosses, made their way to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Alber, a couple in their seventies.

The couple recently sold the place. A colored family was to move in within two weeks.

The hooded terrorists spilled the contents of a five-gallon gasoline can in the street in front of the home, and lighted it.

They fled when police arrived.

Branham Shooting

ness to the shooting; Police Officers Walter Goodlow, Ray Pinkert of the crime laboratory; and Sgt. W. I. F. George and A. R. Jensen, who handled the police investigation of the shooting, have been subpoenaed for the hearing.

Investigators are also looking for Sgt. Herbert Davis, cousin of the spectacular pastor, who reportedly drove the wounded minister to Georgia Street Receiving Hospital.

Sources close to the investigation revealed that a maize of conflicting stories have been uncovered during the investigation, lending strong credence to the belief that an attempt is being made to cover up the true facts of the shooting.

Some physical evidence has been reportedly uncovered that doesn't jibe with the Branham and Simpson version of the shooting. Branham first told police that Mrs. Simpson told him that she was "passionate" and said, "I'm going to shoot you," just before she put two bullets in him while he was visiting her in her home. Four days later he completely reversed himself, stating that he was shot accidentally while trying to prevent Mrs. Simpson from committing suicide.

One week after the shooting, Mrs. Simpson, who had been the object of a state-wide police search, turned up at the District Attorney's office with her attorney, Earl C. Broady, and gave a statement that corroborated the suicide story given by Branham.

When the police officers indicated no desire to arrest Mrs. Simpson, Dist. Atty. Ernest S. Roll turned the matter over to the Grand Jury for disposition.

Retraction Asked

Atty. Earl C. Broady called the Eagle office this week, objecting to a story stating that Mrs. Simpson was worried because her daughter had been kicked out of several Eastern colleges because she was too broke to pay her daughter's tuition. A subsequent check revealed that Mrs. Simpson told the District Attorney that she was despondent because she worried that her daughter might not be allowed to re-enter Fisk University because of an article in a national magazine characterizing her as one of the nation's top women racketeers.

It has been reliably learned by the Eagle that the Grand Jury is investigating several motives for the shooting, based on tips and other sources of information.

Jealous Rage

One motive they are investigating is that Mrs. Simpson shot Branham in a jealous rage because she was losing him to a younger and more attractive woman.

Money Argument

Another motive is that she and Branham were partners in a bookmaking racket that used real estate offices as fronts, and the brokers and salesmen as runners. The argument presumably was over the division of the profits.

Still another angle that the investigators are looking into is the possibility that Branham was shot by Mr. Simpson, and Mrs. Simpson is covering up for him.

Of course, the presumption is that Branham and Mrs. Simpson are telling the truth, and that will stand unless sufficient evidence is uncovered to the contrary.

Aid Foundation In First Year Assists Fifty

Floyd C. Covington, public relations adviser for the Federal Housing Authority, was guest speaker at a banquet given last Thursday at Zion Hill Baptist church as the first annual meeting of the Neighborly Assistance Foundation, Inc.

The foundation is designed primarily to give help to persons unable to qualify for state or county aid, and has been approved by the State Department of Social Service.

Officers elected for the coming year add three new members to the original Board of Directors.

George, reporting as treasurer of the organization, stated that over 50 cases had been handled in recent months.

Atty. Vince M. Townsend was master of ceremonies. Other speakers included Rev. Thomas, president and founder, who spoke of the history and formation of the association; and Rev. Redd.

Landlady Cuts Roomer With Straight Razor

"I didn't intend to cut her, but I thought she was going to run from me. When she wouldn't run I started cutting her."

Jean Harris, 43, 1222 East 27th street, told police Sunday the above statement when they arrested her for assault with a deadly weapon against Cardelious Davis, 24, a roomer in Mrs. Harris' home.

According to witnesses and Mrs. Davis, Mrs. Harris went in Mrs. Davis' room Saturday while she was away, for no apparent reason.

Mrs. Davis questioned her about it Sunday afternoon and Mrs. Harris stated the place belonged to her and she had keys to all of the doors and would go in the rooms any time she felt like it.

Mrs. Davis told her landlady that she was going to call the police, and she left.

Gets Razor

As soon as Mrs. Davis left Mrs. Harris went in the house and got a straight razor and sat on the front porch waiting for her victim, according to Juanita Wiggins of 1240 East 27th street.

When Mrs. Davis walked up the steps Mrs. Harris began slicing away on the left side of Mrs. Davis' face and head, without saying a word.

Mrs. Davis was taken to the Georgia Street Receiivng Hospital and 30 stitches had to be taken on her face and head. Mrs. Harris was arrested and treated for human bite on the right arm and a sprained right knee.

FEPC Does Work!

In an excellent article in this month's issue of Fortune Magazine, Dr. John A. Davis reviews the cause and effect of FEPC laws. Titled "Negro Employment: A Progress Report," Dr. Davis points out that 11 states and 22 cities, embracing 60 million people, business now is operating under some kind of FEPC law.

Davis, who is professor of political science at Lincoln University, Pennsylvania, gives a clear and illuminating report on the effects of anti-discrimination policies on management and Negro labor, and knocks into a cocked hat all of the time-worn arguments used against FEPC.

Davis strikes a damaging blow at those who oppose compulsory FEPC because of three fears: the punitive features of such legislation, the fact that opportunities for complaint might provide a field day for shysters, and the possibility of a one-sided administration stacked against employers.

He points out that in Cleveland, industry decided to try a voluntary experiment through education. A 16-man committee made up of leading businessmen and representatives of labor and minority groups was set up to conduct an educational campaign.

It used street car ads, radio spot announcements, speeches, pamphlets, stickers, etc.; $31,500 was spent on the project, yet in 15 months results of the voluntary plan were negligible.

The Chamber of Commerce then agreed to a city ordinance. To meet the three fears such legislation seems to arouse, a 15-man board was set up, composed of five industry, five public, three labor, and two city council members.

Complaints must be filed not by lawyers but by principals. In case of verified complaints, the offending employer is talked to privately. If he refuses to comply, a public hearing is held, and if he remains adamant, he is charged with misdemeanor and a fine is levied.

Davis points out that the Chamber is satisfied with the operation of the ordinance. So far there has not been one prosecution.

YET THE TANGIBLE RESULT OF THE LAW IS THAT SEVERAL THOUSAND JOBS NEVER BEFORE AVAILABLE TO NEGROES WERE OPENED!

Cleveland employers found that a law is simpler, and effective because it places community sanction squarely behind a right. Employers discovered that the law provides authority to back them up as it "gets them off the hook."

We heartily recommend the article for reading for the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, the City Council, and the Board of Supervisors.

It proves what we sorta suspected all along. Compulsory FEPC does work! S.W.G.

Taxes and Grumbling

Hardly a day passes when we fail to hear some of our friends grumbling about the taxes they have to pay. We must confess that it more than slightly irritates us to hear our associates constantly whining and complaining about taxes.

Taxes are one of the basic responsibilities of citizenship. World leadership and national leadership in domestic affairs, has placed a burden on the Federal government that all citizens must shoulder.

Naturally a certain amount of "bitching" is expected, as one can always use the money that "Uncle" takes, but when it takes on the serious overtones we frequently hear, it is just beyond our ken.

Scratch the economic bloodstream of the Negro community, and civil service will be exposed as the heart of it. The majority of the decent jobs held by members of our community are in city, county, state or federal government, with the school system thrown in for added measure. All tax-supported institutions.

In private industry, most skilled and semi-skilled jobs held by Negroes are in the aircraft factories, whose very lifeline is government contracts. Through these government contracts with non-discrimination clauses, Negroes have been able to hold onto some of the wartime economic gains.

The states righters are opposed to an expanding Federal government reaching into the economical and political affairs of local government. With the Federal government an avowed opponent of discrimination in hiring and housing, the more the Federal government takes over functions of local government, the better break for the Negro.

The professional and business people in our community, restricted to the community for their livelihood, make a living off of this group whose income is derived directly and indirectly from taxes.

Therefore it would seem that members of our community would be the last to complain about taxes.

The next time "Uncle Whiskers" reaches in your pocket, give a thought before you grumble. S.W.G.

Register to Vote

Elmo Roper, who makes a living by sampling the public pulse through surveys, last week took a look at the Negro vote. In his nationally syndicated column Roper pointed out that the Negro vote is strategically located, and is effectively mobilized on election day, and might decide a close election.

Any casual student of political science knows that the Negro vote in California swung the election for President Truman. The same was true in Illinois, Pennsylvania, Michigan and New York.

While we are happy that Mr. Roper appreciates the potential of the Negro vote, and we are glad that he has given the word to the world, we are a little afraid that based on the results of the last election, the Negro vote in Los Angeles is not so effectively mobilized on election day.

Los Angeles County has a Negro voting potential of 150,000. In the recent primary elections slightly more than 50 per cent of those eligible to vote took time to vote.

Registrar of Voters for Los Angeles County Benjamin S. Hite predicts that over 80 per cent of the registered voters will vote in the November election.

For the Negro vote to be felt, it must be mobilized almost 100 per cent.

The registration books are again open. Every citizen of the United States over the age of 21, who has been a resident of the state one year, and the county for 90 days, is eligible to register to vote. Only those registered to vote can vote in the coming presidential election. Citizens desiring to register can do so at the City Hall or any deputy registrar of voters handy.

It is estimated that less than half of the citizens eligible to vote register to vote. It's your duty and moral obligation. The next time you pass a "Voters Register Here" sign, take time out to register so your vote can be counted in the coming election. So much depends on it. S.W.G.

Vote for Mr. Jordan

Louis Jordan, the irrespressible bandleader, has a knack for writing topical tunes. His latest release is "Vote for Mr. Jordan."

A quick glance at the candidates that will parade before the Republican convention sorta makes one see the sense of Jordan's latest record. The choice seems to be between Taft and Eisenhower, with Warren a dark horse.

Old Pop Saunders used to love to say, "The one thing my grandmother always taught me, was to wear red flannel underwear in the winter, and vote the straight Republican rather than vote for a Democrat, we ticket. For those who die first offer them an out, "Vote for Mr. Jordan." It makes as much sense as voting for Taft, Eisenhow, or Warren. S.W.G.

Lester B. Granger's

Battle Axe & Bread

Last week there came to my desk the report of the Fair Employment Board appointed by President Truman to work with the U. S. Civil Service Commission in bringing decency into the employment policies of the Federal government. The Board is not one of your hell-and-brimstone operations. It works within the framework of the civil service; its methods are largely determined by civil service precedent. Its hearings receive no monstrous headlines and a regrettably large number of colored citizens are not even aware that the Board exists. Nevertheless it does an important job and, from all appearances, it is doing it well.

The Board has, I suppose, three principal functions. It hears complaints.. of.. racial,.. religious.. or similar discrimination by civil service employes who feel that their rights have been violated and have some evidence to back up their complaints. The Board also is empowered to move into the records of departments and examine their appointment and promotion procedures, so as to see whether professions of fair employment policies are actually borne out by the record. And the third most important function of being on hand in case of call, like the cop on the beat who is probably just around the corner.

I have said that a large number of colored citizens do not even know of the existence of the Fair Employment Board. As a matter of fact, this unaware group probably comprises a majority, and this is a deep pity. I have talked with Negro civil servxive employes of the Federal government who either were totally ignorant of the Board's operations or were only vaguely informed on what it does. One young man who was heatedly complaining about what he called prejudiced officials in his department was taken aback when I asked him if he had discussed the situation with his fair employment officer. He didn't know that such a post existed in his outfit. He was also mildly offended when I told him that his was a case of inexcusable slop piness. I get a bit tired, I told him, of the colored brothers and sisters who are always whining that someone has done them wrong, but who haven't got enough get-up-and-go to find out what can be done about it.

There is a Presidential directive on the subject of racial discrimination in the civil service. There is a Board appointed to implement.. the.. directive... The least that any civil service employe can do is to acquaint himself with the terms of the directive and the operations of the Board. If he does this, he will find a way to handle almost any typical kind of racial discrimination himself. If he hasn't the interest to inform himself, why should he expect anyone else to be concerned over his plight and to consider it a matter for a "march on Washington."

My young friend told me that I was over-simplifying the matter—that I didn't know all the red tape and routine involvements facing a man who wanted to make a complaint of discrimination. A man might spend a year finding his way around such a maze. So what, I wanted to know. Suppose it did take time, whose job was it? Who stood to benefit if the complaint stood up, or continue to be handicapped if no complaint was made. He reminded me, I concluded, of a man with a shotgun in his hands and a burglar at the door, but who kept yelling his head off for the cops instead of pulling the trigger and blowing the burglar to be-jabbers out of there.

But it wasn't this young man about whom I meant to write this column. What I started off to say was that the Fair Employment Board has done a sound job in a quiet way and that opportunities for Negroes in the United States Civil Service have been immeasurably improved as a result. The Board is one of the reasons why, in spite of President Truman's many serious failings, Negro America will always owe the little man from Missouri a tremendous debt of appreciation.

Letters to the Editor

Mr. Green:

I have read with a great deal of interest your column "Sounding Off" which appeared in the June 12 issue of your paper.

As a sociologist and as one who has studiously observed the Negro community for several years I was particularly attracted to your comment upon the recent elections.

I might be able to go along with your viewpoint that (some) Negro politicians have been fooling (us) dumb whites for several years, however, I would like to take issue with you upon your characterization of Mr. Wesley R. Brazier, the Urban League's executive director as a "political hackster" who loaned his name to "political shenanigans."

This writer happens to know that Mr. Brazier has not perverted the League's prestige to any such political goings on. I do know that a candidate of whom you spoke had claimed the League's indorsement. I also know that Mr. Brazier wrote a letter to the candidate and to another Negro weekly stating that it was the League's policy not to endorse candidates.

Further, it might interest you to know that Mr. Brazier stated publicly at a political dinner to which he was invited that he nor the League could endorse any candidate. I also know that Mr. Brazier attended political rallies or dinners given by or for Supervisor Roach and Councilman Kenneth Hahn. It would appear to me that he went out of his way to remain impartial and preserve the public's respect for his agency.

It is felt that you owe Mr. Brazier an apology.

Very truly yours,
MORRIS ABOWITZ

Dear Mr. Miller:

On behalf of the members of the Enterprise Park Recreation Council, and the members of our co-sponsor, "Southeast Communities Advisory Council," we would like to thank you for your wholehearted cooperation which you gave during our recent "Vacation Carnival Project." It was a grand success.

We feel that our main objectives were achieved. (1) To entertain the children of Southeast Los Angeles; (2) To get better acquainted with our neighbors through wholesome community activities; (3) To introduce to our communities some of its leaders and services; (4) To help swell the treasury of our local service organizations and community clubs, so that when seasonal activities are sponsored, funds will be available.

Again, our deepest appreciation to you for helping to make the "Carnival" a success.

Sincerely yours,
LOUIS D. KING
President
Enterprise Park Recreational Council and Supervisor of Carnival.

Dear Mr. Miller:

Your attention is called to the column entitled "Sounding Off" by Wendell Green, which appeared in your edition, Thursday, June 12, 1952.

Regrettably, Mr. Green has committed a grave error in his unjust attacks on my character and the agency which I represent. His slanderous remarks are incorrect when he states that I was a part of an all-star committee supporting the interest of a political candidate in the recent election.

At no time have I served on any committee, nor have I lent my name for public or private use in the interest of any political candidate. This does not preclude my right as an individual citizen, if I so desire to do so.

I feel that your paper has done a grave injustice, not only to my agency but to me personally, and I thereby request a retraction concerning my participation as stated in the article.

Sincerely yours,
WESLEY R. BRAZIER,
Executive Director.

I warmly appreciate your generous publicity support to the Los Angeles Campaign of the United College Fund.

In sending our report to the National office of UNCF, we of the executive committee feel that the wholehearted aid of our entire community press in this drive for better education and better racial understanding will be as encouraging to the students and presidents of the member colleges as it is to us.

I am personally, deeply grateful.

Most sincerely,
FAY M. JACKSON

Dear J. T.:

I particularly enjoyed your Eagle column in the June 12 edition. Your breezy easy style makes writing seem an easy task. As a hack publicity writer of sorts I know such prolific outpourings as yours to require real talent and ability.

My congratulations to you and the Eagle for the continuance of your column. I'm sure many Eagle readers concur in this opinion.

Cordial regards,
FRANK W. TERRY

Sounding Off

By WENDELL GREEN

There are two kinds of civic leadership that should be exercised in any healthy community. One type of civic leadership is actively concerned with partisan politics, and through partisan politics is constantly trying to broaden and raise the horizon of opportunities for the group.

The other type of civic leadership, while it may be exercising political leadership and political action, is above partisan politics, and concerns itself with issue and principles, rather than parties and personalities.

The NAACP and the Urban League are two organizations that fit into the catageory of exercising political and economic leadership that is above the hustle and bustle, wheeling and dealing and let us not forget, backstabbing and throat cutting, of partisan politics.

The Urban League is dedicated to the broadening of economic opportunities for Negroes. With sincere apologies to the distinguished Mrs. Lester Granger to my left, the League operates under the slogan, "Spreading rays of light, without sparks of heat," which is about as asinine a slogan as I can think of, and in many instances in the past, was an apt description of the work of the League.

Traditional Weapon

However, in any fight for progress, politics will enter the picture as political pressure is the traditional weapon of the Negro.

Thus the Urban League should be concerned with such broad issues as FEPC and unrestricted public housing, and the high cost of living, and should throw its weight and prestige openly into such fights.

Any organization, such as the Urban League and NAACP, which are not "grass roots" organizations, are only as good as the men who lead them. Wesley Brazier informed me that when he attended the Roach meeting, he did so in the interest of being informed as to what was going on in the community, and not to become a part of the Roach campaign.

He specifically informed the campaign committee not to use his name, and attended Kenny Hahn's meetings in the same spirit.

We didn't know this at the time we included Mr. Brazier's name with the crew that swindled Roach, and herewith apologize for mentioning him in the same sentence with them. Brazier is doing a fine job at the Urban League, as his recent and continuing fight for the housing program the city council is trying to welch on. We doff a hat to Brazier for not being afraid of some sparks of heat.

The NAACP is an organization primarily concerned with a legal attack on jimcrow and discrimination. It is also a political action group, no matter how much Walter White tries to say different. However, just plain common good sense seems to indicate that the NAACP and its officials cannot aford to participate in partisan politics, unless the issue is basic and clear cut as to the office seeker's views on jimcrow and discrimination.

Dr. Claude Hudson, Dr. E. I. Robinson and Attorney Everett Porter, all top officials in the local NAACP branch, evidently don't subscribe to the idea that partisan politics can wreck the organizatin and ruin its effectiveness.

The three premitted their names to be used in the Roach campaign. Porter and Hudson acted as individuals, while Robinson was listed as president of the NAACP.

Unfortunate Action

Of course Hudson and Porter are so identified with the NAACP that it is impossible for them to act as individuals, and it is doubly unfortunate that Dr. Robinson, who was elected to the nominating committee of the NAACP in Oklahoma City last week, was a party to injecting the NAACP into such a political campaign.

As an aftermath of the good Doctor's action, one editor of a metropolitan daily was publically heard to say that it looked like the NAACP was a strictly political organization and he wasn't going to OK any more of their releases for publication.

The NAACP operates under too great a handicap in Los Angeles, already without its leaders creating new hardships. Genuine motives are no excuses when so much is at stake.

Hudson, Robinson and Porter are not kids or neophytes in the community's political life. The three are responsible professional men in the community, and are looked upon with trust and respect by the little people.

Becoming a party to such partisan political doings as their names were linked with, doesn't live up to the people's trust and respect. What a weapon they gave their enemies when they were repudiated by the people they are supposed to be leading. That's the pitfall of partisan politics.

Next week we will discuss the failures and shortcomings of our partisan political leaders.

Tiny Tots Model New Fashions in Professional Manner at Second

GIVE PROFESSIONALS COMPETITION—Tiny tots who modeled at Second Baptist church's fashion show could have easily been mistaken for professionals. The group displayed latest attire for church, play and sleep. The gigantic production was under direction of Mrs. Betty Jean Simmons.

Fashions displayed in a unique manner held the interest of many spectators at Second Baptist church, 24th and Griffith streets, Sunday. The latest modes in dress, play and sleeping wear were modeled by tiny tots who marched to music and posed on stage with the ease similar to Dorothea Towles' presentations.

The children were directed by Mrs. Betty Jean Simmons, who worked many hours to train the little ones for Second's fashion show. She was assisted by Wilma Burnett, Florence Monett, Rosemary Hampton and Gussie Edmondson.

Piano selections were played by pupils of Consuelo Paddy Studio of Music. The group included Mona Rodgers, 4; Mary Carolyn King, 7; Denia Lewis, 8; and Jeanette Blair, 9.

Program was divided into three colorful parts. First was a going to church theme. Children passed through a large picturesque church door. For second showing, pools and play toys covered the stage to give the tots a natural background for tumbling. A huge story book held by a real mother invited the children to listen to tales before jumping into bed.

With these interesting settings, the children paraded beautiful clothing styled for every occasion. Despite one or two tears, it was the opinion of the enthused audience that the show was a howling success.

Children who modeled the last word creations were:

Celestus Blair, Stephanie Ferrington, Artis Grant Jr., Willeta Holmes, Morris D. Hampton Jr., Arthur Jackson, Eugene Jackson, Donna Marie Kelsey, Richard King, Wayne King, Theadora Lamond, Theadore Lamond, Patricia Lee, Phoebus Lee, Jesse Lee Jr., John Monett, Pamela Quarles, Keith Quarles, Bobby Simmons, Sharon Simmons, Maxine Thomas, Yvonne Wiley.

Bishop Jordan Returns to Ward Pulpit

Early communion services at Ward AME church, 1177 West 25th street, Sunday at 8 a.m., will be conducted by Bishop Frederick D. Jordan, who returned to the city this week. Special music is being prepared for this service by the gospel choir, Barnett Thornton directing. At the regular worship service, 10:45 a.m., Bishop Jordan will deliver the message and music will be furnished by the youth choir and the senior choir, Mrs. Blanch Woods, organist-director.

Prepares for Foreign Work

Bishop Jordan has just returned from the East where he attended the sessions of the Africa Committee of the Division of Foreign Missions of the National Council of the Churches of Christ in America. A special study was made of Christian Missions and the African Church, in Africa, south of the Sahara. It is in this area that Bishop Jordan will be serving. Mrs. Artishia W. Jordan, his wife, who will accompany him, is enrolled at the University of Southern California, in the graduate summer school, taking a course on Africa.

The dangerous possibilities of the present South African situation are being studied by the bishop and his wife, as well as the opportunities offered under Point Four in the UN program regarding agricultural work in Africa.

Baritone to Sing For Courtesy Club

C. Harreld Rose, baritone, will be presented in concert Tuesday evening, July 8, at 8:15 p.m. at the First A.M.E. church, Eighth and Towne avenue. The concert is sponsored by Mrs. Virgie White and members of the Courtesy Club of that church and promises to be one of the major musical events of the summer season.

Mr. Rose, son of Dr. James E. Rose, well-known Baptist minister of Rochester, N. Y., is a graduate of Howard University where he was for four years a member and president of the Howard University choir. Prior to entering Howard, Mr. Rose won a two-year scholarship to the Eastern School of Music in Rochester and was active in public school choral work. He sang with the inter-high schools choir under the direction of Guy Fraser Harrison accompanied by the Rochester Philharmonic Orchestra.

After graduation from Howard Rose taught German and Spanish at Livingston College, Salisbury, N. C., and arranged for the college Choral Union, recently heard coast-to-coast on the United Negro College Fund. Since coming to Los Angeles, he has sung with the choir of the Bell-Vue Community Church and is now a featured soloist with the senior choir at Eighth and Towne.

Rose will be accompanied by J. W. Sanford, organist-director of the Grant Chapel A.M.E. church choir. Mr. Sanford is a graduate of U.C.L.A., a member of the American Guild of Organists and Phi Mu Alpha music fraternity. He is currently working toward the degree of Master of Music at the University of Southern California. Sanford is the son of Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Sanford.

Mrs. Alice Hawes is president of the Courtesy Club and Rev. Alvia A. Shaw, minister at Eighth and Towne.

Rev. Marion Thanks Those Who Aided Bishopric Race

At the General Conference of the African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church, held in Brooklyn, N. Y. recently, Rev. S. H. Marion, pastor of First AMEZ here at Pico and Paloma streets, narrowly failed to be elected to be a bishopric.

Rev. S. H. Marion

In thanking the many who supported his candidacy, Rev. Marion this week explained that only four such posts were open instead of the seven expected. Three incumbent bishops, slated for retirement, unexpectedly retained their positions.

Rev. and Mrs. Marion were joined in Brooklyn by their two daughters, Mrs. Effie L. Harris, of Middletown, Ohio, and Mrs. Thelma Victoria Gillohm, of Los Angeles.

Before their return, Mrs. Marion visited her brother in Atlanta, Ga. and Rev. Marion visited his mother in Phenix City, Ala.

Sunday, July 6 is Holy Communion Day at First Church.

Bishop W. C. Brown, who has served on the West Coast longer than any other bishop (16 years), has been transferred to the East.

Bishop W. A. Stewart of Washington, D. C., one of the new bishops, will come to California. Bishop Stewart will preach his first sermon at First Church Sunday, Sept. 14.

Adventists End 11-Day Encampment

Local Seventh-day Adventist church members arrived back in Los Angeles Area early this week from an 11-day stay at their denomination's 50th annual camp meeting which closed in Lynwood last Sunday night with an appeal to more faithful living in everyday life of the teachings of the Christian gospel.

Local ministers who will be back in their pulpit next Saturday morning to conduct the Sabbath worship service after having spent the first half of the week in disassembling the 600-tent city on the 36-acre campus of the Adventist's Lynwood Academy include Wadsworth Church, A. C. Webb (L.A.); Compton Ave., W. C. Webb (L.A.); Sunset Ave., Harold Lindsey (Pasadena); Delaware Ave., Garland Millet (Santa Monica), Philadelphian, R. H. Robertson (Long Beach).

The clergyman had joined with more than 70 other denominational workers and pastors earlier last month in a three-week construction program which readied the camp site for the 15,000 Seventh-day Adventists who attended the services there.

More than 3000 Southland Adventists, including many from Los Angeles Area, lived in the camp throughout the 11-day event, attending the six daily services scheduled for adults, high school-college youth, and children of all age levels.

Elder Taylor Europe Bound

Prominent Elder W. J. Taylor departed the city by American Airline last Saturday enroute to Europe and the Far East. In London he will attend the World's Pentecostal Fellowship Convention.

After the convention, Elder Taylor will pay visits to historic biblical sights in France, Germany, Switzerland, Italy, Greece, Portugal and Jerusalem. Within those countries, he will make special trips to the cities of Paris, Berlin, Frankfurt, Rome, Athens, Televiv, Tunis, Algiers and Lisbon.

Laymen Movement Gains Momentum

Laymen of the Western Baptist State Convention are making vigorous efforts to create greater interest and activity among the men in the various Baptist churches of Los Angeles and other sections of the state of California.

Under the leadership of A. B. Washington, state president, ably assisted by Ernest Jackson, president of the Los Angeles citywide laymen movement, a full week's program was conducted recently at the Second Baptist church, 24th and Griffith Streets, through the courtesy of Dr. J. Raymond Henderson, pastor.

The program was in commemoration of the second anniversary of the State Laymen Convention and was given added influence through the cooperation and presence of such leading ministers as Rev. E. A. Anderson, Rev. Manuel Scott, Rev. Timothy J. Chambers, Rev. P. J. Ellis, Rev. J. F. Griffith and Rev. A. A. Peters, each of whom brought inspirational messages or words of encouragement during the week.

Spiritual songs by the Men's Chorus of the Morning Star Baptist church, J. D. Grant, director, and by the Youth's Chorus of the Victory Baptist church, J. Mosby, director, provided very fascinating features of the program and were well received.

Nightly features were apportioned to laymen and ushers, educational, professional figures and labor organizations preceding the evening sermons.

The Los Angeles city-wide Laymen movement meets at some church every fourth Sunday afternoon and its meetings are growing more interesting each month.

Laymen groups have been organized in several churches and others are in process of organization.

The general object of the Laymen organizations is to help men to better understand and assume their obligations of leadership in supporting their church and pastor. We believe that too many men in our churches are sitting on the sidlines and leaving these important duties to the women, which is contrary to God's plan.

Whitfield, Gathers in Two Events

In one of the greatest track and field meets held in modern times, not even barring the Olympics, Negro track and field stars distinguished themselves last Friday and Saturday afternoon, and the American team served notice o nthe world that they intend to bring home the bacon or the Finnish equivalent, from Helsinki.

Harrison Dillard, Andy Stanfield, Bill Miller and George Shaw were the record breaking stars of the meet, but smooth-striding Malvin Whitfield, former Jefferson high star, now running under the U. S. Air Force colors, was easily the class of the meet.

Double Winner

One of the two double winners in the meet, on Friday Whitfield ran John Barnes into the ground on the back stretch and won the 800 meters by twelve yards in 1:48.6. This time broke Whitfield's Olympic record, the American record, and the Coliseum record and was within 2 seconds of the world record.

On Saturday Whitfield won the 400 meters in 46.9 despite a pulled thigh muscle suffered at about the 100 meter mark.

World Mark Tied

Andy Stanfield handily won the 200 meter dash, equaling the world record of 20.9 around a curve. Harrison Dillard equaled the Coliseum mark of 14.0 in the 110 meter hurdles in a very tense and tight race.

George Shaw broke the Olympic Trials mark with a 50 ft. 5½ in., the Hop, Step and Jump, while Bill Miller did the same in the Javelin with a throw of 235 ft. 8 5/8 in.

45 Negroes, representing every branch of service and several colleges competed for the coveted 52 places on the track and field team.

14 made the plane for Helsinki.

Competing in 14 out of the 18 events, Negro stars won eight first places, one second and seven thirds.

Tense Hurdle Race

The race that everyone came to see Saturday was the 110 meter hurdles. Five of the greatest hurdlers in the world were competing for three places on the Olympic team. World record-holder Dick Attlesey, suffering from a leg injury, was eliminated in the trials.

In the finals Dillard, Dixon, Davis and Anderson toed their marks. Tension filled the stands, and was also felt on the starting line. Six false starts were registered. Finally the gun boomed and Dillard was off like a shot leading the pack. Dixon took his eye off the eighth hurdle to glance at Dillard and tipped it, losing his stride and ran into the ninth hurdle. Dixon fell and struck Anderson a glancing blow throwing him off stride.

Look Lost Race

Anderson recovered, but while clearing the last hurdle, glanced over at Dillard, losing just enough momentum for Art Barnard to nip him for third and a place on the team.

Dixon wept bitterly on the last hurdle, while Billy Anderson, son of radio comic Eddie "Rochester" Anderson, tried to walk off his disappointment. Anderson had defeated Dillard, Dixon, Davis and Attlesey last month in the Compton relays in 13.9 and had his heart set on the trip to Helsinki.

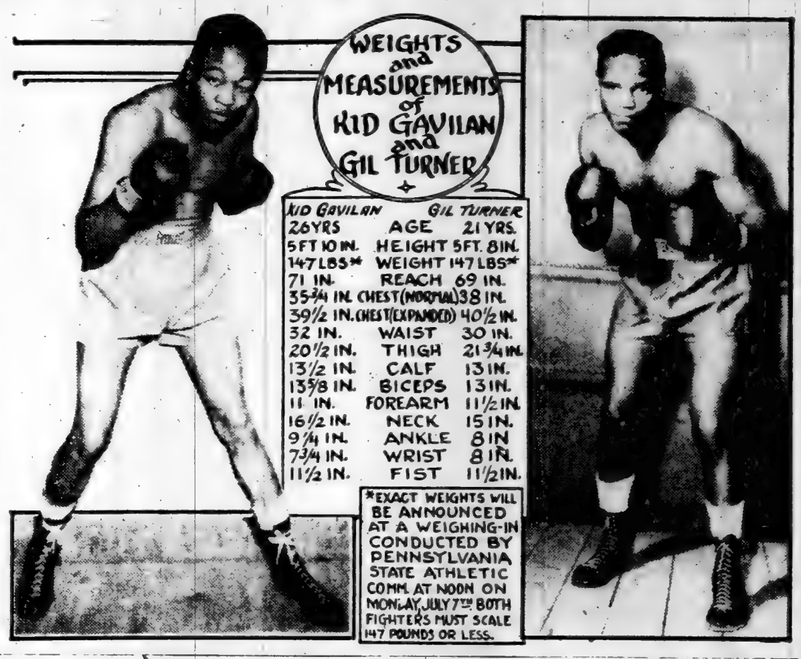
James Gathers ran a dead heat with Dean Smith of Texas for third in the 100 meter dash, and took third in the 200 meter dash to qualify for two events in the Olympic Games.

Reginald Pearman put on a last minute spurt to beat Don Gehrman out for third in the 880, and almost nipped John Barnes.

Brown Upset

Meredith Gourdien and Jerome Biffle upset favored George Brown in the broad jump as Negro athletes made a clean sweep of the event. Brown was a badly beaten fifth until his final jump. The three qualifiers went over 25 feet.

Ollie Matson was a strong third in the 400 meters and Arnold Benton tied with Emery Barnes in the high jump at 6 ft. 9 in. Benton cleared it on his first jump while Barnes missed it on his first try. Under AAU rules, Benton was declared third.



Roland Blackman placed third in the 400 meter hurdles.

The track and field athletes selected to represent the United States in the 1952 Olympic Games emplaned for New York Monday. After a week of training at Princeton, they will compete in a special Olympic Benefit Meet on Randall's Island, New York, on Sunday, July 6.

Fly to Helsinki

They will fly out of New York International Airport, Idyllwild, by special chartered Pan-American planes on Monday, July 7, arriving in Helsinki, Finland, July 9.

The Olympic Games open on July 19, with the first track and field events on July 20, and continuing through July 27.

Golf Tourney Set For July 12 & 13

The tournament committee of the Cosmopolitan Golf Club, headed by Theophilus Smith, has announced their eighth annual Cosmopolitan Invitational tournament to be held at the Fox-Baldwin courses Saturday and Sunday, July 12-13.

Eighteen holes will be played each day at full handicap, four flights for men and one for women. Entry fee has been set at ten dollars and will include admission to the presentation banquet to be held in the clubhouse at the conclusion of the tournament Sunday afternoon. Extra dinner tickets may be purchased for three dollars each.

The Cosmopolitan Club, which has been headed for the past three years by Don Walker, is the largest club on the Pacific Coast and inaugurated the first two-day tournament in this area last year. The field is limited to approximately one hundred entrants, all with established handicaps.

Last week end the Cosmo golfers were in San Francisco participating in the Bay Area club's annual tourney. The club is a member of the Western Golf Association including clubs from Potrland to Phoenix. Members from all of these clubs will compete in the Cosmo tournament.

Oak's Mann Rates With Giant's Mays

OAKLAND—According to Mel Ott, manager of the Oakland Oaks of the Pacific Coast League, "Willie Mays has no more power with a bat than Dave Mann. And Mann can run, throw and catch a baseball about as good as the fabulous Willie."

It's reported that the Brooklyn Dodgers' present manager Chuck Dressen first scouted Mann, a local all around high school athlete, when he was manager of the Oakland club two years ago. Mann, who starred as a halfback for Oregon State College last fall, worked out with the Oaks prior to his enrollmen in college. When he was kayoed by the books last month he headed immediately for Oak Park.

Mann will be remembered in the Southland for his one man show against USC when he all but trounced the Trojans single handed. Mann won honorable mention on many all-Coast elevens last fall and was heralded as the greatest grid prospect to darn a Beaver uniform since the famed Ken Carpenter now of the Cleveland Browns.

John Henry Davis, world champion heavyweight weightlifter, was named last week to represent the United States in the Olympic Games at Helsinki next month.

The final Olympic trials closed one of the greatest track seasons in the history of Southern California, and that is saying something as this is the hotbed of track fans.

Starting with the Coliseum Relays, Los Angeles and vicinity has had the treat to watch the nation's top stars in action.

Heartbreaks and Breaks

There were the usual heartbreaks and lucky breaks that seem to feature Olympic trials. Jim Golliday was first when official starter held the 100 meter men in a cold raw wind for almost ten minutes, trying to get them off in the AAU finals. Golliday pulled a groin muscle, limped out of his holes in the Coliseum, last in a race he could have won easily.

Roland Blackman got a lucky break when Bob DeVinney hit the last hurdle and faltered across the line fourth.

Billy Anderson got a bad case of "looks" and let Barnard nip him at the tape for third.

Emory Barnes of Oregon cleared 6 ft. 9 in., the highest of his career, but missed the first try and the third place went to Betton.

Lots of visitors in town for the meet. Les Armstrong, Wayne Smith, Atty. Tom Berkley, Sam Coleman, Robert Lee and a host of sportsmen from the Bay Area were in town for the great event.

Majestic Corsairs

George "Sugar" Jones dropped by the office the other afternoon to tell us about the coming summer semi-formal dance at the Elks the night of July 12. Naturally he was talking about the Majestic Corsairs, one of the most popular men's clubs in Los Angeles.

The Corsairs started a trend when they organized in 1934, and they have the same membership they started with. The club members stick together closer than blood brothers.

When Robert "Waddleduck" Wadlington was struck down with polio, the club members rallied to his assistance. A member visited him every night, and they eased his financial problems. Without a doubt, their great support was a vital factor in "Duck's" recovery.

George dropped by to say that since their old school day chums have gotten rich and moved to "South Hollywood" and the West Side, they cannot contact them. He invites all of the friends of the Corsairs who haven't received bids to contact Charles Henderson at ADams 3-7822. George said that they're really going to have a ball, and they want all the old gang to be on hand.

Speaking of polio victims, Willie B. Hall, who was quite an athlete at Jefferson, has been stricken by the dreaded malady. Willie called the office the other day to let us know that the benefit the Recondites Entre Nous are giving for him July 12, at the Humanist Hall, 2308 S. Hoover, is really something that he needs. B. Willie, as we used to call him when he was a youngster, has been responding to treatments, but needs loot to keep them up.

Made Both

The old gang can kill two birds with one stone by making Willie Hall's benefit dance a before party for the gay time they will have at the Majestic Corsairs dance.

There is nothing wrong with boxing in Los Angeles that a few neighborhood gyms couldn't cure. The talent is here but there are no places to develop it. Boxing is suffering because no one is interested in sponsoring a much needed gym.

Veteran boxing men like Babe McCoy, Duke Hollyway, Sparky Rudolph, Kenny L. Salle, Joe Williams, Joe Standley, Calvin Woods, Johnny Villa, Ralph Gamiibina, George Parnasus, Rip Collins and Bill Miller are expert teachers of the school of boxing, and have had a hand in developing some of the world's great fighters, at one time or other.

This has always been a good boxing city. We recall not too long ago the turnaway crowds at the Ocean Park Arena. You couldn't get a ticket for the Friday night boxing show at the Hollywood Legion. The Olympic Auditorium, the largest of them all, was always packed on Tuesday night. Today the same three arenas must put on a title bout in order to draw the peasants away from the television.

Often the money put in such a show isn't worth the peanuts you get out of them. Babe McCoy will back me on that statement.

The reason why boxing is hitting a low ebb in these parts is that we have no young John Thomas, Manuel Ortiz, Henry Armstrong, Willie Joyce, Watson Jones, Bobby Yeager, Turkey Thompson, Cecil Hudson or Roscoe Scally coming up. The railbirds used to rave about the crowd-pleasing four-rounders but not today.

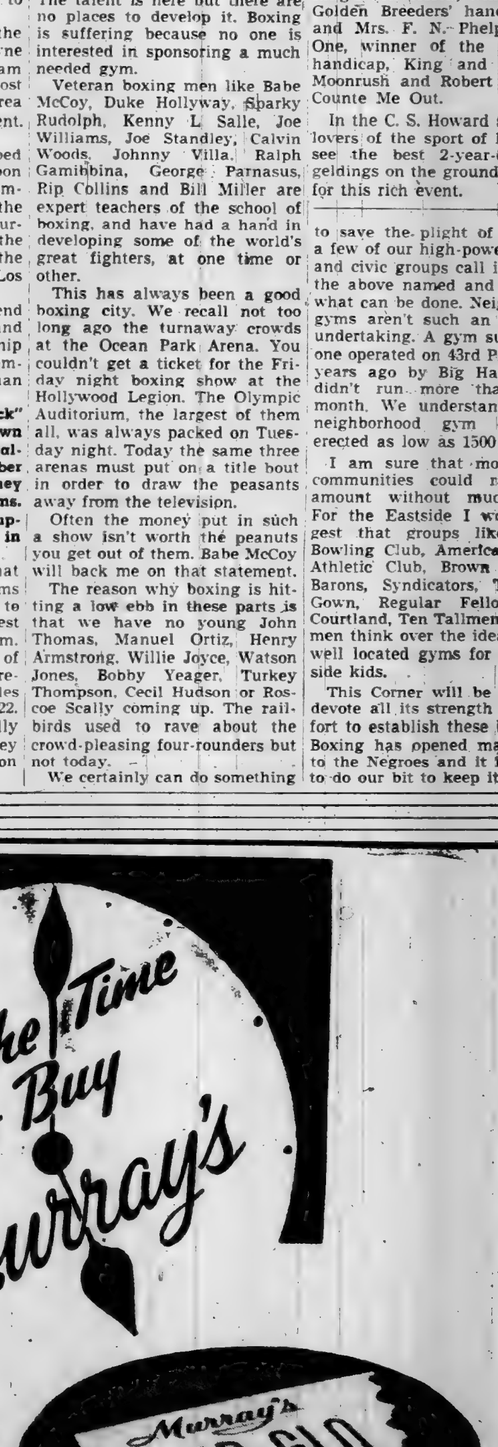
We certainly can do something to save the plight of boxing if a few of our high-powered social and civic groups call in some of the above named and ask them what can be done. Neighborhood gyms aren't such an expensive undertaking. A gym such as the one operated on 43rd Place a few years ago by Big Harry Smith didn't run more than $75 a month. We understand a good neighborhood gym could be erected as low as 1500 dollars.

I am sure that most of our communities could raise that amount without much effort. For the Eastside I would suggest that groups like: Alpha Bowling Club, American Beauty Athletic Club, Brown Bombers, Barons, Syndicators, Town & Gown, Regular Fellows, Van Courtland, Ten Tallmen, Tweedsmen think over the idea for four well located gyms for the Eastside kids.

This Corner will be happy to devote all its strength in an effort to establish these buildings. Boxing has opened many doors to the Negroes and it is our job to do our bit to keep it alive.

ON THE TURF

HOLLYWOOD PARK: Now going into its eighth week, Hollywood Park will present its biggest wek-end of racing. Two stakes will be run on Friday, July 4th and two more the following day, Saturday. The Independence Day program will be highlighted by the $50,000 added American handicap for older horses at a mile and one-eighth and the $20,000 added C. S. Howard stakes in which two-year colts and geldings will meet over the five and a half furlongs.



RAMSEY

Saturday the $50,000 added Westerner for 3-year-olds at one mile and a quarter will be the feature. The co-feature will be the Ramona handicap for fillies and mares at six furlongs. It carries an added value of $20,000.

The Brookfield Farm's intent will go post ward in the American handicap and expected to rule the favorite. He will also be pointing for the $100,000 added Hollywood Park Gold Cup. Expected to face intent in the Amer-handicap are Abe Hirschberg's Admiral Drake, winner of the Aronaut handicap, Mrs. Connie Ring's Conversion, winner of the Golden Breeders' handicap, Mr. and Mrs. F. N. Phelps' Sturdy One, winner of the Inglewood handicap, King and Luellwitz' Moonrush and Robert Lehman's Counte Me Out.

In the C. S. Howard stakes the lovers of the sport of kings will see the best 2-year-colts and geldings on the grounds compete for this rich event.

SILVER ANNIVERSARY—Attorney and Mrs. Ivan Johnson III celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary last Sunday at Golden State auditorium where a huge reception was given. Many family friends who attended Mrs. Johnson's grandparents' golden anniversary in 1899 were present to congratulate the handsome couple. Attractive honoree received her guests in imported white wool cocktail dress brocaded with rhinestones, pearls and sequins. Her cap was of Juliette design in lace covered with pearls.

Johnsons Celebrate Silver Anniversary

At the 25th wedding anniversary of the charming Mrs. Dorothy Johnson and her husband, attorney Ivan Johnson III, many of the friends who helped them cut their ceremonial cake also attended her grandparents' (Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Vena) golden anniversary in 1899.

Prominent guests from other cities as well as surrounding areas gathered last Sunday in Golden State auditorium to congratulate the handsome couple and to view ornate silver gifts displayed attractively at the end of the crowded hall.

Mrs. Johnson wore a stunning imported white wool afternoon cocktail dress heavily brocaded with rhinestones, pearls and sequins. Her head was topped with Juliette cap of lace studded with pearls. On her wrist an orchid woven into a spray of silver tulle completed the striking attire.

Forming the receiving lines with the native daughter were Mrs. James Vena, sister-in-law; Mrs. T. Curtis Smith, who attended the couple's wedding ceremony 25 years ago in Santa Ana; and house guests visiting from Cleveland, Mrs. Bruce McGoodwin with daughter Yvonne Margaret.

Mr. Johnson, a well established attorney formerly associated with attorney Loren Miller, is a native of Topeka, Kan. His office is located at 1105 E. Vernon. Mrs. Johnson serves as counselor at Carver Junior High School.

Hostesses included:

Mesdames: Loren Miller, Cornelia Bradford, Norman Hopkins, Ralph Vaughn, Jess Hutton, Frances Henderson, Robert Garrott, Lee Hicks, Howard Allen, Jeff Fowler, Eddie Atkinson, Jr., Constance Gordon, Walter Webster, Charles S. Morris, Hubert Meyers, Florence Mills and Miss Iva Washington.

God-children, Ann Bradford and Ann Smith, served punch and were relieved by Paula and Daphne Williams and Carmen Ellsworth.

Autumnal Equinox

(A sonnet for Ivan and Dorothy, especially Dorothy, on their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary)

Now that the first faint wind of autumn stirs trees
Pregnant with fruit that was once spring's flowers,
And the cricket's chirp has replaced the hum of bees;
When night equals day in minutes and in hours,
Ponder this truth: the swallow in its flight
Is never so full of grace as at that transient moment
When it reaches triumphant zenith; nor the sun so bright
As when the clock's hands are poised for swift descent.

Autumn's silver frost that stems and slows
The pulse will lay crimson on the leaf and gold
Upon the hill; bright poinsettas will replace the rose:
Their beauty no less felt, their color no less bold.
Neither stars nor moon will lack light
Tomorrow for having shown tonight.

—Loren Miller

GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY—Pleasant Mr. and Mrs. Edward D. George celebrated their 50th anniversary last Sunday in home of their son, Nathaniel George, 752 E. 27th street. Mrs. George wore the wedding gown of lace and net in which she was married in Washington D.C. over a half century ago. The George's are well known on both coasts, with relatives scattered throughout the country. Many friends gathered to join in the festive occasion.

Fashionette Entertains In Restaurant

The Fashionette Social club held its regular social meeting last Tuesday night. Mrs. Anna Mae Johnson was hostess. She entertained at one of the popular Eastside restaurants.

At next business meeting further plans will be discussed for a coming Charity Cocktail party to be given in September.

The club welcomed back Mrs. Johnson from an extended tour of the South, East and Canada.

CELEBRATED WITH RECEPTION—A fashionable guest list attended the silver anniversary of Attorney and Mrs. Ivan Johnson III Sunday. Coming from as far away as Cleveland, friends warmly congratulated the handsome couple and showered lavish gifts of silver upon them. Among those present were Mrs. James Vena, the Johnsons, Mrs. T. Curtis Smith who was present at couple's wedding; Mrs. Bruce McGoodwin and daughter Yvonne Margaret of Cleveland.

DEBONAIR SIR DEBUTEERS—The East was brought to the West in the form of fashions last Saturday when the Sir Debuteers were host at their eighth annual semi-formal dance at the Elks Ballroom. Members were the fashionable items at the dance and included first row, left to right, Willie Bacon, David Buford, John Hill, president Melvin Jeter, parliamentarian and historian Nelson Evans, vice-president Earl Holmes, treasurer Clyde Hill and Conrad Reed; second row, publicity manager James Smith, secretary James Austin, Chris Morgan, James Lee, corresponding secretary Lucius Williams, Minor Robinson, business manager Lionel Williams, Duke Choteau, Marcellus Reed and Arvid Agnew.

GIVEN PAREE PREVIEW — Mrs. Mae Myers hosted the above prominent guests last Saturday with a French-styled party that was something of a preview for their forthcoming trips to Paris. The group will motor to New York City where Jay and Marie Jenkins will hold a party for the Lorenzo Spencers. The Spencers will then embark on the S. S. Liberte and will make port in Liverpool, later flying to the Olympic Games in Helsinki. They will be in Europe for about two months. Also making the same boat trip will be, left to right, standing, Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Atkinson, Dr. and Mrs. John Coleman and Spencer. Seated, Mrs. Walter Davis and Mrs. Spencer.

BILL SMALLWOOD

SAN FRANCISCO — Eloquent Dr. Howard Thurman and his equally silvery-tongued wife, Sue, off to Canada for a rest. His sister, Madeline, continues gravely ill, incidentally. Cal Bailey on the peninsula with numerous other Angelenos for that week-end golf meet cut short his stay, moseyed on back to say hullo in L.A. to Bill Chase.

Hullo via the former from the also-in-S.F. Cullen Fentresses and Clara Fentress. They left Monday a.m. E-Angeleno Sam Morgan, head usher at the famous Fellowship Church, after 11 years in S.F. thinks now he's "here to stay."

Alta and Aaron Douglass of N.Y. with the Dr. Walter Goenses (Grace) of Wilmington, Del., arrive in L.A. July for 10 days. Later they go to S.F. for a few days.

A drink at dusk high in the lovely hills of El Cerrito with charming Freda and Waldo Bethel who have a handsome modern place with a sweeping view of the Bay far below. There, his sister Etta Mae Bringhurst, just back from a L.A. week-end, mentions Coralee Trawick and fact she's trying hard to talk Coralee into coming up for a scenery-change, etc.

Waldo, handsome critter he is, is one of the Bay area's prominent contractor-builders. Back from L.A.: Joan and John Finney of S.F. who drove down to collect their young 'un Mike. Berkeley's well-known social figure Birdie Mitchell passed last Sunday night.

Howdy with Dr. Carleton Goodlet in his Fillmore offices. A prolonged session with Katharine and Bob Flippin sharing the usual sparkling cross section of friends who fill their spacious place but absorbingly.

Bob (probation and reorientation expert at San Quentin) and Katherine (S.F. nursery school teacher) love people who are stimulating, traveled, amusing, "reg'lar," seldom ever tiring of them and vice versa.

Among L.A. folk mentioned there: Jenadora and Sterling Waggoner, dear ole friends of theirs. Katherine at a later barbecue session in Palo Alto reminisced of days a few summers back when she attended Vassar on a scholarship.

Patrician Mrs. McCants Stewart obliges me with details on the forthcoming Links get-together in S.F. Meetings will be held between the St. Francis and the Mark Hopkins, the lone public affair being their reception.

S.F. chapter, the youngest chapter nationally, postponed this meeting from June to the slated July date in order to coincide with a medical confab which many husbands will attend.

Too, a national air line has arranged a 10-day trip to Honolulu for Links members and their families! S.F. chapter lunched at the Cliff House recently feting the mother of their prexy.

Didn't I glimpse Don Barksdale at the wheel of his high yaller fishtail convertible in Oakland? Admirable yeomen service so faithfully rendered all Berkeley by the "tops" trio of eager teachers of nursery school cherubs; Mabel Steven, Florentine Bolling and Connie Beaty wear their laurels well indeed, by gum! They teach at Berkeley's Edison Nursery School through the year. On Saturdays, too, come to marvel!

Sacramento friends of the Paul Williamses and their affianced daughter Norma saying hi to them in Sacramento prior to their joining the California delegates heading out to the Republican hoedown in Chi.

Achievement highlight: In-the-news Aurellius Miles who got his degree in law at Santa Clara Univ. Law School the other day, thus being the first colored to do so. His wife Ethel is the first colored teacher to be employed by the Palo Alto schools. Off to Chi. for awhile they plan to return to Palo Alto later to live. He won't go into active practice but instead will concentrate in real estate since white realtors aren't interested in colored trade; there are no colored realtors on the Peninsula.

Rev. Paul Gopaul, first colored Catholic priest in S.F., still much the topic in busy community circles on both sides of the Bay. He was ordained recently in Vermont, you recall. There was a recent banquet honoring him at the Fairmont Hotel in S.F.

Russell (Bobbie) Evans' mother, Willa, still on the go in S.F. She's the former policewoman. Expected in S.F.: Irene Morris with other L.A. Links members for the before-mentioned assembly and the gay skip-to-my-Lou activities to go along with it.

Quick glimpse: Oakland's youthful, attractive Rev. and Mrs. Theodore Stewart of Beth Eden Baptist Church. Their wedding set something of a precedent when the Oakland Dailey Tribune carried an account of it on the social page of its Sunday edition. Seems to my hazy memory that was around Xmas.

Leo Marshall among Angeleno golf lovers who made the trip up for the golf meet. Add to the growing list of tell-so-'n'-so-hi-for-me: The Hugh Beaty's legendary pet dog, Miss Peke-cock, to the Bob Allens' frisky wire-hair terrier Jinx.

The first named soon will be off to L.A. with her folks on a two-week vacation; they will park their kit bags with the latter. Before then, however, the Beautys (entertaining her brother Bill for the summer) will haul us up into the High Sierras for a visit with the Waldo Bethels at that mountain retreat of theirs.

And later to Yosemite (as will go the Earl Adamses). Come to think, Daisy Brooks, Betty Hudson and their mother have a Yosemite visit on tap for themselves, too. Late July, I believe, or early August?

BEAUTY AUTHORITY—Eugene Swayne will answer beauty questions in coming column.

Authority Pens Beauty Column

Next week on these pages, the EAGLE will begin a regular question-and-answer column on beauty. The column will be conducted by one of the outstanding local beauty experts, handsome, immaculate Eugene Swayne. It will be titled, "Eugene Swayne Answers."

An artisan solidly versed in hair styling, cosmetology and scalp treatment, Swayne comes well prepared for his first assignment as a journalist. The Detroit-born young man is a graduate of the Henrietta Beauty School. Currently he is working at the House of Charms.

Swayne has a long background in the business of beauty care. Ten years ago, while he was working for the Navy in a local shipyard, he first began to search around for a profession to follow after the war.

He started talking to people, putting questions to them. In one of his conversations, the talk somehow got steered upon the subject of the cost of living or where money spent goes.

It was revealed in the chat that where women are concerned 85% of the dollar spent goes for purchases for the home or person. That latter item gave Swayne an idea and, with his discharge from Navy work in 1943, he launched a career in the beauty profession.

In a few short months, he had worked up a loyal trade. It followed him later when he moved his stand to the Happy Hour Beauty Salon.

As a beauty expert, Swayne does not confine his activities to commercial ventures. He has often donated his time and skill to an institution for delinquent girls as a means to get them to see a different light on life.

At the institution, he gives lectures about make-up and hair styling to the girls. He explains to them the best styles to get from different kinds of hair. His work with them is well received.

The superintendent of the institution has told Swayne that his program has had more good effect on the girls than any other similar feature, including popular entertainment.

Besides his free work with delinquent girls, Swayne is interested in another bit of charitable service. He is in a habit of suggesting right hairstyles to young girls unable to pay for such advice but who can use it to improve their appearances and better their chances of landing a good job.

This service he offers also to girls who just do not know what hairstyles fit them best. In his demonstrations of this sort, he sometimes makes up one-half the face of a girl just to show her how improved she would look with correct grooming.

Swayne has learned some interesting sidelights in his beauty work with women. According to his observations, women are more worried about growing hair than styling it. He strives to relieve them of their worries. A scalp specialist, he gives treatments with ointment, by therapeutic lights and massages.

Swayne hopes to expand on his services in beauty culture once he has opened the new shop which he now has nearly completed plans for.
